Africa's Newest Nation, Algeria, Faces Civil War

Guerillas Want to Put Ben Bella Into Power

ALGIERS (AP) — French President de Gaulle proclaimed Algeria independent at 10:30 a.m. (5:30 a.m. EDT) today after 132 years of French rule.

But Africa's newest nation faced the threat of a new civil war from guerrillas troops seeking to put radical Vice-Premier Ahmed Ben Bella into power.

As 4,500 mutinous nationalist guerrillas massed southwest of Algiers, the capital's jubilant Moslems prepared a roaring welcome for Premier Youssef Ben Khedda and his nationalist government. The moderate leaders were flying from their Tunisian exile to try to stifle the guerrilla revolt and assert their rule over Algeria.

Algeria's independence became effective at 10:30 a.m., as the result of an armistice between de Gaulle following a special meeting of the French cabinet.

"By the self - determination vote of July 1, 1962," the statement said, "the Algerian people called for independence of Algeria, co - operating with France."

RECOGNIZES IT

"In consequence, the relations between France and Algeria being henceforth founded on the conditions defined by the governmental declaration of the March 19, 1962 (the Evian peace agreement), the president of the French Republic declares that France solemnly recognizes the independence of Algeria."

France's last colonial administrator of Algeria, High Commissioner Christian Fouchet, conveyed de Gaulle's declaration to President Abderrahman Fares of the Algerian provisional executive and transferred to the provisional government the sovereignty France had held over Algeria since 1830.

The green-and-white nationalist flag was hoisted over the administrative capital of Rocher-Noir, outside Algiers, as several hundred Moslems cheered.

The Evian agreements call for the provisional executive to rule Algeria until a constituent assembly is elected within a month and a parliamentary government taken over.

It was believed Ben Khedda's cabinet from Tunis would be merged with the provisional executive, and Ben Khedda would become president of the new combined executive.

ROAM THE STREETS

Late Monday night, as crowds of roaring, cheering Moslems roamed the streets of Algiers celebrating the overwhelming vote Sunday for independence, guerrillas still loyal to Ben Khedda's government took control of public buildings in the capital to deny them to Ben Bella's dissidents.

Some 1,000 guerrillas in central Algeria were in a state of open mutiny, led by Mali Si Mokhtar. They were joined by an estimated 1,500 soldiers of the Troisieme Moslem Algerian Infantry force. About 30 French officers and non-commissioned officers were with them, presumably against their will.

BACKS NASSER, REDS

THE WEATHER

Synopsis—A wide spread shield of cloud will push across Ontario today and tonight. Southerly winds will bring warmer air to western parts of the province Wednesday and warming trend will be accompanied by thunder-shower activity.

PARIS (AP) — Ahmed Ben Bella taught the Algerian guerrillas what he learned from the French in the Second World War fighting them. He earned him four citations for bravery and a decoration for heroism under fire.

More than any other Algerian nationalist leader, the 45-year-old deputy premier was responsible for organizing the raging Moslem volunteers into the guerrilla army that 500,000 French soldiers couldn't conquer, in doing so he created a force following owing the rest fighters unmatched by any other nationalist leader.

Ben Bella was born into a family of farmers of Moroccan origin Christmas Day 1916, in Marnia, Oran province, in western Algeria. He had little formal education before he joined the French Army, but he rose quickly through the ranks to become a warrant officer after hard - fighting Moroccan regiments. He was decorated for bravery during the Italian campaign and was mustered out at the end of the war as a lieut. of 29.

Though he served France well in war, Ben Bella was quickly disillusioned with France in peace. French authorities sacked him as a rural policeman and his mother's application for a state pension was summarily denied.

The tall, athletic young man plunged into the clandestine organization that eventually became the Moslems' National Liberation Front (FLN).

HEADS SECRET FACTION

He first headed a secret military organization, then a political organization agitating for Algerian independence. A French court, disbelieving his claim he was a farmer, turned to bolder deeds. In 1949, he and two pro-revolutionaries, armed with revolvers held up the Oran postoffice and escaped with the payroll of 19,000 for the rebel coffers.

Captured in 1950, Ben Bella was sentenced to a French prison in Blida, Algeria. He escaped in 1952 and fled to Cairo, where he got to Cairo. He later settled in Tunis, where he organized the smuggling of arms to rebels in Algeria.

He returned to Algeria and in 1954 helped lead the uprising in Oran in which he was shot but sounded the opening shots of the 7½-year rebellion. But his fighting days were numbered. In 1956, a French fighter plane forced a civilian airliner carrying him and four other rebel ministers from Rabat in Spanish Morocco to Tunis to five spent the rest of the rebellion in a French prison.

Even in prison, Ben Bella was a force to be reckoned with. He was said to have been close touch with rebel development in Algeria and his counsel was often sought.

His imprisonment also made him the symbol of the fight for revolution in the eyes of the Algerian people. Ben Bella's was

Israeli Mother Regains Her Son Kidnapped in Religious Dispute

NEW YORK (AP) — Crying for joy, an Israeli mother has been reunited with the 10-year-old son she claims was stolen because he was abducted three years ago in a religious dispute.

Mrs. Ruth Sicher said her husband members of the na-Ilonalist regime.

Mrs. Schuhmacher, 37, arrived from Israel by plane Monday and was taken immediately to an immigration office to see her son, Yosef, whom she calls Yossele.

They recognized each other immediately, a spokesman for the official said. Mrs. Schuhmacher rushed to embrace the youth, crying over and over in Hebrew "my boy, my boy."

Yosef appeared impassive at the start of the meeting, but before long he was laughing at stories told by his mother and a 15-year-old sister, Zina, who came here from Israel with her mother.

STRETCHER CASE—Thomas Stokes, 75, suffering from pernicious anemia, was brought to Regina by ambulance from his home at Francis, Sask., 40 miles south of Regina. He was unable to obtain medical treatment at his home, which is served by one doctor from Fillmore, Sask., 30 miles southeast. The doctor, along with nearly all the 700 practising physicians in the province, halted normal medical practise Sunday to protest the compulsory medical care program went into operation. Mr. Stokes had been in the Fillmore hospital until last Monday. The Fillmore hospital was not included in the hospital-based emergency services plan. (CP Wirephoto).

320 WOODSMEN FIGHTING FIRE NEAR ROBERVAL

Worst Forest Blaze In Ten Years

ROBERVAL, Que. (CP) — "You don't go in there, you don't go in there, Their lips are parched, eyes red, faces brown as nuts."

Albert Guay was talking about the 320 woodcutters now fighting the worst forest fire the St. Maurice Valley region has seen in 10 years.

"Because of the persistent wind, their morale isn't too good," said Guay, chief of the St. Maurice Forest Protective Association.

"It will take one or two inches of rain to put out this fire, and rain isn't foreseen for the next couple of days."

The 320 men, who make 90 cents an hour and work from dawn to dusk, were during the night in a smoke-filled wood some 50 miles west of Roberval near the heart of the blaze.

Guay said that if the wind changed the fire likely would be wiped out. It has been the centre of operations for the battle.

DIG TRENCHES

A trench was dug around the stesh - surrounded camp and watches were set Monday night.

Slash is lagging garbage—the branches chopped from trees after the forest is logged. It has provided the fuel for the fire to cover 17 square miles since last Friday.

In racing through the dry slash, the fire also burned 3,000 cords of freshly-cut logs worth an estimated $50,000.

Guay said the fire also has taken a few fishing camps but there are few year-round habitations.

Thousands of Canadians Take to Country for Holiday

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Both had parades, crowds, pageantry and color, but otherwise Ottawa and Toronto bore little resemblance to one another in their celebration of Dominion Day, 1962.

In Ottawa tradition held away, a trooping-the-color ceremony and naval sunset ceremony provided a fitting climax to Canada's 95th birthday celebration.

But in Toronto the parades were extemporaneous, the crowds boisterous, the pageantry relatively small and the color-off-beat as the city welcomed an estimated 50,000 Shriners and their wives for a week-long North American convention.

Sunny, warm weather in the capital helped make sports events including provincial swimming and diving championships and Ottawa Canadiens Day observances were planned for the city, which only a week ago celebrated St. Jean Baptiste Day.

Although the sun shone over the Maritimes, the only major celebration was a gathering of the clans at Pugwash, N.S. Rail traffic was reported particular heavy.

At Windsor, Ont., the border city was the scene of the third International Freedom Festival, celebrated at Detroit and Windsor in the first week of July.

Among the Winnipeggers who left the leave the city for the weekend were 10,000 Roman Catholics who attended an open-air pontifical mass Sunday climaxing jubilee celebrations of the Ukrainian Catholic Church of Canada.

8,000 Striking Teamsters Will Vote on Settlement

TORONTO (CP — Ontario's 8,000 striking Teamsters will vote this week on a settlement and end their strike against 60 firms.

A possible solution was hammered out in a grueling nightlong session by negotiators Friday and early Saturday.

They had bargained under the guidance of Ontario's chief conciliation officer, Kelly Cox, and federal labor department mediator Frank Almsborough.

There was no vote and take on both sides." Mr. Fine and J. M. Dodds, QC, chief negotiator for the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (Indc.), said in a joint statement.

Details were not released but the compromise—worked out over into the meeting offered 13 cents an hour—are understood to have gone two cents over an the 11 cents originally recommended by a conciliation board.

The unions had been asking for 30 cents and had reduced it from six of the original 66 cents, who signed interim contracts during the course of the strike.

Mr. Dodds emphasized today that any agreement will depend on a majority approval by the union membership, but he expressed confidence the strike will end.

"I believe our people are saturn enough to make a settlement at this time," he said.

The vote starts today in Locals 938 Toronto, 91 Hamilton, 879 Hamilton, 141 London and 880 Ottawa.

6 Desperate Killers Beat Guards But Fail to Escape

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—Six desperate killers on death row at San Quentin prison broke beat two guards into bloody unconsciousness Monday, seized their guns and held them hostage more than three hours in a wild escape try.

A tear - gas barrage, fired from the roof into the sixth-floor cells of 39 condemned men, forced the conspirators to drop their two guns and release the bleeding hostages.

Two of the killers, Clyde Bales, 40, awaiting execution for the fiery deaths of six persons in 1957 in a Los Angeles tavern, pleaded over the telephone with Warden Fred R. Dickson at the last.

Sgt. Roy B. Nardell, 47, the left side of his head bleeding where he was hit by a bar, sat by a telephone on death row, a gun pressed against him.

Lloyd Moya, one of the six men hired by Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan to kill her Canadian-born daughter-in-law, had an arm clamped tightly around Nardell's neck.

Kardell was told he would be killed if, in making his regular call to the control room, he gave any inkling something was amiss. But Kardell blurted out to the guard there's trouble on the row."

"I figure it was better to forfeit my life than let the boys get loose," said the ruddy-faced Kardell later.

The other seized guard, C. L. Destrick, 37, was dragged so savagely that he was semi-conscious throughout the ordeal. His capture took time stemming the flow of blood. After release, Destrick was rushed to

93 CANADIANS KILLED DURING 3-DAY HOLIDAY

55 Lost Lives In Traffic Mishaps

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ninety-three Canadians were killed during the three-day Dominion Day holiday, the first long weekend of the summer.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. Friday local times to midnight Monday showed that 55 persons lost their lives in traffic accidents and 33 were drowned.

The toll of road deaths was far above the 40 predicted by the Canadian Highway Safety Council. Last year, on a three-day Dominion Day holiday, 61 persons were killed in traffic accidents and 46 died accidentally from all causes normally associated with holiday activities.

Drownings accounted for 33 of this year's fatalities. Most persons died in fires in Ontario. The other deaths occurred in Newfoundland, where a man died after drinking oil of wintergreen, and Saskatchewan, where one person was electrocuted and another accidentally shot.

Ontario and Quebec each had 18 traffic deaths. Alberta reported eight, British Columbia five, four each, the Yukon two and New Brunswick one.

Quebec had the most drownings with 13. Ontario had 11, Alberta five and Manitoba three, Alberta two and New Brunswick one.

The survey does not include natural deaths, known suicides or accidents in the home.

Men Who Blazed Trail of '98 Honored in Gold Rush Centre

DAWSON CITY, Y.T. (CP)— The heavy, gold-bungry sourdoughs who blazed the trail of '98 and wrote history in the saga of the fabled Klondike gold rush were honored Monday.

Within a shouting distance of where George Carmack, Skookum Jim and Tagish Charlie 64 years ago discovered an unprecedented strike of gold, a plaque was unveiled in front of their few surviving fellows.

Commissioner Gordon Leaman, 67, a brewery worker when the first news of the Klondike gold strike reverberated around the globe, pulled the string that bared the plaque.

Shyly at the rear of the crowd of about 200 stood seven Indians, descendants of the Tagish Indians who helped Carmack and two Indian companions, Skookum Jim and Tagish Charlie, when they discovery was made.

The gold rush era—it lasted less than four years—produced countless stories of hardship and strife suffered by the men who toiled for gold, trekked by the thousands over the Chilkoot Pass to Skagway, and battled the mighty rapids on the Yukon River from Whitehorse to Dawson.

It was the era of Klondike Kate, Diamond Tooth Gertie, Charles Meadows and Alex McDonald and the fiction writers of Robert Service's poems "Dangerous Dan McGrew and Sam McGee."

Sunday, Arizona's old haunt, the Palace Grand, was decorated as an historic sight. It has been restored at a cost of $300,000.

At the Palace Grand Dawson City celebrities gathered for more than 35,000 brawling adventurers, has been given new spirit and life.

There the world premiere of the motion picture Klondike, later held Monday night before a be Monday night before a capacity crowd.

The musical will be the centre attraction of the first Dawson City gold rush festival, which is expected to regenerate the economy of the city. It cost more than $1,000,000.

Over a two - week period, 2,000 tourists crammed the overburdened accommodation facilities Monday.

Doctors Reject Mediation Plan, Strike Continues

Refuse to Negotiate Further With Govt.

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan residents were to learn today the extent of the three-day doctors' strike.

With the refusal of doctors to negotiate further on the provincial government's medical care insurance plan, the province faced the full effects of the withdrawal of services by doctors.

Many withdrew normal service in protest against the Sunday start of the government plan, but curtailment or closing of clinics and offices for the Dominion Day weekend made it difficult to determine the number actually on strike.

The only hospital in the province reported no initial problems in handling patients.

Volunteer doctors continued to provide free emergency service at 34 designated hospitals by Monday night the number available slipped 221 to 200 as 13 more had volunteered earlier.

FREEDOUS TROUBLE

Dr. Earl Leask of Saskatoon, co-ordinator of the emergency service, predicted difficulty in distributing drugs after a brief period.

$28,000 Saskatchewan citizens—first in North America to be covered by a comprehensive, government - financed insurance plan but uncertain what services are available Monday—ended the weekend amid a fresh spate of charges and re-

In the most extreme doctors' protest taken in the two-and-a-half-year-old dispute, Dr. H. D. Dalgleish, president of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Monday relected the possibility of any further negotiations without repeal of the Medical Care Insurance Act.

He said the government must bear the "complete responsibility" for introduction of the plan which has driven a free profession into this stand and for the tragic consequences in the opinions of the province."

He demanded repeal of the act "while there are still enough doctors available to Saskatchewan people to negotiate to leave."

ATTACKS DOCTORS' STAND

Premier Woodrow S. Lloyd in a two-minute radio broadcast described the doctors' action as "further evidence of a calloused disregard for the welfare of the people and for which they are able to govern themselves."

He said Monday he had not only recommended withdrawal of medical services but also had ordered the action against which would result in services being made available.

"He continues to try to dictate to the conditions."

Premier Lloyd said the government continued its willingness to negotiate. He recommended that a third party be named to conciliate the problem.

Soblen Improved After Trying To Take Life

LONDON (AP)—Dr. Robert Soblen probably will not be well enough to travel to the United States "for at least another two or three days," a hospital spokesman announced today.

The fugitive spy who tried to commit suicide to escape a life sentence in the United States spent a fairly comfortable night and the improvement in his condition was maintained, the spokesman said.

Soblen, convicted of spying for the Soviet Union, forfeited $100,000 bail and fled to Israel last week. He slashed his wrist and stabbed himself in the stomach Sunday as an airliner returning him from Tel Aviv was flying over the English Channel.

In addition to his self-inflicted wounds, Soblen also suffered from incurable lymphatic leukemia, doctors say. British detectives are guarding him at the hospital in suburban Uxbridge where he was taken for treatment.

Lawyer said Dr. Soblen complained bitterly because his attempt to end his life was taken away from him by U.S. authorities. James McShane, his escort on the flight home.

McShane was not talking, but he suggested that he took the spectacles to prevent Soblen from breaking the lenses and using the sharp edges in another suicide attempt.

"The case is very annoyed and irritated," said the nurse. "He is very short-sighted and without real glasses he's spectacles."

Oil Millionaire Pays $532,000 For Painting

The picture was bid in at Christie's auction rooms by art dealer Colin Agnew, Agnew at the time declined to name the buyer but said the picture would remain in England.

Kiwanians Out Selling Tickets For the Circus

Local citizens should not be unduly surprised to see a group of enthusiastic adults cavorting about the streets aboard a vehicle which defies identification due to the large number of circus posters and Kiwanis signs plastered over it.

The occupants of this vehicle will not be the wildmen, or animals of the Kiwanis-sponsored Christian - Wallace Circus. Actually they will just be friendly Kiwanians whose only desire to bite anyone will be to put the bite on them for the price of an advance ticket or two for an evening of fun at the circus on Thursday, July 5, at Zwick's Island.

The proceeds of these advance tickets go towards supporting the many worthwhile projects which the Kiwanis conduct in the community. It is to be noted that funds for these projects are obtained, in this instance, from advance ticket sales rather than from gate receipts.

In order to assist local citizens in the purchase of these tickets readily the Kiwanians have set up two permanent ticket sales offices in addition to their mobile unit. These outlets are located at Cole's Jewellery store at the Belleville Plaza and at 380 Front. Street, (formerly Percival's furniture store).

Beginning tomorrow a novel mixture of fun and fantasy will be a feature at local playgrounds. The main ingredients will be an invisible school teacher, some electronic wizardry, and a caricature car. Mr. Beep is a talking car who is Dominion Safety League, and in co-operation with local police and recreation committees in Belleville will be playing grounds in Belleville, July 4-13. He will talk with thousands of children about traffic safety rules based on the Elmer the Safety Elephant program.

In this province during 1961 over 7,000 children were involved in traffic accidents. Motorists are being more watchful for the un-thinking child, and Mr. Beep is reminding the children of the important Elmer safety rules. If these six simple rules were followed by all boys and girls, child traffic accidents would be almost non-existent.

They are:
(1) Look both ways before you cross the street. (2) Keep out from between parked cars. (3) Ride your bike safely and obey all signs and rules. (4) Play your games in a safe place away from the street. (5) Walk when you leave the curb. (6) Where there are no sidewalks walk on the left side of the road, facing traffic.

Sgt. R. W. Blatchford of the Belleville police department will accompany Mr. Beep to all playgrounds in the city.

was buried in Kamsack, Sask., Monday.

Peter Derhousoff of Usherville, who drove 85 miles to Yorkton with his sick son, said he would like to ask the premier "How is it that I was compensated for a thing like this."

COULDN'T FIND DOCTOR

A doctor said the child apparently died of meningitis before reaching the hospital.

Mr. Derhousoff, who drove through two centres where doctors normally are available, said he thinks his son would have had a chance if the nearby doctors had been working.

The holiday weekend brought no difficulties at major hospitals.

Dr. Mark Baltzan, medical co-ordinator at St. Paul's Hospital in Saskatoon, said four cases of coronary thrombosis — a heart disease aggravated by tension — were admitted within 24 hours after the insurance plan went into effect.

"It may be a fluke, but we never before had that many coronary thrombosis cases at admitted in such a short period," he said.

Dr. Baltzan said "it would be logical to assume that these cases were affected by the situation in this province."

RECEIVES ASSURANCES

In a telegram to the Canadian Medical Association, premier Lloyd asked assurances that doctors who come into the province to provide temporary service will not be penalized by the loss of their home practices.

Dr. A. D. Kelly of Toronto, general secretary of the CMA, said in Toronto there "would not be any such penalties." He said the association would not force a viewpoint of any doctor.

Saskatchewan government sources indicated more than 100 Ontario doctors had signified willingness to come to the province to provide services to supplement the hospital - based emergency service.

Health Minister W. G. Davies said the hospital in the province not designated as emergency centres would operate as first-aid centres if doctors were not available.

Five doctors have arrived from the United Kingdom under the Medical Care Commission plan and more are expected in the next few days with others to follow by the end of the week.

R. R. 2, Frankford

Wesley Bird Steinhauer, of R.R. 3, Frankford, died suddenly at his home on Sunday, July 1, 1962, in his 72nd year. In ill health for the past 18 months, Mr. Steinhauer suffered a heart attack while working on the farm on Saturday until his retirement in 1958.

Born in Morley, Alberta, the son of the late Bowen Forest and Mrs. Egerton Steinhauer, he was a veteran of both the First and Second World Wars, a member of the Royal Canadian Legion, Frankford, and a member of Carmel United Church.

He married the former Ellemay Wood, who survives.

Resting at the Bowe Funeral Home, Frankford. Funeral arrangements appear elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. SAMUEL B. McGEE
Tweed

The funeral service of Mrs. Letty Spry McGee was held from the W. M. Bush Funeral Home, Tweed, on Sunday, July 1, 1962. The Reverend Stanley Taylor officiated and interment was at Victoria cemetery.

The bearers were grandsons: Lorne and Ross Bradley of Napanee, Stephen Upshall of Toronto and Jim Sullivan of Oshawa and nephews Earl Fox of Tweed and Ross McGee of Ottawa.

Mrs. McGee died in Tweed on Friday, June 29th, following a lengthy illness. Born in Madoc, Hungerford township, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Spry, she was a resident of Tweed for the past 51 years. Previously she lived in Belleville and Stirling. A member of St. John's United Church, Tweed, she was also a life member of the Woman's Missionary Society

BACK TO SCHOOL — Two of more of the 200 teachers who this week are commencing a five-weeks' junior education summer course at Belleville are seen going over course with summer school principal J. S. McColl of Peterborough Teachers' College. Seen with Mr. McColl are Marjorie Honey of Dartford and Mona Humphries of Hastings. Summer course, first time in Belleville, is being held at the Harry J. Clarke public school.

BEN BELLA

BEN BELLA DOMINATES

Ben Bella was such a dominant figure in the nationalist cause that the issue of his freedom often threatened to wreck the French - nationalist talks that finally led to the cease-fire and independence accords in Evian, France, last March.

Ben Bella was freed — and again began to fight. But this time he waged his struggle against the more moderate elements of the nationalist leadership.

He soon made plain his displeasure with the Evian accord. He announced opposition to co-operation between independent Algeria and France. He fought against giving Algeria's European extremists any concessions in return for an end of terrorism.

In fiery speeches before his favorite audience — the 40,000-man rebel army in exile and the key to power in Algeria — Ben Bella called for sweeping leftist revolution in Algeria. He found an ally in the exiled army's chief of staff, Col. Houari Boumedienne.

Ben Khedda dismissed Boumedienne and his two aides on the eve of Sunday's independence voting, charging that the military men were planning a stage a military coup and set Ben Bella up in power. The split in the open, Ben Bella fled to Tripoli.

will be counted Thursday evening in London. If the result is favorable, he said, the men could be back to work Friday if the companies could overcome the picket lines problem and get their equipment back into service by that time.

Mr. Gillett said he is to have extended the term of the contract an additional four months beyond the original 44.

Benefits are believed to include a $30 increase up to $80 in retroactive pay and an alternation in the guaranteed employment to drivers displaced by piggyback operations. The guarantee will now apply to men with three or more years seniority rather than five.

While Friday's negotiations were only concerned with the Ontario transport companies' strike, Mr. Dodds said an agreement should lead to early settlement of the 1,800-man strike still going on in Montreal and the 500-man garbage strike here.

225 Primary Teachers Starting Five-Week Course

Approximately 225 primary school teachers from Central Ontario will tomorrow be starting a five weeks' junior education summer course at the Harry J. Clarke Public School in Belleville.

Opening ceremonies will be held in the school auditorium at 10.15, with Mayor A. M. Haig and other dignitaries taking part.

The summer school will be officially opened by L. A. Kells, superintendent of Belleville public schools.

The teaching course for which Mr. J. S. McColl of Peterborough Teachers' College, will act as principal, will include work and activities dealing with educational growth and development of pupils in grades 4, 5 and 6.

Two types of courses will be offered, both leading to certificates in junior education. The regular courses will consist of psychology, reading, literature, composition, grammar, spelling and writing, social studies, arithmetic and group procedures.

Also an experimental course will be offered to include a core program of psychology, reading and literature, plus a choice of two subject groups.

GUEST LECTURERS

Guest lecturers will supplement the core program in all courses by dealing with such subjects as music, physical education, educational television, speech training typical children.

Demonstration lessons with pupils in grades 4, 5 and 6 will be arranged from time to time during the five weeks' session which will end on August 3rd.

Taking part in tomorrow's official opening of the summer courses will be the principal, J. S. McColl, Mayor Haig, or his deputy, William Townson, chairman of the Belleville Public School Board; W. E. Sandercock, M.A.A. for Hastings West; E. Neville, Separate Schools inspector for the Belleville division; L. A. Kells, Canon A. S. McConnell, representing the Ministerial Association and Hugh Mauger, J. P. Sullivan, will also take part.

Old Hound Dog Made Guests Bay at Moon

"Twas a balmy summer's evening . . . and a hungry crowd was there"

Six guests of a well-known city business man sat around the backyard barbecue at his Rossmore home last evening.

The chicken slowly turned to a mouth-watering golden brown. The delectable "trimmings" were ready.

The host missed himself about the barbecue. This was the thought his outdoor culinary masterpiece.

The disaster struck.

The long, lean and hungry hound dog, a canine Casanova of the district, had got the scent of the roasting chicken.

With a desperate leap the hound grabbed the chicken, spit and all, and in a flash was the spit and a hungry half-dozen guests and mine host sat around an empty barbecue.

All but one was not lost.

The lowly hambone that substituted for the missing chicken lasted somewhat. After all there were no drumsticks or wishbones to worry about.

Monday, 15 men were trapped by the blaze and used their walkie-talkie to call for help and were rescued by helicopter.

Up-date from Dames were so strong that pilots, who know the blaze with water from tree-top level, were reluctant for a time to fly. Guay said the situation is still fluid and 20-mile - an - hour winds almost make a light plane into the bush.

USE CANSOS

Two government-owned Cansos, with capacities of 800 gallons of water, a Beaver and other aircraft and a helicopter joined the emergency fleet in the fight to hold the fire.

"All they can do is try to contain the perimeter," said Guay, "The smoke is extremely heavy — it's hard to believe how heavy —and the heat is so intense it's forming cumulous clouds above the fire."

Smoke from the Trenche River could be smelled in Trois-Rivieres, 150 miles south.

Monday night, The rustbordered cloud also reached the St. Lawrence, as far northeast as Quebec City.

Guay said the fire "certainly was started by human beings."

It began at a rest-in roadside.

The fire has confined itself mainly to logged areas on Canadian International Paper Company leases. Guay said the forests are damp because of cool nights and the fire has moved slowly and been easy to control in these areas."

Thousands of Holidayers Flock Into P.E. County

PICTON — Prince Edward County almost became a tented city over the Dominion Day weekend as thousands of holidayers flocked to Sandy Lake or Lakeview and Bays. The new trend in holidaying, under canvas, was very noticeable, though there was also considerable demand for cottages and hotels were well patronized.

Mecca for a large part of the influx was the Provincial Park at Outlet Beach. By nine o'clock Friday all of the 154 regular camp sites, in the wooded area, were filled. Then tents began to rise on the sand dunes along the road which winds behind the beach and Sunday saw 450 families, some 2,500 persons under canvas. More than one hundred groups had to be turned away and others resulted in other camping areas being filled.

At nearby Cedar Park Beach, Bruce Martin had his cottages filled and every available inch of his campsites was taken by tents. Visitors here were provided with entertainment by a group of divers who are preparing for the Canadian Championships to be held in Columbia. His newly-installed high tension floodlights are a great deal of action with some young men from the United States giving exhibitions.

SCENE OF COLOR

On East Lake, one of the most popular spots was Walter Hemstreet's Lake Shore near Cherry Valley. The long, high ridge which extends out into the lake was a scene of color with tents of every color and smoke rising from barbecues and campfires.

Bill Hepburn at Lakeside House, the Sand Banks noted that improvements there included a new dock and that a swimming pool which will be officially opened on July 1 by Dr. Lawson Mackie and Mrs. Mackie operate this resort.

Adding to the crowds in Green Point area were Sunday's outboat races which were moved to the former Harmsworth site at Glenora when orders they could not be held in Picton Harbor, as they contravened the Lord's Day Act.

Spirits of the holidayers were dampened on the Saturday when thunder showers swept most of the district, but a warm sun quickly dried everything out. Sunday and Monday were ideal for visitors with the good catches reported, but the mosquitoes, as usual, were present in force.

2 Graduates Tied for Special Award

PICTON — Seventy - two students in the Picton public schools received Departmental diplomas at exercises held in Queen Elizabeth School. As a memento of the occasion, the Students' Council presented a picture to the school.

Medals for regularity, punctuality and good conduct, were awarded to 45 students, 23 of them having received this honor for all three years. Twelve students in the graduating class received 90 percent plus for honor standing.

The Martha McGowan scholarship for highest standing in the graduating class was won by Marion Morrison and Michael Freeman, the first time there has ever been a tie for the award.

The Home and School Association sponsored the graduation ceremonies and served afternoon tea.

Six Hospitalized As Result of Head-on Crash

PICTON — Six persons were hospitalized as a result of a head-on car collision here on Saturday afternoon. All were reported in satisfactory condition today.

Following treatment at Community Memorial Hospital here, Mrs. Roland Hawley, 62, of Picton, was taken to Kingston General Hospital. She suffered a broken arm, broken ribs, a broken knee cap and cuts on the chest.

Mrs. Thomas Lindsay, Mrs. Winnifred Gordon, 62, and the County hospital, suffering from a broken wrist and facial lacerations. Also in the local hospital is Mrs. Nelson, Jr., with a possible ruptured spleen.

Escaping with cuts and bruises were other passengers in Mrs. Lindsay's car, her children, Shirley and Douglas, and two other children, Robert and Kathryn Hawley who live in the same vicinity.

Three members of Dump Picton were taken to Community hospital at Barriefield. They were the driver of the car, Mrs. Dennis Jobe, 26, who suffered a severe laceration on the forehead; Mrs. Jobe's mother, Mrs. Gordon Lee and Lance Bombardier Gary Higgins, a broken

Three Mishaps Mark Weekend, One Man Hurt

TRENTON — Although bumper-to-bumper traffic was the order of the day on Trenton streets over the weekend, only three accidents of any consequence were reported at Trenton police station.

Around 12.45 a.m. on Saturday, an accident on Dundas St. W., resulted in property damage estimated at $400, when cars, driven by Dennis Nolan and Marion Wall, both of Trenton, collided.

Around 3.25 p.m. on Saturday an accident on the town bridge which resulted in damages set at $400, was attributed to brake failure of one of the cars involved. Drivers in this case were Edwin Miller of Carrying Place and Antonio Zanini of Trenton. Police say that the brakes on Mr. Zanini's car failed, as the result of the car being driven through a large water hole and he struck the vehicle driven by Mr. Miller.

Early Sunday morning, Jack Edward Bowers of 42 Rivers Drive, Wallbridge, had a serious and crushed fingers on his right hand and small cuts to his face when the car which he was driving east on Dundas St. E. struck a hydro pole at Gilmour Hill, careened across the road, turned on its side and came to rest, facing west in front of Grace United Church.

Police believe the rear window of the car in order to determine the speed at which the vehicle was travelling before they righted the car to remove the sole occupant. Damage to the car was estimated at $400.

Two Vehicles Collide on 401

TRENTON — An early-morning accident on Highway 401, west of Trenton, which took on Saturday, resulted in damages estimated at close to $1,200 to the two vehicles involved and sent one driver to Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Provincial police at Brighton reported that a station wagon driven by Eric Gatehouse of Batwood, Newfoundland, stalled on the highway and was struck from behind by a car driven by Ronald Foggo of R. R. 6, Trenton. Mr. Foggo was treated in the hospital's emergency and released after to his right elbow.

Damage to the Gatehouse station wagon was estimated at $400 and to the Foggo vehicle at between $700 and $800.

Fire Brigade Had Two Runs Over Holiday

TRENTON — At 8.25 p.m. on Sunday, two trucks from the Trenton fire department were despatched to Guelph St. by an alarm from one of the church homes used by a local college club for rehearsals. The fire burned a hole in the roof of the one-storey structure and caused a local blaze of considerable amount of smoke damage. The fire is thought to have been caused by children playing at the rear of the building.

Shortly after 4 p.m. on Monday, the department was called out to Henry Harry's Furniture Sales on Front St., where fire had broken out in some rubbish at the back of the building. Part of a wooden fence was burned and the rear wall of the furniture store was somewhat scorched before the fire was brought under control.

Bowling Notes

Six members of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club journeyed to Ottawa over the holiday to play in the men's doubles tournament held by the Ottawa bowling club. The boys were not too serious about their bowling but managed to scrape out four wins during the day. Ken Ashbury and Bill Wright won one game, Bill VanTassel and Austin Watkins captured two, while Jack Tory and Gordon Watkin were lucky to one win. The boys reported excellent greens and a real good time. They did a little missionary work while in the capital and four rinks and possibly more will be in this city for the Corbin Gold Cup tournament on Civic Holiday, August 6th.

The women's section of the club is enjoying the Thursday afternoon bowling with many of the members being out each day. Two weeks ago Mrs. Mary Kynoch, Mrs. Anne Watkin and Mrs. Carm Mott won the day's bowling. At the tea hour the hostesses were Mrs. Pearl Leggett and Mrs. Elsie Humphreys.

On Thursday last, Mrs. Jessie Hunter, Mrs. Pearl Leggett with Mrs. Anne Watkin as skip won the bowling honors while the tea hostesses were Mrs. Carm Mott and Mrs. Betty Vince.

The convener, Jerry Hyde, for the district playoffs in doubles to be held at the local greens on Sunday next, stated there will be a large entry from practically every club in the district. This is a knockout draw and the winning team will likely have to play at least four games to become a winner. The public is cordially invited up to watch these bowlers from the district in action.

52 Boats Pass Through Locks Over Weekend

TRENTON — The Trenton area had a terrific weekend, boating-wise, if reports of Fifteen cruisers tied up at the government dock to clear with customs, buy in supplies and refuel. Dale's Marina matched this in number craft. The lockmaster at Lock No. 1 reported that 52 boats passed through the lock during the weekend, Monday which, in itself is a record for the First of July weekend.

At Frankford, hundreds of spectators lined the banks of the river all Monday afternoon to watch the power-boat races. Racers came from all over Ontario and the northern United States. Many from a commercial races on Saturday and Sunday, before proceeding to the Lions' Club sponsored event at Frankford and they stated that the Trent River course was the best of all courses. Speeds of little under water — monsters reached 75 miles an hour. The entry created a sensation by swan-diving over the prow of his boat.

Missing Plane Found

TRENTON — An official at RCAF Station Trenton reported at 4.30 p.m. today that an Albatross from that station, sent to Northern Quebec to assist a USAF C-54 in the search for a missing American light aircraft, had been recalled, when the crew of the American search plane, Flight Goose Bay received a message from the pilot of the missing plane, at 2.30 p.m. and at 3.00 p.m. to the effect that all was well. Owner of the missing aircraft, a Mr. Miller from Vermont, and his daughter, Dot, 20, were reported in good condition. The pilot stated that he had force-landed and was attempting to repair an oil leak.

Third Woman Found Choked

LYNN, Mass. (AP)—A third strangling body was found within three weeks in greater Boston—again following a gruesome pattern—confounded police authorities today.

The body of Helen E. Blake, 65 - year - old licensed practical nurse, was found in her apartment Monday night. Mrs. Blake had been strangled with her brassiere and a nylon stocking.

Last Saturday night the body of Mrs. Nina G. Nichols, 68, was discovered in her apartment in Boston's Brighton section.

On June 14, the body of Mrs. Anna E. Slesers, 55, was found in her apartment in Boston.

Mrs. Nichols was garroted with a nylon stocking. Mrs. Slesers was strangled with the cord of her housecoat.

All were killed at night in their apartments and lived alone.

All three were found nearly nude, wearing house coats pulled up around their necks.

Start Building Wall Along Berlin Border

BERLIN (AP)—Working before dawn, East German troops, the Communists Monday night began building a wall along West Berlin's border with East Germany. There was some suspicion they planned to surround West Berlin with concrete and steel slabs.

The Communists virtually have completed the barricade they started last August along the 26-mile border between East and West Berlin. But until Monday night, the 69-mile gough are trarking West Berlin's boundary with East Germany proper had been fenced off only with barbed wire.

Quebec Anticipates Immigrants

L'Evenement-Journal of Quebec City wants Canada to prepare to receive European refugees from Algeria, who may want to start a new life in this country.

The Quebec paper, reasonably enough, sees here an opportunity to redress that imbalance against the French language inherent in past immigration flows. Where immigrants were not English-speaking by birth, the majority of them, faced with the task of learning a new language, chose to tackle English, the language spoken by the vast majority of North Americans this side of the Rio Grande.

There is no sound reason to deny French-speaking Canada its infusion of new blood, but one could wish that they could be drawn from a more promising source than Algeria. The Quebec paper freely grants that the federal government would have to take some cautionary measures, but observes, we feel sure with accuracy, that only a minority of the Algerian Europeans are terrorists. Nevertheless, there is scant reason to believe that these terrorists did not have many sympathizers amongst the white population as a whole. We do not for one moment believe that there is any danger of them resorting to terrorism in Canada, but there is no reasonable doubt but that the majority represents an attitude of mind alien to this country, where the majority of native Canadians, of no matter what race, religion or political belief, likes to be considered liberal minded.

This, though, is hardly sufficient reason to deny French-speaking Canada its opportunity to acquire new citizens. After all, many of the post-war immigrants from Europe who have swollen the population of English-speaking Canada were unquestionably rightists. While they were carefully screened to weed out communists, mere anti-communism was often accepted as proof of desirability and amongst the anti-communists were people with fascist leanings. It is true, and it speaks well for most of these immigrants, that they have been won over to our democratic ways. It would be comforting if, for once, one could feel as sure of the basic beliefs of new immigrants as was possible, for example, in the case of the Czechs who fled their country before Hitler's take-over.

Meanwhile, we must take comfort in the fact that Quebec residents have a deep-seated and long-standing love for their own way of life and are not likely to permit it to be disturbed or distorted by any immigrants, no matter what tongue they may speak.

Worth Investigating

Saturday, June 23, a self-styled angel, "Angel Al," the leader of a religious cult in Buenos Aires decreed that thirty of his followers would prove their faith by walking barefoot for more than ten feet over glowing coals. He whispered some secret words to them, and they walked in line through the near 1,500 degree heat. They came out unharmed.

This is not something new. Several tribes in the South Pacific have been practising a similar rite for centuries. Scientists have watched versions of it, and the rite has been photographed. But the world at large still knows virtually nothing about it. Countless theories have been advanced, ranging from demonaic intervention to a thin layer of sweat protecting people's feet from the coals, but none of the theorists appears willing to demonstrate his theories. There is a record, though, of a white man watching a South Pacific display who became inspired and joined. He was also unhurt.

Whatever the secret is, it is something we should learn about. Countless religions, cults and mental disciplines have preached mind over matter. These people appear to prove it.

Probably the most effective means of searching for the answer would be investigation of those who have completed the test. Hypnotists, psychoanalysts, and any and every other means, proven or otherwise, known to psychology should be used to detect variations, in these people, from the norm. There is so far no reason to believe this ability to have other than a mental foundation, and abilities with a mental foundation can often be learned.

Whatever it is, however it can be found, this technique is important. Its application to fire is interesting. More important is the possibility it may be applied to other dangers—even perhaps to the bogey fallout.

With or without a practical application, it is of some importance.

I feel very strongly that the United Nations has grown in strength, is growing, and that in the future its influence will not be diminished. —Acting Secretary-General Thant.

Prime Minister Works Best When He Is Under Pressure

By RICHARD JACKSON

From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Diefenbaker has seldom looked so firmly confident as in these past few days of extreme political stress and strain.

He appears sweeter at ease, more relaxed, more surely certain of himself than he usually did even when he had 208 Conservatives backing him up in the 265-member Commons back just last April when he still was commanding the greatest Parliamentary majority in Canadian political history.

That he should now display this form so firm in the face of such uncertainty is by no means out of character.

In the long years that he was in the Opposition, he was known by political friend and foe alike as "Fighting John" Diefenbaker.

In those years, from 1940 to 1956 when other men — John Bracken, Gordon Graydon and George Drew, were, in turn, the official leaders of the Conservatives, it was Diefenbaker who took the Opposition troops into battle on the floor of the Commons.

He was always in his best form when the going was toughest.

He never looked better than when the odds against him were longest.

MORE AT EASE

Perhaps it was from long practice—he was the political welcomer of Opposition for 18 straight years, from 1940 to '58—that he learned to do it the hard way, and was always at his best in the hard uphill pull.

When he became Prime Minister in '57, he hadn't been Conservative leader for more than six months.

When, still very much the freshman as Conservative leader, he went into that first by-election, in Carleton, Prime Minister St. Laurent and "Uncle Louis", entrenched and seemingly invincible Liberals, even his own party didn't expect him to win—not number, perhaps, in his heart of hearts, did John Diefenbaker himself.

Whether he was surprised or not by his triumph that surprised almost everybody else, the Prime Minister persistently has installed pollster Ily Gallup while the rest of the country might have wondered, he himself has been certain of victory.

It was a thin, minority win, that first Diefenbaker win, and the going, under ordinary circumstances, should have been tough.

But largely because Diefenbaker was no ordinary individual, the circumstances quickly became anything but ordinary.

In a minority position, he had to fight, and so "Fighting John Diefenbaker," so long the man of Opposition battle, was to his element.

He was at home. He was at his best.

THE BARRICADES

It was only after that stunning '58 landslide that he sometimes seemed bored.

With 208 seats — whittled down to 265 by by-elections — his Parliamentary position was so absurdly strong, it seemed ridiculous to fight.

Actually, there was little against which to battle, the Liberals having been reduced to CCF cut down to eight MPs, and even too much for a serious opposition. For further confirm his overwhelming position of power, the Social Credit bloc had been liquidated.

No Prime Minister had ever had such power in Parliament—and no Prime Minister, particularly "Fighting John" Diefenbaker, could be entirely comfortable in such a position.

But now, suddenly, the Liberals again are strong. The New Democrats are back up to 19 MPs. And these rather incredible Socreds are making the political muscles of a 30-member group which fancies it holds the whip hand.

This is a situation made to order for "Fighting John Diefenbaker".

This is his cup of politics tea.

So, while most other men, finding themselves in such a tight Parliamentary spot, might be expected to be dismayed or even disheartened, this Prime Minister has suddenly taken on new confidence, fresh strength and a reassuring calm, sure determination.

One thing he clearly had to have a financial crisis — and even the best - managed and stable nations including Britain have had such troubles — Diefenbaker is the kind of Prime Minister made to order to handle the situation.

He rises to the challenge. He fights. He shines brightest when it is dark.

40 YEARS AGO

July 3rd, 1922

The Boy Scouts have gone into camp at Moira Lake.

The city playgrounds in east and west Belleville are open for the season. It is through the kindness and generosity of the late Thomas Ritchie that the children of the city now have these fine playgrounds.

In a baseball match last evening the Belleville Red Caps defeated the Rednersville team, the score being 14 to 6. Arnott and Lee twirled for the Red Sox and Mitt and Strand pitched for Rednersville. The following composed the Red Sox team: Welch, Cummins, Cook, Ashley, Joss, Townsley, Stark, Miles, Miles, Arnott and Lee. The umpire was Harry Pringle with Myrle Cook the umpire on base.

The committee of fishermen of this city will hold their second annual picnic tomorrow afternoon at Victoria Park. Two thousand pounds of whitefish and salmon will be cooked at the park and distributed free.

July 3rd, 1912

Four iron standards for the purpose of supporting electric lights have been placed on Bridge Street near Hotel Quinte for display purposes. They are of different designs and the members of city council will inspect them and make selection of a design to be used on the business streets in the city. It is expected that the lights will be burning this evening.

Judge Fralick and family will leave tomorrow for their summer home at Salmon Lake.

Mr. George Lee is visiting friends in Rochester, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Wims have returned home from Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. George Brown have returned home after spending a few days in Ottawa.

Our Behavior Is Dependent On Weather

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Those elaborate weather forecasts we hear on television remind me of Lincoln's remark about a colleague, that "he can compress the smallest amount of thought into the largest amount of words of any man I know."

These barometric bores get us around up in cold fronts and high tides and wind velocities that sometimes the forecast has ended and we still don't know if we ought to take a raincoat to work tomorrow morning.

What would be infinitely more useful to viewers is a kind of "emotional weather" forecast, warning people what they might expect of themselves and others in the way of behavior during the next day or two.

There is no doubt that weather conditions do exert an enormous influence upon our moods and our social conduct. A research team of doctors and meteorologists in Austria a few years ago established the discovery that certain combinations of weather conditions produce definite psychological effects.

For instance, the warm dry wind known in Austria as the "foehn" is guaranteed to make people restless and irritable and angry, and resulting in an increase in accidents, suicides, deaths during operations, and a decline in school examinations' successes.

A spokesman for the group, in fact, suggested that the weather television forecasts in the future should contain references to emotional patterns. Perhaps something like this:

"Foehn weather is approaching. This spells additional danger for drivers and machine operators, and an increased likelihood of accidents. Difficult and complicated operations and school examinations should be postponed if possible. There is increased danger of crimes of passion."

This is no more fanciful theory, Anyone at all sensitive to atmosphere can sense the change. Remember the minute he steps into the street. On hot, muggy, still days, with certain kind of wind, the motorists drive differently, there is an emotional vibration in the air as if people are looking for trouble. The comedians in Hollywood, ready to break out at the slightest provocation, are without any provocation.

We are much more affected by such changes than we suppose. Rises and falls in the pressure, of which we are unaware, can raise or lower our levels of efficiency and stability.

It all starts in the wind, a sudden change in humidity, can bring us to rebellion or relief.

Who cares what the level of the tide was at Sandy Hook at 8 a.m.? What we want to know is — will tomorrow be a good day to petition for a raise, and will the drive to the picnic be spoiled by irritability as much as by rain?

Desensitization Urged For Hay Fever Victims

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Let's reverse things today — instead of answering letters that have come in, let's answer some that are going to come in later.

As we get close to the "hay fever season" some readers are going to ask frantically (they've done so in other years), "Is it too late to do anything to ward off hay fever this fall?"

No, it's not too late in July, although it is better to start much earlier, and many people will benefit by having treatment spaced the year round.

The one effective method (short of being able to go for several weeks to an area where ragweed and other pollens do not grow) is the process of desensitization. Carefully shots which gradually build up resistance to the pollen.

Antihistamine preparations aid in subduing the misery to some degree, but they are not enough to do the entire protecting job for highly-sensitive sufferers.

Filtered air helps, naturally, and some people keep one roof, a bedroom or other room in sight except for filtering equipment. It's expensive, but it's a relief to be able to sleep better, and to have a place to escape from the severe effects of fever.

Another frequent question: "Which is better, the conventional type of desensitizing injections, or the sublingual drop type?" I do not myself, prefer to be an allergist, but I leave that technical points to the people who are experts in that field.

To date, I find that many such specialists are using a new emulsion type, but others still prefer the other kind. My opinion, hence, is that they are happily accept whichever type your doctor prefers. That is the greatest success in using. Either is excellent. If one is, indeed, better than the other, it is that it doesn't mean that the "other" isn't highly effective. Get either, but get it without delay.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Our two-months-old son was diagnosed as having 'staphylococcus pneumonia.' All we were told is that this affects the muscles and nothing can be done. What is the cause? — R.P."

The word staphylo means "muscular weakness, developed before birth." The cause is not known, but it is considered hereditary, it is possible, however, for more than one case to appear in a family."

Since the cause is not known, we have no cure, but we can do things for such a child — keeping positive thinking to help develop the muscles, warm baths, and mild electrical stimulation, to encourage activity by the muscles. Indeed, you should anticipate a good physiotherapy over a long period.

The little fellow naturally is going to be very slow in sitting up and walking because his muscles are so weak, but he does not seem to have other difficulties.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Deploring Canadian architecture is a rapidly growing habit with the travel writers and TV panellists. Just since Christmas it seems to me there has been more criticism of Canada's urban than for years past. It is not the new architecture that is being deplored, but the old, especially in the long-established cities which have not had the absence of civic squares and parks the narrowness of the old streets. Toronto, Montreal, Quebec and Ottawa are all receiving the usual reproaches for being "so much like Europe."

Now whether it is approaching. This spells additional danger for drivers and machine operators, and an increased likelihood of accidents. Difficult and complicated operations and school examinations should be postponed if possible. There is increased danger of crimes of passion."

This is no more fanciful theory. Anyone at all sensitive to atmosphere can sense the change. Remember the minute he steps into the street. On hot, muggy, still days, with certain kind of wind, the motorists drive differently, there is an emotional vibration in the air as if people are looking for trouble. The comedians in Hollywood, ready to break out at the slightest provocation, are without any provocation.

We are much more affected by such changes than we suppose. Rises and falls in the pressure, of which we are unaware, can raise or lower our levels of efficiency and stability.

It all starts in the wind, a sudden change in humidity, can bring us to rebellion or relief.

majority of the people who came to Canada in the first of the towns and cities were being founded had never seen a city, and few of them had ever had any account. They were hill-billies, and few of the Scots, Irish and early eighteen hundreds, they were, in a large measure, the same as the rebellious States, where there wasn't much to be seen in the way of cities of edifices, and refugees from the wars and depressions that beset British Europe. Those that were the men who thought fine red brick everywhere, for our stories tall, were pretty bandbox. To people born in cottages and bothies in the highlands of the old countries, any street was wide.

Anyway, let us not deplore them!

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

Maple Syrup Sales Lesson

Welland Tribune

A recent Canadian bank publication shows that the annual consumption of maple sugar products, on a per capita basis, is 4.4 pounds, or 1.1 pounds per of what it was a few years ago.

It has been suggested that the drop in consumption has been caused not so much by a shift in consumer habits as by the relative scarcity of the commodity and the quality of the retail price of syrup since 1957," the publication says.

That would appear to prove once more that regardless of how sweet and appealing the product, a substantial increase in price usually results in fewer sales.

The primary reason for the increase in maple syrup prices has been higher labor costs. Labor in the syrup-making industry, to be sure, is not organized, yet the prices have risen, largely nonetheless.

As lesson to be learned from the maple syrup industry is of a basic character as far as labor negotiations are concerned. "emotional" factor is involved in the muscles. Indeed, you should anticipate a good physiotherapy over a long period.

The little fellow naturally is going to be very slow in sitting up and walking because his muscles are so weak, but he does not seem to have other difficulties.

TORONTO STOCKS

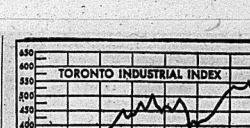
In the main list, banks were weakest, with Montreal, off ¼, Nova Scotia ½, Royal 1⅛ and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce ⅝.



Abitibi, Shawinigan, Interprovincial Pipe Line and Industrial Acceptance all dropped in a ⅛ to ¼ range, while Price Brothers, Bell ⅛, Consolidated Paper ⅛, Canadian Celanese ⅛ and CPR ¼.

Gainers included Walker Gooderham and Dominion Foundries and Steel, each up ⅛, Consumers Gas ahead ⅛ and Atlas Steel up ⅜. Moore Corporation advanced a point and Oshawa Wholesale A 1½.

On the exchange index, industrials dropped 1.34 to 231.31. Golds rose .03 at 96.94, base metals .13 at 134.43 and western oils .04 at 85.60. The .11 a.m. volume was 346,000 shares compared with 612,000 at the same time Friday.

Among base metals, International Nickel declined one point and Noranda ⅛ while Falconbridge was unchanged.

STOCK MARKET DECLINE — The booming Canadian stock market has started to slip.

During the first six months of this year practically all gains made by stocks during 1961 have been wiped out.

For three months the Toronto industrial Index—made up of 20 key stocks—moved to new highs. By March 12 it had reached a record of 639.06.

Then the slide started, reaching a low in late May. By the end of June the index, which opened the year at 618.59, was down almost a hundred points.

Graph traces movement of the index from 1953 to end of June. (CP Newsmap).

Police Report Quiet Weekend In District

Ontario Provincial Police reported a very quiet weekend in the Bay of Quinte area over the holiday with the exception of three minor accidents.

One accident occurred on Highway No. 33 involving two cars, another at Jones' Creek and the third on Highway No. 2. All were said to have been very minor.

This marks the second holiday weekend this year in the Bay of Quinte district, where only minor accidents have been reported. Over the 24th of May holiday weekend only minor mishaps were reported by Provincial Police.

In the city of Belleville, police report the weekend as "peaceful" and "quiet" with no accidents reported.

Traffic through the district was generally heavy over the weekend though Saturday's storm rose some doubt for people planning a trip. However, skies cleared, providing a beautiful weekend for most.

AFRICA'S

Pan - Arabism oriented toward the United Arab Republic's President Nasser and dependence on the Communist bloc, rather than the West, for economic and military aid.

Another 40,000 nationalist guerrillas were scattered throughout Algeria. There was no indication that they were joining the revolt against Ben Khedda.

Algeria's future appeared to rest with some 45,000 "regular" nationalist troops in Tunisia and Morocco. Their present sympathies were not known. Two months ago they acclaimed Ben Bella when he returned after five years of French captivity. Today their chief, Col. Houari Boumedienne, was in flight after being ousted by Ben Khedda for plotting with Ben Bella.

ARRIVES IN MOSCOW

a hospital where he was reported recovering.

Another of the convicts in the plot was Aquilino Balcoeda, partner of Moya in the Ventura, Calif., murder-by-car.

Mrs. Duncan, 37, likewise under death sentence, is held at the prison for women at Corona in the southern part of the state. She will be held there until the day before her execution which will take place at San Quentin. The date is yet to be set because of several appeals she has made.

The daughter-in-law, Olga, a nurse born near Dauphin, Man., was also strangled to death by Moya and Baldonado in Ventura in 1958. She was the wife of Frank Duncan.

The mother apparently felt that Duncan's Canadian wife was leaping her son away from her.

KILLERS JOIN

Joining with Bates, Moya and Baldonado in the first attempt ever made to escape San Quentin's death row were:

Manuel Joe Chavez, 30, Bates' partner in the Los Angeles tavern fire deaths; after being tossed out of the bar, the two angrily threw in a five-gallon can of gasoline and some matches.

In some way that has mystified San Quentin officials, a foot-long hacksaw was smuggled into death row.

Shortly after midnight, one convict created a diversion by plugging up a toilet bowl. Deathwatch left his post to check. He was slugged viciously with one of the sawed-off bars.

TAKE THE WEAPONS

The convicts took his two weapons — a .12-guage shotgun and a .38-calibre pistol — and keys to the office of Sgt. Kardell in the condemned row.

Chavez showed up with the pistol, ordering Kardell down on the floor. Kardell grabbed at Chavez but a pistol shot to the head felled him.

A civil court report was due at 1 a.m. the convicts didn't know the procedure. One convict dialed the operator in error. That was when Kardell was told, under threat of death, to make his report but disobeyed and spread the alarm.

YOU HAVE A HAND IN THINGS CANADIAN
when you own Life Insurance
Surprising? Yes—but true. Like most people, you have probably thought of your life insurance as protection for your family—as a good way to save money regularly—as a valuable collateral if you need a loan for an emergency.
Actually, your life insurance dollars are more than an investment in your personal security and your family's. These dollars are also an investment in Canada. They stimulate growth and progress and help make this country a better place in which to live and work.
At this moment, 9 BILLION DOLLARS of life insurance savings are invested in important Canadian enterprises—through the purchase of bonds and stocks and through mortgages.
These hard-working dollars are helping to finance great projects all over this country such as pipelines, shopping centres, bridges and highways, homes, apartment and office buildings, schools, factories, industrial plants and power developments. These investments create employment opportunities, too.
The income from these investments benefits you directly, by reducing the cost of life insurance to you and the 9 million other Canadian policyowners.

Women's Institutes

QUINTE W.I.

The June meeting of the Quinte W.I. was held on Tuesday evening with the president Mrs. J. Parrott in charge.

The secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Gerow read the minutes and correspondence and a short business period followed.

Mrs. E. Sandercock and Mrs. R. Denyes conveners of citizenship were in charge of the meeting which opened with community singing. The motto was given by Mrs. M. B. Weese and a solo was rendered by Mrs. Insley.

Mrs. Denyes introduced the guest speaker, Mr. A. Duncan, who spoke on citizenship.

The meeting closed, after which lunch was served and a social time enjoyed.

The next meeting will be held on the regular day in July with Mesdames F. Mitchell and A. Greatrix as conveners.

CHAPMAN W.I.

TWEED — On June 19th the Chapman Women's Institute held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Harry Coulter, with 14 in attendance. The president, Mrs. Thomas Lynn, welcomed the members and guests followed by the secretary's report read by Mrs. William J. Hunt.

An invitation from Plainfield W.I. was extended to attend its public relations meeting at Gilead Community Centre on July 4th, and a number of members will attend. A donation of $100 was pledged to the Tweed rink committee.

Gifts were presented by Mrs. Doril Lauritson to Miss Sharon Hunt and Mrs. Isobel Martin Jr., who have received provincial honors, having completed 12 projects in the 4-H Girls' Club. Sharon will be entering Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston, in September, to begin training.

INTERESTING SLIDES

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Reid (Carl is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Reid, Stirling) of Pond's Inlet on the northeast shore of Baffin island, where Carl teaches school, showed many interesting slides and related the way of life among the Eskimos. They also had items on display which were made by the Eskimos from seal skin and soap stone. Pond's Inlet is about 1,950 miles directly north of Belleville.

The July meeting to honor grandmothers, will be held at the home of Mrs. John Holmes and members are asked to bring any articles of interest which were used in grandmother's day for display.

A delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Wilbur Bateman and her group at the conclusion of the meeting.

Evening Meal In U.S. Likely To Be Supper

OTTAWA (CP) — When is the evening meal dinner and when is it supper?

On Sunday in the U.S. it's more apt to be supper, says Jean Wade Rindlaub, a New York advertising executive.

Mrs. Rindlaub told a session of the Canadian Home Economists Association meeting here Monday that they could be wrong if they assumed the people ate three meals a day and that they were called breakfast, lunch and dinner or breakfast, dinner and supper.

Often a fourth meal was thrown in later at night.

A recent survey done by her company showed that 66 per cent of the people questioned ate lunch at noon on weekdays but on Sundays 77 per cent ate their dinner at noon.

This differed from their weekday pattern when 45 per cent had dinner at night and 55 per cent ate supper. Sunday nights, 67 per cent sat down for supper while only 33 per cent ate dinner.

To thoroughly confuse the situation some people ate what they called lunch and supper.

Mrs. Rindlaub warned the home economists that they could be wrong too if they assumed people ate in their dining rooms.

Some magazines were publishing "menus for supper on the floor."

Bride-to-Be Honored At Shower

FRANKFORD — A cup and saucer shower was held at the home of Mrs. George Foster, recently, with co-hostess Mrs. Ada Patrick in honor of Miss Sheila Macauley.

The home was decorated with bouquets of peonies and iris.

The evening was spent in visiting an da social time was enjoyed.

After opening the gifts Sheila expressed appreciative thanks.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Beatrice H. — Why should my mother-in-law ask such a gruesome question?

Marjorie K. — Bea is giving it too much thought. It was just idle talk.

Beatrice H. — A couple of weeks ago while at the shore my mother - in - law asked my husband a question which I can't get out of my mind. To make matters worse, she asked it in front of our neighbors, "If Beatrice and I were both in a boat," she said, "and it were sinking, whom would you save — your wife or your mother?" Roy was stunned by this and I tried to come to his rescue by laughing it off, "Don't worry, Mom," I said, "I'm a good swimmer."

But I was hurt and felt awful. Roy is the soul of her eye, and I'm his second wife. I'm 23 and married less than a year ago. I never felt she approved of the match. She shows her feelings, acting polite to me but passionate toward Roy, hugging and kissing him every five minutes when we're in the same room. I try to feel friendly toward her, but she won't. She hooked Roy that question. Why did she ask it?

Marjorie T. — I'm the neighbor in whose Lawrence Park, N. asked that question. I dismissed it from my mind, and I thought Bea had also, even though the time I did think it an unusual one to spring on Roy. Bea handled it beautifully. If it were your mother-in-law I'd probably have started a fight.

But here it is two weeks later and that's all Bea talks about to me. She's been brooding about the question and she keeps saying it means her mother-in-law wants her out of the way. Face it, Bea, I said. It is a silly woman. Although she has four grown children, Roy's the one she fusses over and hangs around. He's her only son. I don't think she realized how soon the first marriage blew up, but I'm not a bankroll Mrs. H. and something to do with it, just I'm sure Roy is on to her game and Bea should stop worrying.

The Council: Picture a family group looking at the ocean from a front porch. Place an unimaginative middle-aged woman in their midst with nothing of any consequence to talk about. A yacht heaves into view and moons past. So, right off the top of her head, Beatrice's mother-in-law blurts out the hypothetical case that popped in. Most of us would refuse to take her question seriously. We'd agree with Marjorie that it was merely an attempt to make conversation.

But since Beatrice sees ominous undertones in Mrs. H.'s query, we realize that the form er has her mother-in-law "on the griddle" and is studying her every word and gesture for evidence. Of what? Of the subtlety Beatrice suspects but cannot prove. Therefore, instead of dismissing the remark as idle chatter we must probe it briefly as a symptom of a possible misunderstanding.

The normal family life, a man leaves his parents and clings to his wife. A mother, in turn, lets go and a wife generously encourages his filial devotion, but only if we consider his origin in the family. Roy has a wavering job to do on his mother. She can't accept the fact that big changes have taken place in Roy's life, that he's trying to pretend they didn't!

If one insists on reading deep meanings into a mother-in-law's remark, one can attribute it to her pathetic need for reassurance. Both Beatrice and Roy must find ways to let her know that she's needed, respected and loved. Then her awkward "test questions" may not sprout so often.

As answer to phone her, however, might be: "Don't worry. We'll never be in the same boat if we can help it. Roy wants us both!"

Cookie Bakeoff

by Mary Moore

Crisp, Many-Purpose Sugar Cookies

These cookies were made as the result of nostalgic memories. My memories were of Aunt Rachel's cookies. She used to bake a cookie-cube-shaped biscuit with a tight lid. I can see my brother in my mind's eye yet climbing to the top of the pantry shelf with the standing guard at the door. We never got away with it though. She suspected us to steal them. She made them for us to steal — encouraging delinquency!

Eleanor's memories are of her mother filling them patiently with a fluted cutter and separating sticky fat rabbits from the pound block and placing one in the centre of each — then sprinkling them with sugar from between her finger tips.

Do you have memories? Provide some memory material for your young ones too.

Frosted. Roll and cut out another quarter of dough and bake on buttered cookie sheet. When cold frost with icing: One and one-half cups unsifted icing sugar, 2 tablespoons soft butter, 1 tablespoon cream, shake of salt and ½ teaspoon vanilla. If desired sprinkle ice cookies with chopped nuts. Seed-Cookies: Roll and cut out last quarter of dough and sprinkle with sesame or poppy seeds or with chopped almonds or shaved Brazils.

These cookies are well adapted to cutting out with various shapes of cookie cutters — stars, bridge suit shapes, etc.

Next Tuesday see my recipe for Chocnuts cookies.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

Chicken Legs Supreme; Red Currant Jelly; Curried Rice; Sliced Carrots; Olives, Celery, Shredded Chilled Composite of Cherries; Crackers and Cheese; Coffee.

CRISP SUGAR COOKIES:

4 cups sifted cake flour, 2½ teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 2-3 cup shortening (half butter), 1½ cups sugar, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 4 teaspoons milk.

Cream the shortening with sugar until light (we used electric beater.) Add eggs and beat in. Add vanilla and milk and beat until smooth. Sift together cake flour, baking powder and salt and work into creamed mixture. Mix smooth. Chill dough into ball, flatten, wrap and chill thoroughly. Roll out only one-quarter of dough at a time on lightly floured board to ⅛" thickness (or thinner — Eleanor likes them very thin). Cut out with 2½ or 3" fluted cutter, pressing large raisin in centre of each. Bake on buttered cookie sheet at 400 deg. Fahr. for 5 or 6 minutes only. Do not brown.

Variations for remaining three-quarters of dough: Chilled: Roll and cut out another quarter of dough. When on cookie sheets carefully brush tops with slightly beaten egg white and sprinkle with granulated sugar or colored sugar.

C.A's Enjoy Social Event

FRANKFORD — Frankford Full Gospel C.A's journeyed by car to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hoey, R.R. 1, Frankford on Thursday evening.

The evening activities began with singing by the C.A. chorus. Several choruses were sung. Games were enjoyed and sacred recordings were played.

Mr. Len Reilly led in prayer and grace and everyone enjoyed strawberries, ice cream and cookies, which were served outside.

A time of fellowship followed.

GIRL GUIDE BROWNIE NEWS

On May 25th the 5th Company of Guides was invited by the 35th Scout Troop to camp Sagonas for a "Cook-Out". It was a grand day for the event of following the winding "Nature Trail".

After the wieners and buns disappeared in a flurry, there was a long game of softball, cheered on by parents and non-players.

As darkness settled down, all gathered for an inspiring "Camp Fire" which included singing of rounds, skits and favorite songs, which were conducted by Scouter Green.

The long remembered day was enjoyed by all, a vote of thanks goes to Scouter Green and the 35th Troop Dr.

An enrollment and flying up was held by Mrs. Mot and the son of these ladies, Hi's mother shows little awareness of the ceremony and is studying her son's life. He — or a wise friend — had better get a little sight-ed of the wedding vows and read them to her carefully, especially all mention of dismissing the rearing of children.

The normal family life, a man leaves his parents and clings to his wife. A mother, in turn, lets go and a wife generously encourages his filial devotion, but only if we consider his origin in the family. Roy has a wavering job to do on his mother. Deseronto Red Cross Makes Presentation

Four Cubilas had been established by the welfare committee. A large amount of work has been done, for women's work including 3,000 swabs and 3,000 wipes made for the hospitals. Members were especially pleased to hear a third more people from Deseronto had given blood at the Blood Donors' Clinic in Napanee. A number of articles have been in use from the Loan Cupboard.

A substantial cheque was received from the Ladies' Auxiliary, Branch 239, of the Canadian Legion in appreciation for the use of the Red Cross rooms for their meetings while the new Legion hall was being built.

PRESENTATION MADE

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Claus, teachers at Tyendinaga Mohawk School, Tyendinaga Reserve, were presented with badges of service in honor of their outstanding work with the Junior Red Cross. Mrs. G. Walker made the presentation and Mrs. C. Cole made the pleasure the branch felt in being able to make this presentation.

Mr. and Mrs. Claus both thanked the Red Cross for the high honor and accepted it on behalf of the children, as Maureen Hayes under an arbor of sun flowers and roses topped off by two large buttercups. The Brownies were brought into the Guide horseshoe and enrolled by Capt. Janes.

Games for the evening were Mrs. B. Corke, tester for the Hostess' Badge, Mothers and Friends, Tawny Owl Pringle of Pack 13, Brown Owl Sharman, and Cub Owl Little of Pack 3.

At the end of the ceremonies guests were served a light lunch by Donna Ridley, Sharon Cole and Jean Thompson, who were trying for their Hostess Badge.

BADGES EARNED

Badges earned since the banquet on May 16th were: homenurse, Cindy Holmes, Brenda Sharman, Shirley May, Sharon Crane, Lyn Thompson and Cheri Matthews. Campers' Badge, Brenda Sharman; pioneer badge, Linda Kerr; hostess badge, Donna Ridley, Lyn Thompson and Sharon Crane.

June 23 ended the Guide year with a trip to Upper Canada Village, with the first stop at Fort Wellington, which commemorates the "Battle of the Windmill" in 1838. Then to the historical and educational village, touring the area for 3½ hours. With the many interesting buildings visited by the Guides were: Cook's Tavern, the doctor's residence, a sawmill, a school, the cabinet maker's, and the minister's house.

The most pleasant and unexpected pleasure was the meeting of Chatting with a troop of American Girl Scouts from Massachusetts. There was an exchange of interesting news and views on Guiding between the two countries.

Both groups were surprised at the similarities of the two. The group was also fortunate to meet a Guide from Alabama who took a group picture to take back to her Troop, along with some souvenirs and addresses of the Guides. Each girl brought back more than singing can say. From Upper Canada Village the Guides rode to the Robert H. Saunders Generating near Cornwall, which proved to be interesting and educational and where they were given a 20-minute film and a 20-minute tour of the power plant.

Later, the group boarded the bus for the homeward trip.

Everyone enjoyed themselves to the utmost. A lot of the credit goes to the driver, "Curly" Anderson, of Picton, as he described points of interest along the route.

The leaders of Company 5 wish to thank every guide a safe and happy holiday, hoping to see all again next fall.

HOW TO HANDLE GOSSIPS

Everyone talks about the gossip, but there are few who know how to handle her.

In addition to licking her envelopes, everyone else's problems, this irresponsible creature has a tendency to create a unique few of her own.

"A woman in our neighborhood seems to have a pipeline into every home, and doesn't mind washing everyone's dirty linen in public. She's constantly calling me on the phone to give me the word about the latest scandal. If I don't answer the phone, she shows up a little later at the front door.

"I know she pulls the same thing on other housewives. You may wonder why I just don't bang down the receiver or slam the door in her face, I've certainly had the impulse. But, judging from the things she's told me about others, I'm sure if I cut her off rudely she'd start gossiping about me. I'm certain I'd be the victim of her imagination. Is there any way of handling this situation without being rude and getting hurt? She's a lonely person, neither married nor single. I suppose I do feel sorry for her."

A friend of mine had a similar experience and tactfully managed to ease herself out of the situation.

She, too, felt sorry for the troublesome gossip, so she used compassion as a means of trying to help quiet her down.

Each time Gossipy showed up, my friend made her a cup of tea and did some gossiping of her own. It, too, was about the neighbors, but on the complimentary side. She'd mention how well one woman managed on the raises at the church bazaar, or what an excellent herb garden another just put in. It left the gossip little time to ply her trade.

When she did sneak a tidbit in, our friend was ready for her. If she mentioned that Mrs. Blow had another baby, our friend dragged out with her husband, inspired of just exactly how much passionate Freind mused: "That poor woman. I must drop by and see if there's anything I can do for her." Naturally, the gossip was completely at a loss for words. Her tongue got flustered, demurred, and left.

My friend used the same tactics of hospitality, light talk and compliments on each of the items the gossip tried to tell a whopper. Eventually the visits tapered off and my friend was relieved of her job as part-time listener.

Fortunately most gossips aren't as vicious, and can be controlled simply by changing any damaging subject they may bring up. When a less mature fact must be exercised, my friends formula seems to have a lot of success. Kindness and courtesy may not completely stop the gossip. But they can help arrest her case.

Young Couple Honored by Community

JOHNSTOWN — A good number of friends, neighbors and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bush, on Saturday evening to honor their eldest daughter, Marion, in the form of a miscellaneous shower.

Mr. Brien Thrasher, who was chairman for the occasion, read an address, commenting on the highly standard Marion was held in neighborhood, working in the Johnstown Sunday school and church. Miss Stickell mentioned that Mr. Payette was not as well known as Marion in this vicinity, but all welcomed him and hoped they would become better acquainted with him in the future.

Marion and Mr. Payette were asked to accept the many gifts as a token of the esteem in which they were held in the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Whaley played and sang on the guitar as to entertain the crowd while lunch was being prepared.

We have a son 15 who will sell gas on weekends and during the busy months of July and August. We would like to have a caretaker who would be happy to make her home there. What we have in mind is a widow, and we would not object to one child or possibly two. We mentioned this to a local welfare officer and he said we would be inviting trouble to get a widow.

You are a woman and social worker, what do you think? I myself believe there could be widows that would love to have a home in the country with a garden and flowers.—FARMER'S WIFE.

DEAR WIFE—Do widows mean trouble? I know some whose fortitude and ways of coping would make a strong man turn green with envy.

Naturally you choose carefully, investigate references, get to know your applicant before hiring. Then if the place is lonely (and your welfare man may be thinking of this), police should be alerted and your widow should know she can call on you too.

DEAR LORIS—I am nearly 18 and the guy I want to marry is 20. We have been going together for two years.

My father doesn't want me to marry this guy. My mother has been boss of me ever since I was born. She wishes I would wait another year so I can take my dressmaking course. We plan on being married as soon as I am 18. I want to take my course after.

My boy friend has a good job. He wants me to get a summer job closer to where he works because he has to work seven days a week and doesn't have time to drive 200 miles. My father said I couldn't go to work near him; he tries to get me a job as far away as possible.

Do you think my father has any right to tell me who to marry when we never bothered before? Do you think we are too young to marry? I think we will get along. It may be close for the first while. I have kept house before. Let Mom do it and I won't be able to handle the money affairs that confront us.

My grandmother is always telling me of the troubles that other people have, just trying to scare me from marriage.—IN LOVE.

DEAR IN LOVE—If you plan to stay married, I'd say wait.

Both Mother and Dad want you up wait. But you and your boy friend know others who have done it and you are willing to live life. When you look back you'll be able to see that a year or two of engagement could have been a happy, carefree, in-love time.

Marriages at 18 have a surprising number of breakups, as Granny is trying to tell you. Marriage when you are ready for it—which is later—can be heavenly.

As for the summer job 200 miles from home, with no chaperon and no one but your boy friend for company—well, if your father allowed it he'd need his head read.

DEAR DORIS—Our marriage is on the rocks after four years. I want to straighten things out but he doesn't. That is why I am writing.

We live on government assistance. Our home hasn't enough insulation to keep us warm on cold days. The money hardly pulls us through.

I have tried to do things I don't get thanks or a compliment; he just says "So you finally got it done!" If I want to express any thoughts or ideas, he says I'm crazy.

When the children need a doctor he says to H——— with them. He says I'm done with work I'm so tired and worn out I crawl into bed without paying any attention to him. I'm so run down and sick I just can't take any more.

I strike back at him by laughing in his face, ignoring him, deceiving him. What would you do or advise.

Maybe you can write him and tell him to be more considerate and kinder. He kicked me and I was black and blue. I was afraid to tell him but I won't.—OLD BAG—AT TWENTY-SEVEN.

DEAR OLD BAG—A letter from me and he'd hit the roof—and you.

Your husband sounds like a very spoiled child; not even a likeable one. Perhaps you'd better leave if you want to salvage your children. Women have made a go of separation before.

It might even be a way of bringing him up short. Your revenge up to now has been no better than his insults. Unless he finds a job and starts acting like a man, there's no future with him.

Wants Widow For Caretaker

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—My husband and I own a 20-acre piece of land, which we have built our home on. Down the highway we have a 50-acre farm and last year we put up a service station there. In the station we handle gas, oil, pop, cigarets, candy and some groceries. There are living quarters in the same building.

We have a son 15 who will sell gas on weekends and during the busy months of July and August. We would like to have a caretaker who would be happy to make her home there. Tips to Keep Roses Blooming

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Dr. Cynthia Wescott, the "Plant Doctor", says she starts spraying her roses with an all purpose spray about the first of April and keeps it up all summer, once each week.

The first rule in controlling disease is exclusion. Examine every plant that comes on your property both gift plants and those you buy. Nurserymen are required half-yearly to inspect into even the best of nurseries.

Keep paper bags handy when you garden. Put dead flowers and diseased flowers, stock and leaves into the bag and burn them. This cuts down the spread of pests.

Watch for shoots from the under stock. These are always different in form and color from the top growth. These offshoots are from the vigorous briar or other strong rose stock which is used as a base for the more tender and colorful top is grafted onto it. If the offshoots are not pulled, or cut off at the base they will soon sap all the strength from the root and the hybrid top will die off.

The graft which shows as a slight swelling or planting time. If you do have manure on hand dig it in well, being sure it is well rotted. Work it well into soil but do not allow it to come in contact with the stems. Do not use it as a mulch as it will encourage canker disease.

If you gave your roses a generous feeding in April and again the first of June, carry on with foliar feedings until mid-July or until the weather becomes hot. Less trouble develops with over feeding in hot weather.

In the fall when the ground freezes, mulch with straw or peat. This is better than piling up the soil around the plants. Whether the winters are moderate freezing and thawing occurs or severe and long, the drains quickly and water does not tend to gather around the crown where it will rot.

Do not enclose bill in tar paper. This forms a drain for water which settles around the roots.

Prune only in spring after winter has killed back some of the top growth. Fall pruning opens cells to infection at a time when healing is slow.

Say Good Stock

Buy good stock and discard the trouble makers.

Rules for picking good roses — Check the grade. Number 1 is tops, the buds should contain three or more sturdy canes. It should produce fine blooms the first year.

Jumbo is grade 2. This one has four or five canes, usually a little thicker than No. 1. It will take longer to bloom after setting out.

No.1 and No.2 grades usually are "promotional" bundles containing from three to five bushes and generally offer one selection in a variety. A11 grades are two year old plants.

When selecting bushes choose the canes with plenty of eyes at the beginnings of shoots. Once the weather turns warm the plants in pots should be set out, show long sprouts and some will be in bloom the first week, being sure it is well rotted. Work it well into soil but do not allow it to come in contact with the stems. Do not use it as a mulch as it will encourage canker disease.

Investigate When Oil Pressure Drops

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

When oil panel light or gauge indicates low pressure, the optimist may chalk it in terms of faulty calibration. Happily, he might be right . . . then again, a damaged engine could quickly prove he is dead wrong.

It's usually best to take a fear-the-worst attitude and investigate promptly.

In some cases, abnormally low pressure is due to oil which is too light or thinned out by dilution. Obviously this can be easily remedied. Another quickly cured cause is loose feed line connections . . . or a clogged oil intake. Naturally, oil pump wear is going to affect pressure, too — so this factor can't be ignored when looking down trouble. The pressure relief valve adjustment might be off, or a weak valve spring could be the answer. Then, we have the more bitter pills to worry about — worn main, camshaft or connecting rod bearings. This doesn't complete the list, but it does give a fairly quick rundown of the conditions when oil pressure falls below normal.

D.G. asks: "If the carburetor adjustment is 'way off, as my mechanic said mine was, can it cause overheating?"

(A) Yes, it it's set for a much too lean fuel-air mixture. In extreme cases, it can even cause burned valves.

From L.A.: "I just bought a 1959 Seylinder sedan with automatic shift. Should this car use hot or cold plugs?"

F.D. writes: "My engine won't idle in neutral. I have to hold my foot on the gas pedal to keep it from stalling. And, when it runs rough at slow speeds. Carburetor and ignition tune-ups haven't helped.

(A) Air leakage at the carburetor mounting or intake manifold is a good possibility. Loosened or a poor gasket would be the reason.

S.M. asks: "My car is just 600 miles and one year old. A muffler shop told me my shock absorbers are nearly gone. How long are they supposed to last?"

(A) You can normally expect 25,000 miles or better, and the front pair is more likely to go first. I'd recommend another professional opinion before authorizing any work.

NOTICE TO MOTORISTS
THE NEW MOTOR VEHICLE
ACCIDENT CLAIMS ACT

Under the new law establishing the Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund which replaces the Unsatisfied Judgment Fund with effect from July 1st, 1962, it will be an offence for an owner to operate or permit the operation of his motor vehicle on the highway without being able to produce either:

(a) Proof that the vehicle is insured under a liability policy for bodily injury and property damage.

OR

(b) Proof that the $20.00 uninsured motor vehicle fee has been paid.

If your vehicle is insured, be sure you have an insurance certificate. If you do not have one, see your insurance agent at once.

If your vehicle is not insured, make certain your motor vehicle permit is endorsed to show that you have paid the $20.00 additional fee.

If your vehicle becomes uninsured, at any time because of cancellation or expiry of the policy, you must pay the $20.00 additional fee immediately at your local office of the Ontario Department of Transport.

THE PENALTY FOR NOT BEING ABLE TO PRODUCE PROOF OF INSURANCE OR PAYMENT OF THE FEE, OR FOR PRESENTING FALSE PROOF, IS A FINE OF $50.00 TO $500.00.

If you have a claim for damages as a result of an accident with an uninsured driver, make application for payment to the Director of Claims, Ontario Department of Transport, 10 St. Mary St., Toronto 5. You may make application personally or through your solicitor. Claims will be dealt with promptly. For further information ask for a copy of the pamphlet explaining the operation of the Fund from your local office of the Ontario Department of Transport.

BE SURE TO CARRY YOUR LIABILITY INSURANCE CERTIFICATE OR PROOF OF HAVING PAID THE ADDITIONAL $20.00 UNINSURED MOTOR VEHICLE FEE IN YOUR VEHICLE AT ALL TIMES.

New Drug Helps Alcoholics But It Is Not Magical; They Must Help Themselves

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—At 8 a.m. the young man telephoned a doctor he's never met, asking for an appointment.

He burst into the office early in the morning, demanding "some of those pills to keep me from drinking. I've got to stay sober the next few days—very important."

There is an anti'- drinking drug, but it's no magic powder-in-the-coffee affair.

The drug is disulfiram (trade name antabuse). It is completely harmless, until a person drinks any alcohol. Then he becomes violently ill.

It acts as a chemical fence reinforcing the alcoholic's determination not to drink. It must be prescribed and guided by a physician, for otherwise reactions could be dangerous.

NOT EASY ANSWER

The alcohol must know that he's taking it and what it will do. It wasn't the easy answer for the young man, except so far as it marked a step toward a desire to stop drinking.

He may need hospital care for a time. Tranquillizing drugs can help him sleep, or handle anxiety.

Psychotherapy is aimed at helping the alcoholic understand himself and his emotional problems and learn to handle them without drinking.

In Alcoholics Anonymous, the patient can find help available 24 hours a day. In AA, he or she also finds social, intellectual, cultural and spiritual interests long since abandoned in addition to drink, Dr. Fox continues.

HYPNOSIS USED

Hypnosis in the hands of trained physicians, can assist alcoholics to relax and handle tensions, Dr. Fox says. Psychodrama is another aid. In this kind of stage play, alcoholics assume the roles of friends, family members or employers for insights into social and personal attitudes and influences.

All treatments, the doctor points out, have a common goal: Understanding and reinforcing the need for total abstinence.

Some physicians find a hormone preparation helpful in combatting the craving for alcohol and the jitters which can come when the alcoholic has given up drinking.

The hormone ace. adrenal cortical extract, is given by injection and is expensive. Its use is based on evidence that in alcoholics the cortex or outer covering of the adrenal gland is not producing normal amounts of hormones.

Social and family attitudes are still roadblocks in dealing with alcoholism, says Mrs. Marty Mann, executive director of the National Council on Alcoholism.

"Too many people still attach a social stigma to alcoholism, as was once done with epilepsy and TB. There are still people in key place who don't recognize it as a sickness.'

For guidance of wives, husbands and children ill alcoholics, Mrs. Mann lists dome dos and don'ts:

1. Don't plead, don't censure, don't nag.

2. When the alcoholic flips, don't say "if you loved me, you wouldn't do this to me." The alcoholic usually feels enough remorse already.

3. Don't try to hide liquor or take it away or cut off his money.

4. Don't look for miracles overnight when he or she is seriously trying to overcome dependence on alcohol.

5. Do try to understand alcoholism as a sickness and discuss it calmly.

6. Do set teen-agers a good example.

Deseronto

DESERONTO — Mr. and Mrs. Albert Moses of Hapville, Georgia, are spending a short vacation at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Moses.

Patient Can Sue If Not Treated Says Lawyer

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto lawyer Edson L. Haines, solicitor of Ontario Medical Association, said Friday Saskatchewan residents could, in certain cases, sue doctors who ceased to treat them.

He said doctors in Canada cannot legally leave serious cases unattended.

Mr. Haines was elaborating on an article in this month's issue of the CMA Journal, with reference to the threat of Saskatchewan doctors to provide only emergency service.

"A doctor can't say 'I'm through' when there is no other doctor available," Mr. Haines said.

"Under law he has a continuing obligation to patients under treatment. If he leaves them he will be considered to have abandoned them and would be liable for damages."

Decisions Banning Official Prayers in School Receive Mixed Reception in Sermons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The U.S. Supreme Court decisions banning official prayers in public schools evoked both dissent and praise in sermons Sunday. One called it "proper, fitting and correct" while another United States minister ascribed to the court a philosophy that "seeks to quarantine religion."

Some took the middle ground. Among them was the Rev. Dr. Charles D. Kean of the Episcopal Church of the Epiphany in Washington D. C., who said the court's ruling was "neither a great victory for religious liberty nor an attack upon the religious traditions of our country."

The Supreme Court decision did not say religious devotions of a voluntary nature may never be held in public schools," he observed in a sermon Sunday.

A week ago Monday, the court ruled that a 22 - word prayer drafted by the New York state board of regents for recitation at the start of every school day was unconstitutional. The prayer reads:

"Almighty God, we acknowledge our dependence upon Thee, and beg Thy blessing upon us, our parents, our teachers and our country."

Dr. E. S. James, editor of the Baptist Standard and a Southern Baptist leader, called the court's decision "proper, fair and correct," adding the school prayer "could not hurt anyone."

However, Dr. J. Richard Sneed of the First Methodist Church in Los Angeles told his congregation that the ruling will produce a more revolutionary effect on U.S. society than Karl Marx ever could.

He said the court's philosophy "seeks to quarantine religion." Dr. Sneed said, "with the Deity constitutionally incapacitated, only materialism, secularism and humanism can publicly prevail."

The Catholic Bishop of Providence, R.I., the Most Rev. Russell J. McVinney, said "Our founding fathers must be spoken to before the courts of heaven today for the agnostic, cynic, atheistic decision of our U.S. Supreme Court."

Above is shown the cornerstone of the new Central United Church. The stone was laid at a ceremony Sunday afternoon. The new church was made necessary when the church in January destroyed the church erected in 1885. Left to right, above, are: Mr. D. Steven, student minister of the church; Mr. J. Kent, superintendent of the construction crew; Dr. E. Andrews, principal of Queen's Theological College, and Mr. J. McFarlane, building committee chairman.

Kennedy Scored Significant Personal Triumph in Mexico But What Accomplished?

Monday was the third Latin-American country the president visited on his campaign to draw Latin America to the Free World.

Here, Kennedy got a significant personal triumph. He made whirlwind trips to Venezuela and Colombia before the Organization of American States.

The accomplishment in Mexico was measured by the impression the U.S. president left on the Mexican public. Kennedy's wife, Jacqueline, visited Adlai Ewing Stevenson's grave at Bloomington, Ill., and Mexico City newspapers heavily champed the situations they talked about.

The Mexican government still will go its own way, will continue to recognize the Castro regime in Cuba and will oppose anything it considers interference with Cuba's internal affairs.

The Alliance for Progress was not humiliated. Mexico has only embraced it and his joint declaration with Kennedy called it a natural successor to the 1910 Mexican revolution.

NO BETTER FEELINGS

Persons in a position to know say an important aim of Kennedy visits to Latin American countries is to create a psychological climate in the generate enthusiasm for the ideas of the alliance and particularly its idea that the Latin Americans will do their share and help themselves.

President Kennedy's personal triumphs in Venezuela, Colombia and Mexico indicate that many of the people of those countries regard the United States and the policies of its young president with hope and high expectation.

The alliance is dramatized in this way. But are there some dangers in dramatizing a program that raises hope that in a relatively short time Latin America can cure ailments which are the heritage of centuries?

The sobering fact is that the alliance cannot work unless those who run Latin America's governments and control its wealth co-operate to make it work. And for the most part, those who control the wealth continue to drag their feet, unwilling to sacrifice the privileges and advantages their class enjoys. In areas where change is most accelerated the top of the social ladder. There is stubborn resistance and often reversion to old habits.

SPEAK OVER HEADS

Dramatic appearances of the United States capture the imagination of people aching for social change. But don't they amount to speaking over the heads of those who control the governments and the wealth.

Speaking directly to the people. There are those in Washington who admit the direct appeal to impatient people has serious aspects.

In many countries, the Castro-Communist alliance has a big [illegible] for mischief. Such reckless, violence-bent minorities are ready to try to use the masses who have nothing to lose by rebelling against systems which offer them little or nothing.

Business Briefs

OTTAWA (CP) — Employment in most industry divisions showed gains in April, with the exception of forestry and fishing, the bureau of statistics said today.

The bureau said that the industrial composite index of employment in the month rose seasonally to 118.7 from 115.2 in March, a gain of 3.5 per cent. The index is based on 1949 equalling 100.

Production of refined petroleum products in February increased 13.4 per cent to 3,491,-126 barrels from 22,444,368 in the corresponding month last year.

Receipts of crude oil rose to 22,305,054 barrels from 22,138,-941 a year earlier. Domestic crude receipts increased to 10,-327,246 barrels from 12,070,305 while imported crude declined to 9,985,826 barrels from 10,067,-213.

The work force of eight provincial governments—all except Quebec and British Columbia—and the government of the Yukon Territory showed a decrease of 2.8 per cent at March 31, compared with Dec. 31, 1961.

Total employees at March 31 were 105,264, down from 170,648 at the end of last year. Earnings also declined to $163,167,000 from $164,420,000.

Figures for Quebec and B.C. were not available.

The index of farm prices of agricultural products in May rose to 248.6 from 247.0 in April. Higher prices for livestock and potatoes more than offset decreased prices for dairy products and eggs. The index is based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100.

Freight movements through all Canadian canals in April decreased 3.9 per cent to 3,101,179 tons from 3,225,511 in the corresponding month last year. Vessel passages dropped to 1,191 from 1,387 and the net registered tonnage was down to 2,900,256 from 3,486,347.

Freight cleared through the combined Canada-United States locks at Sault Ste. Marie and the Welland Canal rose due to the navigation season opening eight days earlier than last year. However, the volume of traffic through the St. Lawrence canals dropped because of the late opening of navigation in this area.

Production of nickel and zinc in April showed moderate gains over the same month last year. However, output of copper ceased slightly and there were substantial decreases in lead and silver production.

April production totals with last year's figures in brackets: Nickel 19,263 tons (16,991); copper 35,034 tons (35,116); lead 14,829 tons (18,744); zinc 41,743 tons (38,996); and silver 2,289,720 fine ounces (2,500,021).

Armchair Farm Group Discloses Huge Deficit

By DAVID OANCIA

LONDON (CP) — The Livestock Group of "armchair farmers" meeting Monday discclosed a deficit of $361,081 at a stormy meeting of investigators in London.

The group was launched three years ago by Switzerland-born Norman Mascall, 32, for persons who wanted to put money into pig-rearing at farms in various parts of Britain.

More than 200 persons gathered to hear about the losses suffered by the group. They heard a brisk - spoken Mascall as he felt there was still a great profit for the scheme.

Lionel Citroen, a London accountant, produced a financial report and said that since the group was clearly insolvent it should be wound up.

The deficiency was said to be $361,081, including a trading loss over the last three years that was put at £384,467.

Investors in the two schemes run by the group—one for store pigs and another for sow-breeding — were reported to have more, than £1,200,000 due to them under contracts.

ESTIMATE ASSETS

The group's assets were said to be about £344,000, including farms valued at roughly £104,000.

Angry scenes followed the accountant's report on creditors and investors shouted questions at Mascall.

Order was not restored until chartered accountant Kenneth Russell Cork, nominated to act as the companies liquidator, got to his feet.

Cork said he could not possibly forecast what sort of a dividend creditors would get, but he warned of the possibility of a battle for assets.

Mascall's farming plan was twofold. One was that a person could pay £20 towards the cost and maintenance of a store pig and would get a £3 profit after 12 months with his investment intact.

The other scheme provided for a £3 profit in a similar way on breeding sows with the investment staying intact.

Last weekend it became known that an Ontario man—Maurice Theriault of Port Credit —had asked the courts to appoint a receiver of the partnership assets of Southern Livestock Producers Limited. Theriault brought the motion against Mascall, his wife and company.

ADJOURNS ACTION

Mr. Justice Pennycuick Friday adjourned the action for a further seven days.

Mascall earlier this year invested in Dome Press, which published Topic, a weekly news magazine. Dome Press recently went into voluntary liquidation.

A new company, not associated with Dome, was formed to keep the publication.

Cornerstone of New Melrose United Church Truly Laid By Conference President

On Sunday a large crowd of present and former members of the congregation, leaders in church and government, and friends were in attendance at Melrose when Dr. Elias Andrew Rondeau, B.D., Ph.D., Litt. D., president of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada and principal of Queen's University Theological College, Kingston, officiated at the cornerstone laying service of the new Melrose United Church on the Shannonville circuit.

Dr. Andrews in his address said that it was with deep regret in the news of the tragic fire which had destroyed Melrose Church in January, had been received; but now it was with joy he expressed congratulations to the student minister, Mr. Douglas L. Steven and the congregation on the speedy planning and work, the results of which can be seen today, showing the walls of a new house in which to carry on worship in the near future.

He reminded all that they must think of the church, not as a building, but as the people, the foundation being the apostles and prophets with Jesus Christ as the chief cornerstone.

In closing, Dr. Andrews stated that one should be steadfast and unmoved, realizing that his labor is not in vain in the eyes of the Lord.

Assisting Dr. Andrews in the cornerstone laying were Mr. Steven, minister of the church; Mr. Jack McFarlane, chairman of the building committee and Mr. Jack Kent, building superintendent.

OTHER SPEAKERS

Other speakers included the Rev. H. M. Davis, B.A., ministry of Bridge St. United Church, Belleville, representing the Belleville Presbytery; Mr. Alfred Poulter, supervising pastor of Melrose United Church, who gave the invocation; Mr. Grills, M.P.; Clarke T. Rollins, M.P.P.; Mr. Ross Thompson, of Hastings Warden and Charles Long, Reeve of Tyendinaga Township.

During the service Mrs. J. C. Mitchell read a history of the church.

Melrose United Church came into being on June 10, 1925, when the congregations of the Methodist Church founded in 1864, and the Presbyterian Church founded in 1888, were united into one.

The congregations worshipped in the former Presbyterian Church, a landmark in the community, until on the night of January 15, 1962, tragedy struck when it was completely destroyed by fire.

The Christian foundation of the church had been well laid, in past years and the congregation immediately decided to rebuild. Committees were formed for planning, financing and building. Plans were made to build on the same site, a modern brick church, 36'x70', with seating capacity of 200; the basement with accommodation for Christian education, and kitchen facilities.

These plans were put into action in a few weeks. The new building, which was held on Sunday, April 22, Actual work commenced immediately and progressed amazingly well with much volunteer labor.

Nikita Places Russia on Side Of Red China

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has warned that "the whole socialist camp" would be on the side of Communist China if it were invaded by Nationalist China.

He who dares to attack the People's Republic of China will meet with a crushing rebuff from the great Chinese people, the peoples of the Soviet Union, the entire socialist camp," he said.

"And let no one have any doubts on this score."

Khrushchev made a 32-minute radio and television speech amid reports of a continuing buildup of Communist air, land and sea forces on the south coast of Red China opposite the Nationalist-held island of Formosa.

His references to China were the warmest used by a Soviet leader in a year or more, since the Sino-Soviet split on Marxist-Leninist ideology.

Britain Should Not Enter Common Market Opinion Of Ottawa Journal Pres.

LONDON (CP)—M. Grattan O'Leary, president and publisher of the Ottawa Journal, says Britain should not enter the Common Market but if she decides she must join it "then God bless her."

O'Leary, guest speaker at the Canada Club's Dominion Day dinner, said Monday night that if Britain does join, millions throughout the Commonwealth and "millions of Canadians" will feel "that the Commonwealth is not the same."

The links with the Commonwealth stands for are more important than the amount of money in the exchequer," he said in a table-thumping speech before the more than 1,000 men attending the annual dinner.

O'Leary said he was "astonished" by the weekend speech of labor minister George Brown, who said the Commonwealth countries were "behaving in some cases like children" over Britain's Common Market proposals.

SPEECH ASTONISHES

His astonishment was all the greater, he said, because Prime Minister Macmillan, Edward Heath, the lord privy seal and chief British negotiator, and the United Kingdom high commissioner in Canada had "agreed us all along" that "our position was perfectly right and fair."

British leaders had said, in effect, that "we would be false to our obligations to the Commonwealth if we did not speak up."

"We say to Britain, 'You make the decision.' But we also say we must have the right to say what will be the effect on the Commonwealth."

Britain should have no illusions. The Commonwealth, he said, "is not a common market but an instrument to secure political links in Europe."

George Drew, Canadian high commissioner in London, who presided at the dinner, said in introducing O'Leary that he was "by far the most experienced member of the Canadian press today.

"He represents the best in the life of the press of Canada. No one has ever been in any country where Grattan O'Leary stood."

O'Leary, referring to recent developments in Canada, said that British newspapers had concentrated on two points—the valuation of the Canadian dollar, and the new austerity measures.

British papers, he said, have turned the situation a "cruel trophe."

This, he said, is "distortion." Canada was entering "a period of self-examination" and this was "good for our bodies and our souls."

I has become apparent that Macmillan will face questioning in the House of Commons about the speech by Hare.

Labor MP John Stonehouse already has said he will ask the prime minister whether Hare's words represent government policy. There is speculation that other MP's may ask Macmillan to discipline Hare.

The labor minister, in speech in Suffolk Saturday, said the Commonwealth countries were quite happy while they were getting their own way but became aggrieved when "mother" decided to do what she thought was right.

SAYS IS RIGHT

The Daily Sketch in an editorial says that although Hare "may get into hot water for it" he is right in saying what he did.

But The Daily Mirror comments:

"What preposterous poppycock! What bitterness and nonsense! What conde scending drivel!

"No, the Australians, the Canadians and the New Zealanders are like being referred to as petulant children? Would you? Would Mr. John Hare?

There has been a good deal of criticism among conservative members of country that term the one-sided attitude of Canada, Australia and New Zealand has been "unnatural" lately. But Hare's speech represents the most open show of disapproval ever voiced by a cabinet minister.

New Austerity Plan Praised By Diefenbaker

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has come through each of its greatest tests with greater strength, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said in a Dominion Day message.

In an apparent reference to his government's new austerity program, Mr. Diefenbaker said Sunday:

"From time to time since Confederation the cross-currents of world trade and finance, there have been threats to Canada's survival as an independent nation, and it is the glory of the Canadian story that in each of these tests Canada has come through with greater strength."

The prime minister said that on the 95th anniversary of Confederation "we can truly appeal to Canada the stirring tribute of a great English poet to his own land: 'All our past proclaims our future.'"

"This is a time not for little fears but for each to be rededicated to the spirit and courage that has made this nation what it is today," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

"As Canadians let us resolve that in everything we say or do we will think first of Canada and will make a personal and constructive contribution to the attainment of Canada's destiny as one of the great nations of the world."

Suns Beat Leafs Twice, Bisons Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Home town boy makes good at home.

That was the theme in the International League Monday night, but many Leaf baseball fans wish that Ron Taylor, a Toronto native had picked somewhere else to win his fourth game in five decisions.

Taylor, sent down by the Cleveland Indians, led the Jacksonville Suns to a 4-1, 2-0, doubleheader win over the Toronto Maple Leafs with a six hitter in the opener. The twin win opened a 7½ game league lead for the Suns over the second place Leafs, who had won the first three of a six-game set in the battle for the lead before dropping the last trio.

Orlando Pena batted Taylor home in the wire in the opener, leaving after eight innings for a pinch hitter with the score tied at 1-1. The Suns shoved over three runs in the ninth off Russ Heman, who took the loss —his second in two days—and Carl Greene, Harry Chiti, Tony Martinez and Larry Brown drove the Suns runs home.

GETS HOMER

A two-run homer by Mike de la Hoz in the top of the seventh brought the Suns from behind for their second game triumph. Ken Lehman got the win and Ron Piche, from Verdun, Quebec, took the loss, his first since his arrival from the Milwaukee Braves.

Buffalo took advantage of the double loss to move within a half game of the Leafs, by burying the Atlanta Crackers, 16-4, on 19 hits including three homers. Joe Gibson gave up five hits for the Bisons, and got four himself on the way to his first victory.

The Rochester Red Wings, the fourth place club, took advantage of the errors by the Richmond Virginians for four unearned runs and a 6-3 win. Ben Maleosky sparkled for the V's, with his sixth home run in his last six games. Maleosky now has 17 homers for the year, and 18 hits in his last 26 plate appearances.

The loss dropped Richmond into the cellar, as the Syracuse Chiefs took a 4-3 victory from the Columbus Jets in a game called at the end of the fifth inning when a gazebo-long drizzle developed into a heavy rain.

Syracuse picked up three runs in the first on a walk, Ed Bouchee's triple and John Glenn's 11th homer of the season. Joe McClain got the win.

PICK TEAM

MOSCOW (AP)—A fifteen-member team, studded with Olympic champions and world record-holders, was named by Russia Monday to face the United States in their track and field dual meet at Palo Alto, Calif., July 2-22. Forty-four men and 17 women were picked for a resumption of the international rivalry between the two nations who have battled for top honors in the Olympic Games.

Tosses No-Hitter Saturday

Koufax Could Break Feller Mark

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The no-hitter Sandy Koufax pitched during the weekend may be only his second greatest achievement this year.

At the rate he's going, the 25-year-old Los Angeles Dodgers lefthander leads a good chance of turning a trick far more extraordinary than holding New York Mets hitless for nine innings.

More than 100 no-hitters have been pitched in the major leagues since 1900. But few pitchers have ever even approached Bob Feller's record for strikeouts in a single season.

Koufax could break that record this year.

Feller, the only major leaguer besides Koufax to fan 18 in one game, set the one-season strikeout record in 1946. In 371 innings, he fanned 348.

CAN PASS IT

With the 1962 season half over for the Dodgers, Koufax has struck out 183 in 150 1-3 innings. If he can match these figures in the second half of the season, he'll finish with 366 strikeouts. And he won't have pitched as many innings as Feller did for Cleveland Indians in 1946.

Koufax, who has won 11 of 13 decisions this year, fanned 13 in his brilliant performance against the Mets Saturday night.

He came close to losing the no-hitter three times. In the second inning, shortstop Maury Wills made a fine backhanded stop of a hard grounder by Frank Thomas and just got the ball to first in time for the out.

In the sixth, Richie Ashburn hit a liner to left and Tommy Davis, after losing the ball momentarily in the lights, made a good running catch.

In the ninth, Ashburn shot another line drive toward left. But it fell foul by five or six feet.

GETS NEW CONTRACT

Moments after the game ended, Dodgers president Walter O'Malley had the following command flashed on the message board:

"Koufax, report to (general manager) Buzzie Bavasi and have your contract torn up."

BELLEVILLE 2; LATTA 11

Latta snapped a 2-2 deadlock with a nine-run outburst in the eighth inning to whip the Belleville Printers 11-3 on Sunday afternoon.

Latta plated their first two runs, one at a time, in the second and third innings Sunday while Belleville scored twice in the fourth. The contest remained tied then until the 8th inning. Latta went up. Five errors by the losers and perfect fielding by the winners contributed to the scoring spread.

K. Buskard started on the Latta hill and gave way to H. Meeks in the seventh. They allowed just four hits over six innings, while Ashburn struck out 12 and walking ten.

Bob Boyle, with relief help from Earl in the eighth, toiled for the Printers. They allowed five hits, whiffed eight and walked five.

Bob Sullivan powered a double to spark the Latta attack. Singles went to Mr. Parks, J. Hassard, Buskard and Frank Ray.

Chief Donovan Halts Indians' Skid

Yanks, Angels Share Top

By DON GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Subtract Dick Donovan from Cleveland and the Indians could be Rounders' tenants in the second division of the American League race.

As it is, the Indians are just half a game off the pace being set by New York Yankees and Los Angeles Angels.

The Indians, in the throes of a five-game losing string that had knocked them out of first place, called on Donovan to be the stopper Monday night.

The tall righthander, acquired in an off-season trade that sent fiery Jim Piersall to Washington, came through, responded with a brilliant two-hit, 3-0 triumph over Baltimore Orioles in which he struck out the minimum 27 batters.

The victory pushed Donovan's record to 13-3, which, subtracted from the Indians' 43-34 season mark, would put Cleveland below .500 and in seventh place.

HOLD ONTO FIRST

The Yankees beat Kansas City Athletics, 5-4, and the Angels edged Washington 2-1. The Yankee have a .004 percentage point on first place.

Southpaw Ted Bowsfield (3-3) of Victoria, B.C., distinguished himself Saturday as he led the Angels to a 5-3 triumph over the Yankees. It was the first win for the Angels in Yankee Stadium.

In other Saturday action, Washington edged Minnesota 1-0, Chicago United Cleveland 7-0 and Boston defeated Kansas City 12-3. Detroit and Baltimore split a doubleheader. Baltimore won the first game 6-3 and season.

Flyers Wallop Juniors

By GARRY ALEXANDER
(Staff Sportswriter)

RCAF Flyers exploded for seven runs in the eighth inning here last night to break up a close-cutting, see-saw battle and defeat Bollins Juniors 14-9.

The Juniors visit Joyce Real Estate at the Fairgrounds tonight at eight.

The lead changed hands several times. Bollins held 1-0, 6-3 and 9-7 leads while the Flyers had been in front 3-1 and 7-6 before they wrapped it up.

The Juniors were in front 9-7 entering the eighth but Mittinger, an error and a fielder's choice, one of several plays that left infield arguments between Kelleher and the Juniors, loaded the bases. McDonald singled to score two runs. A hit batter filled the bases again and Mowatt bounced one down the middle. His hit drove in two runs and another scored on an error. Drake singled home another and a wild pitch made it 14-9.

During the best of the innings Kelleher ejected Bollins catcher Billy McGinley for arguing. The official also warned coach Marcel Reid and several other Bollins players.

Kerley in the game began Drake has clouted a three-run homer to get the Flyers in front 9-6 in the third. Walker was filled in the early

Pepsi's Defeat Pointers

Mike Stubbert smashed a solo homer in the bottom of the tenth inning last night to give the Pepsi's a 7-6 win over Point Anne at the CNRA Park.

The Pepsi's had jumped into an early 5-1 lead but the Canuntsen pocked away, and finally tied it all in the seventh and final regulation inning. Then Stubbert's four-bagger settled it in the third extra frame.

Joe Harvey pitched the full ten innings to get the victory. He gave up seven hits, struck out four and walked a pair.

Dave Feeney gashed for the Pointers but never shaked for five Pepsi runs off four hits and a pair of walks and was replaced by Denny Hull in the opening frame. Hull allowed four hits over the remainder, whiffing one and passing four.

Stubbert's winning homer was the only extra-base hit by the winners as Fernando and Rich Young each had two singles. Bob Moon, Al Deeper and Turkcott had a hit apiece.

Ron Hull belted a home run and a single for three safeties while Marscle and Horwood hit doubles. Jim Sheriden, Bert Whalen and Mike Cook had singles.

KILLED IN CRASH

LANGHORNE, Pa. (AP)—Hugh Randall, 39, of Louisville, Ky., was killed Sunday when his car flipped over on the 59th lap of Langhorne Speedway's 100-mile championship for Indianapolis cars and drivers. The race was won by veteran A. J. Foyt who led all the way.

Take Pair From Phils

Dodgers Back on Top, Giants Beaten

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Consider the problem of National League pitchers.

Each can tie a modern major league record by striking out eight consecutive batters and burl perfect ball for 6 2-3 innings, till he is unable to hurl a full inning of baseball.

That situation confronted Los Angeles Dodgers when they regained first place in the league Monday night by whipping Philadelphia Phillies 5-1 and 4-0 behind the sparkling pitching of Bob Purkey and Ron Perranoski.

Purkey, who tied the record set by Max Surkont of Milwaukee Braves in 1953, and had a perfect game until two men were out in the seventh inning, was in trouble only in the seventh inning when he was stanching under a shower.

The 29-year-old southpaw's great inability to go the distance extends through 10 straight games. With an 18-5 record this season, he was expected to be his biggest season ever. Monday night's triumph was only his fourth in 10 decisions.

Perranoski, on the other hand, came through with a seven-hitter and his first complete game since April 30.

The wins, coupled with San Francisco's 4-3 victory over New York Mets, put the Dodgers back on top again by a full game over the Giants. The Mets' victory went to lefthander Tom Sisk, pitching for Duke Snider, Bay, Ont.

Sisk's relief pitching—for the second time in three nights—by Claude Raymond of St. Johns, Que., and a grand-slam home run by Eddie Mathews put Milwaukee Braves in a 7-3 win over St. Louis Cardinals.

Pittsburgh Pirates used a five-run single by Bob Skinner that touched off a heated dispute to beat Houston Colts 6-4. Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds split a doubleheader, The Reds won 5-3 and lost 4-2.

Saturday action was highlighted by a 5-0 no-hitter fired by Don Drysdale of Los Angeles Dodgers over New York Mets. Milwaukee beat Chicago 5-3, with Raymond's clutch relief saving the game for veteran Warren Spahn. Houston defeated Cincinnati 7-3, San Francisco overpowered Philadelphia 8-3 and Pittsburgh swamped St. Louis 17-7.

San Francisco edged Philadelphia 3-2 Sunday, Los Angeles downed New York 5-1, Milwaukee shut out Chicago 1-0, Pittsburgh beat St. Louis 7-2 and Cincinnati took a 6-1 decision from Houston.

Savage also followed with a single to centre the first Philadelphia hit. Four more hits came through with a seven-hitter and his first complete game since April 30.

The 22-year-old southpaw's great inability to go the distance extends through 10 straight games. With an 18-5 record this season, he was expected to be his biggest season ever. Monday night's triumph was only his fourth in 10 decisions.

"Ted could do it for a year, but I suspect he will have to personal problems a week from his district which he will have quire a lot of leg work."

But, added Meeker, who later coached the Leafs; playing hockey is a "wonderful in for a politician.

"After a big game, a cabinet minister would look over at me, then come over and say 'you couldn't beat the Rockets (Maurice Richard last night, eh' and spend a few minutes reviewing the game."

Meeker was on the opposition side of the house, just as Kelly now is.

Meeker found that "all the cabinet ministers want to talk to you, which gives you an advantage that most private members just don't get."

Freedom of the Press

What precisely is meant by that familiar phrase, "freedom of the press"?

Fundamentally it is not a special privilege reserved for newspaper publishers. It is rather a phase of a larger freedom — the freedom of all men to speak their minds openly and without fear. The press claims no right which should not belong to every citizen in a democracy. But freedom of the press is an all-important part of this larger freedom because under modern conditions, the press is the principal agency by which the ordinary citizen receives the information he needs to judge the actions of his rulers and make up his mind on public affairs. Without newspapers, or with only gagged and blindfolded ones, he is in the dark, and helpless. An unfettered press is therefore one of the essential bulwarks of a democratic nation.

If any proof be needed, it is supplied by the record of the totalitarian dictatorships which have darkened the twentieth century. Rigid control of all sources of public information, and especially of newspapers, was the cornerstone on which all these governments — Nazi, Fascist and Communist alike — were founded. Without it, they could hardly have lasted for more than a few months. With it, they could keep their peoples in blinkers and drive them on any course they chose. The catastrophes of our age, its wars and its cruelties, are the result and measure from the simple fact that at critical periods great sections of the earth's population have been prevented by their rulers from learning the real news of the world.

These examples should provide a warning against any attempt, by governments or by private interests, to restrict the essential freedom of the press. A free people must stand on guard not only against direct censorship but also against more insidious encroachments. Nominal freedom is not enough. The only truly free press is one which can record the news faithfully and comment on it frankly without fear of direct or indirect punishment. Neither the press nor the public is safe while anything less than this.

Liberty, of course, involves obligations. That of a free newspaper is to be truly free. It must be thorough, accurate and unbiased in its reporting, sincere and thoughtful in its editorials, and resistant to all outside pressure. It must be both cautious and bold—cautious until it knows all the facts, bold when it is sure of its ground. It must, above all, be inspired by devotion to the public welfare as its staff understands it.

Such a newspaper is worthy of the privileges which the free peoples of the world have traditionally granted to their press. Such a newspaper is also the best guardian of the liberties of the people.

Legion Orders Float Taken Out of Parade

BIG RIVER, Sask. (CP)— A float bearing a figure of a doctor hanging on a gallows appeared in a sports day parade here Saturday but was quickly withdrawn while the parade was in progress.

A sign on one side of the float said "Doctor pain. Business hours from 1:00-1:15 p.m." On the other side was a sign, reading "good - bye cruel Saskatchewan."

The float was to have been the entry in the town-sponsored parade of the women's auxiliary of the Canadian Legion branch but was the work of one individual who had undertaken the job of preparing a float, a spokesman said. Other members were not aware of its nature prior to the parade.

The legion ordered the float withdrawn from the parade.

Albert Hanum, legion branch president, said the float was the work of "an individual who refuses to take full responsibility for what is a personal mistake."

Minister Hits Anti-Semites In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Interior Minister Cesar Adroque Monday night assailed the upsurge of anti-semitic attacks in Argentina, saying it is high time the government made clear it will not tolerate illegal use of freedom.

Adroque told reporters he will issue a full statement today on the recent attacks on Jews and Jewish organizations in retaliation for the execution of Adolf Eichmann.

Adroque said he knew nothing about reports that Capt. Richard Green, the federal police chief, had resigned.

Green, a retired naval officer, had been severely criticized for denying charges that two young Jews were in a cell and beaten and branded with swastikas. Later the government admitted that at least one of the Jews, a university co-ed, had had a swastika cut in her breast.

LAND-ROVER LONG WHEELBASE PICKUP HAS MANY USES ON THE FARM—The British "go-anywhere" four-wheel drive Series II Land-Rover is available with either 88" or 109" wheelbase and 2¼ litre overhead valve gasoline or diesel engine. The Land-Rover has a non-rusting, non-corrosive body of Canadian aluminum alloy with easily replaceable panel construction, in hardtop, canvas top, station wagon and pick-up models. Rear suspension has springs mounted on sturdy outrigged brackets for greater stability and balanced ride. The front seat accommodates three passengers in comfort. The Land-Rover's versatility is aided by a transfer gearbox which, with the main gearbox, gives eight forward speeds and two in reverse. The vehicle has front, centre and rear power take-off points. The Mark III Kodiak heater, developed by the North American company to meet Arctic cold conditions, is now available, giving extremely high output.

Demonstrations will be held by Trudeau Motors on the farm of Clarence Hay, Redneerville Road, on Wednesday, July 4th, at 2.30 p.m.

Report Cuban Guerrillas Stage Landing

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The leader of an anti-Castro organization said Monday night "20 specially-trained guerrilla experts this morning penetrated Cuba's coastal defences to land in the province of Matanzas."

Frank Fiorini, the Cuban exile who said he heads the International Anti-Communist brigade, said an all-Cuban exile group made a landing from a 40-foot boat on the northern coast of the province, east of Havana, "to support and extend anti-Castro uprisings in that area."

Matanzas has become a trouble spot for the Castro regime, which sent troops recently to Cardenas to cope with anti-government demonstrators. Cuban rebel sources have said clashes between Castro troops and guerrillas have increased in the Matanzas area.

Fiorini said Monday's expedition set out from territory outside the United States.

Fiorini has been identified for many years with efforts in collaboration with Cuban exiles to oust the Castro government. For more than a month, he fought in the courts and in immigration service hearings to retain United States citizenship after it was questioned by immigration officials who claimed he forfeited citizenship by activities outside U.S. territory.

Algeria's Long Night Ends But Brighter Day Remote

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Algeria's long night ends, but the brighter day still seems remote.

With the coming of independence, Moslem jubilation is shadowed by the prospect of economic difficulties and growling signs of a power struggle among the leaders who fought so long to throw off French rule.

Yet there may be grounds for hope. Despite the scars of a bitter 7½-year war, despite unspeakable atrocities, despite the daily exodus of Europeans whose skills are sorely needed in the new Algeria, there is just a possibility of a genuine reconciliation between the two communities.

It is perhaps not wholly farfetched to imagine that this shotgun wedding, achieved after such heartbreak and despair, may finally end happily—more or less—ever after.

LOVE-HATE DRAMA

There has always been an element of love-hate in the relationship. If the Moslems can show they are ready to forget the past, surprises may be in store for those who see calamity ahead.

For the Europeans love their adopted country. The powerful emotional appeal of Algeria played a big part in the term "Algerie Francaise" mystique.

Jules Roy, Algerian - born former French soldier who sadly turned against his countrymen and supported Moslem independence, writers with special understanding of European feelings. He uses the word "visceral" vividly to describe the kind of organic, body-and-soul attachment that binds the settlers to Algeria.

France has given so much of itself in good and in evil, has suffered so much from atrocities it had committed or allowed to be committed, has become so impregnated by its subject civilizations, that people are emerging from its tutelage set it in a special light, Daniel writes.

"Thus the rape of Algeria has involved a violent passionate embrace, and a kind of union has been imposed."

MOSLEMS HOLD KEY

Much now depends on the Moslems. So far they have shown an almost saintly restraint under extreme provocation. But every Moslem family has been deeply affected by the long struggle, and the temptations for vengeance may be too powerful to resist. If so, individual acts of fanaticism will keep the cycle of violence and retaliation going long enough to create the panic flight of Europeans.

Adenauer Begins Talks With Gen. de Gaulle

PARIS (Reuters) — Konrad Adenauer, West German chancellor, met President de Gaulle today for talks on the next step in the political integration of the Common Market.

De Gaulle was on the steps of the Elysee Palace when Adenauer arrived for the first of three meetings they were scheduled to have during the chancellor's week-long state visit.

West German officials said Adenauer would press his case that greater progress on Europe's union was necessary now, without waiting to see whether Britain joins the Common Market or not.

Talks on a political union of the six member nations under Franco-German have been deadlocked since last April because Dutch and Belgian delegates oppose French plans for a loose confederation of states — and want a decision deferred until Britain's role in it is better known.

Adenauer received a warm welcome Monday from crowds of Frenchmen lining the route from the airport into Paris.

But at the Porte dOrleans in the west end police arrested 20 rioters, eggs, and cries of "de Gaulle in Paris" from organized demonstrators in the crowd.

Mouth-to-Mouth Respiration Saves Child

PETERBOROUGH (CP) Frank Jamieson, a Bowmanville businessman said to have had no formal training in artificial respiration, was credited Monday with saving the life of one-year-old John Lang, grandson of Judge H. D. Lang of Perth County.

Jamieson ran from his cottage on Napier Creek, about 20 miles northwest of Bobcaygeon, and applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to the infant after the child was pulled unconscious from the creek into which he had fallen from his stroller.

The child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Lang of St. Marys, were on a sundeck of a boat house at the time of the accident.

Jamieson worked for about eight minutes before the child recovered.

Price Increase Will Apply To New Stock

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario imbibers, sometime around the middle of this month, will be hit with a price increase on imported products handled by the Ontario Liquor Control Board.

Liquor Commissioner Allan Grossman said Monday the increase, made necessary by the provincial government surcharge on imports, will apply only to new stocks of spirits on which the new tax is paid by the commission.

Mr. Grossman said the increase will be considerably less than the 25 per cent recently announced by British Columbia's Last week he was quoted as saying it would also be less than the four-to-eight-per-cent jump announced in Quebec.

He said Monday the delay in implementing new prices was due in part to an attempt by one domestic distiller to raise his price to the commission.

The distiller withdrew said this defeats the purpose of the surcharge.

He also noted some evidence of stockpiling and panic-buying, but said the increases will not be large enough to make such action worthwhile.

99.6 Per Cent Vote in Favor Of Independence

ROCHER - NOIR, Algeria (AP)—Algeria's first self - determination referendum officially announced today, showed that 90.6 per cent voted for independence and co-operation with France.

The announcement was made at the administrative capital of Rocher-Noir, 30 miles east of Algiers, by Saddouk Saior, president of the control commission for Sunday's referendum.

There was no breakdown into Moslem and European votes.

The voters had one choice—to say "yes" or "no" to the question:

"Do you want Algeria to become an independent state cooperating with France under the terms of the agreements of March 19, 1962?"

The tabulation of the results: Registered voters, 6,540,736; votes cast, 6,017,080; spoiled ballots, 23,365; valid votes, 5,992,115; yes 5,975,381, no 16,734.

Shriners Take Over Toronto For Big Party

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto has been propelled into a definitely boozy orbit of fez-topped gentlemen bent on letting off a little steam. Or maybe a lot of steam.

The city has been mobbed by upwards of 50,000 Shriners and their wives.

The Shriners started arriving here last Saturday for the 1962 Shrine convention. It was fairly quiet then, but things really started to hum during the week-end.

The partying, dancing, hooting and howling started in a big way Monday and carried on into today's early hours. Downtown bars rocked and Shriners took rambunctious delight in turning into drinking establishments, ordering drinks and then disappearing out of style.

Several bands blared jumptunes outside hotels and on downtown street corners. When one band left, it was to join another, things became plain noisy.

Things then settled down for a couple of hours. It was the lull before the storm.

The Shriners had a mammoth parade set for today that promised to bring out police kingsized headaches.

The parade will cover two miles of streets and will take hours to pass any one point. An emergency force of 700 policemen was on hand.

The Shriners, banned from holding conventions in certain United States cities, came from throughout North America and overseas. They filled the accommodation in Toronto and cities up to 90 miles away.

Briton, Russian To Settle Rest Of Laos Issues

GENEVA (AP) — The 14-nation Laotian conference decided to thresh out its few remaining differences in private after the United States and Communist China clashed over U.S. troops in Thailand at Monday's opening session.

Delegates agreed unanimously to leave the remaining issues to the conference cochairmen, Britain's Malcolm Macdonald and Russia's George Pushkin, to avert any more open squabbles that could jar the last peace accords. This policy was followed until the talks were halted five months ago.

The Western powers are hopeful that if things go smoothly, the delegates can complete a treaty in two or three weeks to guarantee the neutrality and independence of the Southeast Asian kingdom.

Red Chinese delegate Chang Han Fu accused the United States of heightening tensions in Southeast Asia by sending troops to Thailand and by "armed intervention" in South Viet Nam and the Formose Strait.

Hoang Nguyen, North Viet-Namese delegate, charged that the accusations of the conference was "seriously threatened by the presence of U.S. troops in Thailand."

W. Averell Harriman, U.S. assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, protested that the Communists had broken conference rules by bringing up issues not involving Laos.

RESCUE THREE

BRANTFORD (CP) — Two men and a boy drifted for several hours on Lake Erie Sunday before they were spotted by a private launch plane. Robert Stewart of St. Thomas and Bill Whitney and Bruce Campbell, 12, both of London, Ont., were left helpless when their outboard motor ran out of gasoline. The Long Point lightkeeper's wife granted them the boat and it made its own way back to port.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching In Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of over 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anaesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a world famous scientific clinic. Already, Bio-Dyne is in use in over 100 leading hospital clinics on all parts of the body.

The new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Astrological Forecast

For July 4
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Relax today. If you try hard to please others you may be slapped with resentment. Pleasing yourself is best course. Be natural. Utilize common-sense rules.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): On this day, for you as individual, Independence comes when you face facts squarely. Until then you delay freedom. Analyze what must be accomplished. Think out your plans.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): One you trust means well. But the responsibility, the "debts" fall on your shoulders. Learn to distinguish between "gags" and real thing. It's time to grow up.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Yes, romance is fine — — so are picnics, relaxation, compliments. But on close to you requires something more solid. Stop feeling sorry for yourself, and give!

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): You can no longer permit problems to "hang." Face situation as it exists. Sing no more satisfying lullabies. Let harsh tones ring out, then "mute" them through direct action.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23): Trying to "peek" through clouds gives you only partial view. Strive for direct, clear truth. Let chips fall where they may! Thus, you gain respect from others, and from yourself.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23): A feeling of restriction should not be regarded as symbol for discouragement. Rather, it's a tip to watch budget, entertainment, to tie up loose ends professionally — — — and emotionally.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Day could prove hectic, featuring possible arguments with "favorite" person. But later there are apologies, expressions of gratitude. Be patient and understanding!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Favorable lunar aspect today continues to indicate you have tremendous capacity to perceive future possibilities. Trust your own judgment. So-called experts may be wrong.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): What you say may have much to do with what others think. Realize this before making careless statements. Remember others have pride.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Independence is spotlighted. But just how you go about obtaining freedom of action is very important. Don't be foolish. Control yourself, let others make first move.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Strive to show family, loved ones that you desire to return favors, past considerations. Do so by demonstration of generosity, and by some sign of self-sacrifice.

"Y" DAY CAMP READY — Camp Director Dennis Julian and Elaine Lindenfield, crafts director, check over a few of the many boxes full of gear and supplies for the 1962 YMCA Day Camp at Oak Lake, which opened the outdoors for many Belleville boys this morning.

'Y' Day Camp at Oak Lake Opens for Summer Season

The 1962 YMCA Day Camp opened up its doors, or outdoors, to local lads bright and early this morning. The opening was the culmination of many weeks of work on the Oak Lake site and buildings by YMCA staff members, Y's Men's Club members and the Day Camp staff members and counsellors.

Last Saturday saw the wind-up of preparations which included cleaning up the waterfront, finishing off the laying of the new sand bottom for the swimming area, the installation of new moorings for the dock, generally cleaning up the camp area and the checking out of the equipment and gear for the first of three waves of campers.

The present camp lasts until July 26th, followed by a girls' camp from July 16th to 28th. This year will mark the first time for a mixed camp when a boys' and girls' camp gets underway on July 30th to handle the many who could not be accommodated during the first two camps.

This third camp will be composed in the ratio of two boys for every girl with the appropriate ratio of counsellors to take care of them. Over 50 are registered for this camp now as the Y's Men's Club members and the YMCA secretary Di Diamantides but there are still a few more spots open.

Directing the camp activities again this year will be Dennis Julian, who has been camp director for the past three years. He will be assisted by Carol Hickson as waterfront director and Elaine Lindenfield as craft director. Boys' camp counsellors are Murray Swan, David Anderson, Richard Doocvao, David Hickson, Paul Trudeau and John Woodley whilst the girls' camp will be staffed by Helen Addy, Sheryn Bagnell, Eleanor Boyd, Barbara Horton, Janice Allison and Katherine Gist.

The counsellors received an orientation course last Saturday morning before swinging into assisting the Y's Men on camp improvements in the afternoon. With the elimination of some of the older, unused structures on the property and the provision of electricity in some of the other buildings the camp facilities have once again experienced an improvement over the previous year.

These modern conveniences, coupled with an enthusiastic staff and the many benefits of the great outdoors should make the "Y" Day Camp a memorable and happy event for many Belleville children this summer.

Saturday was the first day of the bass fishing season, and Bob Lucy and Mike Cooper, both of Belleville, were on the bit. The bass bit too, seven of them, to be exact. Total weight of their catch was about 18 pounds. The bait was minnows, the location was "near Nigger Narrows."

FOUND SLAIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Jesse Gomez Routle, 39, a reporter and interpreter at the United Nations for Puerto Rican radio stations, was found slain Monday in his room at a Queens YMCA, police reported. He was tied to a bed, gagged and stabbed, and an attempt had been made to strangle him—apparently with a wire coat hanger that was twisted around his neck, officers said. They suspected robbery as a motive.

Egg Making Comeback in Great Britain

LONDON (AP)—The egg is making a comeback as a political weapon in Britain. One veteran politician welcomes it as a means of livening up debates.

Tuesday people were arrested Sunday when a crowd of 2,000 jeered leaders of the Fascist National Socialist Movement with eggs and other missiles in London's Trafalgar Square.

The missiles in Pembroke reportedly included turkey and full eggs. Some observers took this as evidence of Britain's widespread prosperity.

Emanuel Shinwell, a Labor party veteran and government minister in the Attlee government, welcomed the return to popularity of the egg as a political missile.

"I used to enjoy it," he said of the days when eggs and not eggheads were part of the political scene. "Things are so dull nowadays. Someone should throw an egg in the House of Commons."

Laotian Govt. Accepts Aid Of Soviet Union

VIENTIANE (AP)—The new Laotian coalition government gave tentative approval Monday to a $600,000 aid offer from the Soviet Union and decided to establish five more consular countries.

The acting premier, pro-Communist Prince Souphanouvong, told a meeting of government ministers that the Russian coalition regime will accept "unconditional aid" from all countries.

The United States announced following the signing of the coalition regime that it was resuming its monthly $2,000,000 aid payments.

The decision to recognize Communist China, Poland, Czechoslovakia, North Viet Nam and East Germany raised the prospect of a break in relations with three anti-Communist regimes.

In Bonn, a West German foreign office spokesman said recognition of the Communist East German regime by Laos would be considered an unfriendly act. The Bonn government severed its ties with Yugoslavia in 1957 when it recognized East Germany.

Day-Long Party In Fine Weather At Ottawa

By the end of the day Monday, more than 20,000 persons had tramped up Parliament Hill to watch a series of events ranging from a military 'march-past to a folk-dance around the cook pot.

The army, navy and air force, plus folk singers from Toronto, a choir from Ottawa and folk dancers from Montreal, had a hand in the festivities.

An estimated 8,000 persons watched the 2nd battalion, Canadian Guards, as they changed the guard on the lawn, a ceremony that will constitute throughout the summer as a tourist attraction.

There was a 21-gun salute, a carillon recital, some sidesplitting jigs, an Indian fance called a shakadone staged around the cooking pot, folk - songs and songs of Canada.

Almost 10,000 persons turned out in the evening for the trooping the colour ceremony and royal salute was taken by Governor-General Vanier.

Yukon Costs Seven Times Old North Star

OTTAWA (CP) — The price tag of an RCAF North Star when the transport plane first went into service was $660,000. The cost of a Yukon, the Transport replacing the North Star, is $6,274,000.

The hourly operating cost of a North Star is $363. The hourly operating cost of a Yukon is $761.

Such comparative figures show, officials say, the difficulties the defence department is having in trying to reduce expenditures as ordered by the government. The cost of equipment, spares and labor goes up about five per cent a year.

Here are some other cost figures for the RCAF, the biggest - spending branch of the armed forces:

The Argus anti - submarine plane cost $4,129,000 compared with $276,000 for the Second World War Lancaster which later served a similar purpose.

CF-35 jet trainers cost $165,000 each compared with $63,000 for Harvards. The CF-104 strike-reconnaissance jet costs $1,510,000 compared with $289,000 for the Sabre jet it will replace.

Two Black Spiders Seen In Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP) — Two large black spiders, believed to be Canada's deadliest, have been found by a Hamilton man.

He jumped back, then rushed at them with a hammer," he said.

The mangled bodies were beyond recognition but were believed to be black widow spiders — the most venomous in North America.

Mr. Ormond reported his find to Professor D. M. Davies of the zoology department at McMaster University.

Professor Davies said the spiders probably were black widows, though none had been reported in the city for several years.

"They are very secretive and mainly live in old outbuildings away from people," he said.

"Their bodies are about half an inch long with a leg span of one and a half inches. A red, hour-glass design is found under their body."

Anyone bitten by one would need treatment very quickly.

Professor Davies said the last report of black widows in any number came from the Bruce Peninsula a few years ago.

More than six-tenths of an inch of rain fell in Belleville Saturday. Most of it seemed to fall at the corner of Dundas and Pinnacle Streets, where a monster puddle slowed traffic. Bill Brooks of Point Anne, and Len Collins of Belleville, employees of a nearby service station, brought out a boat during the storm, in hopes, perhaps, of opening a marina. They've decided against it though. The street is navigable only during rainstorms.

Two Suspected Bandits Killed In Bushland

Another Captured, One Escapes After Robbery

MONTREAL (CP)—Two suspected bandits were dead, another is in police cells and a fourth is believed hiding out in thick bushland some miles northeast of Montreal today following a split-second robbery at a northend branch of the Bank of Montreal.

Dalmas Ferrazi, 29, and Jean Jacques Cournoyer, 35, both ex-convicts, died Tuesday in a hail of police bullets when they tried to escape from a one - storey home in the tiny hamlet of Greenwhich Village, Que.

Under Cournoyer's body, police found a bag containing part of the loot. The total amount was estimated by one officer at $100,000.

At 9:23 a.m., when the night deposits from the long holiday weekend were counted, a hooded bandit smashed the bank's door and jumped inside.

While a second bandit, armed with a Sten gun, held manager Gordon Anderson and 14 employees at gun point, the second bandit scooped the money into a large cardboard box.

JUMP INTO CAR

The pair then jumped into a car, which two other men there believed to have been waiting, and drove off.

"It was a real situation, one minute," said Mr. Anderson.

The bandits evaded a Montreal roadblock and the search was on. Tuesday the Terrebonne police spotted an automobile answering the same license plates as the getaway car and decided the man identified as Jacques Cournoyer.

Gendreau told them he had been sent to buy beer for a group of men at a cottage in Greenwich Village and, within minutes, the bandit-hunting force rounded by 80 Montreal police and six provincial police officers.

After police gave a warning shot, Ferrazi ran from the cottage. They had smashed the door and jumped the three feet to the ground.

A short chase followed. Two of the men were shot down in a nearby clearing and a third man, identified as Roland Berthiaume, 24, threw up his hands to surrender.

INCLUDES SECURITY MAN

Police also stakeout included Joe Bedard, a Montreal man retired as chief of the Montreal bureau of the Dominion detective bureau and now in security adviser for the Bank of Montreal and the Royal Bank of Canada.

The incident brought to seven, including one constable, the number of persons killed in police gunfights in the Montreal area this year.

Reynold Rouleau, 28, was killed by a fusillade of shots when, trapped by police Jan. 9 on a balcony at his home, he resisted fast after a stakeout for a bank robbery. At inquest Rouleau was an escaped convict.

New Scheme for Visit to Moon Envisions Mother Ship in Orbit

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times says that an "audacious revision" of the plan for the nation's first manned flight to the moon is expected to be adopted soon.

The new approach is known as lunar orbital rendezvous, the newspaper says. It would involve joining two vehicles in orbit around the moon on the return journey of the lunar mission.

The flight plan would follow this sequence:

The spacecraft, all in one unit, would be rocketed from Cape Canaveral into an orbit around the moon. Two of the crew members would then transfer from the main capsule into a small "exploratory" capsule.

This capsule, known as the Bug, would be attached to the command capsule's nose. It would break away and swoop down to land on the moon, while the mother craft remained in orbit.

The two men would go about their exploration and then take off to make the critical rendezvous with the orbiting mother craft. They would transfer back to the mother craft, jettison the Bug, and fire rockets to send the mother craft on its way to earth.

The service module would be jettisoned before the re-entry into the earth's atmosphere.

Up to now, first priority for a lunar mission has been assigned a plan requiring rendezvous in orbit around the earth. The switch in the flight plan has been under intensive study by Project Apollo officials for almost six months.

SIU-MANNED SHIPS MAY BE IN TROUBLE

Could Be Barred From Seaway

OTTAWA (CP) — A seaway blockade against ships manned by Canadian crews belonging to the maverick Seafarers International Union may be imminent, reliable sources say.

The threatened boycott was being watched by federal justice department officials who said Tuesday night they would seek a court injunction to keep the St. Lawrence Seaway and Welland Canal in full operation if necessary.

The possibility of a seaway blockade mounted as the continuing waterfront war between the SIU and Hal Banks' rival, the Canadian Maritime Union, headed for what seemed to be an international showdown.

In the uncertain situation, these were the key developments:

1. It was learned that Canada has formally asked the United States government to investigate certain incidents at Cleveland in connection with U.S. ports against Canadian ships and their CMU crews. The report, made in a note delivered in Washington last month, asked the U.S. government to take action within U.S. ports to protect Canadian property and a safe trip for Canadian lives.

2. In Washington, an official said the U.S. government is exploring possible ways of halting the dispute, which has seamed jurisdictional dispute into American ports but so far has found no acceptable solution.

A U.S. labor department official said the U.S. courts generally like issuing injunctions when a jurisdictional dispute is evident. A Canadian official said a deal is a decent version. He said that Canada has not yet authorities consulted with state and local authorities in areas affected, they found the effect would be too much interference from Ottawa.

3. A justice department spokesman here said Toronto lawyer Arthur Maloney has been appointed agent of the justice ministry in a court injunction in Toronto if seaway officials here show their support for the action. Maloney is to handle SIU-manned ships.

NO WEEK INJUNCTION

The spokesman said an injunction would seek to restrain SIU spokesmen and their union, the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC), an affiliate of the SIU, from boycotting ships.

The CMU was formed with the help of the Canadian Labor Congress to oust the SIU from the lakes. The Seafarers' union, headed by Hal C. Banks of Montreal, has operated two years ago from the 1,070,000-member CLC for raiding another union.

It has been fighting off attempts by Banks to take over its wholly his labor strength.

The SIU gained its first victory against the CMU in April when it won collective bargaining rights for 16 seamen on the 25-ship fleet of Upper Lakes Shipping Company, one of the largest Canadian lake operators.

Since then, ships of the Upper Lakes fleet have met picketing tactics in U.S. ports and their crews have been intimidated by what CLC President Claude Jodoin calls a "reign of terror."

10,000 Shriners Take Part In 5-Hour Toronto Parade

TORONTO (CP) — Prancing, Shriners set Toronto on its ear Tuesday with a fantastic parade of 10,000 marchers, 800 horses and donkeys, 300 motorcycles and thousands of other vehicles. An even bigger blowout is set for Thursday.

Upwards of 100,000 spectators took in Tuesday's five-hour parade staged by 50 Shrines temples in North America. Another, more elaborate, parade is scheduled Thursday night when the Shriners wind up their annual convention.

The festivities have taken their toll. Three noted died of heart attacks while parading through downtown streets Tuesday and two others died of heart failure in their hotel rooms. At least 25 others in the parade fainted in weather that was a perfect 77 degrees and sunny.

The colorful parade was a prelude to a three-day carnival that got on by the fez-topped and brightly - costumed Shriners. Tuesday they invaded the Canadian National Exhibition grounds with a Shriners-a-variety show and a huge fireworks display.

An estimated 50,000 nobles and their wives are attending the convention and get down to serious business today with the installation of George Ieppert of Memphis, Tenn., as imperial potentate.

A 700-man emergency police force, made up of farmers, has been indigted with policemen.

Policemen are known to Shriners with smiles as some Shriners drink beer on city streets—illegal in Ontario—during the parade, at any other time such acting would mean a trip to the clock.

Police Chief Georgs Crisler of Henderson, Nev., also a Shriner said Toronto policemen are probably the best he has seen.

Rare Metals in Canada Could Figure in Space

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada may play a strategic role in the supply of fuel for a radical new rocket engine concept being developed for space ships.

Government sources say Canadian deposits of caesium and rubidium may prove as important in the coming age of space travel as were Canada's uranium supplies in the post-war building of nuclear weapons by the United States and Britain.

Extensive research now is in progress, mainly in the U.S. and Britain, on the development of a caesium vapor as a fuel for ionic-drive rocket engines. Work already has got under the stage where it has been tested as propellant in laboratory experiments.

The ionic - drive theory involves the propelling of minute forms of matter at velocities sufficient to create supersonic propulsion. This would make possible relatively small rocket engines and small amounts of fuel.

HAVANA (Reuters) — The threat of inflation which Ernesto Che Guevara, the revolution's economic architect, declared a "capitalist concept" only 16 months ago, is a reality in Cuba today.

The situation is precisely one of "too much money chasing too few goods." And Cubans are saving more than ever before, not, outside of the country, at least, as the government says it is.

The government has boasted that 600,000,000 pesos have poured into the workers' pockets between 1958 and 1961 and that nearly 200,000,000 pesos more will reach them by the end of 1962.

Officially the peso is at par with the U.S. dollar. But the public knows that to buy one dollar in Miami, Fla., now costs 1½ pesos. And this knowledge is adding and abetting the inflationary trend.

But the revolutionary government blames "increased spending power of the workers and peasants since the revolution" for the critical food shortages that boosted the price of a one-pound bunch of carrots to 70 cents, 37 by the Miami peso market reckoning.

Carrots thrive in Cuban soil, so do oranges, grapefruit and tomatoes. But they are scarce and high-priced, the government says, because the previously impoverished peasants are able to buy them for the first time.

But some Cubans believe that exports of such items to Communist countries in barter trade deals also has contributed to the shortages.

Whatever the cause, Cubans agree that there is a general over-abundance of money and a scarcity of ways to spend it. Apart from the lack of food, housing laws virtually rule out buying a new house. Travel regulations totally rule out vacationing abroad.

Many of the old tourist attractions such as the casinos have closed down and virtually no new consumer goods—cars, television sets, movie cameras —remain to be bought.

As a result, secondhand prices have rocketed. Recurrent rumors of a new money change feed the rumors.

Car prices have soared dramatically.

SEE CIVIL WAR THREAT GROWING IN ALGERIA

More Military Units Back Defiant Bella

ALGIERS (AP)—The threat of civil war mounted in newly independent Algeria today amid reports of growing opposition among nationalist army commanders to Premier Youssef Ben Khedda's regime.

Bolstered by a tumultuous Moslem welcome for himself and his ministers, Ben Khedda set up headquarters in Algiers and, with the discreet assistance of the French, consolidated his hold on the government.

In the hills south of Algiers, 1,500 deserters from the French-equipped local security force joined 4,000 pro-Ben Bella guerrillas of Willaya (military zone) No. 4 in garrison support of Ben Bella, a leader of the leftist revolution in the new nation.

From eastern Algeria came reports of new armed support for Ben Bella. Colonel Houari Boumediene, commander of eastern Algeria's Willaya No. 1, described Ben Khedda as a "traitor to the revolutionary" and expressed support for Ben Bella.

FACTIONS WAVER

In western Algeria, the officers of Willaya V, 5 commandos and Ben Bella's home village of Marnia, factions were reported wavering between the two rivals.

Still the unknown factor—and the key to any Algerian power struggle — was the 40,000-man nationalist army in Algeria, which is preparing to march into Algiers from Morocco and Tunisia.

Ben Bella apparently can count on strong loyalties among these troops whom he molded into the disciplined, well-armed 40,000-man French army could be defeated. But Ben Khedda has expressed no fear of their reaction.

President Nasser of the United Arab Republic labored secretly and split in the Algerian leadership, but his efforts thus far have failed.

Ben Khedda flew into Cairo from Libya Tuesday night to confer with Nasser. And on his arrival again denounced Ben Khedda for dismissing the three nationalist army chiefs and commanders Saturday for allegedly planning a military coup to install Ben Bella in power.

TAKES COMMAND

Ben Khedda appeared in command in Algiers, at least for the moment, and his regime immediately set about taking the reins of the government. The transitional Algerian National Assembly Saturday for allegedly plotting a military coup to install Ben Bella in power.

TAKES COMMAND

Ben Khedda appeared in command in Algiers, at least for the moment, and his regime immediately set about taking the reins of the government. The transitional Algerian rule proceeded smoothly. Algiers public buildings functioned normally despite the changeover. Only the flags and emblems were new.

French President de Gaulle's recognition of Algerian independence Tuesday ended the torturous demonstrations by 500,000 Moslems in Algiers that lasted most of the night. The Marseillaise screamed, booted, cheered and danced the twist in the streets.

FIND PAIR SHOT

DONCASTER, England (Reuters) — South African Rugby League player Sailor Schneider and a friend, Stephanie Rahn, 19, were found dead outside a cafe here Tuesday. Police believe it was a case of murder and suicide.

Jersey City Men Find $2,500,000 In Rear of Dusty 1947-Model Car

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP)— Two workmen removing refrigerators and garages on a quiet city street yesterday found the trunk of an old car Tuesday and found almost $2,500,000.

Police said the money discovered in the rear of a dusty, 1947 auto were mostly small denomination and files stolen from the offices of the Hudson County prosecutor in May, 1961. Also found was quantity of electronics equipment of the type used by bookmakers.

FBI agent R. W. Bachman said one of the stolen files contained material on a police investigation July 3, 1951, in which Joseph Moriarty was arrested for bookmaking and possession of numbers slips in Jersey City. The second file concerned a Moriarty associated.

Moriarty, 47, was picked up that time while driving the 1947 Plymouth — the same model of auto in which the money was discovered. The car was sentenced to a 2-to-3 year prison term last March 9 for the bookmaking charge.

Both the FBI and Jersey City police jumped into the case when the FBI got possession of the money, obtaining a warrant for its seizure because of a $50,000 lien the federal government has against Moriarty for unpaid income taxes.

Bachman said the money totalled approximately $2,400,000, including a "few thousand bills", with the rest in $100s, $50s, $20s and $10s.

Fresh Tensions Fuel Medicare Fight In Sask.

Doctors Seek Injunction Against Insurance Act

REGINA (CP) — The strike of Saskatchewan doctors moved into its fourth day today without signs of settlement over the government's medical care insurance plan.

With major clinics and many doctors' offices closed in protest against the plan, emergency service provided free at 36 hospitals by volunteer doctors was meeting no major problems.

Both Regina hospitals said they were "a bit busier than usual," treating about 60 outpatient cases Tuesday.

Doctors at the Regina hospitals said they were able to provide good treatment as they normally could.

VOLUME INCREASES

At Saskatoon, Dr. J. A. Leddy, executive director of association, said about three times the average volume of patients was handled at city hospitals.

He said a doctor working at one of the hospitals delivered 12 babies in 48 hours. He had no other details of the case. Another doctor worked steadily for 20 hours.

"The fatigue is starting to show," Dr. Leddy said. "And we have fixed the hotel $1,000 on each of two charges on which he has been released by the Canadian Pacific Railway—one on each head. The convictions were registered for firing a locomotive threatening to fire employees and placed in a lawful station.

The hotel was originally cleared of the charges by Magistrate Stevens shortly after the union laid them.

The union appealed and the Supreme Court ordered a new trial was ordered.

The strike started April 24, 1962, with 1,100 employees leaving their jobs. By the time it was settled, official said today 232 had returned to work on the company's terms, 198 had resigned or retired, 44 had applied to go back but were rejected, and the case of two employees went to arbitration.

The settlement provided for rehiring of striking employees employees within a few months and a union official said today the recall is being carried out faster than was agreed.

Two months after the strike started, the Royal York seer the employees and later asking them to return or resign by July 15. Those who did not reply, about 700, were dismissed July 18.

Hotel Fined $500 for Firing Striking Workers

TORONTO (CP)—Magistrate Thomas Elmore fined the Royal York Hotel $500 Tuesday for firing its striking employees.

The employees, members of the Hotel and Club Employees Union, were dismissed last summer during the year-long strike which ended in April.

Magistrate Elmore, describing the case as "serious," said he could have fined the hotel $1,000 on each of two charges on which he was convicted by the Canadian Pacific Railway—one on each head. The convictions were registered for firing a locomotive threatening to fire employees and placed in a lawful station.

The hotel was originally cleared of the charges by Magistrate Stevens shortly after the union laid them.

Head of Legal Medicine Dept. Offers Services

BOSTON (AP)—Dr. Richard Ford, head of the legal medicine department at Harvard Medical School, has offered his services to investigate a fly in Saskatchewan which officials might be related to professional negligence by delinquent physicians.

Ford issued a statement Tuesday in which he declared: "It is my opinion no doctor has the right to strike. He said he offered his services and expenses, to Premier Lloyd of Saskatchewan in a telephone conversation.

A group of physicians in the Canadian province has refused to treat patients in protest against the compulsory medical care plan.

Ford's statement said the crisis in Saskatchewan might cause "irreparable damage" to the sanctity of physician-patient relationship "in all of North America and perhaps in the entire free world."

"I hold no brief for socialized medicine," he said, "It is philosophy. It spells initiative. It impairs freedom of thought and negates essentials of research.

Federal Govt. Watches Dispute With Interest

OTTAWA (CP) — The medicare scrap in Saskatchewan could have an important bearing on development of federal policy toward medical services insurance in Canada, federal officials said Tuesday.

The federal government has carefully avoided getting involved in the dispute between the Saskatchewan government and the provinces striking doctors, nevertheless high officials of the health department are following the bitter struggle with deep—and not entirely detached—interest.

Their special interest derives from the widespread assumption that before long the federal authority itself will be face to face with the same kind of issues that have brought on the impasse in Saskatchewan.

The Conservative administrative has appointed a royal commission under Saskatchewan Chief Justice Emmett Hall to recommend ways of making top-quality care available to all Canadians — regardless of means.

This step was widely interpreted as a tacit recognition of the need for at least a degree of government intervention.

The Hall commission held public hearings in every province but has much work left to do and is not expected to report before the middle of next year.

Both the Liberal and New Democratic parties have pressed for tax - supported national health plans.

15th Belleville Cubs Enjoy Weekend at Sagonaska

On the evening of June 15th, 20 cubs of the "B" pack were transported to Camp Sagonaska at Sagonaska in the Colonel Vandervoort Conservation Area at Thomasburg for their annual weekend camp.

The cubs were divided into four groups:

(1) Sebago — Bill Janitsch, Bobby Leonard, Kerry Kaye, Sandy Cunningham and Ricky Green.

(3) Mohawk — Jim Welton, John Rose, Terry Clarke, Ronnie Fothergill and Robert Hall.

The program was arranged so that each group would participate in all activities which included — handicraft, nature ramble, directed activities (jungle scenes) and a hike.

PONY EXPRESS

A pony-express relay race was enjoyed by the cubs and their leaders also. Another highlight was play-acting — a box of bats and clothes made the cubs come alive with color. The 1st joined the 15th for a Cub's Own in the chapel on the side of the hill, Sunday morning. Camp fires both Friday and Saturday evenings were filled with songs, skits and stories which will be long remembered. The burning of "Old Man Grudge" Friday night was a thrill to the boys and provided for a happy weekend at camp.

The closing of the camp on Sunday afternoon with a cub p.o.w. ceremony and all here the boys appreciated the outing.

Parents arriving before closing, were able to see camp still up and in use by the group which the cubs had worked on were on view. Each cub received a remembrance certificate and the winning tent received a small presentation by the 15th cubs.

POINT SYSTEM

The camp was operated on a point system, the Cayuga's winning with 96. Followed by Mohawks with 93. The leaders: Camp Chief — Akela — Assistant — Tent Chief — Seneca — Running Wolf — Al Green, Cayuga — Beaver — Gord Russell, Mohawk — Bike Smoke — Harold Wood, Huron — Hawkeye — Joe Whittle.

Activities — Handicraft — Kim — Helen Welch, directed activities (jungle scenes) — Mowgli — Mrs. Mitchell.

Camp Fire Leader — Baloo Fesher — Stephen Riley, White Eagle — Mrs. Welch.

Wish to express their thanks to the Ladies Auxiliary for the wonderful meals served and meals on Saturday and Sunday and to the Group Committee for the Group Committee for their co-operation.

Fire Rating

Tweed Forest District

Campers and other holiday seekers who packed lakes, highways, parks and resorts over the weekend in the northern part of the Lands and Forests Tweed District co-operated splendidly in the prevention of forest fires, department officials said today.

Only one fire out of six which started over the holiday was caused by carelessness, a cigaret tossed out of a car window.

The other five fires were caused by lightning which swept the district on Friday and Saturday afternoon.

All fires are under control and being closely patrolled by department forest rangers.

The fires are smoldering in the areas of Lyndoph, Bithfield, Clarendon, Olden, Inchinbrooke and Carlesmore Townships. The largest are at Inchinbrooke, two acres and Clarendon 1½ acres.

The largest influx of campers and vacationists in years invaded the northern areas, an official stated.

"We had the best co-operation from the public possible" he said. "Only one fire out of six caused by carelessness speaks for itself."

Wooded areas dampened by the rains of Friday and Saturday are again drying out with the continued warm, dry sunny weather — and the fire hazard has been posted at "high". Less rainfall in the forest district is .74 inch below normal, it was stated.

REVISE ALTITUDE MARK

MUROC, Calif. (AP) — Air Force Maj. Robert Whitley's altitude mark of June 21 now stands at 346,700 feet. Officials revised it downward from 350,200 feet Monday after studying flight data. The new mark gives him a tie with space agency pilot Joe Walker for the 7,648 height record. Walker piloted the rocket ship to the new altitude April 10.

RISE DAMAGES

Dr. W. J. Cranley of Prince Albert and Dr. M. F. Maddox of Saskatoon sought the court ruling and damages of $50,000.

The CCF government's compulsory, prepaid plan went into effect July 1. The Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons ordered its members to work under the plan and called for its repeal.

The scheme is designed to provide payment for many medical services for most of the province's 928,000 residents.

An emergency meeting was scheduled for Regina today by a group of Saskatchewan doctors affected by expanded outpatient diagnostic services. About 33 radiologists and 30 pathologists are affected.

The increased services, in force at the last session of the legislature, went into effect last Sunday, Health Minister J. H. Davies says the services, which include minor surgery, emergency care, diagnostic and therapeutic procedures, will be expanded "to the extent that hospital can provide them."

'WILL NOT OPERATE'

Dr. N. P. Dunn, a Moose Jaw radiologist, said "we will not operate under this scheme." He said the plan would "put services under the doctors' emergency services plan without support."

Dr. H. D. Dalgleish, president of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, said the government action is an "autocratic decision."

Another official, Donald D. Transley, chairman of the Medical Care Insurance Commission and drafting the act, said letters have been received from 23 to 30 doctors indicating they are prepared to receive direct payment of medical bills from the commission.

Garfield Brower Suffers Weak Spell in Home

Believed to have suffered a weak spell in the home yesterday Mr. Garfield Brower, Highland Ave., was found unconscious in his home this morning. He was taken to hospital by ambulance.

The elderly man who lived alone with his dog at 46 Highland Ave. was found by neighbors Mr. and Mrs. Nobel Brown who had missed seeing him about the house and out for his usual walk with his dog.

Mr. Brower is believed to have fallen to the floor after suffering a stroke or weak spell.

IN MEMORIAM

HUFFMAN — In loving memory of our dear father, Charles Huffman, who passed away July 4th, 1956.
Sweet memories of you will never die.
Quietly remembered through the years
With sweet thoughts and unmeasured tears.
Sadly missed and remembered by daughters, sons and families.

WHITE — In loving memory of our dear husband, Mark James, who was called away July 4, 1956.
Somewhere back of the sunset,
Somewhere beyond the blue,
He lives in the land of glory,
But Mid Heaven is near to you.
Sadly missed.
We who have loved and lost him,
Where parting wrenched and tore,
Will treasure his memory always,
Throughout the years to come.
—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by Mother, Dad and brothers Allen and Steven.

WHITE — In loving memory of our dear husband, Mark James, who passed away July 4, 1956.
Our treasure dwells with love sincere,
Beautiful memories we cherish dear.
—Lovingly remembered by Nancy and Grandpa Wilkinson.

WHITE
In loving memory of our dear husband, Mark James, who passed away July 4, 1956.
Oh what I would give to clasp your dear hand to see,
Your loving smile, your voice, That meant so much to me.
No one knows but those bereaved
Only those who have lost as we
Or the grief that is borne in silence.
For the one I loved so well.
—Sadly missed by her husband, Wilbur E. White.

2nd Scout Group Sponsors Family Picnic

At approximately three o'clock, over 90 Cubs, Scouts, Leaders, parents, sisters and brothers, with most welcome guests, district commissioner and Mrs. Murrey Maw, and family, and the Reverend Michael Caswell, of Christ Church, arrived at the Campsite.

It was an ideal day for an outing, and the happy and congenial group didn't waste a minute of it. Picnic chairman, George Rogers, along with Akela Kemp, Scouter Ingraham, and Mrs. Rainbird of the Ladies Auxiliary, had a program lined up, and things started off with a football game, with all the Dad's and the lads taking part.

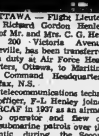
There was baseball, swimming, races for one and all, with prizes galore and treats of ice cream and cokes.

After the fathers' 100 yard dash' ? ? one little Cub was heard to remark, "Gosh, I didn't think my dad could do it!" And another "Did you see that bald-headed guy go?" And he went!"

After the picnic supper, an interesting and informative tour of the campsite was conducted by Jack Foster and Jack Rainbird.

At dusk all gathered around the "campfire", officially opened by Akela Kemp. They enjoyed "How Come" and Rocket Stories, by the District Commissioner, skits and stunts by the Cubs and Scouts, and a rousing sing-song.

As the cool darkness drew in Vesper the Scout "Alleluia" brought a most enjoyable day to a close.



9th Rover Crew, Rangers Enjoy Camp

On June 30th, at 7.30 p.m., the 9th Belleville Rover Crew and the 1st Belleville Ranger Company set out for a week-end of camping under canvas. This was the first endeavor of this kind in affiliation with the Scout movement in Belleville district.

The camp was under the supervision of Skipper Alf Murray, Dr. Rangers Captain Holmes; Assistant District Commissioner and Mrs. Syd Sharman.

The camp was run under a patrol system with four patrols, each consisting of Rovers and Rangers. In part the program consisted of such activities as xsemanship, estimation, water safety, swimming and baseball.

It was agreed by all who attended that the camp was much too short and should be made an annual event.

OTTAWA — Flight Lieutenant Richard Gordon Henley, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Henley, 260 Victoria Avenue, Belleville, has been transferred from duty at Air Force Head Quarters, Ottawa, to Maritime Air Command Headquarters, Halifax, N.S.

A telecommunications technical officer, F-L. Henley joined the RCAF in 1957 as an airman radio operator and drew on anti-submarine patrols over the Atlantic during the Second World War. After rising to the rank of warrant officer class one, he was commissioned in 1951.

escaped convict, was shot down by police May 3 after he held several of his relatives as hostages in an eastend flat.

DIES IN ATTEMPT

Campbell Ashton, 33, who earlier failed to blow for trial on another offence, was killed Jan. 4 during an abortive bank robbery attempt.

Ashton's death resulted in a public outcry against the practice of releasing hardened criminals on bail, thereby enabling them to endanger lives while committing new crimes.

On May 23, at Ste. Scholastique, Que., a police stakeout failed a popular bank robbery attempt and the ensuing gun battle resulted in the death of Jean - Paul Giroux, 25, one of the bandits.

Capt. Marc Maurice, a long-time troubleshooter for the Montreal police, was seriously wounded in the battle and is convalescing at home.

Kiwanis Club Pres. Reports On Convention

President George Hume of the Kiwanis Club of Belleville took his fellow club members on a word trip to 47th international convention of Kiwanis International yesterday afternoon. He described the convention as being "quiet" despite the fact that 18,000 Kiwanians were in attendance.

The speaker described the location of the convention, Denver, Colorado, as being a modern city with excellent accomodation in the foothills of the Rocky Mountains.

Mr. Hume described in a natural amphitheatre under the stars on a Sunday evening, through the three-and-a-half days of sessions and panel discussions the convention proved to be a success.

Many notable speakers were present and one of these, a Canadian magazine editor, struck a note of controversy during his address on Canadian-American relations, said Mr. Hume. His criticism of the United States served both to embarrass the many Canadians present and to offend their American friends, he suggested.

Many wives and children of Kiwanians attended the convention also and the general feeling throughout the event was one of people seeking to learn and improve, to do something, he said.

In conclusion Mr. Hume read several extracts from one of the speeches given at the convention.

Fire-Fighters Will Show Use of Foam

A foam fire-fighting demonstration will be staged in Trenton tonight by the Hastings, Prince Edward and Trenton Mutual Aid Association at its regular monthly meeting which will be held at the Trenton Fire Hall.

The demonstration is to take place on the vacant lot just south of the Dominion Store in Trenton. The display is in connection with the foam bank set up for Hastings and Prince Edward county councils, and an all company.

Representatives will be present from the RCAF station, Trenton and Trenton Ground Control. Col. Angus B. Duffy, M.B.E., of the Quebec area (Emergency Measures Organization), coordinator for Hastings and Prince Edward will be in attendence.

All in attendance will be Fire Chief Gerald Vance of Belleville, coordinator for Hastings and Prince Edward Mutual Aid Association, Fire Chief Jim McVicker of Deseronto, president of the association for 1962 and Fire Chief Cecil Ellis, Hastings and Prince host for tonight's occasion. It is expected 100 will be on hand.

Frankford Council Receives Unconditional $2,463 Grant

TRENTON Frankford council met last night in the shortest meeting on record, according to report with Councillor Leonard Reid filling in as acting reeve in the absence of Reeve Lewis Rebel, who is on a business trip to Europe. Also present were Councillors Carmen Mikel, F. K. Bannister, Ray O. Brown and village clerk, Glenn Mills.

On the credit side of the ledger, council was given the pleasant news that an unconditional grant of $2,463 had been received in the municipal office from the Ontario department of municipal affairs. This is the first of two such annual grants due to the municipality. The second installment will be paid out in October.

On the debit side, the clerk informed council that so far this year, the village had spent $3,862.51 for road work. This includes labor, ($2,069), machinery rentals and materials for road repair and maintenance.

A resolution to pay contractor Jack Bush $1,051.51 as the final payment on the construction of the village fire hall, was passed.

Council at first demurred at holding public meeting after Supervisor William Reynolds to Trenton with a truck in need of repairs to a large tractor, thinking that the work could be done in Frankford. However it was pointed out that the guarantee on the vehicle runs out on July 27, and it was decided that the Toronto company could check the truck for any defects (if any) covered by the guarantee at the same time. Mr. Reynolds was given a cheque for $25 to cover expenses, and instructed to take the truck home in A-1 condition. Mr. Reynolds will keep an account of the transaction and turn the surplus to council.

WILL SEND DELEGATION

On July 19, council will send a delegation to discuss with officials of the Ontario Municipal Board the proposed annexation of Frankford's water system, sewage system and sewage treatment plant. The proposed work would cost in the neighborhood of $128,000, so the proposal will receive a good, long, hard look from the village governors.

Meantime, a communication from the Ontario Water Resources Commission, offering to assist in the setting up of plans to do with the proposed extension to the water and sewer systems, was left on other letter, from a firm of engineering consultants in Toronto, was also received, indicated that they would be happy to assist the village in any way if council decides to go ahead with the extension, were read.

And on the subject of "happiness," that is what two village residents aren't. Rumors that council will widen certain village streets when it reached their ears, and when they learned what widening will do to their well-kept lawns and hedges, they are most unhappy.

Council took no action on a letter asking what the proposal to set up county libraries for the benefit of children who have just finished grade eight or so up the age scale). Such library for Hastings County would cost approximately $54,000.

TURN IN WEAPONS

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City set aside June as a period in which residents could turn in dangerous weapons without fear of prosecution. Police announced the results today: 62 revolvers, 40 automatic pistols, a rifle, a shotgun, a flare gun, an air rifle and three air pistols.

TRENTON — S. O. Graham, chairman of the Board of Directors of Trenton Memorial Hospital, announced yesterday that Miss S. O. Moores, administrator at the hospital for the past ten years, had resigned for health reasons. Miss Moores will take an extended holiday before resuming work.

A native of Newfoundland, Miss Moores came to Trenton from Gander, Nfld., where she administration, Trenton hospital grew from a 40-bed institution to one which can accommodate approximately 150 patients.

Mr. Graham paid tribute to the excellent job Miss Moores had done at Trenton. He said that the board, the hospital staff and the community at large were sorry to see her leave Trenton.

Replacing Miss Moores as administrator, is Miss Hazel F. Naudett, who has had 17 years' experience in hospital administration. Miss Naudett, who is also a hospital in western Ontario. She is a registered nurse and has taken post-graduate courses in administration work at Northwestern University, Chicago university. She assumed her duties at the local hospital on July 1.

Obituary

MRS. HAROLD WALSH

TRENTON — On Monday, a service was held at the R. A. Douglas Funeral Home, in the Centre in Trenton for Mrs. Harold Walsh, who died at 27 Water Street, who died at Kingston General Hospital last Friday, June 29, at the age of 46.

The service was conducted by Rev. Harry Saint and the bearers were: Ralph Jackson, Alan Gibson, Cyril Walsh, Dwight Jones, Jake Glowrey and Frank Price.

Interment was in Mount Evergreen cemetery.

Mrs. Walsh was born in the township of Carmel and she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jobe Moore. She was educated in Carmel and Millbrook schools, and had lived in Trenton since September, 1949, having previously lived in Mount Hope. Mrs. Walsh was a member of the Baptist Church.

She is survived by her husband, Harold Walsh; six daughters, Mrs. Anita Faye and Lois Walsh, Mrs. Douglas (Margaret) Walsh, and Mrs. Willies (Barbara) White, Simsons, Phillip, Kenneth, Garry, Douglas, Janet and Larry Walsh.

Also surviving are seven sisters, Mrs. Gordon (Dolly) Walsh, Trenton; Mrs. Charles (Nina) Winn, Sweetly, Ont.; Mrs. Carl (Mabel) Davis, Bewsley; Mrs. Archie (Bernice) Straghigan, Peterborough; Mrs. Delbert (Vivian) Bowen, Belleville; Mrs. Homer (Pearl) La Pointe, Peterborough, and Mrs. J. (Isobel) Patton, Kendall, Ont.

Mrs. Walsh is also survived by two brothers, Edward, Harvey and Gerald Moore, all of Peterborough.

Will Continue Study Course

TRENTON — On Friday, Mrs. Ruth Bowerman, secretary to clerk-compiroller O. W. Larry for the past two years, left the town employ to become a full-time housewife and homemaker, but will continue study course in the work of municipal clerks and treasurers, sponsored by Queen's University at Kingston. Mrs. Bowerman and the municipal staff met to wish Mrs. Burrows luck in her new venture and presented her with a black leather handbag.

Head Says Dissatisfaction In Quebec Almost General

VANCOUVER (CP) — Cultural Affairs Minister Georges Lapalme of Quebec said Saturday night Social Credit's 26-seat gain in Quebec at the federal election ought to warn the country "to avoid putting French Canada into a situation where it really has nothing to lose."

Mr. Lapalme, speaking at a symposium on French Canada at the University of British Columbia, did not mention the Social Credit party by name, but referred to its campaign slogan in Quebec.

"In the course of the election campaign," he said, "a political group kept on tirelessly repeating this slogan: 'You have nothing to lose.'

"The result was a violent shock for Quebec as well as the rest of Canada. If Canada seriously desires to avoid disagreeable incidents, it would be better to avoid putting French Canada into a situation where it would really have nothing to lose."

Mr. Lapalme said dissatisfaction in Quebec was almost general and it would be a "rather serious error" to believe it was limited to embittered nationalists or professional protesters.

ARE 'WHITE NEGROES'

Mr. Lapalme read from an interview in the campaign paper Godbout gave in Paris:

"We are dominated by millions of English-speaking people, and the French-speaking minority is compared to the Negro minority in the U.S.A. Note that the Negro is black and belief struck, because we can become mulattoes by learning English. But as our mother-tongue is French, we will never become completely white, like the white negroes of Canada. . . ."

Quebecers were trying to extend their culture to French-Canada as a whole, he said, and strengthen their own cultural position. Quebec was different from the rest of Canada, and likely to become more so, Mr. Lapalme added.

Politically, they wanted a united people and a united province rather than "10 subordinate provinces" of Canada.

Economically, they wanted improvement and the province had established an economic advisory council, a department of natural resources and recently a general investment corporation to help achieve this.

172 Children Learn to Swim In 'Y' Course

A total of 172 children were registered in the "Learn-to-Swim" program at the local YMCA, it was reported today by secretary Jim Diamantides. Due to a large waiting list a third series of classes is to be held commencing on July 16th.

These classes will be open for any non-swimmers of seven years of age or older and will be held daily with girls' classes in the mornings and boys being instructed in the afternoon.

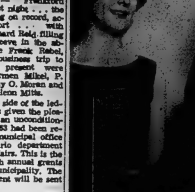
Yesterday the second series of classes got underway with five separate classes of boys and classes being given instruction each day.

A record was set yesterday when one mother called in the "Y" to register her two children in the "Learn-to-Swim" class for June of 1963.

Saskatchewan Tries to Recruit British Doctors

LONDON (CP) — The Saskatchewan medical care commission has sent circulars to listed medical practitioners in Britain offering either permanent or temporary posts in the province.

A spokesman for the health plan confirmed Tuesday night that the province hopes to find doctors here to serve in Saskatchewan areas where doctors have withdrawn normal services in protest against a prepaid medical care insurance scheme.



So far, a dozen British doctors have either reached Saskatchewan or are on the way, the spokesman said. Another 12 have signed contracts and are expected to leave shortly.

Officials of the medical care commission are in touch with between 40 and 50 others, who are said to be making arrangements to maintain their practices in Britain while they are away.

The circular to the doctors says the permanent posts offered will be in private practice. This is taken to mean payment will be on a fee-for-service basis, rather than by salary paid by the commission.

EAGER BEAVER—Patiently awaiting next winter, Terry Gilbert has spent more than a half hour sitting in front of his Front St. home last week, wearing his ice skates. As the sun beat down, eventually the pavement became too hot for comfortable sitting. So Terry went back inside, resigned to waiting out this funny thing they call summer.

Ronald Birkett, of Trenton, was perhaps the most sentimental passenger of the 1,300 who sailed aboard the Greek liner Arkadia Friday from Montreal for Europe. Twenty years ago, the Arkadia, then called Monarch of Bermuda, was standing off Oran, French West Africa, unloading troops when a German artillery shell struck her starboard side, ripped through three decks and exploded. Birkett, the liner's chief steward for 10 years, was standing close by, but was luckily uninjured. The shell's impact broke open water pipes which luckily put out the fire the explosion started. By sheer coincidence Birkett, travelling with his 16-year-old daughter, Sally, was berthed by the Greek Line, almost in the very same space the shell had exploded 20 years ago.

Inhaled Fumes, Contend This She showed in Blood

TRENTON — The question of whether a person can raise the alcohol content in his own blood by inhaling alcoholic fumes was explored in magistrate's court in Trenton today.

The case in point involved William Saddler of Picton, charged with driving while intoxicated. Mr. Saddler, who pleaded not guilty to the charge, was defended by Gregory Butler. Crown evidence revealed that Saddler had been found to have a 2.1 alcohol content in his blood, following an accident on Dundas Street East, on the night of April 14. Mr. Butler brought out the fact that a gallon tin of methyl hydrate, which was being carried in the panel truck, driven by the accused on the night of the accident, had spilled its contents in the truck. Saddler contended that while he had been drinking heavily on the night of April 13, he had had only two and a half pints of beer on the night of April 14.

Dr. W. W. Weaver testified that he had taken a sample of blood from the accused, following the accident, and that he would be raised perceptively by inhaling alcoholic fumes and he said that traces of alcohol would vanish from the blood stream seven hours or so after consumption.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills said that he wasn't prepared to admit that inhaling alcoholic fumes could raise the count without expert evidence to this effect. evidence to this effect.

He pointed out to Mr. Butler that a 1.5 count constituted impairment, and that while he was satisfied that Saddler had a high tolerance for alcohol, he thought impairment was the answer to Saddler's state on the night of the accident. Saddler was fined $75 and ordered to pay $28.50 in costs.

Lloyd Turrell, charged with driving while disqualified, was found guilty and sentenced to serve one day in jail to round out a seven days' sentence from the time of his arrest.

Constable H. Kastner of the Trenton police department, told the court that he tried to stop a car, which was being driven by the accused, but that the car had proceeded around the block, and that he saw it next, a different driver, (William Elliott, owner) was in the driver's seat, while Terrill was in the passenger's seat.

Religion and U.S. Schools

A little while ago, before the election and the nation's financial crisis cornered attention, one of the liveliest public controversies occupying the attention of letter writers to Ontario newspapers concerned religious instruction in public schools.

Residents of this province, therefore, should be almost as interested as residents of the United States in the recent decision of the U.S. Supreme Court that reading a prayer aloud in New York public schools violates the U.S. constitution.

The Court ruling has provoked sharp criticism and moves are already afoot to seek amendments to the Constitution to permit such a practice. Most Canadians, we expect, will side with the critics, for not even all the opponents of religious instruction in our schools would go to the length of attempting to bar a simple prayer in language which is described as "neutral and non-denominational."

Canadians, therefore, may be somewhat surprised to learn that the general opinion is that attempts to have the Constitution changed will fail, because of the long-standing tradition of the United States against anything which even approaches an established religion. Many of the first settlers in the U.S. were fugitives from oppression by established religions in their homelands and their determination that nobody should suffer under like handicaps in their new country led them to insist that there should not be even the smallest links between any church, or churches as a whole, and the state.

That the reasons which led them to this decision are still honored in the U.S., in a day when religious tolerance is generally accepted, is shown by the language used by the New York Times in defending the Supreme Court's decision. Canadians may find this language somewhat surprising, but it should also interest them and give them a standard of comparison by which to judge arguments in our own controversy regarding religious instruction in schools.

"The Constitution was designed precisely to protect minorities," says the Times, "and the First Amendment bars the majority at any time from ordaining 'an establishment of religion.' The establishment clause is a keystone of American liberty; and if there is one thing that the establishment clause must mean, it is that the government may not set up any religious norm from which one has to be excused—as was the case with the children in the New York school who did not wish to recite the prayer. Nothing could be more divisive in this country than to mingle religion and government in the sensitive setting of the public schools, and under circumstances regarded by minorities as coercive. Our history counsels against that course; and the Supreme Court has wisely turned us from it."

Economic Planning and Performance

The market place economy sometimes receives plaudits in the most unusual places. And numbered among these was a recent article in the Russian newspaper "Izvestiia".

In the article O. K. Antonov, a leading Soviet airplane designer, noted that the Soviet economic system was riddled with waste and inefficiency, because it lacked the automatic corrective which are provided under capitalism by market forces and competition.

"The heart of the Russian problem, Mr. Antonov writes, is that many of Russia's industrial gains do not reflect any really corresponding increase in economically useful goods. Soviet planners he notes are in a position to plan the work of each enterprise in harmony with all others." Production managers—who are judged solely on the basis of volume—bend all their efforts to increase output with the result that quality, durability and even usefulness often go by the boards.

Under capitalism, Mr. Antonov says, this does not happen because there is a feedback to the producer. The manufacturer of poor quality goods soon learns from the market place because his goods do not sell when they are inferior to those of his competitors. This, he concludes "forces the capitalists to make things better, sturdier and cheaper."

Those Canadians who are wont to prescribe still greater government control and regulation for this nation's economic ailments would be well advised to take to heart Mr. Antonov's analysis of the shortcomings of the planned economy.

Television is not perfect now and never will be. It is at best a reflection of our times and our tastes. But it is many notches higher than its severest critic believes. Nowhere can you get so much for so little.—Sterling C. Quinlan, vice-president of American Broadcasting Co.

Letters To The Editor

Supports Editorial On Sidewalk Plowing

Editor
Ontario Intelligencer

I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate and thank you for the fine editorial in June 30th issue, under heading, "A Backward Step," regarding sidewalk snow plowing.

I would also extend thanks to deputy Mayor Corke for taking a firm stand, not making any hasty decision putting aside bylaw 1326, July 10, 1950, real heart searching consideration. I trust the majority of aldermen will do likewise. We need men today who will dare to stand with firm conviction and not be led away with two or three.

This is very important matter, as it involves many middle-aged folk and widows, who are home workers. The doctors are constantly warning middle-aged people to get more exercise. If my memory is correct we lost one or two citizens suddenly last winter as the result of snow- shovelling.

Anyone with sound reasoning knows there are no young men available for this type of work.

I would suggest bylaw 1138, dated 1903c be placed in the county museum, along with other outdated documents.

I trust after the public works committee has agreed upon two months vacation, they will be relaxed enough to wake up to the fact, somewhat during the past months they had slipped in reverse and if they do not move into high and go forward before the coming winter, they may find they have themselves beside the old box stove, reading the weekly Gazette by the light of the kerosene lamp.

Yours Respectfully,
Mrs. Ingersoll,
Lady Taxpayer.

Candidate Praises Election Coverage

editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

As a candidate in the recent Federal general election, I would like to compliment The Ontario Intelligencer on the fairness of your coverage of the campaign.

I noticed that your paper saw fit to report the activities of all four party leaders with equal prominence, which is more than can be said for many of our metropolitan papers. The same thing can be said for your reporting of election activities on the local scene.

This is something that does your paper credit and should not go unrecognized.

Les Digby.

Russians Pity Camel

Baltimore Evening Sun

The cruel tyrant who is a good husband an father is not unknown to history and doubtless there have been individuals who have entertained deeply sentimental feelings about kittens, wildflowers and song birds. So perhaps it does not mean very much that the collective Russian heart is reported to have been moved recently by the death of a camel.

This camel, according to reports, was part of a set of experiments in the desert conducted by Aima Ata Pedagogical Institute. Along with 18 other camels it was chained to a post, provided a light diet of thistles and water every other day. Camel or not, he died after 44 dry days. Presumably it roughly answered all the questions about how long a camel can go without a drink. The answer is, between six and seven weeks.

The point, though, is that this piece of scientific research, or rather its result, has stirred up a lot of protest. We read that one of the Soviet periodicals asked whether it is necessary to torture animals in such fashion and suggests that maybe the object was to see whether camels could be taught to do without food or water altogether. There seemingly has been a torrent of public indignation, too. One citizen wrote to ask why the experimenters didn't use themselves as subjects, another suggested it would be more appropriate to investigate the better feeding of animals than their fasting limits, and so on.

It is reassuring to know that Russians have a soft spot for camels and it is encouraging to find them speaking out publicly against the work of a state-supported institution.

Two Worries About English

Ottawa Citizen

Two students of the English language have offered some reflections on its use that, while not particularly original, are a fresh outlook on old problems. One is Sir David Eccles, the British minister of education. The other is Dr. Bergen Evans, research director of the Canadian Labor Congress.

Sir David's theme is that Englisth is in danger of splitting into a number of separate languages as Latin did after the fall of Rome. English itself is a derivation of Latin, the connection with Anglo-Saxon and Greek and various odds and ends of other tongues. Apart from its deplorable system of spelling, it is highly regarded by its users as an enormously rich and supple instrument.

Sir David thinks it is unwise lest the spread of the language will lead to widely different forms of English around the world. North American English has another variation, and so does Australian English, and so, he says, that teacher, does the English spoken and written in various parts of Scotland. He offers this opinion: "I am not worried about my Set," which in the United States could mean, "I am very angry about my governor" while in Britain it might be translated, "I am terribly pleased about my apartment."

Sir David is not unique in this respect. Many other people, for instance, have taken note of new meanings in Latin words, and there are some which have been added to the polite society of certain countries while remaining quite respectable in others. Sir David, the educationist, has some applies to English.

Dr. Evans' complaint is more serious. It is against the turgid prose that has become the scientific writings (economists and sociologists are the worst rats), when the effect is to obscure the meaning rather than make it plain. He says that we read page by a learned author seven times without grasping its meaning. Since the purpose of writing is to inform, this is deplorable. Yet the style of many articals in newspapers are also guilty of the crime of obscurity, and this being so it will be well not to be too superior when reading articles by Dr. Evans in his appeal for intelligible English. But how right he is!

Car Drivers Face Puzzle

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

Canadians planning a trip abroad and, in preparation, studying the tourist information materials which are available, soon become puzzled by the term "international driver's permit." In fact, it appears, is a document required in the case of who anticipate operating a car in some foreign countries.

Further inquiries into the matter, however, lead one to a point of some confusion, and to the conviction that the people of this country are in a disadvantage in this regard. The fact is, simply, that these permits are issued and recognized under authority of a Geneva convention to which Canada does not subscribe.

Consequently, a Nova Scotian seeking such a licence finds that his own Motor Vehicle Branch is unable to help him further than with the suggestion that he write to Ottawa. On arrival overseas, or through a private agency. The former possibility is the more likely one, because the experienced traveller abroad usually does not risk out opening up the chance of yet another. Thus, from a non-government point of view papers are obtainable through its contacts in the United States and, for this, a charge is made in American funds — which, because of the present dollar, adds further to the cost of one's trip.

The situation is one which can only be changed by government action on the national level. Immediately, complications become apparent because the provinces enjoy autonomy within this area of reference. Presumably then, it would be necessary for Ottawa to enter into agreements with both the other subscribing nations and the provinces.

It does seem that Canadians could be better served in this matter than now they are. If an international driver's permit is necessary or desirable for foreign travel, provision should be made whereby one could obtain it domestically and without undue difficulty or expense.

Child's Heart Murmur May Not Mean Trouble

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain a heart murmur. How serious is it? Who should one go to, a regular doctor or a heart specialist?"

Recently the school doctor notified me that my eight-year-old son has a murmur. Is this a sudden or a gradual result of the heart? What care is necessary? — Mrs. A.M.W."

Why assume that it is either a sudden or gradual result of the heart," when it may be no fault at all?

When your doctor listens to your heart with a stethoscope, he hears the "lub-dub" of the heartbeat. He sometimes hears some additional sound, as the blood swirls and eddies as it is pumped through the heart. These added sounds are called "murmurs."

A diseased heart, it is true, is pretty much bound to have murmurs. But so can hearts which are perfectly healthy. The kind of murmur, its location, and other signs or tests tell whether it means anything.

Some authorities have reported that at least half of the children in a school will have "murmurs," yet only a few have any heart trouble. Then why report these murmurs? Because sometimes such authorities don't have the time to study them in detail, and so do is make a quick examination.

Reporting a murmur gives the parents a chance to take the child to their doctor and see whether anything serious is developing. Another fine all that happens is that the parents get a big scare when they are told by the doctor, "Sure, he has a murmur. I've heard it, too. But don't know he has a perfectly sound heart, so just forget it."

In some other case, however, where a child has not been examined recently by a competent, investigating the murmur may bring a warning that special care is needed.

In short, don't let a "murmur" worry you until you have first found out whether anything is wrong.

As to whether to go to a regular doctor or a heart specialist, don't forget that both are physicians. The specialist is one who has spent several years in added training in some particular field.

A pediatrician is a specialist in child care. A surgeon is a specialist in surgery, and so on.

If you have been taking your youngster to a pediatrician, go back to him for advice about the murmur. If you have been going to a general practitioner or "family doctor," consult him. Should anything of unusual significance be found, a referral of a specialist, he'll tell you so.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My husband suffers from foot odor. What do you suggest? — Mrs. L."

Aside from the obvious things (washing and changing socks daily) have him wear wool socks (that's a natural), change shoes, and keep a little air space present). He should use some sort of a pair of shoes never wear-

Oust Russell For Six Bob

Vancouver Sun

Britain's Labor Party is getting ready to throw overboard, from Bertrand Russell, the eccentric champion of peace and sanity. But it doesn't intend to let the Commies claim his lordship as a martyr in their cause, No fear!

Lord Russell, with Canon Collins and several leftwing Laborites, got himself in hot water with his party for sponsoring the world peace congress at Moscow next month. Canon Collins, leader of the band of British anti-nuclear forces with which Lord Russell is also prominently associated—has made his peace. He and the committee responsible for the crime have agreed on a joint statement clearing their association with the congress.

This is a compromise which leaves the learned lord in the cannon. Lord Russell gets no such fatwy because he refused to discuss the matter with the investigators.

His defiance might be enough to justify him getting his walking papers. But, no; the committee decided on a cheaper way — six shillings' worth of Russell. Lord Russell forgot to pay his party dues this year. Six shillings. So out he goes.

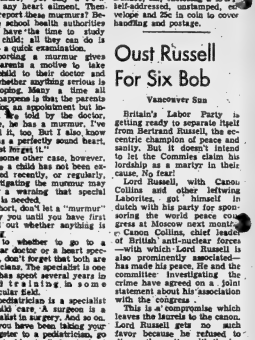
Thus the Communists can say the Labor Party is opposed to peace.

All it can claim is that the British Labor Party is a dirty capitalist outfit when it has no room for a peer who can't fork out six bob.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Recently a well-known figure in Canadian business life was elevated from president, as office he has held for twenty years, to chairman of the board, and a handy receptacle for the several of my knowing friends in business, the question was hotly discussed. Who is more important — the president or the chairman of the board?



This led the discussion into much wider fields, and I listened with interest while they debated whether the sales manager was more important than the production manager, or the office manager greater than the secretary of the company, and so forth. It seems that the business of this problem of importance to an organization is a matter of great controversy.

At an adjoining table in the restaurant, was a group of men who could not help but overhear the discussion. When they got up to leave, he stood him self and intruded.

"Gentlemen," he said, "there is only one really important individual in any business, and that is the customer. Any individual in a business, however high on the scale he rates that he is the most important individual, then that business is in for trouble.

TORONTO STOCKS

Banks again were weakest in the main list, as Toronto-Dominion fell 1½, Montreal ¼ and Royal ¼ and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce one point.

Losses of ¼ went to Bell Telephone, BA Oil, Price Brothers and Moore Corporation, while Consolidated Paper dropped ⅛, Imperial Oil ⅛ and Canadian Breweries ¼.

Among issues showing gains were Massey - Ferguson, International Pipe Line, Gatineau Power and Atlas Steel, all ahead ⅛; Canadian Oil rose ⅛, Algoma Steel ⅜, Canada Cement ⅛ and Aluminium ⅛.

On the exchange index, industrials rose .37 to 533.65 and western oils .32 at 96.72. Golds slipped .36 to 95.50 and base metals .26 at 184.55. The 11 a.m. volume was 282,000 shares compared with 346,000 at the same time Tuesday.

In base metals, Falconbridge advanced ¼, while losses of ⅛ point were taken by Consolidated Mining and Smelting and International Nickel. Northgate was best among speculatives, rising five cents to 91.75.

Prices were thoroughly mixed with industrials and golds edging modestly on index, and base metals and western oils rising fractionally.

Banks were weakest in the main list with all five listed issues showing minus signs. Royal was hardest hit, falling two points. Montreal and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce both declined a point. Consolidated Paper fell ⅛ and Price Brothers one point.

Gainers included Abitibi, Calgary Power and Walker-Goodham, all up ⅛, Moore Corporation more than ¼ and Ontario Wholesale ½. Best gain was to Canada Packers B, ahead three points to 31.

On the exchange index, industrials dipped .19 to 533.08 and golds .36 at 95.20. Closing volume was 1,277,000 shares—highest since last July 3.

tion on Canada's mineral industry says the only known caesium deposits are at Bernic Lake, Man.; Karabib in South West Africa, and Bikita in Southern Rhodesia.

"Although caesium still is considered a rare element, it may well become a tonnage commodity in the future," the department says.

"The United States has no established reserves of caesium and the Canadian deposits at Bernic Lake, with reserves estimated at more than 150,000 tons, may eventually become of considerable strategic importance."

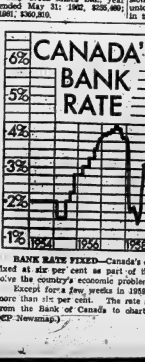
Rubidium also is being tested as a propellant for ionic-drive rocket engines. It is found as a minor element in many minerals and is more abundant than lead in the earth's crust.

Rubidium is recovered as a byproduct from sodium-lithium pegmatites. More than 1,800 tons of the material is contained in ores found at Bernic Lake.

Caesium also is being tested as the active agent in experimental converters to convert heat to electricity. It is used at present to convert light into electricity in such devices as photomultiplier tubes and in infrared lamps, telescopes and binoculars.

Dr. E. S. Jones Conducts Albert College Meet

Dr. E. Stanley Jones, world famous evangelist, missionary (to India since 1907), and author, is conducting the Canadian Ashram, Albert College, in Belleville, July 1-6.



The Americans Ashrams are religious retreats which originated in India. The keynote of the Indian Ashrams is discipline and simplicity. Dr. Jones has taken the Indian framework and put into it a Christian content.

Dr. Jones divides his time almost equally between his work in India and in the United States and has lived more than half his life in India. He now devotes most of his time to the Christian Ashrams and to Evangelistic Missions. His Ashrams and Missions have enriched the lives of untold numbers of people both in the United States and India.

BANK RATE FIXED—Canada's central bank rate has been fixed at six per cent as part of the government's drive to solve the country's economic problems.

Except for a few weeks in 1958 the rate has never been more than six per cent. The rate sets the interest for loans from the Bank of Canada to chartered banks and others.—(CP Newsmap).

Children Set Fire to Straw Against End of Horse Barn

A fire which might otherwise have been disastrous, was detected by an employee of the Northern Electric plant yesterday afternoon. He discovered a blaze at the end of the horse barns at the city fair grounds.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance said the blaze was started by children playing with matches. The fire was started in a pile of straw and cardboard against the end of the barns where about 20 horses were stabled. A box of matches was found at the scene.

The blaze was extinguished before any damage was caused. Fire extinguishers were supplied by the Northern Electric Company until the fire department arrived.

The fire department has asked the co-operation of parents in keeping matches away from their children.

Little Girl Hit by Car Crossing Road

A two-year-old Belleville girl narrowly escaped death, as she wandered across highway 401 Tuesday evening, but only received minor abrasions.

Provincial Police here said Mavis Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Morris of R. R. 6, Belleville was struck by a car travelling east, driven by Kenneth Hogan of 242 William Street, Kingston.

Constable J. E. McAllister of the Ontario Provincial Police, investigating officer said the child had already crossed the west bound lanes of the highway and had started across the eastbound lanes when she was struck.

He said Mr. and Mrs. Morris live on the north side of highway 401 and the house is located about one quarter of a mile north of the highway. It is believed she crawled through a fence before reaching the highway.

Constable McAllister said that the driver remained after proceeding west, noticing the little girl as she was crossing the westbound lanes. He said the driver slammed on his brakes and pulled onto the shoulder of the road, to avoid hitting her. He then jumped from his cab and raced toward the child, who was heading directly for the eastbound lanes of traffic, but was unable to reach her in time, before being struck by the eastbound car.

which would have sold, new, at that time for 1,950 pesos was advertised recently at 3,000 pesos.

Cameras, binoculars, paintings, gold and silver have been snapped up as "long-term investments." Huge sums are paid for frogs and watches. Television sets and phonograph sets are valued in newspaper advertisements at three times their new purchase price.

On May 13, Havana's 16 top restaurants, now open for a state, doubled and even trebled the prices of their dishes. Each displayed an official order describing the move as "an anti-inflationary measure."

Restaurant staffs gloomily forecast that they would soon have to close, but scores of families still feel it worthwhile to pay six pesos for a steak three inches in diameter and one solitary potato, or two pesos for a bowl of onion soup.

Cubs, Scouts Hold Father, Son Camp

The 15th Belleville Cubs and Scouts held their first annual "Father and Son" camp at Lavallee Tent Park, north of Coe Hill, over the weekend of June 24th, 23 Cubs and Scouts and 24 fathers attended. Those who could went to camp Friday night with the remainder arriving on Saturday morning. Saturday afternoon the Cubs and Scouts met the fathers in a softball game with the fathers winning by a narrow margin. Saturday night, the campers gathered on the beach for a wiener roast where the wieners and buns took quite a beating.

On Sunday morning, Mr. Powell, student minister of the Coe Hill United Church, held a special service for the boys and their fathers at the beach. Although the tents, the boys and their fathers were sore, what dampened by the heavy rains on Sunday, their spirits weren't, and it is unanimously agreed to make the father and son camp an annual affair.

The Cubs, Scouts and fathers of the 15th Belleville wish to thank Dr. and Mrs. Russell Scott, Mr. Norris Cross from the park superintendent for their wonderful co-operation and help in making their first annual "Father and Son" camp such an outstanding success.

VC MEN TO MEET

LONDON (Reuters) — Holders of the Victoria Cross from all parts of the world will hold their third reunion here July 17. Nine holders of the highest British award for bravery in action will come from France and two from the United States.

Frederick David Arthur Tickell, recent graduate of Osgoode Hall in Toronto, where he received his LLB. degree.

Mr. Tickell is married to the former Sheron Clarke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Clarke, 360 Bridge St. East, Belleville, and is now employed with the firm of Jolliffe, Lewis and Caley in Toronto.

Beer Cut Off, Teenagers Riot

RUSSELS POINT, Ohio (AP) Firemen wielding high pressure water hoses quelled a rowdy mob of teen-agers and college-age youths early today.

Highway patrolmen, firemen and other law enforcement deputies rushed to this west central Ohio resort area after the crowds, estimated as high as 1,000 to 1,500, began rioting late Tuesday night.

The patrol said about 19 arrests were made.

The rioting began in a boat dock area along the boardwalk. "Someone cut off our beer!" was heard as one explanation for the shenanigans.

Still In Love After 44 Years

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—I saw the letter in the paper about the woman that is 43 and going with a man ten years younger than she is.

Well, I have been married 44 years and my husband is ten years younger than I am. I am going to tell you I would not part with him for the whole world.

He has a lot to put up with as I am in a wheel chair, and I have my leg off above the knee. He is Ukrainian and I am Scotch.

So, my dear, I think it is the way you live and the way you work together that makes the home. We have little words sometimes but it blows over soon as one of us gives in, and it is over. God bless you and thanks for all you have done for me.—HEART BREAKER.

DEAR HEART BREAKER—"One of us gives in." It appears you take turns. Forty-four years of marriage prove that it works. Young couples of forty or fifty—take note.

DEAR DORIS—I am a widow in my early sixties and was left with a farm. I know I am going to have to make a change very soon. I have no family of my own, but have two brothers older than I am living in Manitoba. Both are married and have their own to think about.

I have lived here for over twenty years. Now I was wondering if I left here and went to another province, is there any more trouble when applying for a pension? Are there older peoples' clubs or such in a city? Is there any light work one could get to do besides baby sitting? I am quite handy at sewing and needlework and like doing it.

At present I am quite healthy and have always lived a very active life as far as work is concerned and feel I can't sit down and do nothing but get my own food ready. I would be glad to hear a social worker's view on this. — MRS. R. R.

DEAR MRS. R. R.—Taking a leap from farm to city, at sixty, may well be frightening. But many have landed on their feet!

A busy gal like you is still young in spirit, and that's what counts. There are Golden Age Clubs, Seniors' Clubs, Volunteer Bureaus. And there are good neighbors in cities, too.

As for the old age pension, this is federal and available anywhere in Canada without trouble.

Why not move near to your brothers? It keeps one young to make friends of the toddlers and young people who call you Auntie.

CONFIDENTIAL TO UNCERTAIN — Just recently I talked with a girl who went around with one boy for the last six years. Had never dated anybody else. She is 22. He is 23.

Within two months of their marriage, with all plans made, he broke off with her. Not because he stopped loving her, but because he panicked at the finality of marriage. Felt cornered. And that was because he had never been out with anyone else.

It may seem tough, but if at 16 your boy friend's parents are objecting to his being serious with you, setting him free is the best thing you can do. If he comes back, he will have chosen you for sure.

(Teen-agers need help in growing up. Doris Clark is a trained social worker who can advise you about your problem. Write her a letter.)

In the Swim

By ALICE ALDEN

It used to be that one, or at most two, bathing suits saw a girl through the summer season. But nowadays we like a whole wardrobe of swim suits.

And no wonder, when we are confronted with such a delightful selection of beach beauties, all so flattering!

This maillot is of knit that softly sculpts the figure. The fabric is lightweight stretch nylon and spandex and comes in such handsome hues as turquoise, yellow, purple and hot pink.

Welcomed Unexpected Guests With Speedy Shrimp And Potato Casserole

by Mary Moore

Speed is the qualifying virtue of this dish.
It is designed to be made at a moment's notice from supplies you have on hand at the summer cottage. If a carload of unexpected relatives finds its way down your driveway, be calm. Greet them with all the composure in the world. Offer them some cool drinks and excuse yourself and retire to the kitchen.

Bring out this recipe from your summer cottage file and make

1 14-oz. package fresh frozen deveined shrimp, 1 package au gratin potatoes, 1 10-oz. can of whole or sliced mushrooms or mushroom pieces, 1-3 cup chopped celery or chopped green pepper, 1 tablespoon butter, 3¾ cups boiling water.

The first 3 ingredients for this dish you should keep on hand for emergencies during your vacation period. The shrimp (cost $1.89 and must be kept frozen solid in your freezer compartment). The package of au gratin potatoes and the can of mushrooms can be kept on the pantry shelf. If you do not have any celery or green pepper and cannot get either at the local fetiching post don't worry.

Open the package of frozen shrimp and tip them into a large casserole. If used a pound one measuring 9½ x 2¾". because the contents of this dish require stirring half way through baking time. Add the potatoes out of the package and the drained mushrooms (reserving liquid and the chopped green pepper if you have used). Mix with the butter. Mix these ingredients. Sprinkle contents of envelope containing cheese-sauce mix (from package of au gratin potatoes) over top. Now pour over all 3¾ cups of liquid — made up of measured mushroom liquid and boiling water. (I had ½ cup of liquid from my can of mushrooms so added 2¾ cups boiling water to fit and poured it over mixture in casserole.) Stir carefully to mix. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 45 to 50 minutes, stirring 2 or 3 times during baking period. These amounts serve 5 or 6.

NOTE:

If desired you may sprinkle more grated old Cheddar or Parmesan cheese over top of dish if desired for additional flavor. If you have to extend the dish you could add more shrimp or a 7-oz. can of lobster or a can of oysters or clams.

WEDNESDAY
Dinner Menu

Beef Loaf; Mushroom Gravy; Butter Beans; Oven French Fries; Tossed Greens; Ice Cream with Raspberry Topping; Crisp Sugar Cookies (see Tuesday); Tea.

Shower Held For July Bride-to-Be

READ — Mrs. Joseph Walsh of Read, was hostess at the shower for Miss Carm Walsh of Shannonville, who is to be married this month. Approximately 45 ladies attended, and were welcomed by the Hostess at the door.

The room was decorated with pink and white streamers with colorful balloons filled with confetti. A few contests were held with prizes going to Miss Monica Walsh and Mrs. Bob O'Brien of Belleville, and Mrs. Carl Hubbard, of Kingston.

Following the contests a cradle, which is over 100 years old, filled with gifts, was carried into the room by Mrs. Joseph Walsh and Mrs. Walter Matuschewsky.

After Carm opened the gifts with the help of her three young nieces, Sharon, Mary and Anna Matuschewsky, she thanked everyone and extended a warm welcome for everyone to come and visit them.

The hostess and her assistants served lunch, followed by a social hour.

Guests were present from Kingston, Toronto, Oshawa, Marysville, Read, Shannonville and Belleville.

First Woman Guides Debate In Assembly

QUEBEC (CP)—Mrs. Claire Kirkland - Casgrain, first and only woman legislature member, Tuesday night established another first in Quebec politics. She became the first woman to chair a debate in the assembly.

And the opposition's sweet words of welcome turned sour when she took a no-nonsense approach to the job of chairing the House.

When Maurice Bellemare (UN — Champlain) resumed reading from a newspaper editorial, Mrs. Kirkland-Casgrain called him to order reminding him that reading printed material not directly connected with the debate in the House is not permitted.

When Opposition Leader Daniel Johnson rose on a point of order, he was told he should "conform to the decision of the chairman.

"I hope, remarked Mr. Johnson, "that under your short reign liberty will not die.

He was then in turn called to order.

P.S. Grades 7-8 Visit Museum, Fort York, Zoo

FRANKFORD — Grade 7 and 8 students of Frankford Public School journeyed by chartered bus from Frankford to Toronto on Tuesday to tour Fort York, the zoo and museum in the big city. They were accompanied by school principal, Mr. George McKay, Mr. Gary Dafoe, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford and Mrs. W.J. Branch. On their return trip they had refreshments in "The Flying Dutchman Restaurant" on Highway 401.

Bannockburn C.A. Visits Full Gospel C.A.

FRANKFORD — Friday evening Bannockburn C.A's and pastor were guests of Frankford Full Gospel C.A's.

Frankford C.A. president, Mr. Keith Hein, opened the meeting by welcoming everyone and singing the C.A. theme chorus. Mr. Glen Post led in prayer.

The Rev. Art Gallagher, of Bannockburn took charge of the service. Song leader was Miss Donna Ramsay.

Mrs. G. Carey led in prayer and Mrs. J. Donley and Mr. A. Gallagher sang the duet "When He Reached Down His Hand For Me."

Mr. Glen Post conducted testimonies and chorus singing time.

Mrs. A. Gallagher sang the solo, "The Blood That Stained The Old Rugged Cross." Mr. Gallagher of Bannockburn brought the evening message from I Peter: 2:11 speaking on "The Results of a Pleasure Seeking Life". The service closed with a time of prayer.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Franklin Hamilton are shown cutting the wedding cake following their marriage in Cooper United Church. The bride is the former Miss Janet Reynolds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Reynolds, of Madoc, R.R. 3. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Burrell Hamilton, of Trenton R.R. 5.

HAMILTON — REYNOLDS

Cooper United Church was the setting on Saturday, June 16, at high noon for a very pretty summer wedding when Janet Anne Reynolds, of Madoc, R. R. No. 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Reynolds, became the bride of Ronald Franklin Hamilton, of Trenton, R. R. 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burrell Hamilton. The ceremony was solemnized by the Reverend George Ambury before a lovely background of mauve and white gladioli interspersed with ferns and orange blossoms. White satin bows, centred with sprigs of orange blossom, designated the guest pews.

Mrs. Fred Bailey, organist, presided for the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Harold Hargis, in his rendition of "The Wedding Prayer", during the ceremony and "O Perfect Love", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiantly lovely in her floor-length bridal gown of imported petit-point lace, with molded bodice having a Sabrina neckline delicately accented with seeded pearls. The long sheer-lilly sleeves ended in lily-points and the fully bouffant skirt, worn over many crinolines, was complemented with a waist to hemline tiered bustle-back of tulle and lace. She wore a circular crown of imported pearl-lined orange blossoms at the top of the veil by holding the four-tiered hand-scalloped illusion tulle veil, and carried a white bible crested with a cascade of red roses.

Her maid of honor and sister, Miss Nancy Reynolds, and the bridesmaids, Miss Gloria Parks, friend of the bride, and Mrs. Gibson Petterson, were gowned identically in Kyoto mauve silk organza featuring fully flared skirts and fitted bodices having rounded décolletes accented with a tie-at-the-back bow bolero woven through lincets at the bottom with deeper mauve velvet ribbon. They wore white organza petalled pillboxes with circular over-the-face veils, white accessories, and carried baskets of yellow and mauve mums mingled with white carnations. Chiffured pearl necklaces with matching earrings, gifts of the bride, completed their ensembles.

The little flower girl, Miss Becky Groves, of Sarnia, cousin of the bridegroom, was dainty and demure in her white frilly frock with beaded dress, fashioned identically to that of the bridesmaids. She carried flowers similar to the other attendents.

Master Stephen Groves was ring-bearer and carried a heart-shaped white satin pillow for the double-ring ceremony.

Mr. Allan Hamilton attended his brother as groomsman, while Mr. John Reynolds, cousin of the bride, and Mr. Robert Hamilton, brother of the bride-groom, ushered.

The reception was held at Cooper Hall, where the bridal table was appointed with the traditional white damask, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake, topped with bells, love birds and wedding rings, and misted about the base with bells tulle. Tall white candles in silver holders and the bridal flowers completed the nuptial setting.

The guests were received by the bride's aunt bridegroom's mothers; the former wearing a Copen blue sheath of triple sheer crepe with matching hat of French flowers; white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations; while the latter was in blue grisbel silk designed with a fitted bodice and full skirt of Copen blue, white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

The bride, previous to her marriage, was the honor guest at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Miss Kay Mathews, with Mrs. Herb Brady as co-hostess; at a presentation of crystal by the Electric Motor Sales and Service and the Belleville Acme Electric, where the bride was employed.

On June 27, the Cooper and Remington community gathered at the home of the bride's parents, Consecon, for the bride and bridegroom with an automatic teacup and saucer, and June 29 the community of Johnstown gathered at the home of the bridegroom's parents and presented them with a miscellaneous shower.

Those who served at the reception included Misses Elizabeth Rollins; Lea ht' Veld; Gayle Pitts; Eileen Pitt; Sandra Graham; Myra Moncrieff; Heather Chapman and Beth Chapman, all friends of the bride.

Guests were present from Toronto; Amherst Island; Napanee; Belleville; Trenton; Consecon; Sarnia; Deseronto; Ancaster; Ottawa; Stirling and Cooper.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton will reside at Trenton, R.R. 5.

Weddings

DEACON — DURNO

St. Andrew's Presbyterian church was the setting for a lovely afternoon wedding on Saturday, June 30th, at four o'clock when Miss Beverley Karen Durno, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Durno was united in marriage to Mr. Robert Donald Gordon Deacon, son of Mrs. Fred Hicks Deacon and the late Mr. Fred Deacon, and the late Mr. F. H. Deacon. Rev. R. D. MacLean, minister of the church, was the officiating clergyman.

Pink gladioli and pink daisy chrysanthemums were arranged with white football chrysanthemums in tall standards to grace the chancel.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride entered the church looking radiant in a floor length gown of dove white Gros de Londres and Chantilly lace. The lace bodice had a scoop neckline and bracelet length sleeves. The bell-shaped skirt had two panels of Gros de Londres holding the all-lace chapel train. With this the bride wore a pearl crown headdress holding a shoulder length pearls veil of tulle illusion. The bride's bouquet was of red sweetheart roses, white roses and stephanotis.

Miss Heather Durno, sister of the bride, was maid of honor gowned in powder blue chromespun taffeta with an all-lace apron fitted bodice, bracelet cummerbund scoop neckline and bracelet length sleeves. The gown was styled in a short length, smooth at the front and back, with panniers at the hips and back. She carried a nosegay of pink rosebuds and small white chrysanthemums with headdress to match.

Bridesmaids and ushers were the bridesmaids, Miss Donna Durno and Miss Shirley Donegan of Toronto, cousins of the bride; and Miss Donna Bine of Belleville.

Mr. Fred Deacon attended his brother as groomsmen, and the ushers were Mr. Douglas Durno, brother of the groom; Mr. Douglas Durno, brother of the bride; Mr. Douglas Walters of Toronto; and Mr. James Spencer of Belleville. The bride's and groom's attendants were Directoire gowns of white lace over grey striped trousers and gray waistcoats.

The wedding music was played by Mr. R. D. Robertson at the organ and the soloist was Mrs. Robert Hough who sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer".

The wedding reception was held at the Quinte Country Club at the Hotel Quinte where the bride's mother received wearing a gown of blue silk, and the bodice accented with Chantilly lace. Her matching hat was of pure silk organza pleated in high crown crushe encircled with pale grey velvet. With this the bride's mother wore Valiman roses.

The bride's table was centred with the wedding cake, around which were arranged pink roses of the wedding party. White candles in candelabra added to the effective decoration.

For their wedding trip to a Chateau in the Laurentians and visits to Montreal and Quebec City, the bride wore a two-piece ensemble of parchment blue and white floral Italian cavalcade, with white sailor hat, white gloves, shoes and bag and a white gardenia.

Guests were present from Evanston, Ill., Fort Erie, Ont., Niagara Falls, Ottawa, Toronto, Fort Perry, Centralia, Corbyville and Belleville.

Prior to her marriage the bride was honored with showers at the home of Mrs. Douglas Durno and Miss Donna Durno; also Mrs. Jack Donegan and Miss Shirley Donegan, all of Toronto, where relatives and friends of Belleville. The bride with many lovely gifts. Mrs. R. E. Purdy was hostess at a tea given at her home. A coffee party was given by Mrs. P. O. Jeffrey of Belleville with Mrs. Ralph Ketchenson and Mrs. C. Ryan as co-hostesses where a presentation was made of china and silver, Mrs. A. S. Lewis entertained at a cocktail party at her home on Queen Street. Her fellow teachers at Queen Alexandra school presented the bride with a Corningware party set and St. Andrew's Presbyterian choir, which the bride was a member gave her a gift of a cornflower blue candy jar.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Donald Gordon Deacon are pictured following their marriage in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. The bride is the former Miss Beverley Karen Durno, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Durno of Belleville. The groom is the son of Mrs. Fred Hicks Deacon and the late Mr. Fred Deacon. TEES TO HALT DROP BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The Argentine government launched an all-out effort Tuesday to halt the plunge of the Argentine peso. Economy Minister Alvaro Alsogaray announced export-import measures which he hopes will stabilize the peso at about 100 to the U.S. dollar. It plunged to 136 to the dollar Friday.

W.I. Hears Talk on Robarts Plan

WALLBRIDGE — The June meeting of the Wallbridge Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Omar Chisholm with an excellent attendance.

Mrs. Don Shorey, 2nd vice-president, was in charge and opened the meeting in the usual manner. Mrs. S. C. Hinchcliffe, secretary-treasurer, read the minutes of the annual meeting and the list of new officers. The correspondence was also read and dealt with.

A donation of $10 was voted to the Salvation Army.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Barriage introduced the guest speaker, Mr. G. Locklin of Quinte Secondary School.

Mr. Locklin spoke on the new system of education, the Robarts plan. This will be started in Belleville and many Ontario schools in September, 1962. Although it is not compulsory.

At present, only about four pupils of every 100 entering high school ever graduate from University. Today about 21 per cent of the working class are unskilled laborers, by 1970 it is estimated there will only be about 12 per cent, thus the urgent need to educate young people.

At present Canada is about 20 years behind Europe in training skilled workers which is why so many skilled tradesmen are from Europe. The objective is to fit more of Canada's young people for these jobs.

Mr. Locklin went on to explain the three new courses and what each entailed and the possibilities of each saying that the two-year terminal course will be taught at B.C.I. only as yet.

The roll call was answered by each member asking Mr. Locklin a question which he answered. This was most interesting and informative and quite a lively discussion followed.

Mrs. D. Shorey thanked Mr. Locklin and presented him with a small token of appreciation.

Each member is asked to bring a birthday card to the next meeting, to send to one aged in the County Home.

Mrs. Allen Spencer gave some current events, saying that the first milk bottle was used in 1778.

Thank you letters were read from Mrs. Gaudaur and Mrs. Nicholson.

The lunch committee served a delicious lunch that included ice cream with strawberries.

Handsome Homespun

By VERA WINSTON

There is beauty and color in the homespun woollens that are loomed in Central and South America.

A rich navy and white homespun from Central America is the fabric used for a jacket dress, while five pairs with the dress, would be equally appropriate with other things.

A fine vacation outfit!

Memorial Service Held By Lodges

STIRLING — Due to inclement weather the annual memorial and decoration service of Stirling Lodge No. 239 I.O.O.F. and Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 211 was held on Sunday afternoon in the I.O.O.F. Lodge hall with many visitors in attendance from other points in the district.

Flowers were deposited on the large cross in memory of the departed sisters, read by the Immediate Past Noble Grand Nora Wannamaker. She was assisted by Noble Grand Hilda Rose, Vice-Grand Joyce Richardson and acting chaplain Edna Fox.

Following the service the group paraded to the cenotaph and placed a wreath in memory of those who made the supreme sacrifice in the two World Wars. A period of silence was observed and "Last Post" sounded by Bert Jones.

OLD COLLEGE

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mrs. I. B. — He refuses to entertain his brother on the campus.

Mrs. I. B. — We have two sons, the years apart in age. The older one, Jeff, is 21 and is remaining at college over the summer to earn credits toward a graduate degree in fine arts. Since our younger boy has no special plans, we've asked Jeff to invite him up to the Maine campus for a week, or at least a long weekend. Ronny was up there two years ago with my husband and me, and loves the place. But Jeff says no. He thinks we've just pampering Ronny by letting him get away from home.

The truth is that Ronny is at an awkward stage. He's too old for camp and loves to be among adults and older students. Most of the kids his age bore him. He's extremely bright, an A student. We feel he'll find just the right group of friends when he's older. Meanwhile, Jeff should help us add to his contacts and experiences.

Jeffry B. — Ronny insists on ignoring all the attractions which are right in his own back yard. Instead he took pleasure to him, especially the ones around me. The truth is he's an obsession toward most of the kids in the neighborhood and he has no reason to be. He's bashful, yes, but he can learn plenty from them, even if they don't get A's. They know how to be friendly and how to fill their time pleasantly. They don't walk around moping with a long face on them, like Ronny.

What gets me is the way my parents fall for his big act. He's always at home, he has no friends, he has nothing to do. Boohoo. So what? So send him up to Jeff. Jeff will cheer him up. They're also planning to send him to Virginia to visit our uncle, and maybe to Canada for a French course. They should force him to join in with the teenagers at home instead of being so standoffish.

The Council: Jeff knows all the rules. Now he must learn about the legitimate exceptions. In general, yes, a teenager should hobnob with teenagers. Most of them do. But occasionally one of them, for a psychologically valid reason, is a holdout. We believe this is true of Ronny and that's his deviation from the norm is a temporary one, not an ingrained isolationism.

In finding some justification for Ronny's dim view of local pickin's, we point out to Jeff the circumstances which may make his brother a "special case." Being a 6-year-younger brother, he's grown up to the tune of advanced and adult conversation. He's always been a bit bone with older age groups. This, in turn, may have made him rather poor company for his contemporaries.

Who knows but that his early efforts at joining in, at becoming one of the guys, met with rebuff? He may have been hurt and discouraged by finding his "crash" groups were the only neuters, leads (for him) were age and neighborhood. It isn't necessarily snobbery which makes Ronny keep his distance. It may well be self-protection. And forcing him to mix loyally, as Jeff suggests, might result in further emotional hurts and really turn him antisocial.

No, we agree with Mrs. B., who hopes that Ronny will enrich his social scene through far-ranging personal contacts during his period of his life when his peers and he may not see eye to eye mentally and emotionally. By the time Ronny reaches college age, two factors will ease his way socially. First, glaring differences in height, weight, tastes and talents aren't as conspicuous on a college campus as on a high school playground. Second, there's a varied in-gathering of young people, providing a wide choice of friends; attachments occur through similarities of outlook and enthusiasms, crossing lines of age and background.

Ronny will find his comfortable niche in a few years. Meanwhile Jeff should cooperate in permitting his brother to get experiences from a larger pool than runs in his own shoe. The important thing is that he learn how to enjoy a group. It doesn't matter where.

Mother's Helper

THE LEARNING experiences your children have in school, scouts, or other organizations are valuable. But there's nothing like practical application or amplification at home to bring them experiences to life. For example, your daughter may become an expert cook if you encourage her to create in your kitchen. Make light of her mistakes, praise her successes (by eating them).

PLAN TO REVIEW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western powers taking part in 17-nation Geneva disarmament conference plan a general review of their disarmament proposals before the conference resumes July 16, U.S. officials said Monday night preliminary talks among United States, British, Italian, and Canadian disarmament experts will probably get under way in Washington late this week.

The Experts Say

Never Re-freeze Frozen Food Allowed to Thaw

By PATRICIA RUBAK

TORONTO (CP) — Mothers who worry about food poisoning in the summer should relax.

Experts at the poison control centre of the Hospital for Sick Children here say food poisoning rates are low because it doesn't occur more frequently in summer than in winter.

Nevertheless, strawberry shortcake and other creamy delights should not be left out in the open too long, especially when there are people around.

Dairy products, particularly cream puddings and whipped cream, at warm temperatures (above 45 degrees) are fertile foods for the development of staphylococci, bacteria which when eaten can result in attacks of nausea, vomiting, diarrhea and abdominal pain within 2½ to three hours.

These bacteria, found in our skin and throats, escape to the air when we breathe.

Meat, fish and fowl must be kept refrigerated because any type of raw muscle fibre at warm temperatures supports bacterial growth.

KEEP IT COLD

With refrigeration and common sense, housewives can take many precautions to keep foods free from the risk of causing bacterial food poisoning.

Don't buy frozen food unless it is fully frozen at the time of purchase. And if something that has been frozen has been allowed to thaw don't try to refreeze it.

Frozen foods prepared with eggs, meat, milk or gravy should be served within two hours or be refrigerated. Leftovers should be refrigerated until being reheated or served again.

Salads, especially with potato, chicken, salmon, shrimp and pork, should be prepared only a short time before serving and even then kept under refrigeration in shallow layers until served. Extra amounts of these salads should never be kept for any length of time.

Preparing picnic sandwiches in advance is a time-saver but they should be eaten within four hours of the time they are removed from refrigeration.

WHAT TO DO

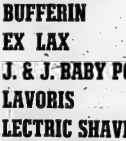
Experts at the poison control centre regard food poisoning as mainly a commercial problem, most often coming as a sequel to weddings, church picnics or suppers for which large quantities of food have been prepared a day or more in advance. As individual, family seldom is it stricken.

When mild symptoms appear the only thing that can be done at home is to put the victim on a clear liquid diet and make sure he gets rest. If the symptoms are severe, the family physician may prescribe antibiotics. When they are prolonged for more than a day and the victim becomes weaker, a doctor must be called. The illness may be caused by something entirely different from food poisoning.

Although cooking temperatures will kill most bacteria, it is no guarantee of safety because staphylococcus toxins will not be destroyed. Best thing is to prevent the bacteria from getting a chance to produce their poisons in foods.

Holy Rosary CWL Plans 'Harvest Tea'

Holy Rosary Catholic Women's League met in Holy Rosary School last evening to plan and work for the annual "Harvest Tea" and bazaar which is to be held early in October.



Mrs. J. Eliard, convener, and Mrs. M. Waller co-convener appointed the conveners for the various booths and told out the summer work program.

The remainder of the evening was spent in making of novelties.

Lucky draw prize was won by Mrs. J. Doran.

Lunch was served following the work party and a social time spent.

Secretary Making Good Forming Firm to Make 2-Foot High Ashtrays

By JIM PEACOCK

SEATTLE (CP)—Leona Sidler is a non-smoker who says she has no intention of starting the cigarette habit.

But she's hoping to clean up on ashtrays.

"I've never smoked," said the Saskatchewan - born Miss Sidler, who grew up in Oliver, B.C. "But in my work I've had to collect a lot of ashtrays."

The 33-year-old brown-eyed blonde spent a dozen years in office work, first as secretary-receptionist to a doctor in Oliver and then, for eight years, as secretary in oil company offices in Calgary.

She came to Seattle 1½ years ago, planning to stop by the sea for several months while working her way to points farther south, possibly South America.

Now, however, her association with ashtrays—she heads a company here producing two-foot-high space needle ashtrays for sale as souvenirs of the World's Fair—is likely to keep her in Seattle indefinitely.

The metal floor - model ashtray is patterned after the 600-foot-high space needle that towers over the Century 21 fair grounds here.

WORKED NEAR FAIR

"The idea just struck me and I pursued it," Miss Sedler said in an interview.

It struck her as she worked as secretary to a promotion firm which had offices on the fourth floor of a building near the fair grounds. From her office she watched the daily progress of construction of the space needle.

Then one day while emptying an office ashtray, the idea struck.

She sought out designers Herb Mandlon and Ivo Pagleseu at the University of Washington, obtained permission from Space Needle Incorporated to proceed with the plan and raised the financial backing to start production. In the first run, 10,000 of the metal ashtrays were turned out.

The attractive Miss Sidler, born in Munroe, Sask., near Yorkton, and raised in Oliver where she was a high school basketball player and a soprano in the South Okanagan Choral Society, said she hopes the idea will bring in some profits.

"But anyway," she added, "I've gained a wealth of experience from it all."

TO DECIDE FUTURE

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain announced today it will convene a conference in November to decide the future of the African state of Nyasaland.

SELLS ASHTRAY SOUVENIRS—Leona Sidler, 33-year-old Canadian, sits with the two-foot-high ashtrays her company is producing as souvenirs of the Seattle World's Fair. Chatterton W.I. Sponsors School Party

On Sunday the annual school party was held at Turner's school. Several parents of the pupils and W.I. members were present. (The regular meeting of the W.I. was held on June 14th).

A dialogue entitled, "Builders of Canada," based on Dominion Day was presented by the pupils. The following songs were sung, accompanied by Mrs. Tummon on the piano: "O Canada"; "The Keel Row"; "Frere Jacques"; "Home on the Range"; "There'll Always Be An England".

PRIZES DONATED

The Institute donated prizes, consisting of silver dollars, to the pupils who had made the most improvement in the following subjects, writing, arithmetic, reading and spelling; also prizes were given for attendance and proficiency.

The presentations made by Mrs. F. MacInnes were: junior room, writing — Irene Abrams; arithmetic — Morris Golden; reading — Clarence Reid; spelling — Brenda Gulliver; attendance — Richard Rose, Bobby Smith (as there was a tie in attendance, the principal, Mr. Tully and teacher, Mrs. Tummon donated one of the prizes. Proficiency — Ronald Prest.

On behalf of the Institute Mrs. E. De Mille thanked Mr. Tully and Mrs. Tummon for the lovely program which was both interesting and entertaining.

Refreshments were served by the W.I. Ladies.

BARS CAN SELL LIQUOR

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — For the first time in 36 years bars are selling alcoholic beverages legally in New Brunswick. Interim licences have been granted two hotels to permit sale of liquor, beer and wine in dining rooms. Previously, sale of alcoholic beverages has been legal only by the bottle through government liquor stores.

Neighbors' Aid Young Folks Hold Social

2ND THURLOW — The young folks of the Neighbors Aid arranged a successful ice cream and strawberry social on Friday evening at the Aid hall. Salads, cake, pickles, celery were served to well over 200, besides many children. Thanks are extended to the younger folks for the well planned and worthwhile social and to all who so generously helped in any way.

Engineering One Profession Women Have Not Penetrated

MONTREAL (CP) — Engineering is one profession in Canada that women haven't yet penetrated to any significant degree. Is there a chance they may yet move into this nearly all-male realm? Or do they want to?

A sampling of delegates to the annual meeting here of the Canadian Engineering Institute of Canada indicates that the men haven't much to worry about, at least for the foreseeable future.

Dr. Arthur Porter, professor of industrial engineering at the University of Toronto, said that unlike the Soviet Union where 34 per cent of the engineers are women, "less than one-half of per cent of the annual output of graduate engineers in Canada are women."

His own university this year graduated two women out of a class of 400.

He said there "wasn't a job offered these new engineers that a woman couldn't have handled."

David Myers, dean of applied science at the University of British Columbia which has graduated only male engineers in the last several years, said the problem seems to be that women regard engineering "as a man's field."

WON'T HIRE WOMEN

"Women think they'll be considered strange if they carry a slide rule or wear an iron ring." He said in a typical male fashion they discouraged women from entering the field.

He said management fears it will lose female engineers eventually through marriage. Some question a "woman's ability to fit into the organization."

J. G. Ripley, a Toronto construction engineer, put it this way in defence of management:

"I just can't see a woman out swinging an axe with a survey party or standing in a mud hole all day. And if you have one member of a survey party that isn't pulling his — or her — weight, then your crew is weak by one member."

"If I were in a position to hire a woman engineer, I don't think I would."

Dean Myers agreed that women may not fit into some fields of the profession, particularly creative engineering. But they would be well suited for chemical, aeronautical, electronic and electrical engineering.

Advantages of Floating, Fixed Rates Combined in Recent B of C Action

By FORBES REUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The Bank of Canada's announcement June 24 that the bank rate had been fixed at 5½ per cent might be described as the "large print" in its statement of that day. . . .

The "small print" was its further statement that it was also prepared to enter into purchase and resale agreements with money market dealers at a rate of interest ¼ of one per cent above the average rate on three-month treasury bills at the preceding weekly tender, or at the bank rate, whichever is lower.

This appears to attempt to combine the advantages of a fixed rate with those of the old floating rate.

The fixed rate might be called a "signalling" rate, but others wise much the same situation as before remains because; under the floating formula the bank rate was set at ¼ of one per cent above the average rate on three-month treasury bills.

In Canada this central bank rate has little direct effect on interest rates. It is the rate the Bank of Canada charges on loans to chartered banks, but ordinarily these are relatively small.

In Britain, on the other hand, many bank loan and deposit rates are directly tied to the bank rate and go up and down with it.

Because of the small effect of the Canadian bank rate on general interest rates, the Bank of Canada for years apparently found the floating rate satisfactory and there is no clear evidence that it has changed its mind.

Critics of the floating rate preferred a fixed rate because changes in it would constitute a "signal" to chartered banks of what the central bank was thinking.

In the present situation it would appear that the Bank of Canada felt a "signal" was needed to tell the international financial world that Canada is in earnest about whatever stiffer steps may be needed.

In at least some banking circles the move to a fixed rate is regarded as not necessarily a permanent change.

The Bank of Canada's statement that it is prepared to enter into purchase and resale agreements with money market dealers may take some pressure off the chartered banks in regard to the amount of money they have available for loans. That is, the money market dealers have direct access to the Bank of Canada for funds and so may not need as much from the chartered banks.

However, the pressure on the chartered banks is likely to be as great as the central bank thinks appropriate under any given set of circumstances.

Ald. Joseph Raycroft Host To Happy Crowd of Bathers At Heated Swimming Pool

Normally the outdoor swimming pool period in this part of Ontario is confined to a short two-month period in mid-summer.

But thanks to the convenience of a heated pool, the outdoor swimming season for one group of Belleville youngsters has been extended to almost a month—from the first of May until the last of September.

The pool which has lengthened the Ontario summers is that owned by Alderman Joseph Raycroft of 296 Bridge Street East. It's a pool which would do justice even to a Hollywood socialite, but it does one better—during the swimming season the water is never below 73 degrees.

Mr. Raycroft built the backyard pool for the enjoyment of his own children but numbers of neighborhood kiddies also get in on the fun.

"We have to put it on an invitation basis," notes Mr. Raycroft, "otherwise there wouldn't be room in the pool to swim."

DAYS TO HEAT

It has dimensions of 40 by 20 feet, depths of nine feet at the deepend and just over two feet at the shallow end. It holds approximately 30,000 gallons of water and during the preparation for early season swimming it takes about four days to get the water up to the proper temperature.

The pool water is constantly filtered and is heated by a natural gas burner, both units of equipment being set up in the Raycroft garage.

A special type vacuum cleaner for underwater use sweeps up any dirt or grit which might settle into the pool overnight.

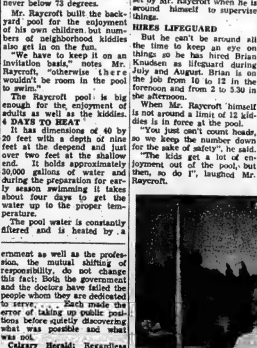
The pool is constructed of concrete and at night is floodlighted both from above the ground level and the pool itself is also lighted with underwater bulbs.

The pool has an outdoor shower under which poolusers can wet themselves before going into the pool. And a corner of the Raycroft garage has been cordoned off for use as a dressing room.

A limit of 30 kiddies using the pool at one time has been set by Mr. Raycroft when he is around himself to supervise things.

HIRES LIFEGUARD

But he can't be around all the time to keep an eye on things so he has hired Brian Knudsen as lifeguard during July and August. Brian is on the job from 10 to 12 in the forenoon and from 2 to 5:30 in the afternoon.



When Mr. Raycroft himself is not around a limit of 12 kiddies is in force at the pool.

"You just can't count heads, so we keep the number down for the sake of safety", he said.

"The kids get a lot of enjoyment out of the pool, but then, so do I", laughed Mr. Raycroft.

WHEEEEE—Says Tommie Raycroft, age 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raycroft as he sails down dippidoodle slide into the water. Sister Joanne, age 10, waits her turn at the top. Raycroft children never lack for swimming company, but for safety reasons use of pool by other children is kept on an invitation basis.

POOL GLAMOR—Relaxing under beach umbrella on pool apron are owners Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Raycroft with Mrs. Jack Raycroft (in bathing costume). Heated pool makes swimming possible from May through September.

Editorial Comment On Medicare Dispute

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Following are excerpts from editorials in representative Canadian newspapers on the medical care dispute in Saskatchewan. Except as noted, all newspaper quotes describe themselves as politically independent.

Toronto Telegram: If the new Saskatchewan law were concerned only with medical insurance, that is, how the patient pays and how the doctor receives payment, there would be room for negotiation. . . . But the (Premier) Lloyd scheme of medicare in Saskatchewan goes far beyond this. It removes from the medical profession the control of the doctors and transfers it to the government. . . . Premier Lloyd says only those would seem to be to offer, through his new medical care commission, enough money to attract doctors . . . to replace those who are leaving.

Toronto Star (Ind. Lib): Respect for law is the basis of organized society. Neither individuals nor groups have the right to set themselves above the law or resist the carrying out of legislation, passed by a duly elected legislature. . . . The Saskatchewan doctors — or at least those who are prepared to content with legitimate measures of protest, they say, instead chooses to use the strike weapon — a concerted withdrawal practice which has been abruptly left 900,000 people without medical services except in a sketchy and inadequate "emergency" facilities. . . .

Toronto Globe and Mail: The doctors of Saskatchewan have taken an action which is not open to any individual within a democracy. They have deliberately decided to disobey a statute of that province. . . . Earlier in the week this newspaper condemned the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and the Seafarers' International Union of Canada for acts of violence and intimidation outside the law. What applies to truckers and seamen applies equally to doctors.

Montreal Gazette (Ind. Con.): The tragedy of the conflict over Saskatchewan's Medical Care Insurance Act is that it has been carried to such lengths. . . . It is difficult to see how it can now be settled without either breaking the back of the medical profession in Saskatchewan, or breaking the back of the CCF party as a political force in that province.

Montreal Le Devoir: It is the medical profession that refuses to negotiate; it demanded that the law be repealed. What government could obey a strike "diktat" without giving up as a government? Was the doctors of Saskatchewan won from the legislature—if they win — they will pay for it dearly in prestige and moral authority.

Saint John Times-Globe: The Saskatchewan government has acted unwisely. If the doctors were willing to accept the proffered revisions in the medicare legislation, there were actually incorporated in the act, the government should have left it until it could accomplish this formally—preferably at a session of the legislature—rather than by order-in-council. The doctors' position, however, is equally at behest to swing to the government side if ill and injured people take to suffering because doctors keep aloof.

Halifax Chronicle-Herald: The willingness of doctors to operate is an indication of the measure of conviction in this matter. For it appears that, generally, a strike of this kind is accompanied by a financial loss.

Charlottetown Patriot: Because of this strike, human life is being placed in jeopardy and no matter what justification for it may exist, it is a strike against the constituted authority of the government of Saskatchewan. The present stage of the impasse provides a desperate demonstration of what can happen when two groups of men, both with largely closed minds, stand in obdurate, unyielding opposition to each other.

Charlottetown Guardian: It is not at all impossible for an epidemic to break out while the contending parties are wrangling over their terms, and only then? Surely common sense and recognition of the need for putting public interests first, will bring a truce to this bitter struggle before the full force of disastrous consequences.

Ottawa Citizen (Ind. Lib): The uncompromising position taken by the Saskatchewan medical profession . . . can only serve to foster more fears and tensions than the population of the province. Not content with carrying out their threatened strike action, the doctors are now attempting to throw all possible obstacles in the way of an eventual solution to the impasse. In view of the latest developments the Canadian Medical Association must bear a major responsibility for the behavior of one of its provincial affiliates.

Ottawa Journal (Ind. Con.): All the arguments from the government's side, that the Saskatchewan plan is financially sound, that it is not socialized medicine, that it is not compulsory, that it is not a step toward socialism, that it is not a step toward a state monopoly of medical practice, that it is not a step toward a state monopoly of medical practice, that it is not a step toward a state monopoly of medical practice

SPEAKING of MANNERS

SUITING THE GIFT TO THE CIRCUMSTANCE

Wondering what to bring your week-end hostess for a present? Something that complements her role, and is attractive as well as labor-saving, would be a likely candidate.

As anyone who has a Summer place in the country or at the shore can appreciate, laundry becomes a major headache, especially when the house is filled with guests on the week ends. Clean tablecloths and napkins for every meal increase the work load.

Paper cloths might be normal accessories for ordinary family meals, but many hostesses prefer to put their best linens forward when outsiders come calling. A hostess gift that combines good looks with practicality might give her a fresh slant on things.

Take place mats, for example. There's a wide variety of paper designs that are not only gay, but look very much like linen. Some have simple colored borders for lunch or dinner settings; others have bright floral patterns that look very cheery on the breakfast table, and others have motifs that suggest "barbecue," and are perfect for dining al fresco, even when company's on the agenda. These come in packages of twenty or more, and are easy on a budget-minded pocketbook.

Then there are plastic mats that are economical, and also other proof that looks can be deceiving. Some are shaped like fruits and vegetables and are perky for informal settings, both indoors and out. Others come in linen-like textures in variety of colors to suit any palate and palette. All need only a wipe with a damp cloth to put them in order for the next meal.

Quite elegant are the straw mats, which, when coupled with a simple china and sparkling glassware, can make even an informal table take on airs.

Some, a mite stronger and with a raised edge, can be filled with a paper lining and used as a dinner plate. While appropriate and decorative for relaxed settings, they have the added advantage of giving guests something to munch onto when used for a buffet, in effect, it becomes a small tray which can be dandled on the knees comfortably, and without fear that the whole thing will cave in when pressure is exerted with the fork.

Again, for buffet service, there are compartmented metallic trays that take a paper liner and, like the straw variety, stand up admirably for lap service. A friend of mine, who was given a set last Summer as a hostess gift, got so many compliments on her ingenuity that she uses them for buffets in her apartment and always gets a round of applause. The bases can be re-used if they come through a dinner party unbent, but otherwise the whole thing can be chucked out and there's no laundry involved.

So if you're looking for a hostess gift that really pleases, these are but a few suggestions that are easy on the exchequer — and easy on the hostess.

Question: My daughter, now twenty-five, was widowed two years ago and will remarry in June. Is it proper to send out engraved invitations and announcements, or is this done only for a first wedding. If so, how should they be worded? — Mrs. E.L., Philadelphia, Pa.

Answer: Engraved invitations and announcements may be sent out for the second marriage of a young widow. Both read the same as for a first marriage, except that her married name also appears. The proper wording would be: Mr. and Mrs. John Smith request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter Mary Smith Brown, etc."

Question: A couple I know very well has just become engaged. No date for the wedding has been set yet, but it probably will be in the Fall. I know what I want to give them for a wedding present, but would like to know if I should hold off sending it until a definite time has been set for the ceremony. — Mrs. L.B., New Haven, Conn.

Answer: A wedding present is sent after receipt of an invitation to the ceremony and reception. It would be wiser to hold off sending a gift until all the details are ironed out and you have received such official notification.

6th Ty...dinaga

6th TYENDINAGA — On Saturday evening friends, relatives and neighbors ga... ered at the home of Mr. a... Mrs. Arthur Boldrick ... honor them on their 35th wedding anniversary. They were the recipients of many lovely gifts from relatives. Mrs. Alton Goodman read an address on behalf of the neighbors, and Mrs. Harold Trevertson presented them with a lovely basket. Both showed everyone for the lovely gifts. Refreshments were served and all departed wishing Arthur and Irene many more happy years together.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Shaw and Douglas spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Alton Goodman and family.

Field Day was held in Plainfield on Tuesday afternoon for the North Thurlow School Area schools. Silver cups were won by the winners of the sports events.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Boldrick and Eileen had dinner on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Elliott and girls of West Huntingdon.

Mrs. Charlie Treverton, Mrs. Harold Treverton and girls, called on Mrs. Frank Treverton, Belleville, on Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Bud and boys, Belleville, spent Wednesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Boldrick and Eileen; also called on Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Boldrick.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Goodman, Belleville, spent Wednesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Boldrick.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Boldrick spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. J. Reynolds, of Carmel.

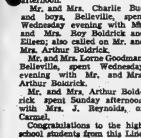
Congratulations to the high school students from this Line who all passed their exams; also the public school pupils who were successful.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Treverton and girls had dinner on Sunday with Mrs. Wilbur Treverton; also called on Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Reid, Belleville.

Mrs. Charlie Treverton, Mrs. Harold Treverton and girls called on Mrs. Stanley Hazard and John, on Tuesday afternoon. The sympathy of the community is extended to the Hazard family in the death of a loving husband and father. The funeral was held from the John R. Bush Funeral Home, on Wednesday afternoon.

The North Thurlow Area music teacher, Mrs. Groom, held her annual music festival in the hall at Plainfield, on Wednesday evening, which was largely attended by pupils, teachers and parents.

Mrs. Fred Wannamaker, Calvin and Kim, Miss Jacquerite Lancaster, and Mrs. B. Wannamaker called on Mr. and Mrs. Percy Lancaster, and Ann, on Saturday afternoon.



Mrs. C. Goodman, Belleville, spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Alton Goodman and family, and had dinner on Monday with Mrs. W. Trevertson.

The pupils, teachers and some parents of Moulds School, enjoyed a picnic in Tweed Park on Thursday. A picnic pot-luck dinner was held at noon and a ball game took place in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Trevertson and Clare had supper on Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. Archie Pitt, Madoc.

The Rev. E. J. Kersey, of Scarborough, spent Tuesday night at the Treverton home.

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal fisheries department is out to test the oyster at its own game —reproduction of oysters.

If it succeeds, a whole new industry could spread on the Atlantic oyster industry, now plagued by disease and weather vagaries, it will be good news as well for oyster-lovers across Canada.

Work is being started this summer on an experimental oyster hatchery at the fisheries research station on Prince Edward Island's famed Malpeque Bay, now the heart of the Canadian oyster industry.

The hatchery will set on a fairly large scale a relatively recent conviction that oysters can be persuaded to spawn efficiently and well under controlled artificial conditions, that the larvae can be fed and that an adult oyster can be obtained. Fisheries scientists hold high hopes for the experimental hatchery may free the industry from the present uncertainties of oyster regeneration.

Dr. A. L. Pritchard, director of conservation and development at fisheries headquarters here, says the hatchery experiment "shows real potential," although it may be another two years before the full results are known.

SLOW RECOVERY

Meanwhile, the oyster industry is slowly recovering from a disastrous outbreak of disease that practically wiped out the rich New Brunswick and Nova Scotia stocks. Disease-resistant oysters from Prince Edward Island have been transplanted to the stricken areas to save the beds from extinction.

The hatchery idea is the result of an investigation into oysters which became intensely interested about seven years ago in the mysterious disease struck along the New Brunswick and Nova Scotia coasts.

Atlantic oysters shun cold water and the Canadian stocks are mainly located in the warmer southern sector of the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Prior to 1920 New Brunswick supplied 57 per cent of the Canadian output, P.E.I. 32, per cent and Nova Scotia the remaining 11 per cent.

But by 1960 the oyster disease had just about eliminated the mainland stocks and P.E.I. was producing 80 per cent Canadian output, in that decade the total take fell from about 7,500,000 pounds to about 2,500,000 pounds.

It was the second Canadian appearance of the disease, which also has plagued oyster beds off the United States Atlantic shore. Between 1915 and 1918 the P.E.I. beds were all but exterminated by it.

CARRY DISEASE

Some of the P.E.I. oysters, however, were resistant to the disease and from this small percentage the Malpeque Bay stocks were built to normal size over a 30-year period.

The resistant oysters remained carriers of the disease which has no effect whatever on humans who eat the oysters. It is thought that an illegal transplant of seed oysters from P.E.I. to the mainland beds caused the new outbreak.

Federal scientists have since transplanted 10,000 harvest of P.E.I. oysters to the diseased areas with these are producing a new breed of disease-resistant oysters to repopulate the once-rich beds.

It will be another five or six years before the industry gets back to normal. In the meantime, oysters prices which shot to $40 a barrel from $18 during the decade of disease probably will remain high.

The main worry for New Brunswick and Nova Scotia oyster farmers now is that weather conditions may delay the rebuilding process.

Atlantic oysters will not spawn in water below 68 degrees. A cold late spring sometimes ruins the mid - summer spawning period. Or a rainy autumn may wash cold rainwater into a bay and wipe out the baby oysters, a disaster since a whole season's reproduction is quickly lost.

PLANTED IN FARMS

At present the industry is entirely dependent on the collection of baby oysters—called spat —from natural spawning beds. These are replanted on the "farms," which are small areas of seabottom leased for oyster cultivation. There are more than 1,400 such leases in the gulf waters, averaging 2½ acres in size. Some employ divers.

The hatchery idea was first tested by biologist Roy E. Drinnan of the Fisheries Research Board of Canada. Using controlled water temperatures, he managed to induce oysters to spawn under laboratory conditions and from fertilized eggs hatched swarms of larvae.

The larvae must feed for about three weeks before developing into baby oysters which cement themselves to the seaside available—smooth surface. Three years later they reach the three-inch market size.

Mr. Drinnan's first big problem was feed. The larvae live on protozoans, tiny one-celled sea creatures too small to be seen by the naked eye. He solved this by substituting the chlorophyll cells from common red cabbage grown in his own garden.

The next step is to determine if this experiment can be enlarged to the pilot hatchery stage and then to the point of mass production. Once this is proven, the idea can be taken over by commercial producers.

These commercial sources could supply farms of a fresh supply of baby oysters every year. By using only proven disease-resistant stocks, the threat of new epidemics would also be erased.

For the gourmet it would mean a larger supply of the delicious oysters at steady, reasonable prices.

Mrs. Fred Mitchell accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wood and Dawne, also Miss Jean McKenzie, to Toronto, where the latter two (Dawne and Jean) boarded a plane for U.S.A. where they will enjoy some holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Atkins, Brian and Terry, also Mr. and Mrs. T. Tryon and family, Belleville, enjoyed pot luck supper at Moira Conservation Camp.

Mrs. Douglas Atkins is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital for a few days. Callers were Mrs. Archie Sharpe, Mrs. D. Lessing, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Atkins, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Atkins, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Boldrick, Mr and Mrs. Edgar Goodfellow, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Atkins, Mr.. and Mrs. Fred Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. B. Jordan, Miss Myrtle Barnum.

Miss Karen Terry, Belleville, spent a few days over the recent weekend at the Thomson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grills attended the funeral of the latter's cousin, Mrs. Edith Logan, at Niagara Falls, last week. They spent a couple of days while there.

Mr. Cecil Keene has not been feeling too well for a week. All hope he will feel better soon.

Mrs. Millers, Peterborough, had supper Saturday evening with Mrs. Harry Thomson.

Congratulations to Paul Hunter who was presented with the Dominion Public school scholarship award for obtaining highest standing in Grade 8.

Mr. Robert Atkins made the presentation in the absence of his mother. The award is made each year in memory of the late Douglas R. Atkins.

Congratulations also to all the pupils who were successful this year and Best of Luck to all during their next term.

Pakistan's Anti-Polygamy Law Repealed

Parliament voted 80 to 28 to consider a member's private bill repealing the reforms introduced by President Ayub Khan's martial law regime. The bill must be approved by a standing committee before it can be debated in parliament.

Although polygamy is comparatively rare in Moslem Pakistan, Moslem law permits a man to take four wives at one time. The reform law provides that a man can take a new wife only after approval by an arbitration council made up of a village official, a representative of the husband and a representative of his present wife or wives. The first wife can veto over her competition.

The law also slows down the traditional Moslem procedure of divorce by having the husband utter three times "I divorce you."

NEW YORK (AP)—The question who is to dominate big time golf for the next decade—Arnold Palmer or Jack Nicklaus—will probably depend on which burns out the quicker, says Sam Snead.

"Both have a lot of drive and a lot of ambition," the all-time swinging stylist from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., said Tuesday.

"There are tournaments every week. If you skip a tournament, you have exhibitions or some other responsibility. The pressure is terrific.

"How long can a man take this kind of tension, day in and day out? It got to Cary Middlecoff and Ken Venturi. They are still young men who should be winning tournaments, but they are having their problems.

Snead passed here en route to Troon, Scotland, where he will begin play Monday in the British Open along with Palmer, Nicklaus, Gene Littler, Doug Sanders and others.

"If I had to make a pick," Sam said of the British Open, "I'd have to say it would be among Palmer, Nicklaus and Littler, with Peter Thomson of Australia, who always plays well in the British Open, having a good chance."

Sam figures Palmer will get the upper hand on Nicklaus during the next five years and then Nicklaus—unless he burns himself out—will take over. Palmer is 32, Nicklaus 22.

"Jack is a pretty composed boy," Snead added. "He's strong, I never had him when he goes out to that first tee he looks like a man going out to paint the back porch."

HEADED FOR WORLD MEET — Lynne Wozniak, 17-year-old Saskatoon-born gymnast, was chosen to represent Canada in the world women's competition at Prague, Czechoslovakia, July 3-8. A Grade 11 student now living in Vancouver, she turned to gymnastics seriously only 18 months ago and finished in the top six at the Canadian championships in Montreal June 22. (CP Photo).

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lynne Wozniak went from backyard cartwheels to the Canadian womens gymnastics spotlight in 18 months.

"Comparatively speaking, Lynne is competing out of her class," says her coach, John Hemmingway, "in a year and a half she has reached the level of girls who have been training and competing for upwards of four years."

Lynne, a vivacious Grade 11 student just turned 17, took up gymnastics when she moved to Vancouver from her hometown of Saskatoon.

She has progressed so quickly that at the Canadian championships in Montreal June 22 she was among the top six women and qualified for the world competition in Prague July 3-8.

While she is relatively new to gymnastics she has had considerable experience in competitive sport. In the 1900 Saskatchewan swim meet she won the freestyle and took the diving championship for the 16 - and-under group.

Her first contact with gymnastics came in Saskatoon when she began practising on a trampoline to help her diving. She travelled to Calgary in 1960 with a group of friends who were competing in the Western Canada gymnastics championships.

"On arrival Lynne entered a few events for the fun of it," said her mother, a ballet teacher. "Much to everybody's surprise, she won the Western Canadian senior women's flying rings championship."

Still holder of the flying rings trophy — the event was discontinued after 1960 — Lynne also holds the Pacific Northwest and Western Canada women's trampoline titles.

Lynne recalls that she was forced to give up diving and swimming when the Wozniaks found public pools too far from their home in Vancouver to continue regular workouts.

So she decided to try competitive gymnastics and in the win-

Leafs Lose Fourth to Syracuse

If Pittsburgh Pirates want to give big Bob Veale another start at National League baseball, it won't make International League hitters unhappy.

Veale, an overpowering left-hander, continued his fanning ways Tuesday night as he struck out 14 batters—tying the league mark for the year—and pitched Columbus Jets to a 5-2 victory over Atlanta Crackers.

Veale, who joined the Jets from Pittsburgh at the end of May, won his fifth game in a row to even his won-lost mark at 3-3 and ran his impressive strikeout total to 81 in 81 innings.

The league strikeout king with 201 last season, Veale struck out 13 Richmond Virginians in his first game back in the loop June 1 but was beaten. Harry Fanok of Atlanta set the season mark of 14 against Jacksonville Suns earlier.

WHITE DEFEAT

The win was the 10th in the last 13 games for Columbus and the ninth defeat in 12 engagements for Atlanta.

The Suns stretched their league lead at the July 4 point to 9½ games with a 13-inning 8-0 win over Richmond as the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs lost their fourth straight battle, 7-3 to Syracuse Chiefs.

Rochester Red Wings whipped Buffalo Bisons 6-0 as Tom Egan threw a six-hitter and Pete Ward slugged a three-run homer.

Art Ceccarelli of Jacksonville overcame Jim Bronstad in the ninth inning of the Suns' in the) 12th inning when Ray Bellino of Richmond made error on Larry Brown's grounder. Brown moved around on two singles, Ceccarelli gave up three hits, Bronstad seven.

COL. CHUBB PROMOTED

OTTAWA (CP) — Col. Arthur C. Chubb of Calgary and Ottawa will be promoted to the rank of brigadier and appointed commander of the Canadian army liaison establishment in London, England, it was announced Tuesday. He will be succeeded at Central Command, Oakville, Ont., by Lt.-Col. William H. Seamark of Orillia, who takes over his new post July 18 with the rank of colonel.

Marlon Brando Is Planning Article to Answer Story

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Notes and comment on the Hollywood scene:

Marlon Brando is planning a magazine article to answer the writings that he goofed off on the Mutiny on the Bounty. "It will mark the first time he has replied to criticism. He doesn't care what is written about his personal life, but he is concerned about reflections on his professionalism.

Brando's adherents point out that his behavior on The Ugly American has been spotless. Except for two or three days when he was absent with a virus, he has shown up for filming every day, even after the weekend when he chopped his foot with an axe.

No more Marilyn Monroe imitations for Edie Adams—and not because of Miss current troubles. Edie has worried that she will become too identified with the devastating satire (which Marilyn really enjoys watching).

"When I did my last television special, I did the Marilyn impression against my better judgment," she says. "I figured that, would be the end of it. Then the television academy asked if it could use a short clip from the show on Emmy telecast. Imagine my chargrin when they picked out the Marilyn bit!"

Preview time: Birdman of Alcatraz is a fascinating study of the double murderer turned bird expert, Robert Stroud. Director John Frankenheimer again impresses as a bright new talent by the way he balances prison violence with the gentleness in handling the birds.

Burt Lancaster is ideal casting as the prisoner, who spent over 40 years in solitary. He successfully conveys Stroud's compassion for birds and his defiance of bridling by any human being. It is unfortunate that the producers saw fit to paste on a standard prison-break ending to what was otherwise a new and different view of the resilience of the human spirit.

ACTING WITH PASSION — Madeleine Sherwood plays Miss Lucy, the town tramp and girl friend of Boss Finley (Ed Begley), in a sensual scene from the movie version of Tennessee Williams' Sweet Bird of Youth.

The Montreal-raised actress, mother of a 17-year-old daughter, also performed in the stage version of the play and is currently in the Broadway musical comedy Camelot. (CP Photo).

Madeline Sherwood Raises Storm in Broadway Theatre, Learned Acting in Montreal

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

NEW YORK (CP) — Gradedschool actress Madeline Sherwood once said the acting business would be the ruination of beautiful Madeline Sherwood and she couldn't have been more . . . Well, let's look at the record. In the Broadway musical comedy Camelot the Montreal-born actress plays a sensual witch who reserves nights for wooing her appetite is insatiable—and afternoons for dalliance.

This is at the Majestic Theatre. Madeleine is also standby for Shelley Winters, appearing next door at the Royale in Night of the Iguana, a play somewhat in the offside of innocence.

If that's not ruination, get Abigail.

In Arthur Miller's The Crucible the blonde charmer was Abigail, an alluring teen - ager who starts a witch - hunting rockus that chews up a community. That was after she came to Broadway 10 years ago to replace Kim Stanley in The Chase.

Madeleine played Mae, the mother of five "no-neck monsters," in Tennessee Williams' Cat on a Hot Tin Roof—Broadway and Hollywood.

PLAYED TRAMP

She was Miss Lucy, the town tramp, in both stage and movie versions of Williams' Sweet Bird of Youth, in which she was directed for the second time by famed Elia Kazan.

A tremulous visitor to the stage seeking a director's room—greeted with a friendly fellow-Canadian handshake and a smile from kitten eyes — asked what was her biggest production.

"Producing my daughter — that's what! Madeleine replied, her whipping out a dozen or so photos of her 17 - year - old daughter, Emily, in school in Israel after studies in Switzerland.

A new person emerged. In an ecstasy of pride and affection, the petite charmer, herself a strikingly youthful 33, talked a blue streak about the incomparable Chloe and mother and dad and brother Laurence and grandparents and other kissed ones.

Her father, Dr. Laurence Thornton, a Montreal dentist, died last year and her mother, Yvonne Thornton, embarked on a painting career at 60. Laurence Jr., is employed by the federal government's personnel division. Madeleine comes from lines of medical men and teachers.

Her maternal grandfather, Dr. Paul Villard, a doctor and former professor of French at McGill, was also a Protestant minister who preached before congregations ranging from Salvation Army meetings to Jewish synagogues.

Moral: this was the fate he prophesied for Madeleine in a theatrical career but this changed. When she performed to a song opera opposite Christopher Plummer, Dr. Paul became an unpaid and unorthodox publicity agent.

The old gentleman took to waiting for Madeleine outside the Montreal studios and when she appeared he would shout to passersby: "This is my granddaughter!"

Interested in acting since childhood, Miss Sherwood whose early marriage ended in divorce soon started in church plays and the Montreal Repertory Theatre. She speaks with admiration of Montreal director Robert Ceplan.

"He enjoyed all my roles. I love my career," she declared. Her only complaint about the chocolate - eating, skin - eating part of Morgan Le Fay in the big Camelot is that it's a comparatively brief appearance.

"I have more fun in the part," she added cryptically.

While fond of humor, Miss Sherwood is a serious actress. A student of Lee Strasberg of Actors Studio. She lives in a Greenwich Village flat which at $30 a month is "the most inexpensive apartment in New York."

She appeared seven times this season as replacement for Bette Davis, predecessor of Miss Winters in Iguana, and probably would have been given the role after Miss Davis left the play but for the star system in Stage Struck Broadway despite angry criticism.

As it is she now is standby for Miss Wisters prepared to appear in both Camelot and Iguana on the same night if necessary — a feat made possible by last changes and short-back - alley spirits.

"I'm supposed to be pretty fast, you know," said Miss Sherwood, taking a deep breath. "The boys," said the saucer-eyed reporter, "will want to know your measurements."

"Well, tell the boys to come up," said Morgan Le Fey, shouting with laughter.

But — before next afternoon — an aide hurriedly provided the figures:

"She's 36-24-36. She wanted me to say 38, but she's 36."

Canadian Crew in Big Race

PHILADELPHIA (CP-AP) — Four crews from the United States and one from Canada match strokes with the Soviet Union's champion eight - oar shell today in the 2,000-metre glamour race of the annual U.S. Independence Day regatta.

The Canadians from the St. Catharines, Ont., Boat Club, is virtually the same as the one that won the senior eights championship at the 1961 Royal Canadian Henley over a one-mile, 550-yard course—approximately 125 yards longer than 2,000 metres.

The Canadians are not entered in two other races being contested by the Americans and Russians—the single sculls and the double sculls.

Larks Have Five Quarters

JOLIETTE, Que. (CP)—Montreal Alouettes intend to take a long, hard look at their quarterbacks this year, hints coach Perry Moss.

Last year the Alouettes ran through 13 quarterback candidates before the regular Eastern Football Conference even started.

This season they have five quarterbacks and "it's quite possible we might not make any cuts until the start of the season." Moss said Tuesday.

The hopefuls are Joe Francis and Gerry Thompkins, the team's two quarterbacks last season; all - America Sandy Stephens; rookie Frank Kremblas and Queen's University draftee Cal Connor.

Maria Bueno Wimbledon Favorite

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Maria Bueno, Brazil's tennis ugress, is the heavy favorite so regain her lost women's crown in the Wimbledon tennis championships.

She clashes Thursday with Mrs. Vera Sukova of Czechoslovakia in a semi-final match while Mrs. Karen Susman of the United States meets Ann Haydon of Britain in the other semifinal.

Meanwhile, four Australians were to fight it out today in the men's singles with Rod Laver was paired against Neale Fraser and John Fraser, Neale's younger brother, was matched with Martin Mulligan.

Mrs. Susman Tuesday made short work of South Africa's Renee Schuurman 6-4, 6-4 in a quarter-final battle.

Famous 'Jack the Giant Killer' Now on Large Movie Screen

Edward Small's mammoth production of "Jack the Giant Killer" opens Thursday at the air-conditioned Park Theatre through United Artists release. Filmed in Technicolor, the famous adventure story features new special effects called Fantascope, a revolutionary new system of trick photography.

The $2,500,000 Technicolor fantasy, based on the world's most luminous folk legend, costars swashbuckling Kerwin Mathews as the storybook hero, Jack and beautiful Judi Meredith in the role of the princess he rescues from the hands of witches and demons. Bradford Dillman as Torin Thatcher in the role of Pendragon, evil master sorcerer who bewitches the princess in order to capture the throne of 11th-century Cornwall, England.

Developed secretly over the past two years by Small in conjunction with the Howard A. Anderson Company, which did special effects photography on "Jack the Giant Killer," the Fantascope process contains innovations in color photography that impart depth dimensions to cel animation. The system also features a matte technique that integrates the use of stop-action puppets with live action, eliminating the necessity of using miniatures and thereby lending more realism to action scenes. Fantascope also employs the use of Technicolor's full aperture single screen process which takes minimum advantage of normal 35 millimeter negative without the use of special cameras or film.

Filmed on location at Santa Catalina Island and at Samuel Goldwyn studios in Hollywood, the multi-million dollar production boasts some of the most elaborate and imaginative sets ever constructed for a motion picture.

Also featured are 22-foot-tall Giants, a monstrous Flying Harpist and a 60-foot-long Sea Serpent.

LASTING SHOW

One of the first shows to move from radio to television, "The Guiding Light" marked its 10th TV anniversary in June, 1952.

Schrieder, Stewart In Camp Nesbitt May 'Set Out'

OTTAWA (CP) — Linebacker Gerry Nesbitt failed to turn up for the opening of Ottawa Rough Riders' training camp Tuesday and coach Frank Clair said he wouldn't be surprised if Nesbitt sat out his option this year.

Nesbitt, who has played four seasons with the Eastern Football Conference club, is holding out for more money but the Riders say they have made their final offer.

Talk in the Rider camp is that Nesbitt will sit out his option and play for Dallas in the American Football League next year.

Two other problem players, Canadians Gary Schrieder and Ron Stewart, are in camp.

Clair has told them either to scrap their plans to attend Osgoode Hall law school classes this year or sit out the season. All attempts to trade them have been unsuccessful.

Peerless Bareback Riders Will Be Seen at Circus

Janie Cristiani, member of the marvelous Cristiani Troupe of bareback riders. This troupe of peerless riders will introduce 40 unusual feats of skill and daring horsemanship while standing on the bare backs of galloping horses. The act is the ultimate in equestrian thrills. The Cristiano Troupe will be seen with the Wallace Bros. 3-Ring Circus when it unfurls its billowing big top on Zwick's Island at Belleville under auspices of the Kiwanis Club. The show travels in 73 giant trailers, busses and trucks, carries an administrative and working staff of 50 in addition to 96 performers.

Although the show has been streamlined to make possible the handling of such a huge project, the true elements of the typical American circus have been preserved. The Big Top is larger than any canvas arena ever to go on tour. Its construction, developed four years ago, called for factors which would make possible its prompt setting up and "tearing down". The Big Top is now seen during the local engagement is new coming direct from the factory.

Instead of heavy and cumbersome wooden poles requiring an excessive amount of labor, the show carries all-aluminum telescoping poles for easy handling. Grandstand chairs also are made of aluminum, with plastic backs and seats. This is the first time arena chairs have been used by a travelling circus.

Elephants are carried with the show for working as well as performing duties. The show is "all circus". There are no Broadway trimmings; clowns display work in pantomime, and typical circus music comes from a brassy band under the direction of Prof. Le Roux. More than forty features will be presented including the Famous Cristiani Family, bareback riders; Eddie Prisco and his funny hol rod; Mario Rojhas and Company, unicycle marvels; 12-girl Aerial Ballet; clown and trapeze artists, tumblers and a host of other circus acts and performers. Performances are scheduled for 2.00 p.m. and 8.00 p.m.

Yankees Nose Ahead In Cluster Race

Sport Slices . . .

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Kenmore senior baseballers go scrunning for their seventh straight victory at the Fair Grounds tonight with the Peterborough Fannings the opposition. The Kenmore are sitting on top of the league heap and hope to extend it at the expense of the Peins.

The Kenmore snatched an 8-6 victory from the Kingston club in their last outing and the game, from all reports, has elevated the rivalry to the top heights.

A dropped third strike that fired a five-run explosion for the Kenmore and gave them the victory was the turning point in the game. But the Kingston officials are far from happy with the officiating.

In fact a Kingston sportswriter in a story in his newspaper quotes Frank Paige, the boss-man of the club to the effect "We're not going back to Belleville under similar circumstances. It's the same story every time we go there.

"We had the same pair, Gibson and Kelleher (the name, Mr. Paige is Watkis, not Gibson. Hoot has been out of baseball, ie, three many years) in the play-offs last year and they were just as bad."

"Either they guarantee us other officials, or that's it," stormed Mr. Paige.

Mr. Paige may have a squawk over the officiating or it may be the act, but he can scarcely blame the arbiters if his infielders and catcher stand around and watch pop fouls drop at their feet, or for the fact that the catcher dropped a game-losing third strike.

As far as that goes, and from reports from the Limestone City, the arbiters down thataway can scarcely be mistaken for a Klem or a Moriarty.

So here we go again. The old rivalry between the cities is blazing anew and a few verbal pyrotechnics can be expected whenever the clubs clash in the future. Kingston is back here, according to the schedule, on July 11.

It has yet to the stage where a meeting has been called tonight at 7.30 under the Fair Grounds grandstand and all oldtimers, particularly the 1953 Belleville Bates are asked to be on hand.

Ontario Baseball Association president Jack Carson is hoping the number and if plans materialize there could be a home-and-home series between the young-old greybeards of the diamond.

There has been criticism pro and con on the two incidents that occurred in the Kingston-Kenmore game last week. One was the placing of the Kenmore outfielder near the plate in a late inning; the other the "double-play" called by an umpire against the Kingston club.

This department backed the umpires in their decisions on rulings handed down by OBA president Carson.

This department was in no way criticising the Kenmore' coach Sid Forster. It was the "audacity" of his move in placing the outfielder close to the batter. And I repeat "audacity," because to my knowledge and that of baseball veterans here, the shift has never been made before on a Belleville diamond.

Forster, I believe, is one of the best baseball coaches to show his wares here in a long time. He has wielded the Kenmore into a fine club and has proven that he knows what he is taking about and doing. He knows baseball and players. He is well-liked and has shown that he will fight for his club.

But tonight's another night. The game gets under way and it should be a thriller since the Peins have not hit the win column too often this season and have dropped some of their games by a single run. They will be out there battling and fans can look forward to a lively diamond tussle. Game at 8.15.

And you "old-timers" don't forget the meeting at 7.30.

M. And M. Hit 4 Homers

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The signs are all there, the American League standings and President Joe Cronin notwithstanding.

"The greatest thing that has happened to the American League in years," Cronin said of the jammed-up pennant race, one of the closest in the league's 60-year history.

Only three games separate the first five teams and seven clubs are bunched within 5½ games as the season goes into today's traditional July 4 doubleheaders, the season's halfway mark.

Just how long it will remain that close is a question. There are strong indications — when you consider Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris—that it may not be long.

GET HOME RUNS

Each of the M and M boys clouted two home runs Tuesday as New York Yankees came from behind, beat their old Kansas City playmates 8-7 and continued to build their growing signs of restlessness with the pack so closely bunched on their heels.

Victory put the Yanks half a game up on the Los Angeles Angels, ruined a 4-hit pitching and a game ahead of Cleveland Indians, who split the day off.

Minnesota Twins remained 1½ games back by beating Boston Red Sox 6-4 for the first time this season. Detroit Tigers stayed third one full game back with a 5-4, 11-inning triumph over Chicago White Sox.

The team in first place when the July 4 games are completed has made a habit of being in first place when the season ends. It has happened 41 times in the league's 60 years. Only twice in the last 10 years have the teams on top at the turning point failed to win the pennant.

REGAINS FORM

Any one of four teams could be on top after today's battles, but most signs point to the Yanks. Mantle, the indispensable Yankee, is still bothered by leg trouble but is hitting with his old-time authority. With Mantle back, Maris is regaining the form that produced 61 home runs and 142 runs batted in last season. Ex-Cub pitcher Ralph Whitey Ford seems to be healthy again.

The visiting Yankee power and the big inning were keys to the comeback against Kansas City. The Athletics were leading 7-6 in the seventh inning when Maris and Bobby Richardson hit solo homers.

Roger Maris homer, the 18th of the season, drove in two runs and tied the game in the eighth. Moments later Mantle's 13th round-tripper of the season won it. Gino Cimoli, Jerry Lumpe and Manny Jimenez had homers for the losers.

Minnesota got outstanding relief work from Ray Moore in beating Boston for the first time in six tries. He took over in relief of Jack Kralick with a one-run lead, men on first and third and one out in the ninth inning. Moore got Jim Pagliaroni to pop up and then struck out Lu Clinton and Eddie Bressoud. Harmon Killebrews' seventh-inning triple drove in the winning run.

Detroit scored an 11th-inning unearned run in beating Chicago. The Tigers loaded the bases with one out on Billy Bruton's single, a walk and an error by Al Smith. Steve Wood stepped on third for a forceout. Tiger Jerry Bubba Morton forced the game into extra innings with his eighth - inning homer.

BARONS SELL MAZUR

CLEVELAND (AP) — Eddie (Spider) Mazur, veteran left wing, was sold by Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League to Providence Reds Tuesday.

Mazur, 32, played four seasons with the Barons, who got him from Chicago Americans. He scored 24 goals and 24 assists for Cleveland last season.

He formerly played in the National Hockey League with Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks.

Righthanders, Freshmen Name Strange All-Star Squads

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the most interesting of all major league all-star installments was aired Saturday when the players named an all right-handed hitting National League lineup and a "freshman" studded American League squad to meet in the two mid-summer spectacles next month.

National League manager Fred Hutchinson will have eight right-handed batters, exclusive of the pitcher, when his team faces Ralph Houk's star performers in Washington July 10 and again in Chicago's Wrigley Field July 30.

The National League team will be headed by San Francisco's slugging twins, first baseman Orlando Cepeda and centerfielder Willie Mays, who topped all vote-getters with 229 and 213 respectively. Besides this pair of NL All-Star National League repeater from last year's team is Roberto Clemente, who edged out Felipe Alou of the Giants for right field in the closest balloting for any position.

ROLLINS MAKES IT

Minnesota's Rich Rollins, whom even the Twins expected to be in the minors this year, defeated such established stars as Brooks Robinson, Cleto Boyer and Frank Malzone for third-base honors. The 24-year-old redhead has been up among the league's leading hitters and RBI men all season. He topped the American League vote-getters with 184. Mickey Mantle, the centre field choice, was next with 182.

An even more distinct surprise was the choice of Billy Moran of Los Angeles as the second baseman. Moran, a flop with the Cleveland Indians ago, was brought up by the Angels from Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League only last June. He is batting over .300.

Another new face in the all-star array is Leon Wagner of the Angels, who was the players' choice over the more established Norm Siebern, Detroit's home run king. Wagner, a National League regular, is leading the American League in home runs with 21 through Friday's games.

OTHER MEMBERS

The remainder of the American League starting unit, exclusive of the pitcher, includes Jim Gentile, Baltimore, first base; Luis Aparicio, Chicago, shortstop, and Earl Battey, Minnesota, catcher. The alternates are: Norm Siebern, Kansas City, first base; Bobby Richardson, New York, second base; Robinson, Baltimore, third base; Tom Tresh, New York, shortstop; Colavito, Detroit, left field; Jim Landis, Chicago, centre field; Lee Thomas, Los Angeles, left field, and John Romano, Cleveland, catcher.

The National League infield consists of Cepeda at first, Moran at second, Joe Morgan of Houston at third and Pittsburgh's Dick Groat at shortstop. Mays and Clemente were joined in the outfield by Tommy Davis of Los Angeles, Del Crandall of Milwaukee won the catching honors.

The National League alternates are: John Roseboro, Los Angeles, catcher; Ernie Banks, Chicago, first base; Frank Bolling, Milwaukee, second base; Jimmy Davenport, San Francisco, third base; Maury Wills, Los Angeles, shortstop; and Felip Alou, San Francisco; Henry Aaron, Milwaukee, and Stan Musial, St. Louis, in the outfield.

Pitchers and the remainder of the squads, to be selected by managers, will be named next week.

McDougall Said Undecided

TORONTO (CP) — Halfback Gerry McDougall talked football with managing director Lew Hayman of Toronto Argonauts for two hours Tuesday and they'll meet again Friday afternoon.

The 27-year-old McDougall, with Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern Conference for the last five years, was traded to the Argonauts last weekend for backfielder Bobby Kuntz.

There were no strings attached to the trade, Kuntz signed with Tiger-Cats Monday night but McDougall, who earlier told Hamilton he wouldn't be around for the 1962 season for personal reasons, apparently still is undecided about his plans.

Palmer $5,031,00 Off Record

A $1,900 prize he picked up in the Western Open last weekend set his earnings this year at $70,231.

The list of top 10 money-winners compiled by the United by the United Professional Golfers' Association Shows Gene Littler in second place with $56,595.

Kelso Duels With Carry Back

NEW YORK (AP)—Kelso and Carry Back have it out today in the $100,000-added Suburban Handicap at Aqueduct, and only two other horses are tackling the two leading candidates for handicap honors.

Jack Dreyfus Jr.'s Beau Purple, who shares the Aqueduct one-mile track record of 1:33 3-5 along with Carry Back and Bald Eagle, and Hemdale View Farm's Garwol were entered against the two big stars for the 1¼-mile holiday gallop.

Kelso, who won the Suburban a year ago by five lengths with 125 pounds up, has 123 this time, 15 pounds more than he packed Carry Back to victory at the track last May 30 when he upset Kelso in the $120,000 Metropolitan.

Alou Joins Mays, Cepeda

Giants' Power Plant Now Big Trio

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Felipe Alou has turned San Francisco Giants' devastating duo into a terrible trio in the National League.

Taking his place alongside Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda, Alou has more than held his own. He was the big gun again Tuesday, driving in three runs with his 15th homer of the season and two singles as the Giants walloped New York Mets 10-1.

The 3-for-5 plate performance sent the 27-year-old batter into a tie for the league batting lead with Tommy Davis of Los Angeles Dodgers at .335. The Giants, advance to within half a game of the first-place Dodgers, who were idle.

Alou, who hit .289 last year with 18 homers and 53 runs batted in, is within three homers of his 1961 output and has surpassed his RBI mark with 56.

The totals also compare favorably with the 22 homers and 72 RBI by Mays and the 18 homers and 65 RBF by Cepeda.

HURLS FIVE-HITTER

Cincinnati Reds whipped Chicago Cubs 8-1 as Jim O'Toole hurled a five-hitter and Pittsburgh Pirates defeated Houston Colts 5-2 on Smoky Burgess' 6-for-4 performance. St. Louis Cardinals edged Milwaukee Braves 6-5 in the first game of a doubleheader before the nightcap was suspended by curfew after eight innings with the score tied 5-5. The deadlocked engagement will be resumed today.

Also tied the Giants' 15-hit attack against Met starter Al Jackson (4-6) and two successors. Jimmy Davenport and Harvey Kuenn also contributed three hits. Davenport tripled home two runs in a four-run uprising in the second inning, while Kuenn singled and scored in each of the first two innings. The offensive outburst made it easy for Jack Sanford (8-6) to go the distance with a nine-hitter.

Jerry Lynch's two-run homer and a double and a single by Gordie Coleman backed the strong effort by O'Toole (7-6) who struck out 10 Cubs.

Frank Robinson scored the tying run for the Reds in the second inning when he singled and moved around on Coleman's single and a fielcout. He then scored the go-ahead run in the fourth inning against Jack Buhl (5-6) when he walked, stole second and rode home on Coleman's double.

SNAPS 2-2 TIE

Burgess hit three singles before he went to the plate with the bases loaded in the eighth inning and snapped a 2-2 tie with a triple that gave the Pirates their fourth consecutive triumph. He had assisted since the second inning when Jim Pendleton and Bob Aspromonte homered with the bases empty for the Colts' runs.

Harvey Haddix (7-5) won with relief help from Elroy Face. The loser was Ken Johnson (4-10).

The Cards won the opener with a five-run outburst in the sixth inning in which Bill White and Ken Boyer hit solo homers and winning pitcher Ray Washburn aided his own cause with a two-run double. Up to that point, Milwaukee starter Bob Shaw (9-3) had a four-hitter.

Lindy McDaniel relieved Washburn (6-4) in the seventh inning and allowed one unearned run the rest of the way. He hasn't given up an earned run in 28 1-3 innings.

Held hitless for 6 2-3 innings by Tony Cloninger and Hank Fischer, the Cards got started with Boyer's single and came up with five runs to tie things in the eighth. Fred Whitfield's three-run pinch-hit homer crushed the deadlock. Bain then balled plays and the clubs couldn't finish the battle before the curfew intervened. Hank Aaron hit his 19th homer of the campaign for the Braves.

Juniors Scare Joyces!

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Rollins Juniors gave the league-leading Joyce Real Estate one of their toughest battles of the year before bowing 4-1, on three runs in the eighth inning, at the Fairgrounds last night.

Joyces, spotted the Juniors a run in the top of the second inning when Gary Duggan lined a home run down the right field foul line.

The Elliott-Shaw crew knotted the score in the bottom of the second when Wannamaker singled stole second, went to third on Keller's ground out and scored on an error on the same play.

That's the way it stayed until the eighth as pitchers Doug Ellis and Pat Marsele, of Joyces and Don Holoway of the Juniors battled it out. Both hurlers came up with clutch fielding plays on several occasions to cut short potential rallies.

Duggan's error on Plane's ground ball led off the Joyce eighth. Elliott bunted into a force play and Faulkner singled to left. Another force play made the second out but Stu Muirhead singled sharply to plate the tie-breaking run. Wannamaker singled, scoring another, and an error on the throw made it 4-1.

Pat Marsele picked up the pitching victory, taking over from Doug Ellis with two on and one out in the sixth inning. He gave up two hits, struck out four and did not walk a batter. Ellis was touched for six hits, issuing three and passing one.

Don Holoway hurled well in a losing effort. He gave up six hits over the distance while striking out eight and walking four in his best game of the year. He had allowed three infield singles going into the eighth.

Bert Faulkner and LeRoy Wannamaker paced the Real Estate hitters, each with a brace of singles. Stu Muirhead and Claude Carr had the other safeties.

For the Juniors Duggan had his round-tripper and two singles while Locke singled three times. "Pug" Keller had a double and Paul Zakos a single.

The losers' best chances came in the sixth, when Zakos and Duggan hit back-to-back singles to chase Ellis, and in the eighth, when Locke beat out a third-strike bunt and Duggan also had an infield hit. Marsele and his mates closed the door on both occasions.

Tradeaus Shade Horlocks

Trudeau Motors scored single runs in each of the first three innings to shade Woodslorlock Juveniles 3-2 at the CNRA park last night.

The win gives Trudeaus a four-point lead at the top of the league with two games in hand over second-place Lightfoots.

Woods-Horlock stayed close to Trudeaus last night, taking a 1-0 lead in the top of the initial frame and cutting the margin to 3-2 with their second marker in the fifth. But that was it.

Junior Day chalked up the victory, spinning a five-hitter over the distance. He struck out nine and walked a pair.

Bobby Boyle batted for Woods-Horlock, allowing six hits, fanning two and passing three.

Jack "Deacon" Whiting collected two of the winners' base hits while Day helped his own cause with a double. Bob Wannamaker, Paul Merww and Larry Potter also hit safely.

Mike Chapland hit a double and two singles for the Juveniles. Hall had a home run and Boyle a double.

Name U.S. Women's Team

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Jay Decker, the former Anne Quast, heads the eight-member U.S. women's Curtis Cup team, named Tuesday to meet British miss best amateur golfers Aug. 17-18 at Broadmoor, in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Mrs. Decker, U.S. women's amateur champion, is one of three players on the team who have won national crowns. The others are Jo Anne Gunderson, who won in 1957 and 1960, and Barbara McIntire, winner in 1958.

The United States now has the cup, won 6½ to 3½ in 1960.

Record Double Payoff

Seven Collect $1,634,80

Wife Picks Four Winners, Wins $15,000

CHARLES TOWN, W.Va (AP) — A women's intuition brought Jager R. Conner Jr. of Catharpin, Va., $15,000 Tuesday night, the payoff on the twin double at Shenandoah Downs.

His wife picked all four horses — Conveyor ($33), in the fifth race, Grand Stevie ($6.80) in the sixth, Happy Hero ($6.20) in the seventh and Christa Lee ($33) in the eighth.

VALUED ELEMENT

TORONTO (CP)—Seven ticket holders with the two - two combination each collected a record double payoff of $1,634.80 at Old Woodbine Raceway Tuesday night.

No. 2 in the first race was Irish Fly, a six-year-old black gelding owned by Donald Dacout of Barrie and driven by Jerry Johnston. No. 2 in the second race was Springhill Tommy, five-year-old trotter owned by Lloyd McCabe of Fergus and driven by Les Wright.

It was the first victory in 13 starts this year for Irish Fly, which had been racing at London and Peterborough earlier this year.

The straight payoff was $125.40 as Irlar Hy edged Maxie's Chief, owned by Dave Finney of Stratford and driven by Bill Welwood, by a half-length.

Springhill Tommy returned $22.10.

"In a typically chaotic move the Lesage government wants to break away with a new province." wrote Mr. Remillard. "I regard himself as father of eight children.

The city, bankrupt for several years, a few weeks ago was placed in the hands of a provincial administrator who is responsible to the Quebec municipal commission.

"In an effort to squeeze me out of the municipal scene all transactions with the Union Nationale," said Mr. Remillard. "One talks of the underworld at banditz who operate as master of Jacques-Cartier.

"All this is false.

"One talks of my wild youth. Who, in his youth, wasn't prone to certain pranks? Mine were perhaps more serious than those of others, according to Mr Lesage, but I was rehabilitated in a rehabilitation institution."

Messages of Congratulations Pour Into State of Algeria

LONDON (AP) — Messages of congratulation and formal recognition of Algeria flowed into the newly independent North African nation from east and west today despite the threatening cloude of civil war. Britain recognized the independence of Algeria Tuesday and said it is ready to establish diplomatic relations. A foreign office statement expressed "warm welcome to Britain for the state of Algeria."

The United States followed quickly in recognizing Algeria as a sovereign state but delayed setting up formal diplomatic relations until the dust settles and it becomes clearer which faction is in control of power.

In Rome, Foreign Minister Piccioni announced Italy's recognition and promised his country will "develop with the new Algeria cordial ties of fruitful collaboration in the interest of the two peoples and the cause of peace."

KEDS SEND WISHES

Soviet Premier Khrushchev was among those who sent his best wishes to Nationalist President Youssef Ben Khedda. His message, translated, said the Russian people of their "victory in the referendum on self-determination and the proclamation of the Soviet leader said this victory "is a powerful blow against colonialism" and was "an inspiring example for the Angolan, South African and other colonial slavery."

Red China extended recognition without propaganda, simply predicting that "the long lasting friendship and cooperation between the Chinese and Algerian people will continue to be further consolidated and developed."

In Ottawa, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said in a statement: "We look forward to developing close and friendly relations with all the people of Algeria."

An aide said the prime minister's message was part of formal recognition of the new Algerian government but merely expressed good will on the day of independence.

Those announcing recognition of Algeria included the fellow Arab nations of Jordan and Kuwait, Iron Curtain countries, Turkey, the Congo, Norway and Denmark. Most expressed a hope to establish early diplomatic relations.

Mosquitoes Plague Cattle

CAMERON, La. (AP) — Millions of mosquitoes have invaded parts of Louisiana and Texas on the Gulf of Mexico coast, inflicting heavy losses to cattle herds.

Agricultural experts estimate that about 180,000 animals have lost an average of 10 pounds each because of constant pestering by clouds of the insects. They said this meant a monetary loss of about $1,000,000.

The loss figure does not include the value of hundreds of animals which have died as a result of the influx of mosquitoes.

Mayor Protests Amendment to Cities, Towns Act

QUEBEC (CP)—Mayor J. A. Le Remillard of the Montreal suburb of Jacques-Cartier said Tuesday in an open letter to members of the Quebec legislature that the government "government" wants to brand me with a red-hot iron."

Mr. Remillard was protesting against an amendment to the Cities and Towns Act which would bar from public office for 30 years any person convicted of a third indictable or punishable offence carrying a minimum five-year sentence.

"In a typically chaotic move the Lesage government wants to break away with a new province." wrote Mr. Remillard. "I regard himself as father of eight children.

The city, bankrupt for several years, a few weeks ago was placed in the hands of a provincial administrator who is responsible to the Quebec municipal commission.

"In an effort to squeeze me out of the municipal scene all transactions with the Union Nationale," said Mr. Remillard. "One talks of the underworld at banditz who operate as master of Jacques-Cartier.

"All this is false.

"One talks of my wild youth. Who, in his youth, wasn't prone to certain pranks? Mine were perhaps more serious than those of others, according to Mr Lesage, but I was rehabilitated in a rehabilitation institution."

New $8,000,000 Bridge Opened

CORNWALL (CP) — Transport Minister Leon Balcer and Clarence D. Martin, Jr., undersecretary of commerce for transportation for the United States, officially opened the $8,000,000 North Channel span of the Seaway Bridge Tuesday.

Opening of the link, which measures 11,000 feet from approach to approach, marked completion of a two-span international link.

It also marks the closing of the single-lane Roosevelt Bridge which has been the international link here for 30 years.

Ont. Truckers May Be Working Again Monday

TORONTO (CP) — Teamsters Union officials predict that Monday will likely be a full workday for 8,000 striking Ontario truckers.

Officials of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (Ind.) said Tuesday they expect positive results when ballots are counted Monday in a membership vote on an agreement reached Saturday.

Ballots were originally to be counted Thursday, but the count was delayed by a holdup of voting in the Windsor local.

Teamsters locals in Toronto, Hamilton, London, Kingston and Windsor have scheduled plebiscites during the week on the terms of the agreement.

Until the agreement is ratified by each local, union members will remain on picket lines, Teamster officials said.

Meanwhile, negotiations between companies in the Metro real area and 1,400 striking truckers crawled to a snail's pace, presumably to await the outcome of the Ontario vote.

The Quebec strike, started 12 weeks ago, the Ontario dispute five weeks ago.

Truckers in area local 141 voted Tuesday. Toronto Local 938 and Brantford strikers vote today.

WHEAT EXPORTS UP

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian exports of wheat and flour for the year ending July 31 are expected to exceed last year's high total, officials said Tuesday. Up to June 30, wheat and flour exports totalled 600,000,000 bushels compared with 309,000,000 for the comparable period a year ago.

Lamaged Hulls, Upsets Feature Cutboard Races

PICTON — Upsets and damaged hulls featured outboard races held on the bolling day by the Picton Club. For the first time the locals was on the Harmsworth course at Green Point. Complaints of speeding in harbor, led police to stop races being held there as has been the case for some years past.

Jim Lovelace was winner of the ten horsepower class finishing 3-1-1. Mike Mason finished 1-3-0; Lowell York, 3-3-3; Ron Williams 4.

In the free-for-all, Jack Lyons finished 1-1; L. Moore 3-3; Burton Lyons 3-4; J. Boulter -3; J. Silsbrore 4- ; Lee Lyons 5-.

Community Honors Dr., Mrs. Swann

PICTON — Members of the community of Bloomfield gathered in the Sunday school room of the United Church on Thursday night to honor Dr. and Mrs. R. Swann, of Belleville, the former having been minister pro-tem at Bloomfield church, since Rev. Stephen Spurrell's move to Kingston.

J. Donald Baxter as chairman, emceed the proceedings including a musical program. A singsong led by Mrs. M. Hagerman was enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Moore and Mrs. Hagerman entertained with a pia-no solo and vocal solo, respectively, and the junior choir rendered a number.

Mr. Arthur Moore, reeve of the village, spoke briefly, extolling Mr. Swann, who, he stated, possesses an immense capacity was a friendly and Mrs. Swann who has so ably assisted him.

Mr. Holmes Matthie expressed regret at their departure and spoke appreciatively of Dr. Swann's ministry.

Mr. Oscar Parks, on behalf of the community, presented Dr. Swann with a purse of money and Mrs. Swann a corsage son set. Other presentations were a desk pad, presented by Miss Nancy Ward for the Young People; a photo of the members of the junior choir, presented by the Misses Rebecca Bolston and Pat Ward. The president of UCW, Mrs. Bert Walters, spoke of Mrs. Swann's interest in the new UCW organization and the great assistance she had rendered. Mrs. P. G. Denike, on behalf of the UCW, made the presentation of a petit point afternoon bag, containing a sum of money.

Mr. Whytock Fox was called upon and expressed his appreciation of Dr. Swann's ministry for the past nine months.

The Rev. Nathan Bowering, formerly of New Scotia, will be inducted into the Bloomfield charge on Thursday evening of this week.

GOT PAY HIKE

LONDON (Reuter) — Employers and union leaders today agree on a three-per-cent pay increase for British's 3,000,000 engineering workers.

Glenora Ferry Sets Record Over Holiday

PICTON — The ferry at the Glenora-Adolphustown crossing set a new record for carrying cars across the Bay of Quinte, Capt. James Haylock stated yesterday. On Sun-day, over 1,888 cars were ferried; the previous mark two years ago being 1,964. Many of these were enroute to the Outer Provincial Park beach where officials state that 11,000 people spent the day.

Monday also proved a busy day and before midnight, 1,500 cars had been carried by the two ferries, which operated without any waiting. Though there were long lineups at times, motorists were not delayed longer than they would have been in returning by road to a big city.

Brewery Strike May Be Avoided

TORONTO (CP) — Conciliation talks between spokesmen for about 3,000 Ontario brewery workers and their employers in Toronto resumed Saturday following sessions Monday and Tuesday.

"We are optimistic that a basis for settlement may have been reached and that a strike can be avoided," an employer representative said today.

Details of the proceedings earlier in the week were not disclosed. They are taking place with a special two-man labor-board headed by Judge Hugh Arrell of Hamilton.

The Brewery Workers' Union (CLC) is seeking a 35-hour week plus a general five-cents-an-hour increase to replace a contract with the brewers' that expired last Dec. 31. The union represents workers in the province's breweries, except the malt's at London, and the Brewing Warehousing Company in Toronto.

ELECTED MAYOR

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters) — For the first time in history, a Negro was elected mayor of Nairobi, Tuesday night. Alderman Charles Rubia was elected unopposed. Another African, Alderman John Kaptoka, became deputy mayor.

Business Briefs

OTTAWA (CP)—Department store sales in the week ended June 23 were 1.9 per cent higher than in the comparable week last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Increases of 4.3 per cent in Quebec, 2.1 in Manitoba, 14.4 in Alberta and 8.6 in British Columbia more than offset declines of 6.1 per cent in the Atlantic provinces, 4.1 in Ontario and 2.5 in Saskatchewan.

It was the last full week before the government's austerity measures took effect.

Railway carloadings of revenue freight in the week ended June 16 were up 4.3 per cent to 79,584 cars from 75,328 in the corresponding 1961 period. Since Jan. 1 loadings were up 2.8 per cent.

Volume of freight handled at Canadian ports in April rose 4.2 per cent to 11,779,109 tons from 11,098,300 in April last year. This brought January-April volume to 37,295,506 tons, up seven per cent from 35,767,-900 a year earlier.

Production increases for February were reported for the following minerals (February, 1961, figures in brackets): Asbestos 67,284 tons (60,889); cement 189,460 tons (108,645); coal 907,518 tons (904,818); copper 33,585 tons (33,172); gypsum 160,154 tons (147,243); iron ore 315,000 tons (282,438); lime 104,-347 tons (101,229); natural gas 22,855,279,000 cubic feet (56,656,-806,000); nickel 18,379 tons (17,-981); petroleum 20,294,093 barrels (19,481,541); salt 380,942 tons (342,783); and zinc 32,222 tons (30,379).

Decreases: Clay products $1,-941,123 ($1,980,447); gold 338,519 troy ounces (362,604); silver 16,-077 tons (20,930); silver 2,064,227 troy ounces (2,389,981); uranium 1,460,397 pounds (1,732,562).

Two Toronto Mags Merged

TORONTO (CP) — Fengate Publishing Company Limited announced Tuesday that the magazines Canadian and Saturday Night have been merged into a monthly publication to be called Canadian Saturday Night.

Arthur Lower, editor of The Canadian, will be editor assisted by Herbert McManus as associate editor. Mr. McManus has worked for Saturday Night for more than 30 years.

Percy W. Bishop, who launched The Canadian, a monthly magazine devoted to business and national affairs, last November, said it was selling about 50,000 copies a month. He said the monthly Saturday Night had a circulation of 90,000.

Mr. Bishop formed Fengate to operate Saturday Night and Liberty when the magazines' assets were purchased last year from Jack Kent Cooke.

EDITORS QUIT

Six members of the editorial staff of Saturday Night have resigned in protest against the merger.

Mr. Edinborough said at the time:

"We dont agree with the editorial policies of The Canadian. It's right-wing, Social Credit stuff and we're suspicious of the magazine's backing."

Mr. Bishop has denied the magazine will have Social Credit backing.

Tuesday's announcement said:

"Political questions will be dealt with strictly from an unbiased viewpoint with editorial praise for proficiency and with unstinted criticism for stupidity and this without fear or favor to any political party."

Jerome Will Stay At Home

EDMONTON (CP) — Vancouver sprinter Harry Jerome says he will not compete in the British track and field championships next month.

Jerome, defending British titleholder of the world mark in the 100 metres, said in an interview here Tuesday he has received an invitation from either the British or Canadian amateur athletic unions to attend the meet.

(A Toronto report said an invitation for Jerome had been sent to the Vancouver branch of the AAU.)

Jerome said his studies will prevent him from accepting an invitation to the meet. He is attending summer classes at the University of Oregon.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Caledon Belle defeated Blue Light and Count Page in one of the biggest finishes of the season to win the featured Bon Accord purse at Woodbine Tuesday.

Caledon Belle, a three-year-old filly owned by Conn Smythe and ridden by Sam McComb, matched strides with the two older horses in a blazing finish. She ran the 1 1-16 mile in 1:45 and paid $7.30 to win for the fourth time in nine starts this season.

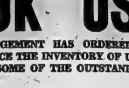
INFORMATION FOR PERSONS CONSIDERING A CAREER IN ACCOUNTING

For many years the Certified Public Accountants Association of Ontario has provided educational facilities for accounting students who are employed in the offices of practising public accountants and for those otherwise employed.

Following the recent merging of membership of The Institute of Chartered Accountants of Ontario and The Certified Public Accountants Association of Ontario, arrangements have been made for students presently registered on the C.P.A. course of study to continue to graduation. However, no new enrolments will be accepted by The Certified Public Accountants Association of Ontario.

Those seeking a professional career in public accounting may apply for enrolment on the course of study of The Institute of Chartered Accountants of Ontario. Enquiries should be directed to The Registrar, The Institute of Chartered Accountants of Ontario, 69 Bloor St. East, Toronto 5.

For those who prefer a professional accounting career in industry, there will be available a course of study of a standard equivalent to that formerly offered by The Certified Public Accountants Association of Ontario. Arrangements have been made for The Society of Industrial & Cost Accountants of Ontario to conduct this course, separate and distinct from its other course. As an interim measure, students will be enrolled by the Society on the present C.P.A. course of study with the understanding that upon graduation they will be granted a designation, other than C.P.A., to attest to their achievement.



ENQUIRIES SHOULD BE DIRECTED TO THE SOCIETY OF INDUSTRIAL & COST ACCOUNTANTS OF ONTARIO, 31 WALNUT STREET, SOUTH, P.O. BOX 178, HAMILTON, ONTARIO.

THIS NOTICE IS PUBLISHED BY THE CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS ASSOCIATION OF ONTARIO

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR

For July 5

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Breakthrough promised if you throw off "small." Be yourself, honest, creative, independent. Trying to be something else in order to please "everybody" is mistake.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): If you attempt to buck authority you might find you have bitten off more than you can chew. Key is co-operation. Otherwise, you spend, plead and threaten to no avail.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): You could say, do and write things today which are based completely on impulse. Best course is to pull in reins and think twice. Just take it easy and the path will be smooth.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): By listening to advice offered by one who "cares," you save yourself grief. If you refuse to listen, you must be prepared to accept consequences. Bright social evening possible.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21): Cycle remains near top, but Moon conjoined in your sign with Uranus and Venus touches off emotional "fireworks." Very productive day if you decide upon action and follow through.

Virgo ((Aug. 22 to Sept. 23): Long-range investment, either monetary or emotional, begins to bear fruit. Please recognize this fact. If you fight it the obvious, you merely defeat your own best interests.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 22): Being generous is positive, favorable quality, but draw the line between generosity and extravagance. ... Make friends understand your position. But don't attempt to "buy" respect, affection.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov 21): Best advice today concerns you: Willingness to believe in yourself, trust intuitive intellect. Follow hunch about delicate matter through to conclusion.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec 21): Don't try to do too much at one time — you'll wear yourself down, strain nervous system and become plain exhausted. Do one thing at a time. Obtain needed rest today.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Settle financial problems obligations in diplomatic, precise manner. Trying to "skip" over details could cost more in long run. Be honest with others, and yourself.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Legal matters, agreements, debts, promises are all spotlighted - - - especially in relation to business or marital partner. Keep in mind, though, that this is day to avoid taking chances.

Pisces (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20): No time to shirk responsibility. If change, travel, or output of funds called for, better do it rather than try to "duck." If you are considerate, you gain.

If Today Is Your Birthday - - this is month to take hold of the reins and rule your own destiny. Say "No, thanks," to those who would direct or dominate you.

* *

General Tendencies: This could be day in which the doors to secrets are opened wide. The public is "let in" on what previously was covered.

Road Workers Took Part Member Claims

QUEBEC (CP) — Opposition members enlivened a Dominion Day sitting of the legislative assembly with charges that children were listed as roads department employees and that roads workers took part in the June 18 federal election campaign.

Roads Minister Bernard Pinard promised that inquiries will be made and that "there will be sanctions, if necessary."

Germain Caron (UN—Maskinonge) said that a cheque for $51 had been made out in the name of Georges Clement for work done between Oct. 16 and Oct. 26, 1961, in his county. But, he said, he had a statement from school authorities that Clement was in class at that time.

Clement's younger brother also had been listed, Mr. Caron said, and it was all part of a county-wide system in his riding.

The boys are sons of a "Liberal organizer, Mr. Caron added.

One case doesn't make a system, said Mr. Pinard, repeating his promise of an investigation.

American Teacher Says Canadians Might Rule United States of Canada

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — Clarence L. Barlo, a high school teacher who wants to merge Canada and the United States, says response to his campaign in the U.S. ranges from "real enthusiasm to indifference."

As for Canadians, the 48-year-old South Dakota war veteran suspects that the majority would be opposed to such an idea "but I fully believe many thousands of Canadians would favor political unification of our two nations."

A native of Texas who describes his ancestry as "seven-eighths British-Irish and one-eighth Swiss," Barlo has been thinking about Canada-U.S. unification for more than a quarter-century, but it was only in the last four months that he launched an active publicity drive for the "Americanadian plan."

This would eliminate the 3,000-mile border, turn the two countries into the United States of Canada, moving the capital to somewhere near the geographic centre of the continent at Sioux Falls, S.D.

Canadian provinces would be turned into U.S. «I C. states and all of the residents in the new country would be called "Canadians." Barlo is sure that from what now are the Canadian provinces would come "a fair share of U.S. presidents, Congressional leaders, Supreme Court justices and leaders of business and finance."

To further his publicity drive, Barlo formed the Americanadian Company at Madison, S.D., printing and distributing some 2,000 postcards, showing on one side a map of the proposed new country and its capital site. While some Americans expressed disinterest and others "real enthusiasm" for the idea, Barlo reports that no U.S. opposition was shown in letters he received. But one British Columbian did write and he was opposed.

Undaunted, Barlo argues that a decade before Newfoundland joined Canada, there was a great deal of opposition to such a move in the former British colony.

"But the minority of Newfoundlanders who wanted this entity waged a determined campaign and they were able to bring their cause to victory because unification was for the good of the people of both countries.

"The same could be said for the unification of the once independent nations of Texas and Hawaii with the U.S. I'm a native of Texas and I know Texans are a lot better off as citizens of the U.S. than they would be as citizens of an independent Texas. And they are not afraid of domination by New York, California or Illinois."

Barlo, who describes himself as a conservative who is opposed to tyranny and dictatorship, is convinced that the free world is losing the cold war and that the only way to halt this deterioration is through greater political and economic unity within the free countries.

If Canada and the U.S. should join together, then the new country emerging should become a member of an enlarged NATO embracing all the free countries.

WANTS COUNTRIES JOINED — A South Dakota high school teacher, Clarence L. Barlo, has launched a publicity drive for the union of Canada and the United States. A company formed to further his aim is printing and distributing postcards with maps similar to this one showing the proposed United States of Canada with Sioux Falls, S.D., near the continent's geographical centre, as its capital. — (CP Newsmap.)

Non-Op Unions Put Tag On Contract Talks

Job Security Plan, Higher Wages Asked

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's non - operating railway unions have put a price tag on their new contract demands—a total $46,000,000 a year for wages plus an additional $14,000,000 a year in 10 years for their job security program.

The figures were made public Wednesday for the first time since the contract demands were presented last December.

At the opening session of a federal conciliation board set up to try to find a compromise solution to the dispute.

The union brief, drawing heavily for support on the findings of the royal commission, made it clear that the non-ops have tied their demand for a 22-cent-an-hour wage increase to the portable goods standard.

That is an average of wages paid in several basic Canadian industries. It has been rejected for years by the railways as a yardstick in settlement of what the non-ops should be paid.

The 100-page union brief, read verbatim before the conciliation board by union negotiator Frank Hall, said the standard has received support from every major conciliation board since the end of the Second World War.

The standard now is about 12 cents an hour above the average income of male adults in all public and industrial enterprises were tallied.

President João Goulart office manoeuvred Andrade's resignation in a communique that said the Conservative Senator leader found it impossible to form a cabinet and bowed out. The resignation had the effect when prime minister were all odds on a choice of navy and air force ministers.

Goulart's left-of-centre Brazilian Labor Party and Conservative forces, including Andrade's Social Democratic party, have been clashing since the crisis began to develop June 26.

Goulart and some elements in Congress also are feuding over how much power the legislative and executive branches should have.

RUST NAME SUCCESSOR

Goulart has three days, under the constitution, to nominate a new premier for approval by congressional approval. It is not clear—if the chamber of deputies rejects three successive nominees—the Senate can name his own choice.

Alfredo Nasser, former justice minister who has served as the Social Progressive party, is Goulart's reported choice.

Meanwhile, Gen. Mata Lopes, undersecretary for war, said in a broadcast that garrisons throughout the country.

But he added that as a precautionary measure, troops had been asked to guarantee order in the state of Rio de Janeiro, where lines formed in front of government food trucks. There were reports of shortages of rice, beans, sugar and macaroni.

The crisis was sparked June 26 when Prime Minister Tancredo Neves resigned his office in order to be able to run for congress in next October's elections.

Union leaders have been demanding that a member of the Labor party be named prime minister.

Even after Andrade quit, Dante Pelacani, president of the national confederation of Industrial Workers, announced "we shall go ahead with the strike anyway."

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Temperatures will climb to the low 80s today. These temperatures, coupled with low humidity, add up to a pleasant summer weather. The story is different north of Lake Superior.

A weak disturbance is giving cloudy skies and a few scattered showers. This disturbance will weaken steadily but some of the cloud is expected to move eastward as far as Kapuskasing and James Bay. Friday will be mainly sunny throughout the forecast regions and temperatures will be similar to today's readings.

GASH ON THE LINE — Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation place nearly two and one-half million dollars in cash on the floor in the bureau's Newark, N.J., office. The money, cashed along with pistols and ammunition, right foreground, was found in the trunk of a car in a garage by workmen. The FBI said files found in the front of the auto contained material on a police investigation of a jailed New Jersey gambler, Joseph (Newsboy) Moriarty. (AP Wirephoto.)

BRAZIL PREMIER RESIGNS POST, STRIKE FOLLOWS

Country Virtually Paralyzed by Action

Of Front AP-Reuters

BRASILIA—A general strike virtually paralyzed Brazil today amid a new governmental crisis touched off by the resignation of Conservative Prime Minister Auro de Moura Andrade.

Army units and police were on the alert in Rio de Janeiro and other trouble areas as labor leaders ignored presidential appeals and pressed their campaign for a prime minister to be chosen from the Labor party.

Andrade quit Wednesday night after only 36 hours in office. Labor leaders said the resignation came too late to cancel the strike call but promised to confer with government officials later today.

Meanwhile, the strike spread the cancellation of all scheduled flights in Rio de Janeiro and all public and industrial services were halted.

President João Goulart office manoeuvred Andrade's resignation in a communique that said the Conservative Senator leader found it impossible to form a cabinet and bowed out. The resignation had the effect when prime minister were all odds on a choice of navy and air force ministers.

Goulart's left-of-centre Brazilian Labor Party and Conservative forces, including Andrade's Social Democratic party, have been clashing since the crisis began to develop June 26.

Nickel-Nursing Bookie Has Reputation For Spurning Cash if It Means Trouble

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Police picture gambler Joseph (the Newsboy) Moriarty as a shabby, nickel - nursing loser with a gift for acquiring money but no knack for enjoying it.

Hudson County Prosecutor Lawrence A. Whipple and three aides spent 15 minutes with Moriarty at the prison and told him of the find.

"You've just lost $2,500,000," Whipple said he told the prisoner.

"He listened deadpan," Whipple related, "then he said, 'you are telling me this, Mr. Prosecutor.' He would neither admit nor deny ownership of anything but said that Abe Zig said he would get a lawyer. He said he would 'consider making a statement' afterward."

The fortune at issue, ranging from thousand-dollar bills to pills down to $5, was found Tuesday by two unidentified carpenters in the trunk of a 1957 Plymouth housed in a dilapidated garage.

The two carpenters meanwhile were reported to have filed claims against the fortune, Frank Murray, 54, owner of the garage in which the cache was found, was considering a similar claim.

Moriarty, 57, a bachelor who lived in a tiny flat, a veritable mazo of efficiency Wednesday announcing big charity plans and attracting 27,000 to a spit-and-polish variety spectacular.

Before the spectacle, the Shriners transacted the really important business of their convention, allotting $10,000,000 to build and operate institutes for the treatment of children suffering from burns.

Outgoing Imperial Potentate Mr. Justice Marshall M. Porter of Calgary told the fraternal group's 80th imperial council the new institutes will research the unsolved medical field of burn therapy.

Edgar M. Klepper of Memphis, Tenn., was installed as imperial potentate—the order's highest office—for the coming year.

Spectacular Shriner Show Draws 22,000 to Grounds

TORONTO (CP)—The Shriners' convention became a mecca for thousands of visitors Wednesday as the fraternal group's 80th imperial council session climaxed a week of conventioneering.

Today the convention will hold its last fling, a torchlight march down Yonge Street, planned to outdo Tuesday's five-hour marathon parade.

The convention officially ends today—many are expected to stay on—but Shrine officials stunned a reeling city with the announcement that Toronto will be mecca for the Order's 1969 convention.

Last night's spectacular was climaxed by the detonation of $7,000 worth of fireworks — a barrage that froze people in their tracks and lit the night sky.

Wednesday's activities was marred by the death of another Shriner—making a total of six so far—who have died of heart failure. Louis Stanley Oliker, 71, of Arlington, Va., collapsed in his hotel room. Two Nobles died in hotel rooms Monday night and three died in Tuesday's parade.

Praise was lavished on Toronto as a perfect host with an unbelievable "hospitality" spirit. At ceremonies Wilson Mount commented: "I don't know anyone else where you can get arrested less."

Doctors From Britain, U.S. Answer Saskatchewan SOS

REGINA (CP) — The Saskatchewan government's SOS call for doctors is getting an answer.

Doctors from Britain, the United States and elsewhere in Canada now are helping to provide emergency medical services for the province, health officials said Wednesday.

Biggest source of help is expected to be from across the Atlantic. Some 1,400 physicians and 2,400 hospitals have been advised by mail of Saskatchewan's need.

Provincial health officials said British doctors will begin to arrive in Saskatchewan shortly after the rate of four a day. These would include general practitioners and specialists who now operate under Britain's state-run medical plan.

60 persons are being interviewed at the Saskatchewan immigration office in Regina.

Charge Jordan Fire Kills Five

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel has accused Jordanians of firing from Jerusalem old city ramparts across the armistice line, killing two Israeli soldiers and wounding three civilians Wednesday night.

One of the civilian victims was reported to be a 14-year-old girl.

An Israeli military spokesman said the Israelis returned the fire.

An Israel communique said Israel authorities have complained to the UN Israel-Jordan Armistice Commission.

CLC BOYCOTTS SIU-MANNED SEAWAY SHIPS

CLC Institutes Drastic Action

OTTAWA (CP) — A shipbuilders' boycott of vessels manned by crews from the Seafarers International Union was launched at 8 a.m. EDT today in the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence River, the Canadian Labor Congress announced here.

The CLC said simultaneous action against SIU - manned ships was taken at key points in the international inland waterway—at the Welland Canal between Lakes Erie and Ontario, at the Cornwall Canal and the Beauharnois Canal in the heart of the seaway route in the St. Lawrence River, at the seaway entry locks at Montreal and Quebec City and at Sept-Iles, Que.

The boycott was aimed at stopping SIU ships from proceeding through the seaway. It also included picketing and stopping SIU - staffed iron ore ships at Sept-Iles, 400 miles east of Montreal.

"The denial of passage to SIU-manned ships will be maintained until there is a cessation of the campaign of violence, harassment, physical assaults and boycotts of Canadian-owned ships in Canada, the United States and elsewhere," said William Dodge, CLC executive vice-president.

OTHERS NOT HINDERED

"Ships manned by members of the Canadian Seamen's Union, the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, United Steelworkers and other bona fide Canadian unions as well as foreign ships will be allowed unhindered passage."

Mr. Dodge's statement was the first formal acknowledgement by a union official that the boycott had been launched.

The CLC said the decision to boycott SIU-manned ships followed "fruitless efforts to halt a campaign of brutality, intimidation and coercion, unparalleled in Canadian labor history."

The violence erupted as two rival marine unions—the Canadian Maritime Union, backed by the CLC and organized labor generally, and the Seafarers International Union of Canada—were locked in a bitter struggle for control of Great Lakes seamen.

TROUBLED HISTORY

The SIU, headed by American-born Hal C. Banks-of Montreal, was expelled two years ago from the 1,070,000-member labor congress for raiding. It was later expelled from the International Transport Workers' Federation after conference with the internal affairs of Britain's National Union of Seamen.

The SIU has been fighting with the Canada Labor Relations Board in a number of instances and deliberate attempts at mis-leading in certification proceedings before the board.

The congress said the boycott will be maintained:

1. Assurance has been received by the "complete cessation of cargo" on the Great Lakes has been ended.

2. Canadian vessels tied up and subject to harassment at United States Great Lakes ports are being loaded and allowed to proceed to their destinations without unlawful hindrance.

3. The Canadian government gives a satisfactory undertaking to the CLC request for a full inquiry into the affairs of the SIU and the "criminal acts" which have taken place.

Canadian Labor Congress president Claude Jodoin sought the SIU investigation in a letter to Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

U.S. Will Try Third Time To Test Device

HONOLULU (AP) — The United States is set for its third try at exploding a nuclear device high above Johnston Island tonight.

The U.S. weather bureau in Honolulu said skies should be clear and visibility good over the tiny Pacific island. The area had rain squalls and high cloudiness early Wednesday and Monday.

Two previous attempts at a high - altitude shot failed because of missile troubles.

Lieut.-Governor Of Nevada Dies Suddenly

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Lieutenant-Governor Rex Bell, 58, a cowboy star of the silent film era who married the "It Girl" of the 1920s, actress Clara Bow, died Wednesday night of a heart attack.

Bell collapsed at the home of a friend a few hours after addressing a Republican party rally. He was the first announced Republican candidate for governor and was widely regarded by political observers as the only person who could rally strength for Nevada Republicans in next fall's elections.

His wife, Clara, was reported seriously ill in a Culver City, Calif., rest home. A spokesman said that due to her condition she was not notified of Bell's death.

He also leaves two sons, Rex Anthony, 27, and George, 24.

Bell started with Mitz Bow in several films in the 1920s and they later surprised Hollywood by eloping in 1931.

Hundred Killed Or Wounded In Oran Gun Fight

Celebrating Moslems Seize Residences, Cars

ORAN, Algeria (AP)—A violent gun battle broke out in the centre of Oran's European city today and hospital officials said more than 100 dead or wounded had been brought there within 45 minutes.

An official of the city's main hospital said all those brought in were Moslems. But several Europeans also were killed or wounded.

The gunfire panicking tens of thousands of Moslems in the midst of a victory celebration.

The battle, which swept through the heart of the city, appeared to be the most violent outbreak of fighting in Oran's recent turbulent history.

It was not immediately clear as to who fired on the Moslems. One Moslem spokesman shouted that the firing came from the terrorist European Secret Army Organization.

It was the first known outbreak of violence in Algeria since it became formally independent Tuesday.

The streets emptied within minutes as Moslems and European snipers started firing. The dead, dead or wounded, lay in the street outside the Grand Hotel in the heart of the European city, as Moslem police and troops brandishing guns moved into the area. They began rounding up all the European men they could find.

The firing broke out at noon. Two hours later Moslems were reported started from the building of Oran's largest newspaper and opened to other buildings nearby.

ALGIERS (AP) — Tens of thousands of delirious, flag-waving Algerians poured into the capital today for an independence victory party at royal units of the nationalist army.

Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda's regime strove desperately to bring order. Government administration virtually ground to a halt; teen-age Moslems in blue jeans and revolvers stuck in their belts roamed the streets, "helping" to direct traffic.

After a wild night, police—including both Moslems and Europeans—succeeded early today in closing off some of the main streets for the victory parade.

All night long, the city throbbed to the rhythmic cry of "Ya Ya Chouhada' (long live the fighters!) from the thumping men, women and children dancing, screaming and dancing in the streets.

Against the background of jubilation, leaders of the new-born Algerian faction were locked in a power struggle with the growing threat of anarchy.

SEIZE APARTMENTS

Heady, with independence, Moslems seized apartments and homes once occupied by Europeans and stole scores of cars from the streets. No one moved to stop them.

"We cannot do anything; its anarchy, a Moslem policeman told a reporter. Shots were heard into Algiers' central police headquarters to register complaints.

Thousands of Moslems still celebrating independence, proclaimed by France Tuesday, poured through the streets of Algiers' ignoring all signs and traffic laws. They swamped the few French policemen trying to direct traffic.

Groups of nationalist guerrillas, some in uniform and some with armbands on their workers overalls, swaggered through the streets, proudly displaying their guns. Others took up posts near public buildings, but there was little to protect inside.

A handful of Europeans who showed up to work in the Algiers administrative centre found empty rooms. In many offices, papers were strewn on the floor.

EUROPEANS FLEEING

Algeria's European minority expressed growing pessimism that they would have a meaningful future in the new nation. But European spokesmen in Oran doubted that once-dominating commercial centre could play any important role in it, although some Moslems were believed to be trickling back to work there. From several points in the interior came reports of a complete halt to economic activity.

The new governmental vacuum was created by the sudden withdrawal of French officials and the lack of Algerian Moslems to replace them. Governing turn to some members of the new elections, with the French-installed provisional executive unelective headed by Abderrahmane Fares. But actual power lies with the Algerian provisional executive headed by Abderrahmane Ben Khedda was having difficulty establishing his authority outside Algiers.

About 4,000 mutinous nationalist troops still were camped near Algiers.

Home-Building Continues at Brisk Pace

Residential construction in the city continues at a brisk pace with close to 100 residential permits being issued so far this year.

To the end of June there were 97 house permits issued at city hall with a value of $2,180,250. Twenty one of the above number of permits were issued during June.

Total number of permits until the end of June was 297, with a total value of $2,798,653, up three quarters of million over the same period last year.

Building value during June totalled $431,172 with 21 residential permits making up $336,300 of this figure.

The main industrial and institutional permits issued so far this year have been for the new Bird building on Pinnacle Street; the Bridge Street United Church addition and the new Parkdale Public School.

Reports Ducklings Of Various Sizes

George Warder, Conservation Officer at the Belleville area, reports a high summer population of adult ducks in the area pastel this year. A considerable variance in the size of the young ducklings appearing on the ponds and sloughs gives rise to some speculation regarding the success of progeduction in this area this year

Dogs Molest Deer In Thurlow Township

During the last two weeks in June the deer in the north Thurlow Township area were being molested by dogs running at large.

Frequent Department of Lands and Forests patrols have been made in the area but the people residing in any area where deer inhabit should be on guard for this and that dogs should be under control at all times, particularly at this time when young fawns are present.

Report Deer Wintered Well

An inspection survey has been completed by Department of Lands and Forests officials for eight representative deer yards distributed through the Tweed District deer range. Deer wintered well and were able to maintain their cover for a considerable distance during most of the winter. The heavy snow-falls which occurred around the first of March hampered deer movements and forced them to remain closer to the vicinity of winter cover for a period of about a month. It is during these winter conditions that deer yards that comprise the bulk of the

Lindy Forward Visits Museum, Gets Dollar

The Hastings County Museum recently honored its thousandth visitor of the current season. The visitor was 12-year-old Lindy Forward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lindy Forward of 36 Auburn Street, Belleville.

A student in grade 8 at King George Public School, Lindy visited the museum with his classmates on a guided tour and was presented with a silver dollar and a pass to the museum for the 1962 season.

Thanks to tours by public school children and several Women's Institutes, attendance has now passed the 1,900 mark and new records are anticipated.

As of the first of July the museum has announced a new policy. Children under 14 can now be admitted to the museum unaccompanied by an adult for five cents. As before children accompanied by adults are admitted free.

And the museum has free paper bags for all children visiting the museum either by themselves or with parents.

The museum is open daily from 2 to 5 in the afternoon and Monday through Friday evenings from 7 to 9.

Independence Day Toll May Set New Record

CHICAGO (AP) — Final figures may boost the one-day record high traffic death for the July 4 U.S. independence holiday.

Traffic accidents killed at least 316 persons during the period from 6 p.m. local time Tuesday to midnight Wednesday.

The record toll of 137 was set in 1956.

In other violent deaths, 51 persons were drowned, at least their lives in boating accidents and 31 were killed in miscellaneous accidents.

The over-all toll of 220 dead did not include any fatalities from fireworks.

Two Teen-Agers Admit Killing Two Boys

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Two teen - aged cousins Wednesday night admitted the brutal slaying of two Louisville boys on a lonely road in adjoining Bullitt County.

Police Lieut. James Wyatt said Jerry Lee Anfinson, 17, and Kenneth Dale Woodward, 17, both of Louisville, admitted killing James Benningfield, 17, and James Impellizzeri, 14, June 23.

The bodies were found Monday, both shot through the head.

Anfinson and Woodward were not charged immediately.

Wyatt quoted them as saying they were hitchhiking the night of June 23 and that Impellizzeri and Benningfield picked them up.

Then, he said, they gave this account:

Anfinson pulled a pistol, took Benningfields wallet containing $2, then forced the victims to drive south of Louisville.

When they reached the road, Anfinson made Benningfield stop the car, forced him out. Benningfield walked to the shoulder of the road, and Anfinson shot him.

He then gave the pistol to Woodward, they drove about 1,000 feet, Woodward forced Impellizzeri from the car and Impellizzeri fainted. Woodward shot him in the head and pushed his body into a ravine.

Other nationalist commanders were reported sending protests to Ben Khedda against his dismissal last weekend of the three top commanders of the nationalist army in Tunisia and Morocco. Ben Khedda accused the trio of planning a military coup to install Vice-Premier Mohammed Ben Bella in power.

While Ben Bella opposes Ben Khedda's policy of co-operation with Algeria's European and with France, he insisted his dispute with Ben Khedda resulted solely from the firing of the three army commanders.

nounced the government is prepared to continue discussions with a joint committee set up several months ago to find the best way to handle out-patient services.

Mr. Davis said it was unbalanced that the services were extended only "to the extent they could be provided."

Dr. E. M. Emson of Saskatoon, president of the Saskatchewan Association of Pathologists, said in a statement that the latest directive is further move to place further physicians' services under the direct control of the government."

He said this would result in an "intolerable increase" in the demand for services at hospitals not equipped or staffed to meet the demands. At points where non-hospital laboratory services were operated, these would have been pieced under complete government control.

As the doctors' strike entered its fifth day, the provincial executive of the Keep-Our-Doctors Committee met into the early hours of today to determine its future.

Earlier, provincial President Bert McKay of Moosomin, Sask., said "in a measure, we have lost the battle."

At Saskatoon, Hana Teal, a provincial vice-president of the organization, had said a "mass demonstration" was being organized in the hope to force the legislative buildings later this week.

Representatives from communities throughout northern Saskatchewan met in Regina to make plans.

In Regina, Deputy Premier J. H. Brockelbank said the provincial government considers the medical care position "apparently under control."

SEES NO RUSH

He said there "appears nothing in the nature of panic and alarm" and the general situation is "very quiet." He made no forecast on how long the current emergency will last.

Even if emergency services are being provided by about 230 volunteer doctors under the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons' plan cause to an end, Mr. Brockelbank said there will be "at least adequate" medical service available.

An Moose Jaw, dentists held an emergency meeting and announced they would close their offices Friday for a special meeting in Regina. The meeting will consider implications for dentists of the current situation.

The Moose Jaw Dental Society said problems were arising because of a ruling a dental practice depended on close liaison with other branches of the medical profession.

Dr. A. G. Kelly, general secretary of the Saskatchewan Medical Association, arrived Wednesday in Saskatoon for talks with striking doctors.

A spokesman for the College of Physicians and Surgeons said Dr. Kelly came to see what help the parent doctors' body could provide.

Archbishop To Visit Moscow

LONDON (Reuters) — The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey, announced today he will fly to Moscow July 30 at the invitation of Russian Orthodox Patriarch Alexei. He will be there four days.

"The purpose of my visit is to strengthen the ties between the Church of England and the Russian Orthodox Church, to encourage the deepening of joint doctrinal discussions," he said.

The journey will be a sequel to Dr. Ramsey's talks in Istanbul and Athens in May with the Patriarch of Constantinople, Athenagoras I, foremost of the Orthodox leaders, and the Primate of the Greek Orthodox Church in Greece, Archbishop Chrysostomos.

The prelates agreed to the setting up of a joint Orthodox-Anglican theological commission which will study after 1,000 years the autonomous Orthodox churches have given their approval.

As chairman of the Lambeth (London) Conference of bishops of the world - wide Anglican Communion, Dr. Ramsey represents an estimated 42,000,000 church members.

Orthodox churches claim 100,000,000 to 130,000,000 adherents.

Business Briefs

OTTAWA (CP)—Shipments of Canadian-made cars and trucks in the January-May period were running 33.3 per cent ahead of the same period last year.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics said today shipments in the five months totalled 232,807 units compared with 175,983 a year earlier. There have been gains in all five months.

Canadian labor income in May rose up to $1,618,000,000, a gain of 1.4 per cent from March and 6.5 per cent higher than in April last year. This brought 1962's January-April total to $6,345,000,000, seven per cent more than a year earlier.

Canadian gold production in the first five months of 1962 was down 7.1 per cent to 1,407,288 fine ounces from 1,514,926 in the same period last year.

Asbestos shipments from Canada were up 8.4 per cent in the January-May period to 426,784 tons compared with 402,691 in the corresponding 1961 period.

Canadian output of refined petroleum products in April totalled 22,795,000 barrels, a drop of 2.5 per cent from 23,342,278 a year earlier.

July 1 stocks of creamery butter in Canadian cities and Canada stood at 65,238,000 pounds as against 73,468,000 pounds on the corresponding date in 1961. Cheddar cheese stocks were down to 22,273,000 pounds from 24,545,000, but holdings of cold storage eggs rose to 29,000 cases from 14,000.

on the British medical register, are in Canada with out further qualification.

However, American doctors may write examinations before becoming eligible for joining the provincial College of Physicians and Surgeons' registry. U.S. volunteers, hired by the provincial Medical Care Insurance Commission, are believed to have interns in hospitals under licensed physicians.

At present the newcomers include six from Britain, two from the U.S. and three from other Canadian provinces. Two Saskatchewan doctors also have come out of retirement.

ANSWERS SOS

Dr. Gerhard Beck, 55, a Jacksonville, Fla., physician, answered the SOS after reading about the Saskatchewan situation in the Florida Times-Union Sunday.

He telephoned Deputy Premier J. H. Brockelbank, offered his services and after satisfying halfway across the continent to the Prairie province to take up a intern's post at the hospital at Leader, 250 miles west of Regina.

"I feel it was my duty as a physician to offer my services to patients in need of medical care," he said Wednesday night in an interview.

He said he turned his own patients over to two colleagues, "one a Negro and the other a conservation or reward" in his applying for the job.

Dr. Beck said he will go home as soon as the province's doctors resume normal practice. He hoped it would be this week-end.

ONT. DOCS HELP

A number of doctors in Ontario hospitals indicated they could they will offer their services temporarily in Saskatchewan.

The commission's new recruits include one Saskatchewan doctor who changed his mind. He is Dr. S. P. Simonds, who some time ago had planned to leave his practice at Imperial to do post-graduate work in psychiatry in Montreal.

He was on his way to Montreal by car when he heard of the situation in Saskatchewan.

The commission said he then sent a telegram to Premier Woodrow Lloyd saying "do not surrender to blackmail" and turned back to Saskatchewan. He has been given a temporary assignment and hopes to proceed to Montreal later.

GORDON R. LOCKLIN, NEW ASSISTANT SUPT. AT OSD

Assistant Superintendent Of OSD Going to Milton; Quinte Teacher Successor

A staff change at the Ontario School for the Deaf, which will see Assistant Superintendent Donald E. Kennedy go to Milton and his position assumed by Gordon R. Locklin, guidance director at Quinte Secondary School, was announced today by Mr. J. Demeza, O.S.D. superintendent.

DONALD E. KENNEDY

Mr. Kennedy, who has been at the O.S.D. here since 1958, will become superintendent of the new provincial school for the deaf under construction at Milton. The school will open in September, 1963, as a junior school and will later have intermediate, senior and vocational departments added, with an ultimate enrolment approximately the same as at Belleville.

For the next year Mr. Kennedy will have duties of equipping, organizing and staffing the new school.

AN EIGHTY SIX YEARS

Mr. Locklin goes to the OSD after six years at Quinte Secondary school. He was born in the Frankford area and attended public and high school at Brighton before going to teachers' college at Peterborough.

He taught in rural schools and was principal of the Campbellton-Corryville public school before coming to Belleville as senior grade teacher and vice principal at King George and Queen Mary public schools. He received his B.A. degree from Queen's in 1950 and earned his Bachelor of Education degree at Toronto University.

During his term at Quinte he was active in air cadet work and has taken a keen interest in community affairs. He is president of the Stanley Park Neighborhood Association.

"He comes to the Ontario School for the Deaf with wide experience in teaching, administration and personnel work", Mr. Demeza said.

Before coming to Belleville Mr. Kennedy served as public schools inspector in the Huntsville and Cochrane areas and earlier had taught public school and served as principal at Kirkland Lake.

Bowling Notes

Members of the local bowling club have had a good week so far in tournaments held within the district. On Monday seven mixed rinks from the club, descended on Kingston to compete for the Wolg Standard trophy. One rink, Miss Margaret Fairbairn with Wally Lavergne as skip, were winners of three games, finished second in the tourney and received beautiful prizes. Other rinks that made the journey were Mr. and Mrs. Orlo Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Graham, Mrs. Joan Walkin and Bruce Miller, Mrs. Edna Jackman and Walter Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Price and Mrs. Thelma Fitzgibbon and Harold Mathieson. All report a very enjoyable day with the greens in much better shape than earlier in the year. 66 rinks competed in the tournament.

On Wednesday afternoon the district chairman's tourney was held in Campbellford and Wally Lavergne with Bill VanTassel won the one-game high. Jerry Hyde and Ralph Tuck also made the journey and were beaten in the last end in the last game for three high but Tuck's two-end high was not enough for a prize.

On Saturday mixed rinks from the club will journey to Stirling for a tournament. Many renovations have been made at Stirling, the most important being a new clubhouse. Hospitality reigns supreme in this club and anyone making the trip is assured of a good time.

embargo last May 23. He cited numerous incidents of violence and intimidation and warned that "use of like measures almost inevitable" unless action is taken immediately.

The boycott at key locks on the Welland Canal and the St. Lawrence Seaway appeared effectively stall scores of lake carriers owned by shipping lines not holding union contracts with the SIU.

Such major shipping firms as Canada Steamship Lines, N. M. Paterson and Sons Limited, Scott Misener Steamships Limited and Hall Corporation of Canada, normally be affected.

The Seaway Authority has warned ships that the boycott is planned and has told masters to proceed with caution.

It has also indicated that it will wait to see how any boycott develops before seeking legal restraints to stop it.

Seaway Authority President R. J. Rankin said in a statement last night that the impending walkout is regarded with "grave concern."

Preliminary steps had been taken to protect Seaway interests but the authority had not "yet moved finally" toward obtaining a legal injunction to restrain the threatened action.

"For the present, it regards the situation as one that must resolve itself in the light of the actions of the unions involved and the authority is closely study developments as they relate to its interests," said Mr. Rankin.

CLIMAXES STRUGGLE

The boycott was apparently aimed at forcing a showdown in a bitter, often bloody struggle between the Canadian Maritime Union and the SIU, a maverick group which broke away in midstream of labor two years ago for raiding another union's membership.

The two unions are fighting for supremacy over maritime workers on the Great Lakes. Violence, picket lines, court actions—all have flowed from the conflict on a battleground extending from the upper St. Lawrence River to the Lakehead on both sides of the international border.

Some 1,100 Seaway workers, members of the CLC and the Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, were also affected by the boycott.

Ocean freighters as well as vessels manned by crews represented by unions other than the SIU were expected to gain from Wasik's action in the boycott. Several ships have crews represented by the United Steelworkers of America and the Machinists union holds contracts on several vessels.

Before Mr. Rankin's statement was issued, Seaway spokesman said action could be taken to suspend any employee who refused to handle a ship in violation of the union contract. Legal action to reduce the effect of a disruption of normal traffic could be taken as well, the spokesman said.

Congo Crisis Expected to Come Up During U Thant's Tour

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Acting Secretary - General U Thant of the United Nations is expected to hold earnest talks on the new Congo crisis during his 16-day European tour.

Thant, who flew to Europe Wednesday, is scheduled to see Prime Minister Macmillan and President de Gaulle. It appears certain there will be comment on repeated African charges that the "colonialist" powers have directly or indirectly encouraged copper-rich Katanga's defiance of the central Congolese government in Leopoldville.

HOLDS REVENUES

Last week's collapse of three-power talks between Congolese Premier Cyrille Adoula and Katangan President Moise Tshombe means that Katanga will continue to reserve mineral revenues for itself.

This leaves the central government in the Leopoldville capital in a financial condition — and the UN in near - bankruptcy, since the Congo is the world body's largest peace - keeping operation.

Thant's visit to the Soviet Union at the end of the tour is being made because access to the huge granite structure is restricted to members.

Prime Minister Joins Mormons In Celebration

CARDSTON, Alta. (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker, in his first out-of-town engagement since the June 18 federal election, joined a crowd of more than 500 Wednesday night in celebrating the 75th anniversary of the Mormon settlement of this section of southern Alberta.

The prime minister, in high spirits after a nine-hour trip from Ottawa, congratulated the Mormon community for its contribution to irrigation on the Prairies.

Cardston, a town of 2,700, was settled in 1887 by 41 Mormons from Utah led by Charles Card, after whom the town was named.

Mr. Diefenbaker said their pioneer spirit was a unique and romantic episode in development of the province.

Earlier in the day the prime minister and his wife were guests at a town hall reception and then visited the Mormon Temple, ecclesiastical centre for the church in Canada. The Diefenbakers were not permitted to go inside the temple because access to the huge granite structure is restricted to members.

United States of Europe

Grattan O'Leary, publisher of the Ottawa Journal, told a Dominion Day dinner at London's Canadian Club that the Common Market is "an instrument to secure political union in Europe."

Mr. O'Leary may be right. We will go further than that and hasard the guess that many of the most ardent advocates and supporters of the Common Market have hoped that it would prove a step toward a United States of Europe.

For this reason, Mr. O'Leary does not think that Britain should join the Common Market.

Even if we grant him his premise, that the Common Market is designed to achieve political union rather than economic co-ordination, it does not necessarily follow that Britain would be better out of it.

Britain's past has seen her play a curious dual role in European history. She has been of Europe, without being in it. But with every passing century the distinction has dwindled. Increasingly her fortunes have been tied to those of the continent as a whole.

A United States of Europe without Britain as a member would be something akin to the United States of America, in 1776, finding itself without Virginia in the fold. Or like Canada in 1867 with what is now Ontario standing aloof.

For Britain to remain outside a United States of Europe, there would have to be a most compelling reason. Mr. O'Leary, of course, sees that reason in the Commonwealth. But the future of the Commonwealth is far from clear. Though it is not fashionable to say so, it is in a state of flux. The old days of Empire are past. The more important parts of the old Empire have long since become self-governing. Others will follow. The ties of the Crown have been broken. Commonwealth countries now include republics. To talk of blood ties is ridiculous—they do not exist and never did exist in much of the Commonwealth. There remain the ties of tradition and trade.

It is the latter tie which appears to be threatened by the Common Market. But it is already endangered. Canada is linked much more closely to the United States than to Britain, in matters economic.

What holds the Commonwealth together is largely intangible. It may be strong enough to hold. But there are disturbing signs that it may not. South Africa has already broken away from the Commonwealth—the old Boer traditions of race supremacy were too strong to permit the British tradition of compromise and precedent to guide that country in a time of crisis. Time may result in Pakistan and India breaking away from the sentimental attachment to their one-time overlord which has proven so amazingly strong.

In circumstances like this, can Britain be blamed for at least preparing for herself a new haven in a United States of Europe, in the event that the Commonwealth drifts apart? It may be that relaxing old trade ties will speed this process, but we suggest that if this proves true, the disintegration of the Commonwealth would be inevitable in any case. Its strongest ties are no longer those of the market-place, but of that common adherence to a belief in the rule of law, with that law firmly based in the equal rights of people of every color, race and creed. How quickly trade ties can be ignored when this adherence to principles is lost was clearly shown by the speed with which South African connections with the Commonwealth were severed.

Typically British

So typically British that it defies descriptive adjectives was the action of Oxford University in awarding honorary degrees to U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and movie actor Charlie Chaplin at the same ceremony.

Mr. Rusk's citation described him as a strong bulwark of justice and freedom, a man most loyal to his colleagues.

The great country whose foreign policies Mr. Rusk directs was for many years host to, Charlie Chaplin, who reciprocated this hospitality by making there the films which brought him personal fame and redounded to the credit of the movie industry.. But Mr. Chaplin's political beliefs are not orthodox and in one of the periods of Red-hunting hysteria Mr. Chaplin left the U.S. under what his critics considered a cloud.

Now Oxford, on the same day, as it exists Mr. Rusk as a champion of freedom, pays homage to Mr. Chaplin for his humor and "the generosity of a man who sympathizes with the underdog."

We might add that we suspect that Mr. Rusk himself, far from being embarrassed by the company in which he found himself, would feel this an additional honor. There are many good statesmen—but only one Chaplin.

Ottawa Offbeat

Charity May Begin at Home Playing Santa Too Costly

By RICHARD JACKSON

From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Now that surcharges on a fancy name for taxes — are going on half the Canadian import list, and plans all across the land for new Post Offices and Armories are being washed out in the hard name of austerity . . . It would be interesting to have an accounting of the cut-back, if any, in the Department of External Affairs.

To keep up with the "International Goals" of the year, it's costing us taxpayers just a smooth $100,000,000 a year, almost four times what it takes to run the Trade and Commerce Department.

But then, Trade and Commerce is a down-to-earth business operation.

It has a big overseas staff, too, but it pays more than $70,000 dollars-and-cents folks, working as Canada's travelling salesmen abroad.

Little, if any, time in Trade and Commerce for iced crumpets or cocktails and canapes.

Intriguing angle of the $25,000,000 budget of External Affairs is that some $70,000 goes in the great international game of "giveaway" in the form of foreign aid.

In the past, there always have been many Members of Parliament — excepting, of course, the CCF-NDP opposites — who wondered about the wisdom and questioned the economics of foreign aid.

IRONIC

They subscribed to the theory that the people back home who needed help, and the MPs on Parliament Hill to worry about local, practical, down-to-earth problems rather than the woes of complete strangers a half a world away.

These MPs, oddly, from the External Affairs Minister on always held stubbornly to the quasing belief that flood control in the Ottawa Valley was much more important to them than a Trade Fair in Timbuktu, or that passing the Trans-Canada Highway across Northern Ontario deserved a little more sentient than building an atomic reactor for Ghana.

Strange people, these MPs, far too parochial for External Affairs minded Ministers to understand.

The New Deme have always supported the External Affairs "give-away", probably in the belief that this is a particularly high-minded form of Socialism on international scale.

The foreign aid program should irritate the MPs more than ever, now that Canadians, tightening their belts, aren't supposed to be able to afford new Post Offices and other Public Works here at home. Ironic, too, that the Armories should be paying a special Government tax of 11% on 100 in salaries to give away that $70,000,000.

THE COST OF CHARITY:

It takes another $116,000 — the cost of travel, subsistence, postage, furniture and the inevitable travelling expenses' to keep this $900,000 staff in business.

The Deputy General draws an annual $18,000 and he has helping him, a deputy at $16,000, three aides at $15,000 each, six officers at $12,000, five executives at $10,000 and 19 other types at $8,000.

Then, of course, there are the rank and file, 60 clerical and administrative employees.

That makes a total of two executives for every three "doer" in the branch.

But now, with the last tariffs are going up, (and that means prices) and the "emergency" projects are being cancelled out of the Public Works construction list, there might be a cut-back in External Affairs' international bonhomie.

If we can't afford that new Post Office in Kitchener, that Armories in Sudbury, dredging at Port Stanley and all those other works projects here at home . . . then, perhaps it's time to consider that we can't afford to play Santa Claus in Africa and the Middle East.

When the Cabinet has finished cutting costs and what have been questioned as the "Revised Estimates" are placed before the new Parliament, you'll know whether External Affairs has been told that charity begins at home.

Quebec View Of Socreds

Montreal Le Devoir

One gets lost in speculation on the sudden ascent of Social Credit.

"There are those who say it is the victory of television. Probably there is some truth in this. It is not for nothing that the soap companies harass people with simple slogans.

There's a market for this sort of thing. And Social Credit is at the whole answer.

The eastern section of Quebec is part of an underdeveloped area where agriculture and industry are stagnant. The meagre standard of living and the increasing cost of living encourage the voters to look for something new. Social Credit exploited a favorably psychological climate by convincing them that they had nothing to lose in voting Social Credit.

The simplicity of the Socred demagogy has effect, in the short term, at least. Social Credit did not promise the Incredible things. Increase in social welfare spending and a decrease in taxes, and moreover the disappearance of the national Union Nationale — always in the always in the majority, reducing politics to such crass formulas gave the Socreds a gigantic advantage.

It is remarkable that the Social Credit drive was achieved with such paltry of resources. There was little money but plenty of people to work. This is a novelty for old parties. Their paid organizers have lost ground before people who believe in something and are ready to devote themselves to it. Here is proof that elections are not won with money alone, nor with prayers.

The representation of French Canadians in the next Diefenbaker Government will be even thaner than ever. In the House of Commons the city section is even worse. The Liberals have three or four outstanding members. Among the Socreds there is an utter inexperience. Of their 26 representatives, there may not be 20 who can express themselves adequately in English and perhaps even with the greatest problems of Federal politics and administration. We shall see. A small place; we emerge with almost nothing.

Plastic Aids Make-Belief

Baltimore Sun

That the stage and the screen are make-believe would be a piece of lovely — or even terrifying — illusion, dismays no one. This is one of the charms of entertainment, the knowledge that what seems to be is really not so. And the pleasure in the illusion extends to the people as well as to their work.

Now, however, the art of this illusion business seems in danger to vanish. Plastics, prop men have found, can serve just about every conceivable need. These days, whether we know it or not, we are likely to get our soup and polystyrene rocks. For "breakaway glass," the picture window through which the comedian walks, they find that a brittle plastic is far superior to the old sugar and cream-of-tartar paste. Not sweet to plastic. So many of the trees are flowers.

It all seems rather too sad and easy, in a world which is already flooded with more than enough insubstantial plastic gadgets, To simulate the real thing with a variety of materials, each cunningly chosen for its suitability, is in its own way an art. But the easy substitution of plastic for all these seems deadly dull. Who, in song, would ever think of noting that "... It's only a plastic moon, hanging over a plastic sea?"

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

July 5th, 1943.

The Belleville Kiwanis Club obtained $413 as a result of a Tag Day held on Saturday in favor of the Blood Donor Clinic Building Fund, according to Ross Stivers, treasurer of this project. Jack Trudeau, president of the Club and Jack McKeown, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee also thanked all who in any way contributed to the success of the Tag Day.

Squadron Leader Clifton Harper, D.F.C., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Harper of Brighton, and a brother of Miss Lois Harper of the Ontario Intelligencer staff, is reported missing in the Middle East, according to a cable received yesterday. When last heard from S/L Harper was in Chikatra, India.

Sister Mary Imelda of St. John's Convent in Newmarket, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Black, has received the degree of Bachelor of Arts from Queen's University, Kingston.

Master Stanley Hagerman, twelve-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hagerman, of Edgwater Farms, pleased with first class honors from the sixth grade piano Toronto Conservatory of Music examinations. According to the examiner, Mr. Peter Kennedy, the youthful musician has "real ability his phrasing and technique being excellent." The young man is a pupil of Mrs. John Deacon of this city.

July 8th, 1933.

Miss Dorothy Sager of Tweed, who is the guest of Mrs. J. F. Houston of Charles Street, was guest soloist at Bridge Street United Church on Sunday and sang in a highly excellent manner, "Ninety and Nine." Miss Sager was gold medalist at the Toronto Exhibition last year.

Mr. John Phillips was home from Ottawa to spend the week-end.

Mrs. Benson has returned from Ottawa where she visited her brother and sister.

McAnnasy Street and Harmony Road will be made one-way streets for traffic.

Alderman Woodley, acting mayor in the absence of Mayor Geo. O. Tice, cast the deciding vote against the by-law introduced by Ald. R. P. White with regards to the fixing of assessment value on Bridge. The decision was made by the vote, five for and five against the motion. Those in favor were Aldermen Brickman, Imlah, Morgan, Syrachen and White; those against were Aldermen Bennett, Marshall, Armstrong, Donahue and Foster. The vote of Ald. Woodley defeated the motion. Those absent from the meeting were Mayor Tice, Alderman Walker and Hill. The latter was at the meeting, but was called away before the vote was taken. The city solicitor, Mr. A. B. Colling, gave his opinion that the motion was not according to the statutes.

40 YEARS AGO

July 8th, 1933.

Mr. R. N. Gerow and mother have left on a motor car trip to Oshawa and Niagara Falls.

The highly gifted fourteen-year-old violinist, Master Agnes Vichelaidn of Pittsburg, Pa., will appear in Victoria Avenue Baptist Church during every evening commencing July 11th, to 16th, at 8 o'clock. The pastor of the Church, the Rev. C. B. Smith will assist in the services.

Close to eighteen thousand people attended the performances of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey's circus here yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Pearsall are spending a week in Detroit, Mich. They will be absent about three weeks.

Mr. John Herity is home from Toronto to spend his vacation.

50 YEARS AGO

July 5th, 1913.

It is many years since the last Canada Day Picnic to Quinze has been as good as it is to be at the present time. Applications are getting their limit.

A team of horses attached to a waggon laden with gravel ran away on Front Street yesterday. The driver was a man named Kane and he was astride the tongue of the waggon when the horses became restive. A young man named Callaghan of Dundas Street ran after the Dundas Street and brought them to a stop. Had it not been for the prompt action, the driver would have been seriously if not fatally injured.

The Rev. Dr. Carman, general superintendent of the Methodist Church, preached in the Tabernacle on Sunday. This is Dr. Carman's home church and he always receives a hearty welcome from the congregation.

Mr. E. Guss Porter, K.C., M.P., is spending some time at Mouna Clemsens, Mich.

Mr. John Elliott, manager of the Standard Bank, and Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, barrister, will leave shortly to spend some time in the Old Country and places on the Continent.

Strictly Personal

Human Beings Have Many Idiosyncrasies

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal: Prejudices: Nobody is sure or purely or wholly corrupted by bad company than the man who insists he lives for himself; a person who imagines he can be self-sufficient unto himself is soon poisoned as a stagnant pool.

How true it is that the decrease-the homicide rate on the highways when the bulk of motorists are driving at a more moderate pace; the number of accidents goes down when the left turn, and keep using their left turn lanes by right turns and vice versa?

Whenever I hear a man say, "It's not the money, it's the principle of the thing," I quickly reach to see if my wallet is still there.

When we spell our vices, out of exhaustion or fear, we flatter ourselves that we have risen above them — but, in such cases, we have simply sunk beneath them.

Always a emancipation from the mother-country was political and economic, but not at all social or personal: and any man with a well-modulated British voice still walks into the American woman.

The man who thinks he can't be fooled is the most easily fooled of all; the man who is the expert poker player is his willingness to be bluffed.

What is important chance the state of Israel muffled by arresting Eichmann instead of following God's first example and branding him with the mark of Cain on his forehead and setting him loose to wander through the earth.

One of the reasons that men behave politically so much worse than they ever would personally, was succinctly expressed by Richard Whately, the English theologian, two centuries ago, when he said: "Party spirit exhibits a man's virtues in the cause of his vices."

Wives who tell their husbands everything that happened to them before they were married are neither candid nor honest, but simply foolish for a husband does not readily forgive a wife for having committed some transgressing he would have urged upon her had he been with her at the time.

"Freedom" is the most futile and meaningless slogan for anyone to campaign under, for everybody believes in freedom the deepest most of all, who loves freedom so much that he wants every bit of it for himself, with none left over for the rest.

Men in their 30s who are still "pursuing" their studies will never overwrite them.

To Your Good Health

Screening Blood Tests Used in General Checkups

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is blood tested for in a general checkup? — E. J.

Blood can be tested for hundreds of things. However, a relatively small number of "screening" tests are used in a general checkup.

The "blood count" gives three basic bits of information: the iron content (or hemoglobin), the number of red cells, which together with the iron content suggest anemia if either figure is low; and finally the number of white cells. If this is high, it may indicate infection. If very high, leukemia; if low, other symptoms will be studied for less common conditions.

A "differential smear" may be studied to identify particular types of white cells which may be more numerous in allergy cases, or particular types of infections, or blood ailments.

Then, of course, the serum (liquid part of the blood) is routinely tested for the presence of syphilis . . . the Wassermann test, of course, is the "blood test" required in so many states before granting a marriage license.

Still other tests are for sugar levels (excessively high levels hinting strongly of diabetes), for the nitrogen content, which is elevated in kidney disease. The gamma globulin test is more and more being included in routine checkups as it indications if gives of the arteries — an approximate matter, as you but helpful.

If history and observation called for more detailed examinations, special tests are made in order to confirm it: uric acid for gout; a test for the parathyroid disease; lodine for thyroid disorders; lupus erythematosus, a disease of rare as we once thought, is subject to blood tests, and many of the rarer diseases now are being identified quickly and accurately by highly precise tests being used in laboratories with specialized equipment.

In the case of severe and stubborn infections, blood is cultured to determine the presence of germs in the blood stream. But the tests have a lot more difficult ones if circumstances indicate the need.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible to have a wart on the head but her tubes tied ever to have a baby? — Mrs. B. P.

Reopening the tubes requires delicate surgery, and no doctor can guarantee success. However, with skill and good fortune, sometimes it works.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Several years I was having a rapid heartbeat, off an on. It started in high school. I had a complete physical and the doctor said I had paroxysmal tachycardia. I don't get the attacks anymore, but it is still on my mind. Does one ever outgrow this? I quit smoking five years ago and that is when it ceased off — Mrs. C."

Paroxysmal tachycardia means occasional rapid heartbeat. Sometimes the cause is never found. Sometimes it is nervous. Quite often it is a sensitivity to tobacco — as in your case.

If tests show the heart to be basically healthy, the bursts of rapid beating are not dangerous, and the more you realize this, the less chance there is may have episodes. Too much caffein, as from coffee, tea or other sources, is another common cause.

Pat! My leaflet, "The Lost Secret of Reducing," tells how to get rid of it the easy way. For your copy send it to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., enclosing a long self-addressed, unstamped envelope and 25c in coin to cover handling and postage.

Telling All Can Be Fata

Hamilton Spectator

"We as politicians know that what we say does not necessarily represent the true state of affairs."

So said a former socialist cabinet minister in the British House of Commons the other day.

The choice of the word "true" is unfortunate and misleading. Perhaps "full" would have been better. Politicians discover, to their bitter experience, that the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth is fatal to success.

Truth is something which somehow embarrasses us when we attempt to express it in our own individual manner, and is the very devil to extract from a host of lawyers in the witness box. Because that he is addressing a mass audience, not a friend or two sitting in armchairs. There are things he can say and things he cannot say. Sensible, truthful words are addressed to a thousand different viewpoints and levels of understanding. He must find a common denominator of intelligence. He loses a lot of learning.

Statesmen not frighten, belittle or antagonize if he wants to be elected. And this can quickly be done by truthfully, but particularly harsh ones. To choose the right remark in such conditions could not require subtlety, frank and vigorous requires great skill. No wonder politics is an art.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

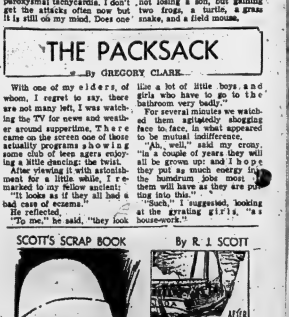
With one of my elders, of whom, I regret to say, there are not many left, I was watching the TV for news and weather around suppertime. There came on the screen one of those actuality programs showing some of the strange things living a little dancing: the twist.

After viewing it with astonishment for a little while, I remarked to my fellow ancient:

"It looks as if they all had a bad case of eczema."

He reflected.

"It's not," he said, "they look like a lot of little boys and girls who have to go to the bathroom very badly."



For several minutes we watched them agitatedly shogging face to face, in what appeared to be total indifference.

"Ah, well," said my crony, "in a couple of years they will all be grown up: and I hope they put as much energy into the homework as they will have as they are putting into this."

"Such," I suggested, looking at the grueling girls, "as housework."

TORONTO STOCKS

Fractional advances predominated in the main list, with Algoma Steel, Gatineau Power, Interprovincial Pipe Line and Salada Foods all ahead in a ¼ to ½ range.

Banks showed mild strength. Toronto - Dominion climbed a point, Royal and Montreal ¼ each and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce ½. Other gainers included Price Brothers and Consolidated Paper, while Imperial Oil and Massey-Ferguson both rose ¼.

Distillery Seagrams and Alberta Gas each dipped ½. Dominion Foundries and Steel and Canadian Breweries ¼ each and Abitibi ¼.

On the exchange index, industrials gained .36 to 537.38, golds 1.83 at 96.91, base metals .12 at 185.38 and western oils .20 at 96.85. The 11 a.m. volume was 270,000 shares compared with 295,000 at the same time Wednesday.

Among base metals, Consolidated Mining and Smelting rose ¼ and Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting saw Lake Dufault advance five cents to $4.35.

Western oils were quiet with Hudson's Bay ahead ¼.

Most banks were again weaker. Montreal dropped ½, Nova Scotia ¼, Royal 1/4, Toronto-Dominion 1/4 and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce ¼.

Gainers included Abitibi, Alberta Gas and Dominion Stores all ahead ¼. Interprovincial Pipe Line rose 2 to 71½.

On index, industrials gained 3.94 to 537.02, base metals .65 to 185.38 and western oils .20 to 96.65. Golds slipped .50 to 95.36. Volume was 1,293,000 shares compared with Tuesday's 1,377,000.

Picton News

4 Newfoundland Schooners To Race in Quinte Waters

PICTON (Staff) — A strange made their appearance on Lake fleet will be sailing on the Bay of Quinte waters on August 22nd and 23rd it was revealed today when Commodore Leo M. Kennedy of the Niagara Yacht Club visited local yacht club officials to request their assistance in a challenge race for a number of "Newfie" schooners.

The race will be around Lake Ontario, starting out in Hamilton, where Newfoundland's property Premier Joe E. Smallwood is expected to fire the starting gun. There is also a strong suspicion that there may be a dark horse entry from Newfoundland, Commodore Kennedy advised.

The schooners will be using Picton as the finish of the fourth of the eight legs which will carry them around Lake Ontario. They are expected, according to the current schedule, to arrive in Picton in the early afternoon of August 22nd and tie up alongside the government dock.

The public, according to Mr. Kennedy, will be extended a cordial invitation by the skippers of these four schooners which have definitely entered the race to come aboard and to have a look at their gaff-rigged 40 to 52 foot ships.

Following their stopover in Picton they will be started off by local yachting officials on their fifth leg which runs up to Belleville, where they will be staying overnight.

CHALLENGE ISSUED

The race started out when an American member of one of the four schooners which have Ontario since last summer challenged the Canadians to prove who were the better sailors. Within less time than it takes to whistle for a wind, the three Canadian owners, one a Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps from Port Dalhousie, responded.

The event has now built up to the point where the race is also going to serve as a means of introducing people from all over the province to the sailing boats which played an important part in Canadian history. Through the co-operation of yacht clubs about the lake, the ships are to be refitted and reodered as needed and the clubs will be providing a piece for the public to get a first-hand look at the ships, Mr. Kennedy stated.

The race is scheduled to end in Toronto at the Canadian National Exhibition on August 25th. It is expected that an armada of boats from yacht clubs from around the lake will be on hand to welcome the winner, Mr. Kennedy stated.

Mennwhile local yachting enthusiasts of the Picton Yacht Club will be organizing for their end of the event.

WOULD CLOSE BROTHELS

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The civil affairs committee of the Formosa provincial assembly has recommended that all brothels on this island be closed by the end of 1964. The committee said the prostitutes should be reabsorbed into society by getting married.

Call Meeting To Further Study Scheme

PICTON — Another step towards securing a recreation director for Picton will be taken on July 19, when local service clubs and other organizations are being inviting to attend a meeting sponsored by Picton Rotary Club.

At a recent meeting, the club board of the success of the Church Athletic League in Kingston, on Tuesday, they heard Don Maddocks, Belleville tell of the Ontario Department of Education sponsored Community Programs branch, and the assistance it gives to a wide variety of projects.

Mayor H. J. McFarland spoke in support of the idea. Sherriff H. J. Colliver is chairman of the committee which will draw up a program to be presented later to town council.

P.E. County Has Branch Of Society

PICTON — Prince Edward County now has a branch of the Quinte Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society (CARS.) Rev. Donald Kemble is president of the new organization with Mrs. Fred Webster as secretary-treasurer. Though the society has been doing excellent work here, it has not had a local organization.

Quinte branch was responsible for equipping the physiotherapy room with its modern equipment at Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital and nurses visit local sufferers from arthritis and rheumatism. Mrs. Enos David and S. Freeman of Belleville, told the organizational meeting of the value of a local branch.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

A debate took place, in the ancient city of Lydda, where today, jet planes land at Israel's international airport, they argued almost endlessly. For two years and one half scholars analysed, examined and sifted a single question: "Should God have created the world?"

After the long and arduous polemic, the majority decided that it were perhaps better, all things considered, if God had not created the world, in the first instance. Then they added an important footnote: Since God had indeed created the world, man should learn how to live in it!

Ever since, for better or for worse, man has been trying — but obviously, not hard enough. For if, somehow, we could resurrect those scholars of Lydda today, they might admire our jets, but with our modern manners, we might easily frighten them to death!

Our science far outdistances our ethics. And not for want of an available code of behavior. We just haven't tried hard enough. The simple truth stares us squarely in the face: most of us are ethically and religiously illiterate.

We mouth religious slogans which we've picked up in our childhood. But we fail to act upon them because we do not really understand them, let alone adults.

Unfortunately, we have learned religion, much as we've learned how to walk — after we absorbed the fundamentals, we stopped thinking consciously about them.

As adults, we no more ponder carefully what we mean when we speak religious phrases, than we stop to consider the fluent movement of one foot after the other.

How high would man fly — if at all — had he been content with the childish notions of the physical universe and not reached out for an understanding of its deeper scientific secrets?

How many diseases would he have conquered had he been satisfied to stand pat and accept physical disasters without trying to understand their basic causes?

Could he have split the atom had he not laboured to master its mysteries?

We are intrigued by the unknown, goaded to harness it for human use, yet "man, the unknown" still defies human understanding. Our largest question, how to live with ourselves and others, still goes abegging.

What can change us? Many say that nothing will. Even if they are right, they are wrong. For if we do not learn how to manage our egos, we will be changed. By our own hands, we will be reduced to a subhuman race, capable of destroying life, and unworthy of defending it. The vast powers now lurking at the touch of the ultimate button can wipe us all away.

Truly to be changed, we must consciously evolve into a higher, not a lower form of human being. For this, we must willingly seek to grow up ethically and mature emotionally. Granted this sounds too easy, facile, even glib. But until we begin to seek an adult ethic as arduously as we lust for the ultimate-weapon, we don't have a sheet of a chance to survive as humans.

Wise hearts and trained minds know this. Clergy and, philosophers teach this. Editors write this. But few move out of their skins to live this.

Religions were the first to teach love. But few adults have gone beyond a juvenile understanding of its truest, deepest significance. Unless we get to the core of its meaning we shall all probably die loving the wrong things, in the wrong ways.

To survive, we need an adult Declaration of Love, one that will educate our hearts as successfully as we have educated our minds.

For those who still care, here is a suggested preamble:

1. We pledge our lives to true faith, to seek to love people for what they are, not to reject them for what they are having without her, of how very expendable and dispensable she is, of how many glorious creatures are vying to take her place, Amelia needn't be a party to this. Or if she must join Eric in his friendly gestures to Tom, it can be at a restaurant or a theatre. She should not be called upon to open her home to Tom's campaign of proving how much fun it is to be on the loose again! — especially since Tom isn't legally entitled to that fun.

Perhaps Eric is right about his wife's automatic loyalty toward Tom's wife. Putting her self in the latter's place, she may well reason, "While there's a marriage, there's hope," and refuse to encourage the disposition.

But there's also the chance that the technicality holding up the decree may be the possibility of a reconciliation. Since we're not told why the matter drags on, we can picture a wife (and her lawyer) waiting for Tom to come to his senses, giving him enough rope, letting him have his fling. While Tom's affairs are still in this floating stage, his friends must be allowed not to take irreconcilable sides. "Hands off" is the best policy for both Eric and Amelia, at least as regards Tom's tangled marital status.

As Tom's old friend, Eric can help him from the side lines. Tom must repudiate his position. If there's to be a divorce, no turning back, then it must be followed through and granted. As a clearly free man, Tom may then escort his lady friends to enjoy the cozy domesticity of Eric's and Amelia's home. And if he grows serious about one, Amelia will welcome her into their circle of intimates — when she's his wife, that is!

SUES WINCHELL

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Post sued columnist Walter Winchell and the Hearst Corporation Tuesday for $500,000 libel damages, charging that Winchell wrote falsely that the Post's circulation was declining.

Beach Dress

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

While waist-wraps piquet make up into a pleasing dress for tennis or beach wear.

Six gilt buttons gleam on the double-breasted bodice. The separate, loosely worn belt slips through self loops. The skirt is box-pleated.

Matching shorts are worn underneath, but shorts in bright red or green are available, since the top button, when opened, reveals a bright red or green bodice facing.

not:

2. We stake our belief in secrecy on the proposition that unless we seek to love others in ways they earn their love, we cannot be loved.

3. We affirm with the fullness of our being the truth that real love requires real concern. Indifference to truth and kindness deflects our intentions, makes them into pious but ineffective symbols of solicitude.

4. We shall be firm with ourselves in guarding against self-righteousness and self-justification. Instead of asking "what's in it for me", we shall ask: what can we do to help?

5. Above all, we shall be patient, conciliatory, eager to forgive, ready to admit our own guilt and error.

Is this a program for saints? Perhaps. But unless we battle our pride and passion — the ultimate tumbling blocker — with the zeal of the saint, we shall probably be swallowed up by the smoke of our own sin.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Amelia S. — I don't want Tom sailing at our home with other women.

Amelia S. — A business friend of Eric's has been putting me in an awkward position, but neither of them see it my way. I want my husband, at least, to admit his marriage is a failure. I ought not call at our home with the various scalps he takes from us.

Tom and his wife have been separated for years. It's true, and their divorce is pending. But something is holding it up, and while things drag on, Tom is playing the field with a succession of glamorous candidates for his next marriage.

This goes against my grain. In addition, there are our teenage children to consider. They remember Tom calling with his wife and now they must look on and watch his present cutting-up. In receiving Tom, I look as though I accept his behavior. I definitely do not.

Eric S. — For all practical purposes, Tom is a divorce. Because of a technicality the decree is not yet on paper. What's the poor guy to do? He can't go places with his wife, as far as Amelia doesn't think he should appear with any other woman. This situation may continue for months yet. A definite date for the granting of his divorce hasn't even been mentioned.

I don't feel there's anything to prevent here. Our children know that Tom and his wife have split and are being divorced. His keeping company with new women can't shock them.

Tom and I are friends from way back. My sympathy is all with him. I don't feel any special obligation to his wife. I think Amelia is being unduly hard on Tom. Maybe she thinks wives ought to stick up for each other no matter what. But Tom's right in this case.

The Council: We'll hold with Amelia in this situation. To her and her children, Tom is still very much married. Therefore, out of respect for the institution of marriage if not for wives, Tom should call at the S. home either with his wife or alone.

Evidently Tom is going through the let-us-be-gay phase which follows many splitups. This is the period during which one mate hopes the other will get wind of what a ball he's

Mr., Mrs. Sam Elliott Mark Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Elliott of Shannonville, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on June 25th with open house on the preceding Monday, were hosts at a turkey dinner, served by the United Church ladies, for nearly 100 guests.

The bride's table, which occupied the platform, was placed beneath cascading yellow streamers, and with a wedding belle, and centred by a bouquet of yellow and white chrysanthemums, mingled with smaller white ones, and flanked on either side by tall yellow candles.

The three long tables with place cards and red roses looked most attractive. When the guests were assembled in the church, a sing-song was enjoyed until the dinner was ready.

After dinner, the minister, Mr. Douglas Bledsoe, as master of ceremonies, proposed a toast to the anniversary couple and read a poem in their honor, of his own composition, to which Mr. Earle Elliott responded.

BRIDAL ATTENDANTS PRESENT

The bridesmaid of 50 years ago was her sister, Miss Minnie Ann Wright, and the groomsman, Mr. L. Ketcheson, who were afterwards married, were also present at the anniversary dinner. A toast to them was proposed by Mr. McKie Elliott, to which Mr. George McCutcheon gave the response. Mr. Bert Elliott, on behalf, read thanks to the ladies who catered for the delicious dinner.

Mr. Thomas Hinchey read "Darling, I Am Growing Old," and Mrs. Don Thompson sang "The Anniversary Song." Both solos were much enjoyed. Mrs. Donald Vance, Sr., played the piano accompaniment.

Mr. Claude Clarke read a complimentary address to this popular couple, who were presented with two lovely big bouquets, the gift of their neighbors.

Mrs. Charles Wood, past president of the W.M.S. now known as the United Church Women, presented a tray with sugar bowl and a three-tier sandwich stand, cream pitcher, also gold coin and sincere and read some suitable verses. All joined in singing "Blest Be The Tie that Binds." The gathering was dismissed with benediction by the minister.

On June 26th, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Elliott held "open house" with the two little neighbor girls receiving at the door, and these were Miss Connie Strattion and Miss Frances Kant. The bride and twenty-five guests registered in the guest book in charge of Mrs. Charles Wood.

TELEPHONE CALL

A telephone call was sent by Mr. and Mrs. Norman Elliott from Louisville, Kentucky, extending congratulations and best wishes, as well as many more cards and other lovely gifts.

Church friends and neighbors served the refreshments, while Mrs. Stanley MacDonald and Mr. Elliott's sister, Mrs. Earle Anderson, of Belleville, poured tea in the afternoon and Mrs. Gammon, a close friend of Mrs. Elliott, and Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Elliott's sister, poured tea in the evening.

The long dining room table was beautifully appointed with a silver tea service at each end, while the gifts were displayed in the living room. Many potted flowering plants decorated the rooms, one of which was a gift from the U.C.W.

A host of relatives and friends with Mr. Earle and bridegroom of fifty years many more happy years together.

Many Honor Couple at Presentation

RAWDON — A large number from the Mount Pleasant-Rawdon community assembled to surround, on evening in the church hall and tendered the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. John Ferguson of Picton, a presentation party.

Mr. Lindsay McKeown was master of ceremonies and spoke briefly extending best wishes on this happy occasion. The program opened with a sing-song by the Misses Mary Ellen David and Judy Cooey. Later they sang a Negro spiritual and Mary Ellen contributed a piano selection. An impromptu skit was then staged by Mrs. Harvey Couch, Mrs. Clayton Thompson and Mrs. Kenneth Weaver. Piano selections were contributed by Mrs. Ian McAdam and Barbara Williams. Jean Sharpe and Sally McAdam gave a vocal duet with Mrs. Carleton Potts as pianist.

John and Gail were given seats of honor and Diane McAdam acted as spokesman to address. Miss Gail found the presentation of a purse of money on behalf of the community.

The young couple voiced gracious thanks for the party, program and gifts.

The committee in charge served refreshments and a social half hour was enjoyed.

U.C.W. Plans Future Events

WELLINGTON — The regular meeting of the United Church Women was held recently in the Sunday School room of the church. Quiet music by Mrs. C. Burr called the meeting to order.

Mrs. H. Pierson, who was presiding, welcomed the members and guests.

Meeting opened with a poem, hymn and prayer by the president. Mrs. C. E. Freeman conducted the devotional, the theme being, "Praise ye the Lord the His Living Presence, Lo I am With You Always, Even Unto the End of the Age."

A film strip, entitled "Beyond the Sea," was shown by the wife of Dr. Mackay after which, Mrs. H. Crook gave a detailed summary of it, saying, "To One Second and Twenty-five guests registered in the guest book in charge of Mrs. Charles Wood.

Following the races, refreshing was enjoyed, all reporting a great day.

Gift Parcels Will Be Taken By Worker

LONDON (CP)—Gift parcels from the Canadian Junior Red Cross in British Columbia next will be helping to boost racial goodwill in Kenya as the East African country moves towards independence.

Hays Faulkner, British-born Red Cross worker who emigrated to Vancouver in 1954 and spent seven months visiting junior members (aged 8 to 18) in remote parts of interior Columbia, lands shortly for Kenya's capital city of Nairobi.

Her work as a field officer will take her to all parts of the country, on safari-type journeys into the bush to set up Red Cross branches and teach Kenya schoolchildren of all races the principles of the world - wide organization—"service to the community is the great thing."

USED TO HARDSHIP

The tough physical grind involved won't worry this energetic ex-army nurse who once spent several New Zealand's north island and slogged up steep cariboo trails in the forests of northern interior Canada.

The gift parcels that will be going from Miss Faulkner's former pupils form an important part of Junior Red Cross activities. Each parcel includes anything that is asked for by secretary supplies to toothpaste and toys.

As well as the parcels, branches in different countries "adopt" each other and exchange scrap albums, tapes and handicraft, building up a picture of each other's community.

The British Columbia junior trained by Miss Faulkner developed a special interest in Kenya when she established the hopes to expand in her two-year tour.

"It'll be an exciting time with independence coming up," she says. "Being an unpolitical organization we can do a lot to foster good race relations."

U.C.W. Meetings

UNIT 4, U.C.W.

WELLINGTON—Unit 4 of the U.C.W. met recently in the Centennial parlor of the Wellington United Church.

Quiet music was played by Mrs. Truax. The unit Leader, Mrs. S. Yourt opened the meeting with prayer and extended a warm welcome to the members.

Mrs. Norman Allison was in charge of the program. The worship service was given by Mrs. Barton Carrick, and was inspired by the little folk, who had taken part in the Sunday School promotion service on the previous Sunday. The theme was "We Builded Better Than We Knew, and the call to worship included the phrase, "We Are Builders." The ladies, who had been divided into 3 groups respectively read Psalm 86-17, Timothy 2-15-Psalm 90-13 with poems, read intermittently by Mrs. Cronk.

The inspiring story of Robert Raikes of Gloucester, England, was told by Mrs. Cronk. It was through his effort that the Parliament passed the Education Act in 1870, compelling local authorities to provide education for all children in the British Isles. "The Builders Better Than He Knew."

Mrs. Hugh East was in charge of Bible Study. Questions were asked of chapters 11-12-13 of Acts. Mrs. East, in her preparation had found some interesting information on these chapters which she revealed in her summary.

Mrs. L. Palmer reviewed the chapter, "Old and New Canadians," from the "Signals for the 60's," and gave incidents from her former home city of Sudbury on good citizenship.

Mrs. Wesley Thomas added her personal experience in sharing her home with two new Canadian nurses before telling so well the story of "Emile" from "Emile's Day".

Mrs. N. Truax delighted all with a lovely piano solo and Mrs. A. Bond told a touching true story of the "Man in the Window."

Mrs. Allison thanked the ladies for their heart warming contributions to the splendid program.

Home Bible study for July meeting is Chapters 14-15-16 of Acts. There were 34 house calls and 16 hospital calls reported and 6 books read.

The offering was received and dedicated by the Rev. Truax, who also pronounced the benediction.

Refreshments were served by the group in charge and a social time enjoyed.

Many Enjoy Pond's Inlet Slides at Eggleton Church

MADOC JUNCTION — On Wednesday evening of last week a good number of the adults of the Madoc Junction community and nearly all the school children gathered in the Eggleton United Church to see the slides shown by Mr. Carl Reid.

Home for his vacation, Mr. Reid is one of the neighborhood young men. Two years ago Mr. and Mrs. Reid and their two small daughters left for Pond's Inlet on the northern part of Baffin Island, where Mr. Reid had taken the position of teacher to the Eskimo children there.

Mrs. William McMullen acted as chairlady on Wednesday evening and opened the program with a round of community singing with Mrs. Bruce Slagley, pianist.

Following this, Mr. Reid showed the first half of his slides. The place landing; the circle of comfortable homes along the shore, which formed the community of Pond's Inlet; the Hudson Bay company store; the resident minister's home; the trading storage buildings; the plane coming in with mail; some of the more modern Eskimo homes; the woodroofed beautiful sunrise and the soft coal mine a few miles out from Pond's Inlet.

For most there were the dog team races; three-legged races; and in summertime, water skiing with the temperature at 33 deg.

During a short intermission, samples of the clothing worn to keep out the cold winds were on display, also some of the embroidery work, weaving and so done by the Eskimo women.

After the remainder of the slides were shown, Mr. Bruce Slagley thanked Mr. Reid and voiced appreciation of all present for the opportunity of seeing these most interesting slides.

Lunch and coffee was then served by the ladies.

Women's Activities

ELDORADO-MADOC W.M.S.

ELDORADO — The Eldorado and Madoc Missionary Society held the June meeting in the Standard Church, Madoc, with 32 in attendance.

The president, Mrs. Bronson, opened the meeting, and prayers were given by Mr. Rose and the Rev. Hicks. The Scripture, taken from St. Luke 7, was read by Mr. Lough. A reading was given by Mrs. Lough entitled "I Show That Man."

A report of the previous meeting was read by Mrs. Woods and the collection amounting to $23.25 was taken. A song was rendered by the Woods and Rose children. Mr. Woods was the special speaker and based his remarks on the Scripture, Ezra 7:5.

WASH DROWNS LOONS

TORONTO (CP) — Tom Hughes, general manager of the Ontario Humane Society, pleaded Monday for boat operators to keep their craft away from shore when travelling at high speeds on lakes in the northern resort areas. He said waves from highspeed boats flood the nests of loons in the shoreline reeds and drown the young.

FRANKS—HOLMES

On Saturday, June 16th, 1962, in St. John's United Church, Tweed, Wanda Louise Holmes, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Holmes, became the bride of Mr. David Stanley Franks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Franks, R.R. 2, Madoc, Ontario.

Baskets of pink peonies and white orange blossoms and ferns decorated the church. Guest pews were designated by tiny bouquets of yellow roses and orange blossoms tied with white satin bows.

The Rev. W. K. Face of Napanee, officiated, assisted by the Rev. George Ambury, of Queensboro.

The soloist, Miss Gwen Leal, Tweed, accompanied by Mr. Fred Porter of Thomasburg, sang "The Wedding Prayer," during the ceremony, and "O Perfect Love" while the register was being signed.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor-length gown of embroidered organza over taffeta and net featuring a round neckline, fitted bodice and long pointed sleeves. The skirt was caught with three tiny bows giving the dress a bustle effect. Her seed pearl and crystal crown held her waist-length veil in place. She carried a bouquet of pink roses, white sharia freesia and ferns.

Miss Gail Holmes of Belleville, sister of the bride, was maid of honor wearing a dress of blue embroidered glazed cotton featuring a scalloped neckline and sleeves with fitted bodice and full skirt. Her headdress was a white organza bow ending in tiny petals with seed pearls and net veil. She wore white shoes and gloves, and carried a bouquet of blue and white carnations with white streamers.

Mrs. Margaret Smith, Madoc, sister of the bridegroom was bridesmaid dressed identically to the maid of honor, only in pink. She carried pink and white carnations with white streamers.

Miss Darrlee Holmes, young sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid, dressed identically, only in yellow. Her headpiece was a yellow flower band. She carried yellow and white carnations with white streamers.

Little Miss Vicki Lee Holmes was flower girl dressed in white identical to the other girls. Head piece was a white band of flowers. She carried a basket of pink and white carnations.

Master David Smith, young nephew of the bridegroom was ring-bearer wearing a blue jacket, white trousers, and carried a white satin cushion.

Mr. Glenn Franks, Tweed, only brother of the bridegroom was best man, while Mr. Wayne Holmes, Tweed, brother of the bride, and Mr. Ronald Deveiin, Madoc, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a lovely turkey dinner was served to over 100 guests by 12 friends of the bride.

The bride's mother received the guests wearing a two-piece gown of mauve brocaded rayon weave with white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother wearing a peacock blue gown of embroidered armel linen with white accessories and corsage of pink roses.

The bride's table was appointed with white linen cloth and centred with a four-tier wedding cake misted about the base with tulle and tiny red roses and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Small bowls of roses and orange blossoms and tall white candles in silver candelbra decorated the table.

For the wedding trip to Niagara, Buffalo, Rochester, Oswego, Watertown, Cornwall and Kingston, the bride chose a three-piece beige suit with white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Guests were present from Belleville, Spencerville, Ottawa, Peterborough, Toronto, Bancroft, Perth and Kingston.

The bride is a member of the Department of Lands and Forests staff at Tweed.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was honored at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Jack McMurray with Miss Marion Palmateer co-hostess where about 40 friends gathered and presented her with many lovely gifts. She was also presented with a gossip bench and a TV lamp by the Lands and Forests Staff.

UCW Sponsors Successful Berry Social

JOHNSTOWN—A successful strawberry and ice cream social was held on Thursday evening at the Acme Community Hall recently put on by the U.C.W. of Johnstown Church.

The supper of sandwiches, pickles, cake, ice cream and berries started at 6 p.m. All of these foods were put on the tables and then it was a case of help yourself with the waitresses replenishing the empty dishes. The large crowd certainly kept the ladies of Johnstown busy waiting on them.

In the kitchen tending the sandwiches was, Mrs. William S. Harry and Mrs. A. Meyers, tea and coffee was in charge of Mrs. Ernest Bush and Mrs. Frank Johnson. Helpers in kitchen were Ruby Lohnes, Audrey Moore, Vi Harder, Janie Johnson, Kay Hamilton, Janet Hamilton and Marilyn Harry.

In charge of the cake was Zada Shickle; strawberries, Mrs. Clayton Curtis; ice cream, Burrel Hamilton and Glenn Shickle. Waitresses, Thelma Shickle, Peggy Harder, Muriel Kennedy, Evelyn Harry, Darlene Harder, Rosemary Bush, Teresa Harder, Kaye Vanderwoort, Glenna Gare, Mrs. Russell and Betty Harry.

Mother's Helper

THE TRANSITION from strained foods to adult-type meals isn't easy to accomplish, with some babies. If yours is one who doesn't take readily to prepared junior foods, try him on small bits of grownup fare, finger style. You may find he'll choose to skip the intermediate step altogether.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

MELROSE W.I.

Mrs. A. English opened her home for the June meeting of Melrose W.I. and 34 members enjoyed her hospitality.

The president, Mrs. M. Lester thanked the hostess for opening her home and conducted the opening exercises, which were followed by the roll call. "One way I can show appreciation of being a good Canadian", Some ideas suggested were: — Be sure you vote; buy Canadian goods; obey the law; observe traffic rules; stand at attention during the singing of "The Queen"; make Canada a good place to live in.

Mrs. Roy McLaren read the correspondence.

It was decided to adopt a child from Korea under the "Sponsor a Child Project" which costs $60 a year. A short - course "Safety at Home" has been applied for, but no date has been set for same.

At this stage, Mrs. A. Long convener of Citizenship and Education took charge and as Dominion Day was approaching it was most fitting that "O Canada" was sung.

Mrs. Long dealt thoroughly with the motto — "Traits of Character Reveal Themselves in Action" which emphasized the attributes such as honesty, sincerity and integrity. Mrs. R. McLaren followed with a most interesting paper on "The Wong Family" of London, which was in keeping with the topic "A good citizen is not content to just sit, he finds his place in any community".

Mrs. D. McLaren described a "Fun — Trip" which was conducted on that day for Jr. Farmers and the Home-makers Club in the Northumberland. They visited several interesting places including the New Agricultural Centre at Brighton where they enjoyed a demonstration on "Arrangement of Flowers". They stopped at a Tobacco Farm established five years ago and heard of the financial gains of benefiting that product; the Experimental Farm at Smithfield and a stop-over at Presqu'ile proved most enjoyable as well as educational.

WAR 1812

Mrs. L. Gnaedinger read a timely article on "War of 1812" as this summer marks the 150th anniversary of this important event and generously many are included. "Why do Canadians take so little interest in their own history? The Battle of Cryster's Farm in 1813 and the Battle of Lundy's Lane are most important. Soldiers and civilians alike served Canada's future. Shared memories are the common bonds a nation together. So let us remember what it cost to maintain Canada's independence".

The various items mentioned in her talk re-kindled interest in Canadian History as was evidenced by the discussion which followed and proved that members were keenly concerned.

Refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

Club Activities

HARMONY CLUB

MARSH HILL—The June meeting of Marsh Hill Harmony Club was held at the school with 25 present and Mrs. Farley Lindenfield as hostess.

The president, Mrs. Charles Ross, opened the meeting with a reading, "Your Church and Mine."

A letter of thanks was read from Mr. Bert Finkle.

Mrs. Harold Detlor presided over the devotional, the theme being, "Friends and Friendship."

Gwenda Detlor read the Scripture from Ruth 1, 6-10 and 14-22.

Carolyn Finkle and Mrs. Ivan Clare each read a reading on "Friendship."

Donna Andrews also read, "True Friends" and Mrs. Charlie Mayell read, "O Friends."

The hymn, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," was sung.

Mrs. Detlor gave a paper on "Friends" saying in part that we all can have friends and true friendship. A friend will bring the best out in us.

The members enjoyed fruit bread, ice-cream, strawberries and freshie.

Old-Fashioned Mock Duck And Salad Dressing

by Mary Moore

Is anybody in this audience old-fashioned enough or just old enough to remember Mock Duck?

Actually times have changed so drastically that real duck might be cheaper per pound than this meat, so skip the whole thing if you "wanna buy a duck".

But this tasted so good I thought you might like to try it. It is one of the classic ways of preparing a flank steak. Another is to use flank steak for English boiled puddings. My mother used to make both to perfection.

Dinner Menus

THURSDAY
(Guests)

Roast Lamb; New Mint Jelly; Franconia Potatoes; Orange - Harvard Beets Shredded; Leaf Lettuce, Watercress and Cucumber Salad with Herb French Dressing; Cherry Tarts with Red Glaze and Whipped Cream; Coffee.

SUNDAY

Hawaiian Pork Chops with Pineapple; Boiled New Potatoes; New Green Peas with Mint; Relish Tray: Dill Pickle Spears, Carvel Curls, Celery Sticks; Blitz Torte (see Friday); Tea.

MOCK DUCK (stuffed and rolled flank steak — serves 4):

-1 1½-lb. flank steak, 2 tablespoons minced dried or raw onion, 1½ cups soft small bread cubes (3 ordinary slices including crusts), 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon soy sauce, ¼ teaspoon celery seed, ¼ teaspoon rosemary, 3 tablespoons butter, ¼ chicken or beef bouillon cube, ½ cup boiling water.

Pound the steak and deeply score it on both sides diagonally and vertically and horizontally. (This scoring is to cut through the long muscle strands peculiar to flank steak.) Melt 2 tablespoons of the butter, add the onion (watching it like a hawk if you use dried onion, for it burns readily) and bread cubes. Mix until they absorb the butter then add all remaining ingredients. Pile this stuffing on centre of prepared flank steak and push it to within 1" of edges. Carefully roll up, shoving back any bread cubes that escape. Tie firmly with string. Heat the remaining 1 tablespoon butter in heavy pot that has a tight-fitting lid or pressure cooker and sear and brown stuffed meat roll on all sides. Add ½ cup boiling water in which ½ chicken or beef bouillon cube has been dissolved. Cover and simmer 3 hours or cover and bake at 275 deg. Fahr. for 3 hours or pressure cook at 10 lbs. pressure for 1 hour (as I did).

2 teaspoons dry mustard, 2¼ tablespoons flour, ¼ cup white sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, generous shake of pepper, shake of paprika, shake of garlic powder, 2 eggs, 1 cup of water, ¾ cup cider vinegar, 1 tablespoon butter, ½ cup table cream or top milk.

Mix all together except butter and cream in heavy pan. beating with rotary beater until smooth. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens — about 3 minutes. Remove from heat and add butter and cream. Cool and store covered in refrigerator. Makes 1 pint.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: Is it necessary to bring a gift to the hostess when a couple is invited to dinner? In the Midwest, where I come from, it was not customary. We've only been to a few dinner parties since we've moved here, and I've noticed that a few guests do give the hostess a small package on arrival. I'd appreciate knowing if a gift is required and, if so, what would be correct. — Mrs. C.L., Tarrytown, N.Y.

Answer: A gift is not "necessary," but it's gracious to bring the hostess a little something occasionally, especially if you're invited to dinner often. I, personally, prefer giving and receiving tokens that are significant instead of routine.

For instance, friends who dine often at our home recently returned from a Caribbean trip and brought to dinner a bottle of liqueur they bought during a stop-over. Another friend brings an occasional cluster of flowers from her greenhouse. Last winter, a thoughtful "extra" brought a box of foot-long fireplace matches which I also find very handy for relighting the pilot in the oven every time it conks out.

I single these out only to illustrate the sort of thought and feeling I think should be behind any gift that is given. To my mind a gift should have some meaning and should not be offered just because it's the "right thing" to do, or you think it is.

To be "correct," a hostess gift of this type should be occasional and appropriate. Personalized matches, for instance, have significance for the heavy smoker whose lighters are always out of order. A suggestion for the chinaman who has to take notes often would be a frivolous ballpoint pen decorated or costly only embarrasses the hostess and could lead to a spiralling gift race, since she might feel she should reciprocate in kind the next time she breaks bread at the donor's home.

Usually, I might add, a hostess gift is brought only to a small, intimate party, and then presented as privately as possible. It's only wasted effort to bring a gift to a large dinner party, where the hostess has only enough time to greet guests without unwrapping packages, as well. A gift is not brought to say dinner party that smacks of formality. Appreciation for the hostess' efforts is better expressed the following day via a phone call, a note or a small nosegay.

Skating Pleasant Interlude But Dogs Always First Love Says Veterinarian

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — Dr. Suzanne Morrow Francis, three times Canadian ladies' figure-skating champion, says skating was a pleasant interlude in her life but dogs have always been her first love.

Nine years after her retirement from competition, she has plenty of opportunity to indulge that first love. She raises dogs and is a veterinarian in the north Toronto suburb of Thornhill.

She hasn't severed all connection with skating, however. Interviewed during a visit here, she said she has qualified as an international judge and hopes eventually to be invited to judge Olympic competitions.

In addition she plans to work with the Peterborough Figure Skating Club and will be judging members periodically.

Until Dr. Francis went to the Ontario Veterinary College at Guelph, the longest period she had spent at public school was two months. Because of the demands of figure-skating she had to depend on tutoring for much of her schooling.

"The world of champions and stars is a very lonely one, especially for a child," she said. "You are denied the friendship of other children and your school work must be crammed in between practising and performing."

WON BRONZE MEDAL

Suzanne, now 30, was Canadian women's singles champion in 1949-50-51 and also combined with Wally Distelmeyer of Kitchener, Ont., to win the North American pairs in 1947. They took a bronze medal in the 1952 Olympics.

In the five years up to her retirement in 1953 she had been among the top six women skaters in the world.

Even when she was skating and travelling abroad, however, she was usually accompanied by a dog. Her favorite in the dog world is the German shepherd, and second is the doberman pinscher. She has produced several champions in both breeds at her Kurta-Hauss kennels.

Although there aren't many women veterinarians, it happens that Dr. Francis shares a clinic with another, Dr. Edith Williams.

She specializes in small animals but if a large one is ill she won't hesitate to answer a call, such as the recent one from a farmer with a purebred bull desperately in need of a shot of antibiotic.

The petite blonde tapped the animal on the rump once and then with a second tap rammed the needle home and all but ran from the stall.

After it was over she was told the government vet had been kicked clear over to the other wall by the bull the day before.

"Believe me, if I had known that I would never have ventured into the stall," she laughed.

WINS BY 45 VOTES

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Richard Cashin, 25-year-old Liberal making his debut in federal politics, defeated Solicitor General W. J. Tea Fetes Bride-to-Be JOHNSTOWN—A "tea" was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bush on Saturday afternoon in honor of their daughter, Marion's coming wedding on July 7th, at 2 p.m. at Johnstown Church, to James Payette, of Trenton.

As the church is just large enough for the guests, Mrs. Bush felt that there were many friends who would like to see Marion's gifts that would not be at the wedding, so a tea was given from 2 to 5 p.m. at her home, with her many shower gifts and lovely wedding presents on display, against a background of pink and white streamers and wedding bells.

Mrs. Maurice Mallory, of Frankford, (an old friend), and James Payette's grandmother, Mrs. Jessie Seabrooke, of Trenton, poured tea for the first hour. Mrs. Earl Stickle and Mrs. Clayton Chrris, old friends, poured tea for the second hour. Mrs. Bush's sister, Mrs. Clifford Champaign, and Mrs. Leonard Reid of Belleville, poured tea for the third hour.

STILL POWERFUL

The Royal Navy's rum issue before 1948 was rated at 80 per cent alcohol, since then 55 per cent.

Young Couple Honored by Many Friends

JOHNSTOWN — Friends, neighbors and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Burrell Hamilton on the evening of June 20, to honor their son, Ronald, whose marriage took place on June 16 to Janet Reynolds, at Cooper United Church.

The people visited with each other the most of the evening. Mrs. Alex Vandervoort brought them to order when she read an address to the happy couple, saying, they had come together tonight with one thought in mind — to wish them health, happiness and prosperity in their wedded life. "We know you, Ronald, for your leadership, your smile and your willingness to help others, and we hope to benefit from your help in years to come. We welcome Janet to this neighborhood and hope she will be happy among the Johnstown people and ask you to accept these gifts as a momento of our regards for you. Signed on behalf of the community, Betty Harry, Peggy Harder, Hazel Harry and Helen Vandervoort."

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton thanked all for their thoughtfulness at this time and asked them to call on them at their new home.

Lunch was then served.

Successful Living

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Why Did She Turn Her Cheek?

BORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—I am a bachelor. I come from Europe. At Easter I was invited to one place for dinner, another for supper. I accepted both.

When I arrived at the first place, I kissed mother and two daughters and they kissed me. At the second place I started to kiss the mother and instead she turned her cheek; so did both married daughters.

I was baffled. Should I have pressed my cheek against theirs instead of kissing them? I tried to forget about it, but it still haunts me.—JOE.

DEAR JOE—No. Cheek-press is no substitute. But cheek-kiss often happens in Canada. Especially when it is not between husband and wife, or girl and fiance.

So vanish the haunt. But in my humble opinion we could do with more good robust European affection between friends in Canada.

DEAR DORIS—I weigh 160 and am 14. I was told to lose weight for my brother's wedding in the fall. I put on weight when I was sick.

Do you have any advice I could follow?—BRIDESMAID.

DEAR BRIDESMAID—From all points of view you must lose those unwanted pounds. Looks, health, general well-being, all demand a right-about-face.

Talk to your doctor about diet. Then to me about sticking with it, because that's the hard part. Pencil and paper, and daily record of the calories, helps. Exercises help. A long honest mirror helps. Bathroom scales help.

Most of all, learn what it feels like to refuse food. One reducing specialist says: "Twenty seconds in your mouth, twenty minutes (or more) in your stomach, twenty years on your hips." It's not worth it!

I am sending you a reprint of a story by an outstanding writer on the subject of growing up to be beautiful. Hope it will inspire you. Let the wedding be your objective.

DEAR DORIS—Thank you most sincerely for your help in the speech I gave at the Home & School Conference. I used a number of your suggestions.

I really enjoyed my first opportunity in public speaking, and a number of people made complimentary remarks about what I said.—H. & S. MEMBER.

DEAR H. & S.—Hurrah! Now that you've broken the ice—in your own veins—the sky's the limit. Like to jump over the moon next?

DEAR DORIS—I have a horrible problem. It's my mother. She got mad, at me for a little thing and since then will not speak to me. And now she tells me that I must get a job for the two summer months. I have only grade eight education and am 14. What can I do?

Please help me, Doris, because I wish I was dead. I don't smoke, drink or swear like the kids I know. I would do anything for her and she says she would like very much to kill me. She has turned my twin sister against me. If I fail, for sure I'll be dead.

P.S.—I don't want to work.—PLEASE HELP ME.

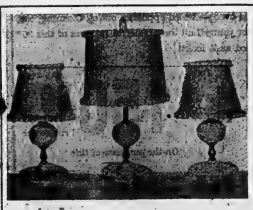
DEAR PLEASE—What brought this on? What on earth did you do?

She won't tell you, so breathe easy. Have you told her how much you love her? You can show your love by making sure, first, that you pass.

A summer job might be found helping with a paper route, delivering groceries, baby sitting. Such a job could be an adventure as well as a way of pleasing your mother.



If you have done wrong, apologize. You are her girl and sooner or later she will come out of this.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BETRAYED — The guilty party in a divorce case is liable for the costs and also for the payment of your lawyer. But be prepared to reimburse your lawyer yourself, in case of default. This happens all too often.

* * *

(Doris, who is a Canadian social worker, can help you understand why people do things. Write to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

Mechanical Mole Digs Coal As British Coal Board Prepares for Space Age

By DAVID OANCIA

LONDON (CP) — Britain's National Coal Board, the country's biggest nationalized industry, has taken a hard look at mechanization and concluded that coal need not provide fuel for recurring crises.

The latest developments in the field of electronic controls that have made rocketry possible are being enlisted in the battle to slash production costs.

One machine now undergoing tests gnaws its way along through narrow seams and spews coal on to a conveyor belt that carries it to waiting mine railway cars for transport to the surface.

One man controls it remotely with electronic equipment from a cab nearby. If the current tests prove successful, a crew of about 20 with one machine will be able to do the back-breaking work now done by 300 miners.

The hope of coal board scientists is that the machine — known as the Collins Miner — will make possible more economic exploitation of the extensive reserves of high - quality coking coal in the country.

Much of this is found in seams that often are less than 18 inches thick. Miners trying to win the fuel from such seams often have to use their picks and shovels while lying flat on their stomachs.

Powered loading machines and other techniques available are useful only in thicker seams.

It was against this background that the technical experts went to work early in 1955. M. E. Collins, now member for production on the coal board, prepared the rough sketches and specifications for an automated machine.

A prototype was built and tested for two years before the board's engineers and scientists began consideration of a production model.

The Collins Miner has the electronic and nucleonic refinements needed for remote control. Its cutting head chews a stall in the solid coal. The cutter can alter its way through the black fuel for 200 yards before it returns for a new start.

The first trials of the production model, which started in February, ended in June. The results in the surface tests were considered so good that the machine was moved underground at the New Lount Colliery in Leicestershire.

A coal board spokesman, however, says these final tests will involve long and painstaking work.

"It will be months before this final task is completed," the spokesman added.

"Only after this will it be known whether the Collins Miner can be put into general operation."

The new machine is an illustration of the emphasis the coal board's management is giving to mechanization.

The board's latest annual report, published in May, said that more than half the coal now mined in Britain is mechanically cut and handled.

The hope is that within two or three decades this figure will have risen to at least 90 per cent.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JULY 5, 1962

The cats are on the air force, and there are lots of them. Air Cadet Allen Bird, of 271 Squadron, Toronto, loads up his plate from a selection of salad bowls in the mess hall. The meat course is served through a cafeteria-style lineup; all other courses are on a self-serve basis.

No rock and roll or twisting on this station. Air Cadet Ed Mumby of 128 Squadron, Thorold, listens in on the plane's radio set during a flight in an air force Dakota aircraft.

First of Four RCAF Camps For Air Cadets This Year Now Operating at Station

Three hundred and forty-seven Royal Canadian Air Cadets arrived at Air Station Trenton over the weekend, for the first of four RCAC camps to be held for two weeks each, during this summer. The cadets represent 16 squadrons, drawn from almost all Ontario east of Lake Superior. About one quarter of the personnel of each squadron came to camp this year, selected from those who completed their year's work in their home squadron most efficiently. All squadrons in the area will be sending cadets to one camp during the summer.

Officers of the RCAF Reserve and Civilian Instructors from the cadets' home squadrons are also at the camp. While the officers and CI's will supervise and advise their cadets during the camp, they will also be taking specialized courses themselves, to increase their efficiency as instructors.

Home Squadron Officers and CI's, in their off duty periods, have freedom equalling that of regular personnel on the base. The cadets are restricted to air force property for the whole of the two week course. The boys are unpaid for the course, but they have no expenses, excepting incidentals. It is expected that each cadet will spend no more than two or three dollars during the course. The money is expected to go on cigarettes, soda pop and souvenirs.

HAVE FIRE PICKET

Cadets are permitted to smoke only in specified areas. No smoking is permitted, even for officers, in the "tent city" where the cadets are housed. A "fire picket" is on duty in the tent area 24 hours per day, manned by the cadets on a rotation basis. Each hour of duty is 24 hours, during which the group in charge is responsible for enforcing the no smoking rule, and checking other fire hazards. They also make regular checks on the fire fighting equipment posted through the area.

The cadets on fire picket have a tent set aside for their use. They sleep in shifts. Other tents house all facilities except the mess hall, making the tent area self sufficient. The cadets eat in the airmen's mess.

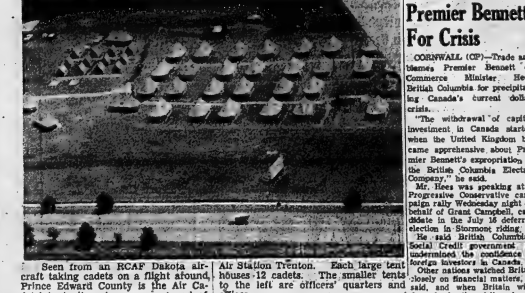
A cadet's normal day begins at 7.30 with reveille. Beds are stripped, the mattresses folded on the bed, and the blankets folded on the mattresses before breakfast. Tents are inspected regularly then by Home Squadron officers and by the camp officers. Each tent is awarded demerit marks for irregularities.

INSPECTION PARADE

An inspection parade is held after breakfast, then the cadets move off to their classes. Drill, practical training and short flights in transport command aircraft are included in the instruction.

The afternoons are usually devoted to sports, with "open tours", (swimming), at regular intervals. Cadets are also allotted regular swimming periods in the base swimming pool.

Evenings are officially free, but it is assumed the cadets will either participate in or watch sports of some variety. Track and field events are encouraged. Sports events are usually organized by the home squadron officers, on a voluntary basis.



Sundays, the cadets attend church services, (the cadet camp has its own padres), and whatever recreation is arranged by their own officers. Air cadet senior NCO's receive slightly different instructions from the normal Air Cadets, but their day is organized on roughly similar lines.

This first group is the smallest of the camps planned for the coming summer. The other three will consist of more than 400 cadets each. Cadets from distant squadrons will be airlifted in by Transport Command aircraft, from the nearest RCAF airbase. It is expected the changeover between camps can be handled during the weekends. Purpose of the camp is to provide those cadets who will benefit most with more intensive training and experience with more advanced equipment, than is normally possible under the winter air cadet program. Most of the cadets at the camp are there to learn and they are quite willing to work at learning their course of instruction.

But the work is what they joined the air cadets for. That makes the camp a pleasant vacation.

Roberval Fire Runs Wild Over Wide Area

ROBERVAL, Que. (CP)—The Trenche River fire — hottest, smokiest and biggest seen in 10 years in this neck of the woods —ran wild Wednesday, riding the wind eight miles down the Trenche River.

All 400 fire fighters could do was stay out of its path and concentrate on checking the fire from the rear and sides.

Feasting on more than 20 square miles of paper-dry slash, the big blaze has been out of control since last Friday on Canadian International Paper Company leases 60 miles southwest of here.

Five aircraft helping fight the fire have salvaged woods camps and timber worth 4,000 corps worth $50,000 were burned during the weekend.

TRAVELLE MILES

Authorities said the fire is so hot it is forming cumulus clouds that can be seen in Trois-Rivieres, 150 miles south.

Meanwhile another serious fire was reported burning 40 miles due west of Roberval on northern Quebec. Limites property and two more big ones, one 10 square miles in size, were aflame on timber leases north of Lac St. Jean.

The provincial government has closed Roberval County and the northern areas of Lavioletta, Dorion and Portneuf Counties to the public. Eleven western Quebec counties also closed Wednesday.

Outside of Lac St. Jean and northern St. Maurice Valley regions, fires were burning in Abitibi County and the Ungava region.

Former AEC Head Says U.S. Would Not Exist As It Is Today Without H-Bomb

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States would not exist as it does today, in the belief of Lewis L. Strauss, had it not been for the momentous decision 12 years ago to manufacture the hydrogen bomb.

Strauss, former head of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission and long active in nuclear developments, stresses the fatefulness of the decision in a new book, published this week (by Doubleday).

The book, Men and Decisions, tells of the great controversy that surrounded the atomic bomb and the H-bomb, as well as other issues, in the years before, during and after the Second World War.

Summing up the arguments over the H-bomb, and praising President Truman's decision to go ahead with it, Strauss wrote:

"We were able to test our first weapon involving a thermonuclear reaction the following August.

"The president's decision was not only sound but in the very nick of time.

"By so close a margin did we come to being second in armament, not only in the eyes of the world, but in fact. Had we begun our development after the successful Russian test, there is no reason to believe that we would have been accorded time to equal their accomplishment."

WATCHED RUSSIANS

In his chapter on the "decision to detect," Strauss emphasized the urgency of learning what the Russians were doing in a nuclear way behind the Iron Curtain.

Detection was possible by measuring radioactivity in the atmosphere but, Strauss noted, there was much opposition.

In September, 1949, the monitoring system pushed by Strauss picked up evidence that an atomic explosion had occurred within the Soviet Union.

Strauss commented:

"It is sobering to speculate on the course of events had there been no monitoring system in operation in 1949. Russian success in that summer would have been unknown to us.

"In consequence, we would have made no attempt to develop a thermonuclear weapon. It was our positive knowledge of Russian attainment of fission bomb capabilities which generated the recommendation to develop a qualitatively superior weapon—thus to maintain our military superiority.

"The Russian success in developing thermonuclear weapon capability in 1953 would have found the United States hopelessly outdistanced.'

"Hard decisions would have been before us—to compromise, to appease, surrender or fight. The decision in 1947 to undertake the detection of nuclear weapons tests was a fortunate one and far more crucial than we knew."

All Catholics Are Invited To Do Penance

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John invited all Roman Catholics, in a new encyclical letter published today, to do penance in preparation for the ecumenical council opening here in October.

The Pope reminded the world's 500,000,000 Catholics that Christ himself had explicitly instructed on the need for penance — persons) mortification in sorrow for one's sins. Pope John said the church holds (penance) indispensable for the perfection of its life."

The ecumenical council, opening Oct. 11, has as its chief aim the renewal of Catholicism in the modern world, an attempt to perfect the church in the face of new problems.

The encyclical was issued today, but dated July 1, the Feast of the Most Precious Blood.

U.S. Tells of New, Secret Electronic Lock to Guard Firing of Nuclear Weapons

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has informed its European allies of the successful development of a new, secret electronic lock which will be used to reinforce safeguards against the accidental or unauthorized firing of nuclear weapons.

President Kennedy is expected to ask Congress soon for an appropriation of funds to complete work on the device and start manufacture and installation in nuclear weapons.

The allies were told through the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. It was learned, that the new electronic lock will broaden the margin of safety in nuclear weapons control systems and strengthen direct control over weapons by field commanders. U.S. officials said the development of increasingly secure control systems becomes more important as the number of weapons increases.

The locking device already is perfected for the larger nuclear weapons such as warheads deployed in the European NATO area for use on medium range ballistic missiles.

The device is described as an electro-mechanical system controlled by a radio signal to be sent from a command headquarters to the device at the missile site.

In effect, the device in its normal position makes a break in the electrical circuit necessary for the firing of the nuclear warhead. It couldn't be fired until an authorized commander dispatched the necessary coded radio signal that would operate the device.

The device itself would not do the firing but it would control the "arming" of the warhead. This is comparable to cocking a rifle in advance of firing it.

Associates said Kennedy has placed heavy emphasis on the need to surround nuclear weapons with a variety of safeguards. They must be foolproof against theft, any kind of accident which could cause an explosion and — under combat conditions —against possible use by enemy forces.

Under U.S. law only the president can authorize the actual use of atomic weapons for combat — or indeed for testing.

Hees Blames Premier Bennett For Crisis

CORNWALL (CP)—Trade and Commerce Minister Hees British Columbia for precipitating Canada's current dollar crisis.

"The withdrawal of capital investment in Canada started when the United Kingdom became apprehensive about Premier Bennett's expropriation of the British Columbia Electric Company," he said.

Mr. Hees was speaking at a Progressive Conservative campaign rally Wednesday night on behalf of Grant Campbell, candidate in the July 16 deferred election in Stormont riding.

He said British Columbia's Social Credit government ad undermined the confidence of foreign investors in Canada.

Other nations watched Britain closely on financial matters, he said, and when Britain withdrew funds, they followed suit.

Wheat Planting Much Higher This Season

OTTAWA (CP) — Prairie wheat planting is about 26,300,000 acres or seven per cent higher than last year and the largest since 1950, a preliminary estimate by the bureau of statistics shows.

This includes a record 17,400,000 acres estimated by Saskatchewan.

Prairie growth conditions feature spotty showers and above-normal temperatures, with good progress in areas of adequate moisture but crop deterioration elsewhere, said the report.

Information is based on telegraphed information from field representatives.

Ontario reports quite rapid crop development on the whole although rain would be welcome in most areas. Hay quality has been good although yields are probably smaller than 1961. Winter wheat in southern and western Ontario is turning color and spring-sown grain is beginning. Most corn, potatoes and tobacco are said promising. In northern areas hay growth is slow but spring grains are in good condition.

2 Crew Members Killed and 13 Hurt in Wreck

FLORENCE, S.C. (AP)—An Atlantic Coast Line passenger train carrying holiday passengers from Florida to New York smashed off the track near here Wednesday. Two crew members died and at least 13 passengers were hurt.

Both diesel engines and seven of the eight coaches of the railroad's Havana Special toppled from the tracks, four of the units winding up in a deep gully between the tracks and a highway parallel to the dual tracks of ACL's main north-south line.

Dead were Rocky Rocks, 52, the engineer, and Thomas E. Jones, 45, the fireman, both of Florence.

The train was en route from St. Petersburg, Fla., to New York.

The derailment occurred near the end of a 30-mile stretch of almost straight track. Oliver Dowling, ACL district superintendent, said the train apparently was "going too fast for conditions."

Trailer Hits Hydro Pole, Lion Almost on the Loose

The afternoon performance of the Christiani-Wallace circus in Belleville for the day stand, was scheduled to commence at 2 o'clock this afternoon, but several members of the star attraction almost didn't make it.

On its way to the circus grounds at Zwicky's Island, a circus truck towing a trailer loaded with lion's cages, sideswiped a hydro pole at the corner of West Dundas and James. Three of the four cages aboard the trailer were damaged, one of them sufficiently to threaten release of the caged lion.

Circus workers quickly unloaded an iron grating from a truck and moved it to the damaged cage, insuring against the escape of the lion.

Damage to the trailer made it impossible to proceed and the lion cages were taken off and loaded onto another vehicle.

The wife of the owner of the act said the lions were part of a wild animal act which included lions, leopards and tigers.

HEAVE-HO—Premature unloading of a circus truck loaded with wild animal cages was necessary this morning when the vehicle struck a hydro pole on Dundas Street. Here, circus workers are hauling damaged lion cage from the disabled trailer.

CAMPBELLFORD

Murray Locke Wins Boat, Motor, Trailer

CAMPBELLFORD — Murray Locke of Campbellford, thought it was a practical joke when someone phoned him Saturday night to tell him he had won a boat, motor and trailer in the Canadian Legion draw at the parking lot. A short time later, however, he believed the story when the combination was delivered to his home.

The draw for a Simpkin built boat, an 18 horsepower motor and a trailer was the climax of a draw staged at the close of a carnival held by Campbellford Branch 166 of the Royal Canadian Legion, on the Front Street parking lot, on Friday and Saturday nights.

The annual event, held to raise funds for community work, was termed quite successful by the Legion.

The club reported more American visitors patronized the carnival than in previous years. The number of American visitors to the area this year is up considerably over last year, according to reports by the Campbellford Chamber of Commerce.

DESERONTO

Over 300 Attend Firemen's Fine Dominion Day Parade

DESERONTO — Enthralled excitement for the young fry, nostalgic memories for the veterans and a quiet thrill for the more mature aged were all evidenced in the faces of the crowd watching the firmen's Dominion Day parade at Deseronto, on Saturday evening.

It seems that no matter how old one becomes, he never outgrows enjoyment of good music as played by a band, no matter what type.

Despite the adverse weather of the afternoon, after the rain stopped, a crowd soon collected. Because of the weather, there was some slight delay in starting the parade but it got underway about half an hour late. An estimate of the police was that over 3,000 people stationed themselves along the route to watch.

COLOR PARTY

In the van of the parade was the color party of the local Legion proudly doing credit to their organization as they stepped along precisely. The first unit of the parade was the Sea Cadet unit from Kingston with their color party and an honor guard complete with bayoneted rifles. Their trumpet band set a solid pace and their complete unit was one of which the Navy could well boast. Immediately following the Navy unit were the Deseronto Guides and Brownies and the Tyendinaga Reserve Boy Scout unit, under Scoutmaster Arnold Brant.

Then came the Kingston Air Cadets and their Marching Belles with smart music and a smart display of baton twirling and high stepping in a colorful display before the inspection stand. In the first fire department pumper in the parade followed them. It was the Point Anne Department and a unit of which the town can be proud. The pumper has been built by the volunteer department and is one of which a much larger town could boast.

ROB ROY PIPE BAND

The Rob Roy Pipe Band of Kingston and the next unit used for Highland music they were superb. Their thrilling pipes and vibrant almost made feet itch to fall in line in the parade. As part of their unit the Napanee Fire truck, with some of the Napanee department gave the spirit of the firemen and was a credit to the neighboring town. The Napanee Lions Club with their Mountaineers and clownish antics added a spirit of joviality in the right place.

A group that won the hearts of all along the route was the group of tiny majorettes from Bath. Their tiny tots dressed in very becoming costumes and stepping along in a bewildering manner found after round of applause was heard as they proceeded along.

Then came the Newburgh Fire Department and a feature of their unit was the horse less carriage labelled Rescue F. This was built by the members of the Newburgh department and drew many remarks from the spectators. Following was the Newburgh pumper and men.

HASTINGS FD. ED. BAND

A colorful and precise unit was the Hastings and Prince Edward County Regional Band. Their uniforms of ancient vintage and their smart performance coupled with their accurate playing grew round after round of applause. They proved themselves as a unit of which the regiment may well be proud and many comments were heard of their trumpet and drum work.

The Bath senior majorettes, well sponsored by the Bath Fire Department, then made a very good impression on the crowd as they stepped along smartly twirling their batons and executing some attractive manouvers. Next used the Bloomfield Fire Department with an old time band riding on their appearance. The Havelock Pipe band led the various units of the Deseronto Department to bring up the rear of the parade just ahead of the ponies from the McCutcheon farms.

BANDS PERFORM

Following the parade, each of the bands performed before the officials present on the stand in front of the town hall. These included Mayor Sweet man of Deseronto, Mayor Smart of Napanee, Warden Fox of Prince Edward County, Warden Varty of Hastings County, Lee Grills M.P. for Hastings South, and D. Aikenbrack M.P. for Prince Edward Lennox, and J. W. Spence of the Canada Optical Co. Keeping the crowd advised of the various units of the parade was Chief McVicker of the Deseronto Department.

Following the parade the crowds flocked to the town park where the firemen had various games and amusements set up and right until closing time each and every game was packed with players. As a result of the draw for prizes the winners of the prizes were Paul Rondell, Miss Sharon John, Everett Hannah, Mrs. F. McCutcheon.

STREET DANCE

On Friday night the firemen sponsored a street dance in the block near the Post Office. A good crowd was in attendance and dancing was enjoyed until the late hours to the music of the Quinhoco.

For the weekend the firemen decorated the town streets and all in all the town was most attractive to the many visitors. A good many compliments were given the local department for their efforts and it is hoped that they will repeat their parade again next year.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Prince Bubi, Ridden by Timmy Parnell, won the $6,666 Clarendon Stakes at Woodbine Wednesday.

It was the fourth win in eight starts for Prince Bubi and the first money of $3,666 raised his earnings to $10,780.

Parnell rode the mount when Sam McCrocklin took the afternoon after a four - horse spill in the second race, and Dick Annesley was taken to hospital for treatment of a broken arm but after the accident McComb, Cliff Potts and Gordon Lancaster escaped with minor bruises and contusions. Kats Kirk, ridden by Annesley, broke her right hind pelvis and fell about three furlongs from the finish. She had to be destroyed, Sandy Sugar, Gray Bee and Mac's Trophy fell over Kats Kirk.

Prince Bubi paid $8.80 straight as he ran the 6½ furlongs in 1:05 4-5.

READ 8 LATTA 9

Latta pushed across a single run in the bottom of the sixth inning to edge Read Tigers 9-8 in a high-scoring S.H.B.L. game last night.

The winners trailed by scores of 2-0, 4-1 and 6-2 before they bagged five runs in the fifth to pull ahead 7-6. Read tied it with two in the top of the sixth before Latta won it in the bottom of the inning.

In another league tilt Shannonville downed Cannifton 10-2.

Bunnage pitched Latta's victory, allowing 10 hits, striking out 10 and walking four. Parry Milligan toiled in defeat, tagged for 16 hits while whiffing four and walking four.

Ken Read paced the Latta hitters with a double and two singles while D. Harris had one of each and drove in the deciding marker. Howard Skelly smacked two doubles, J. Rayward, Wayne Gow and H. Reid had two singles apiece. Ross Parks also hit safely.

Parcy Milligan led the Read batters with a single and two doubles, Frank Callahan hit a double and single while C. Brennan had a triple and single. Other base hits went to Gerald, D. Hall and C. Milligan.

Read	211 202—8 10 1
Latta	201 151—9 14 2

Batteries: P. Milligan and J. Brennan; Bunnage and Skelly.

Outsider Wins Big Race

Quinte Marksmen Weekly Shoot

Henry Fom led the experts Wednesday evening at Rednersville range, scoring 246 out of a possible 250. Second with 249, Doug MacDonald was high man in the sharpshooter class with 247. Harry Hodgkinson took the marksmen honors, shooting 164.

The pistol range was moved to a new location and the camps were placed for rifle shooting. Those attended the Dominion Association of Civilian Marksmen Rifle Course will get under way next week. Everyone interested in rifle shooting should contact President Frank Allin or Doug MacDonald at the Oxbow Gun Shop.

Four-Horse Spill Hurts Jock

Annesley, 36, was hurt when his mount, Kats Kirk, tore a fetlock-joint and tumbled approaching the three-eighths pole on the far turn. Also involved in the action, Sandy Sugar, Gray Bee and Mac's Trophy came to grief on the pileup.

Gordon Lanoway, riding Gray Bee, suffered severe bruises and contusions but went back to the jockey quarters under his own power. Jockeys Sam McCrocklin, on Sandy Sugar, and Cliff Potts, on Mac's Trophy, escaped with minor scratches.

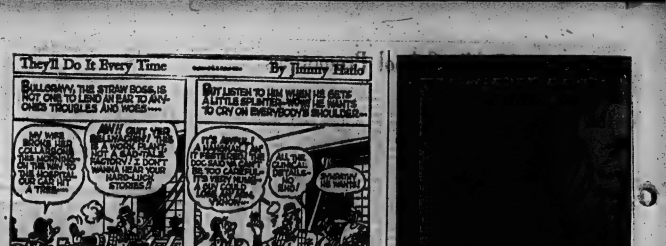
NEW YORK (AP)—Outsider Beau Purple broke on top and stole the race from heavily-favored Kelso and Carry Back Wednesday to set a track record in winning the $105,200 Suburban Handicap at Aqueduct.

Kelso, the 3-to-5 favorite, finished second, 2½ lengths back and Carry Back, a 9-to-5 second choice, wound up last in the eight-horse field. Crozol was third.

Jockey Bill Boland aboard Beau Purple, one of two lightweights in the small field competing, led the running of the 1¼-mile holiday classic. The winner swept under the wire in 2:00 flat which erased the 2:01 1-5 track record for the distance set by Sword Dancer when he won the $100,000 Woodward Stakes Sept. 24, 1960.

Because of the small field there was no show wagering. Beau Purple returned $12.80 to win and $4.70 to place. Kelso, ridden by Willie Shoemaker, returned $3.80 to place.

WINS HANDICAP



At Hollywood Park, Inglewood, Calif., Prove It knocked off four runners in his winning mate, Olden Times, to win the $65,200 American Handicap. The time for the 1¼-mile feature was 1:47 3-5 and the victory was worth $32,850 for owner Rex C. Ellsworth.

Prove It paid $4.40, $3.20 and $2.80. Second place Windy Sands returned $3.60 and $4 and Hargis paid $6.40 to show.

Before the first race, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Davis won out in a bidding duel to claim Sporty Boy for $6,500, only to see the colt drop dead after the race was run.

Forvenir II, entered with stablemate El Loco, earned $26,875 and was timed in 1:51.3. The entry paid $6.80, $3.20 and $2.60. Oink paid $2.80 and $2.20 and Gung Ho II paid $3.40 to show.

AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN — A scene from the new 20th Century Fox feature in Cinemascope and Color by Deluxe, "The Broken Land," opening tonight at the Belleville Drive-In Theatre for its first Belleville showings and featuring Kent Taylor, Dianna Darrin and Jody McCrea. 2nd new feature also in color and Cinemascope is "Swinging Along," featuring Tommy Noonan, Pete Marshall and Barbara Eden with guest stars Ray Charles, Roger Williams and Bobby Vee.

At The Park

'GIANT KILLER' IS ADVENTURE FANTASY

Featuring a startling new process of special effects photography, called Fantascope, "Jack the Giant Killer," opens tonight at the air-conditioned Park Theatre in Technicolor. Starring Kerwin Mathews, Judi Meredith and Torin Thatcher, this exciting filmization of the world's most famous fairy tale was written by Orville Hampton and Jerry Juran, who also directed it. With Robert E. Kent as Associate Producer, "Jack the Giant Killer" is an Edward Small Production.

Fred Clark and Barbara Lawrence are popular youngster Roger Mosley, Harry Kelly and Don Haggerd. Anna Lee portrays Lady Constance. The story concerns the two legendary peasant boys who became famous as a "Giant-Killer" in the days when monsters, witches and sorcerers, battle-maps and magic minstrels were as customary as movies are today.

In the same program a fast actioned thriller "The Gambler Wore a Gun" stars James Davis and Merry Anders.

Movie About Displaced American Indians Good

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Recently a packed audience applauded a haunting movie about displaced American Indians, "The Exiles."

Part of the subscription saving of film classics, this was the first commercial showing in the United States of the remarkable motion picture put together by a group of young men trying unsuccessfully to break into the movie business.

The man who made The Exiles is Kent Mackenzie, tall, intense, with a shock of black hair. He got out of the air force eight years ago and came here with the burning desire to make movies.

Five years ago, Kent was researching for a documentary on Indian reservation life. He became acquainted with some young Indians who had drifted to Los Angeles to take up purposeless life on the fringes of skid road.

Kent saw their existence as a better subject for a film, and he started shooting some footage, with the Indians' cooperation. The project started to

SOUGHT BACKERS

"A first I operated on my own $500," he recalled. "When that ran out, I started showing the film to people in hopes of backing.

"One fellow, who was going into the army and who after became my brother-in-law said he had $2,000 he didn't need. He let me keep it for about five months. Then a woman saw the film and said she would contribute the money she was going to spend the next day on a trip to Sparta car.

"My barber, who is 85 years old, saw what we were up against. He said he had a race horse he would sell and give me the proceeds.

After four years of filming, The Exiles was finally finished. The cost: $27,000 in actual cash, $45,000 if the deferments by those who helped make it were paid.

Unlike other local productions, the cast cost was not a major item. The actors, all non-pros, were paid off in beer and wine.

That's the nature of The Exiles. It tells how the young Indians spend their hours watching drive-in-night movies on television, gunning beer and wine, fighting other and driving their cars to a hilltop overlooking the city, where they fight, mate and chant and dance like their ancestors.

Batting—Lo Cinion, Red Sox, grounded out first time up in doubleheader, then stroked seven consecutive hits for two bouners, two doubles and three singles as Boston lost opener to Minnesota Twins 5-4 but came back to take nightcap 9-5.

Pitching—Jim Perry, Cleveland Indians, went all the way in 1-0, 10-inning victory over Detroit Tigers in first game of doubleheader, allowing only five hits and retiring the side in order six of the 10 innings. He also scored the game's only run.

CANADIANS FAR DOWN

PAU, France (Reuters)—Only two Canadians of an original entry of seven were left in the Tour de l'Avenir, for amateur bicycle racers Wednesday after completion of the third stage. Ray Williamson of Toronto finished 200th for an overall placing of 111th in the field, now reduced to 117. Raymond Nolet of Trois-Rivieres, Que., finished 128th and was last in the overall placings.

Pratt Has Hockey Idea

Split, Bend Centre Line

VANCOUVER (CP) — Babe Pratt, noting the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association's talk about eliminating the centre line, says he'd rather see it split and bend.

The one-time New York Rangers and Toronto Maple Leafs defenceman and former coach of New Westminster Royals of the Western Hockey League, explained the idea to a reporter.

He'd wipe out the present blue lines, split the centre line in two and bend the two pieces into arcs. The arcs would meet at centre ice and curve back to the boards at the point where the blueline now runs.

The CAHA proposal would allow a player to carry the puck from his own defensive zone right up to the opposing blue line without drawing an offside whistle.

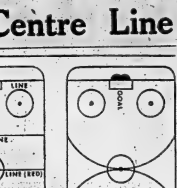
The CAHA proposal, which must have NHL approval before being put into practice, is aimed at getting Canadian amateur hockey more in line with international rules, which allow passing over the equivalent area of two lines.

BATTER FOR BUSHING



Pratt said his suggestion would go further.

"With this setup, imagine a centre coming up with his two wingers. When he gets to centre ice his wing men are flying and he can lay a forward pass to them and they don't have to slow down or hang back. They could take the puck in full flight and still be onside. Imagine the fine rushing this would lead to.

"Compare the possibility with what you see today. The three men break out of their own zone. If the centre doesn't unload the puck, the wingers have to skid to a stop at the blueline or else the centre has to shovel the puck sideways. Whatever they do, their three-man break is stopped by the blueline.

Pratt said his plan would help end the slapshot, an offensive manoeuvre that makes his skin wrinkle.

"During the Stanley Cup play-

CHANGES PROPOSED — Babe Pratt, former National Hockey League star, has proposed elimination of the blueline and substitution of an arched line for faster hockey. The arcs would meet at centre ice and curve back to the boards at the point where the blueline now runs, allowing a team to pass from its own defensive zone right up to the opposing blueline without being offside. (CP Newsmap.)

offs, it just tortured me to see as fine a hockey player as Bobby Hull (of Chicago) come up to centre and slap the puck half the length of the ice simply because he was boxed in."

Pratt said he recognizes the NHL as a formidable barrier to any experimenting with hockey rules.

"Whatever the CAHA wants to do, they are the guinea pig for the NHL, But the NHL won't allow any decisions with the game as long as the crowds are as good as they were last year."

Leafs Split With Chiefs, Suns Lose

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The International League standings have a familiar look today.

There were no winners and no losers Wednesday. In 36 innings of baseball, everyone split doubleheaders.

Richmond Virginians snapped a Jacksonville five - game winning string by taking the nightcap 5-2 after the leading Suns won the seven-inning opener 7-6. Syracuse Chiefs stopped second-place Toronto Maple Leafs 7-6 in the opener, but the Leafs won the second 1-0. Columbus Jets beat Atlanta 9-2 in the first game, the Crackers winning the second 6-4. Buffalo Bisons won both ends of a doubleheader from Rochester Red Wings the nightcap 9-7.

Jacksonville righthander Joe Schaffernoth became the first IL pitcher to win 10, scattering nine hits in the opener. Al Downing and Gary Slaylock combined for a four-hitter while Don Rummer hit a three-run homer as Richmond took the second.

WILD PITCH FATAL

Syracuse rallied for two runs in the ninth inning in the first game against Toronto, with rear relief-pitcher Russ Heman's wild pitching the tying run home and Frank Oreggio slapping in the winner. Neil Chrisley had two homers for the losing Leafs.

Carl Greene threw a four-hitter in winning the nightcap. The only run in the game scored in the third when Len Gabrielson doubled, went to third on a fielder's choice and scored when a towering, wind-blown pop fly started foul, then landed in front of the plate.

Jerry Buchek hit a three-run homer with two out in the ninth to give Atlanta the nightcap victory over Columbus. The Jets took the opener on a three-hitter by Riverboat Smith and home runs by Larry Elliott and Wilber Stargell.

John Bozzer threw a two-hitter to lead Buffalo to its first-game decision. Rochester used a five-run third inning, featuring Cal Emerys homer, to establish an 8-3 lead and coast in for the nightcap decision.

Point Anne Tops Pepsi's

The Point Anne Centennes defeated the Pepsi's 14-4 behind Denny Hall's four-hit pitching on Tuesday night.

The winners scored three in the first; each club plated four in the third and the Centennes wrapped it up with seven runs in the sixth.

Hall struck out two and walked three while loser T. Long allowed 11 hits, fanned two and passed four.

Allen Green smashed a three-run homer for Point Anne and also had another hit. Ron Hull and Jim Sberdian had two hits each with Jim Horwood, Denny Hull, Lloyd Maracle, Gerry Meagher and Vern Whalen getting one.

Ron Bamber and R. Young hit homers for the Pepsi's while Perrotta and Robert Tonon also hit safely.

DELOCK OUT

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Red Sox Wednesday requested that starting pitcher Joe Delock's name be put on the American League disabled list for 30 days because of torn ligaments in his right knee. The veteran righthander hurt the knee running to back up a throw to the plate against Minnesota Monday night.

All-Star Brush-Off

Doesn't Worry Jimenez

NEW YORK (AP)—The fall-out of Ike Fallow's American Leaguers to vote him on the all-star team has failed to dampen the bubbling spirits of Manny Jimenez, who is more concerned with maintaining his position at the top of the circuit's hit parade.

Not so Kansas City manager Hank Bauer who feels the players have done an injustice to his roly-poly right fielder who leads the league in batting with a .350 average and heads the Athletics in hits, home runs and total bases. Jimenez is second to Norm Siebern in runs batted in for the Athletics.

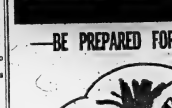
"It's a crime, shame," said Bauer. "What could they have been thinking of? They voted Rollins (Minnesota's Rich Rollins) as the third baseman over Siebern. Rollins established fellows like Brooks Robinson and Charlie Boyer because he is having a good year. The same for Moran (Los Angeles', Billy Moran) as second base. Well, my guy is having a better year than both."

Jimenez finished behind Roger Maris and runner-up Joe Thomas of the Angels in the players' vote.

FINAL GOES TONIGHT

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—Henry T. Adios' and Mighty Tidy, who have dominated the $121,500 Harness Tracks of America pace this year, head a field of eight in the $50,000 final tonight at Yonkers Raceway.

Riders 'Find' Two Canadians



OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders have discovered that they have two Canadian imports in training camp who qualify as Canadians under professional football regulations.

One is end Dave Herne, a full-blooded Indian who played college football in St. Benedict's in Kansas. The other is quarterback Bob Lemon, a former star with Ohio State University.

Under pro football regulations, an import qualifies as a Canadian if either his father or mother is a Canadian citizen.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

That big duffle-bag lugged around by "Haystack" Muldoon, Arkansas' 500-pound gift to wrestling, may contain something besides canned "chaws of terbacker." If it does, "Haystack" had better produce it Friday night. He'll need it.

For he teams up with that Dangerous Dan of the Detergents, "Mr. Kleen," and guess who will form the opposition? That's right. The Toles Brothers.

The popular "Haystack" takes over from Whipper Billy Watson, who teamed with "Mr. Kleen" here the past two Friday nights and won "Haystack" out of both decisions when the Greek terrifies came up with last-minute out-of-the-bag gimmicks to snatch the wins.

Last week the "Whip" and buddy "Kleen" were waving the Greeks over their heads like bath towels—and appeared well on their way to victory. The Whip took over—and he appeared to have everything under control.

But Referee Tiger Tasker did not think so and intervened a couple of times. The Whip pushed him away—but did not reckon with the crafty Chris, or was it John, he had wrapped up neatly, ready for the "kill."

Enter brother Greek for a threesome and again the referee intervened. A fist-fight ensued. The melee catching the Tiger amidships and sending him matside. He jumped to his feet, growled at the Whip and promptly awarded the fall and bout to the Toles Frerns.

Seven or eight hundred fans agreed that the fist that almost deflated the Tiger was attached to a Toles forearm. Tasker didn't think so. But "Haystack" did and vented his displeasure by entering the ring after the decision and helping drive the Greek brothers to cover with his swinging "mule-shoe" attached to a heavy chain.

That earned him an offered bout with the Greeks—and he gladly accepted. So there'll be no love lost Friday night when he teams with "Mr. Kleen" against the Brothers.

And what looks like a lively set-to is the bout between Stan Stasiak of Quebec and Tom "Emperor" Jones, the colored football star. Also on hand will be Gino Marella and Fred Valois, the Montreal "bad man."

JUNIOR QUALIFYING ROUND

The Ontario Golf Association junior qualifying rounds will take place this Friday, July 6th at twelve districts throughout Ontario, with the exception of the northern areas where they will be staged July 7 and 8.

Last year some 889 juniors competed in the qualifying rounds and this year, with good weather, the Golf Association looks for over 1,000 boys in the 40th Annual Championship.

In the Quinte district the qualifying rounds will be held at the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club, starting next Friday morning.

With the resurgence of junior golf in this district one of the largest entries in years is expected to compete in this area. The rounds will be held under the supervision of O.G.A. director T. A. Chisholm, and all entries should be forwarded to him.

All entrants may compete at only one district and must not have reached 19 years of age by midnight, August 31st, 1962. They must present proof of age to the director in charge. They do not have to be a member of a golf club. Post entries are allowed at all points except Toronto.

The qualifying rounds embrace juniors, juveniles and bantams. Bantams are 13 years and under, Juveniles 14 and 15 years and juniors, 16-17 and 18 years.

One in every nine players in junior and juvenile classes and one in every ten in the bantam class will qualify for the final at Credit Valley Golf Club on Friday, July 20th.

Other centres holding qualifying rounds will be Hamilton, Kitchener, Owen Sound, Peterborough, Sarnia, Smiths Falls, Welland and Windsor. London and Kitchener will hold their rounds on two courses. Toronto will use three, Forest Hills, Whitevale and Thornhill.

Wimbledon Singles

Mulligan Meets Laver

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Martin Mulligan, Australian tennis star who left Australia for a year to improve his game, is the strongest turn-up in the Aussie - dominated Wimbledon tournament.

Mulligan, 21, is in today's men's singles final against Rod Laver, the defending champion. And he figures it's all because he got away from Australia and came to England to practice his shots.

"If you want match practice, then the road of Australian tournaments is the finest school in the world," Mulligan said Wednesday.

"But it wasn't match practice I needed. I decided I should concentrate on improving my service and volleying. So after last year's Wimbledon tournament, I stayed on in London and spent the winter practising with friends."

The results were clear to an enthusiastic crowd of 14,000 on Wimbledon's centre court Wednesday. They watched the unseeded Mulligan overpower John Fraser of Australia 6-3, 6-2, 6-2 in a semi-final match.

Laver defeated the older Fraser brother, former Wimbledon champion Neale Fraser, 6-4, 6-2, 7-5 in the other semi-final.

Now Mulligan gets the chance to play Laver in his bid for a tennis grand slam—the championships of Australia, France, Wimbledon and Forest Hills in the same season. Only one man has done that, Don Budge of the United States in 1938.

High-Flying Angels Sweep Into Lead

Win Pair, Yanks Split

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Flying high, those Angels. And if past performance charts mean anything, Los Angles is the fast American League entry in 2-to-1 to finish first in the pennant derby — which would rank as one of the most cockeyed upsets in baseball history.

The Angels swept into the lead in Wednesday's big holiday program by sweeping two victories over Washington Senators 4-3 and 4-1. That stretched their winning string to four and pushed them a half-game ahead of New York Yankees, who were humbled by Kansas City 11-1 before the home-run slugging of Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris powered them to a 7-3 decision and split with the Athletics.

One of baseball's barometers is the July 4 standings—with the team topping the league the traditional favorite to wind up as champion. It's happened that way 41 times in the Al's 61 years, for a 67-per-cent average. Last year's Yanks split an Independence Day doubleheader with Detroit, leaving them a game back of the Tigers, and emerged as run pennant winners.

INDIANS MOVE UP

Elsewhere be Wednesday's American League doubleheaders — Cleveland Indians edged within two percentage points of New York with a pair of overtime victories over Detroit, 1-0 on Gene Green's game - ending single in the 10th inning and 6-2 on Don Dillard's grand - slam homer in the 13th; Minnesota and Boston played even, the Twins taking the first game 8-4 and the Red Sox the second 9-3, and Baltimore split with Chicago, the Orioles winning 7-3 and the White Sox 5-2.

The Angels jumped in front against Washington in both games and sailed down the stretch with strong relief pitching. Right-hander Ken McBride won his seventh in a row in the opener, boosting his record to 8-3, and Dean Chance supplied the needed help from the bullpen, Lee Thomas's homer in the sixth proved the clincher.

Leon Wagner, the league's leading home run hitter, smacked No. 24 with one on in the third and Felix Torres also banged a two-run homer for Los Angeles in the second game. Art Fowler preserved the pitching victory for southpaw Tex Bowsfield of Penticton, B.C., and the Angels won for the ninth time in 12 starts.

YANKS RECOVER

After a no-hit, nogotch, no-field, performance in their first game, the Yankees cut loose in the second. Ed Charles pushed Kansas City ahead with a two-run, inside-the-park homer in the second inning but Mantle blasted one with a man aboard in the fifth. Then the Bombers bombed in the sixth — when Clete Boyer homered, Maris homered with two on and Mantle belted his second of the game.

In the opener, rookie right-hander Diego Segui held the Yanks to six hits while Kansas City rapped out 15 and were aided by five Yankee errors. Jerry Lumpe led the winners with a homer, triple, two singles and four runs batted in.

Jim Ferry fired a five-hitter and scored Cleveland's victory as the Indians nipped Hank Aguire and Detroit in their opener. Cleveland came from behind twice in the second game before Dillard slammed his bases-loaded homer off loser Jerry Casale in the 13th.

CLINTON CLOUTS TWO

Boston's Lu Clinton continued blazing in the Red Sox' split with the Twins, whacking seven straight hits after grounding out his first time up. The reserve outfielder, an .097 batter last Friday but on a 16-for-39 tear since, had two doubles, three singles, drove in four runs and scored five.

But despite Clinton's heroics the Twins ran off with the opener Bob Allison's hitting and Bill Pleis' five innings of right relief pitching. Allison batted across four runs with a homer and single.

Johnny Temple rapped out four hits and Jerry Adair tagged a decisive two - run homer in the sixth inning as the Orioles scored over Chicago. Then a flurry of four unearned runs against Ed Rakow in the third inning and lefty Juan Pizarro's six-hit pitching gave the White Sox the second game.

Good Pitch, Loose Field

Peterborough Defeats Kenmors

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Jackie Locke's timely base-cleaning three-run double in the fifth gave Peterborough Fannings a narrow 5-4 victory over the Kenmors here last night.

It was the only clout of the four-run upheaval, the Kenmors loading the sacks with a trio of errors aided and abetted by a walk.

The Fannings kicked the ball around no less than five times, three of the bobbles helping score as many of the Kenmor runs.

The Forster crew had the stage all set to pull the defeat out of the fire in the bottom of the ninth but a stand-up putout at the plate retired the side and the Kenmors hopes for victory.

The Petes led 5-3 going into the bottom of the final frame with Al Wade the Petes pitcher going along nicely with a six-hitter.

He retired Larry Soden and walked Ricky Locke. Coach Forester's pinch-hitter went down swinging. Locke stole second and Gary Goyer's single sent him across the plate. Pat Assebinne drew a life and Ted Batchelor running for Goyer stopped at second.

He raced for the plate on Mavety's single to right centre but Whitehill's throw cut him down as he came in standing up to end the game.

There was nothing wrong with the batting on both sides. Bill Latchford gave up all the Petes runs off six hits in eight innings walking five and whiffing nine. He gave up back-to-back singles in the top of the ninth and Larry Sodden took over to retire the side.

Al Wade the Petes big righthander went the route yielding eight hits, two in the ninth. He struck out eight and walked four.

The Petes won the game in the fifth when a walk and three infield errors scored a run and loaded the bases. Shrubb smashed a three-run double before Latchford finally got the side out.

A walk, a sacrifice, two Petes errors and substitute's single gave the Kenmors a 2-1 lead in the third. They scored another in the eighth off Locke's single and Latchford's double and the other in the ninth.

Driscoll and Shrubb each hit a double and single for the Petes with Turnbull contributing a double and Wade a single to round out the six clouts.

Latchford had a double and single and Goyer and Assebinne two singles to pace the Kenmors' offensive with Mavety and Locke also hitting safely. Ricky Locke's running diving catch of Mather's long fly in the seventh was a fielding highlight.

The win was the second for the Petes and the second loss in eight starts by the Kenmors. Oddly enough, both Kenmors setbacks have come at the hands of the Lillock city crew.

The teams:

PETERBOROUGH — Driscoll, Whitehill, Mather, Shrubb, DeNoble, Raylor, Turnbull, McCalley, Wade.

KENMORS — Locke, Fullwell, Goyer, Assalstine, Mavety, Moxon, Hunter, Pagnuli, Latchford, Soden, Carr, Soules, Batchelor, Turner.

The score:

Peterborough 000 040 000 — 5 6 5
Kenmors 003 000 10X — 4 8 3

Pechay, Bartkin.

Lightfoots Clobber Reide's 15-6

Lightfoot Construction scored eight runs in the first inning and coasted to a 15-6 victory over Reide's Excavating at CNA park last night.

The game was a jumble of walks from start to finish as winning pitcher Don Smith walked 13 batters and Johnston and Paul of the losers passed ten.

Smith gave up just three hits while the losers allowed 11. Johnston struck out Paul Reide and Johnston none.

Every man in the Lightfoot lineup collected at least one safety. Chuck Rowbotham and Wood had two singles apiece while Ken Brooks and Jack Canning hit doubles. Runs by Gervin, Doug Moreau, Don Dolan, Tom Lynch and Don Smith had the others.

Reide's 012 101 1— 6 3 4
Lightfoots 81 003 x—15 11 3

Batteries: T. Johnston, H. Paul (1) and G. Wood; Smith and Rowbotham.

Royal Henley Regatta

Scull Champ In Top Form

HENLEY, England (CP)— Stuart McKenzie, the world's leading sculler, is in rare form for the defence of his Diamond Sculls.

Illness often has plagued the 28-year-old Australian in the midst of a competition and in 1960 it cost him a chance to try an Olympic gold medal.

MacKenzie began his bid for a record six straight Diamond Sculls at the Royal Henley Regatta Wednesday with an easy win in the opening heat.

He showed he is in topnotch form by clocking eight minutes, one second for the one-mile, 550-yard course — only a second off the record set in 1953 by Robert George of Belgium.

The Aussie had to withdraw from the 1960 Olympics because of anemia and other complications. Twice he had to undergo operations for ulcers.

Nevertheless, his sculling record is fabulous. One of the few men to beat him in the last six years was Olympic champion Vyacheslav Ivanov of Russia, who did it in the 1956 Olympics at Melbourne. But MacKenzie has beaten Ivanov several times.

The regatta opened Wednesday under a blustering northwest wind that helped racing times but chilled the sparse crowd.

RUMSANS BEAT YALE

Russian Olympic champions, Valentin Borejko and Oleg Golovanov, defeated the Yale University pair of Robert Lefevre and Edward Tripps in a heat in the Silver Goblets for paired oars.

In the premier event, the Grand Challenge Cup, Italy's Moto Guzzi eight, made up of employees of the big motorcycle plant at Gare Como, easily won their heat in 6:46 over the London Rowing Club.

The University of Pennsylvania and Yale are entered in the event this year as well as the Russian naval crew that won it last year.

The British showed they will be a force to reckon with in the regatta by entering seven crews Wednesday in the four-oared competition.

The fastest time of the day— 6:40—was rowed by Britains National Provincial Bank crew that won its heat in the Thames Cup by two lengths over another British crew, Thames R.C.

In a heat of the Steward's Cup for amateur oarsmen, Britain's Molesey Boat Club set a record of 7:01, lopping nine seconds from the mark set two years ago by another British crew, Molesey's victory was over Poland's Zawisza Club.

The University of London broke the record in Wyfold Cup competition for four - oared boats, its time of 7.13 was three seconds better than the old mark, also held by Britain.

In the Princess Elizabeth Cup for school eights, the Westminster School crew under Richard Spry, 19-year-old son of the Sandringham Agent - general in London, was defeated in the first heat.

Match Race Builds Argument

TORONTO (CP)—The boys in the backstretch and the pros around the racetrack are building up a big controversy over the outcome of Saturdays' match race at Woodbine between the filly Cascs, owned by Jack Stafford of Toronto, and the colt Fire n Fire, owned by Roxie Glan of Buffalo.

This is the first United States-Canada match race since American owned Man o' War humbled Canadian-owned Sir Barton at the Kenilworth track in Windsor Oct. 12, 1920.

Saturday's match resulted from some friendly boasting after the two-year-olds set Canadian records in separate races a couple of weeks ago. The result was that the owners each put up $5,000 and the Jockey Club another $5,000 with the winner taking all.

Since then the colt-ex-filly arguments have been going on steadily.

Cascs has won all three starts in her brief career and set a Canadian record of 58 seconds for five furlongs in the $8,000 My Dear Stakes June 26. Three days later, Aim n Fire lowered the record to 57 3-5 seconds.

Minor Softball

Three of the four games scheduled in the Pewee softball division were played while the rain fell on the Athletic field resulted to the Mets 9-0.

In the other western division game the Phillies edged the Rockies by a 15-13 count.

In the eastern grouping the Pirates topped the White Sox 12-9 while the Tigers collected a 14-7 decision over the Colts.

The Cowboys, Vikings, Redskins, Packers and Browns all came up with convincing victories in the Squirt division of the Belleville Minor Softball Association last night.

Cowboys whipped the Steelers 24-6, Vikings downed the Lions 27-12, Redskins topped the Bombers 17-4, Packers took a 25-8 win over the Eagles and the Browns copped a 23-16 victory over the Rams.

Win 10-8 Decision

Flyers Whip Bobcats

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

BCAF Flyers built themselves a 10-4 lead with eight runs in the fifth and sixth innings then cut short a last inning rally by the Bobcats to pull out a 10-8 decision in Trenton last night.

With the comfortable 10-4 lead going into the ninth, the Flyers appeared to be home free until pitcher Howie Cole ran into control trouble. He walked the leadoff batter and a tremendous running catch by Len Mowatt robbed Hughes.

Another walk and a wild pitch was followed by Brown's two-run double for a 10-6 score. Manning threw error plated another run and Cole walked two more. Mike Rathubiak came in to pitch for the Flyers and got Berzin out on a ground ball that scored the Cats fourth run of the inning. He fanned Sandy and it.

Three hits and an error gave BCAF a 3-0 lead in the second. Clapp's double, Murray's sacrifice, and fielder's choice, Soule's infield out, an error and Cote's double showed the Bobcats in front 3-2 in the fourth.

Cote walked the bases full in the fifth and Mann's triple to centre cleared the sacks and put the winners in front to stay. Another walk, Mowatt's single and a double steal made it 7-2. A walk, and then Hughes' upped the score to 10-4 in the sixth.

Doug Soule got one for the Tabbies when he smashed a homer in the top of the sixth.

Flyer catcher Sam Mann had his second big night in a row when he drove in five runs with a triple, double and single after getting ejected for arguing with plate umpire Mike Whalen in the ninth inning.

Jeff Mowatt had three singles, Howie Cole a triple and single, Billy Mills two singles, Roger Drake, Doug Alexander, Don Cole and Corey Corscadden a hit each.

Doug Soule homered and singled for the Bobcats while "Wiener" Brown had a double and single. Karl Clapp and Roger Cote had doubles and Ab Wright a single.

Cole struck out nine and walked nine and gave up seven hits to get the win. Rathubiak fanned one.

Cote was tagged for 14 hit whilst striking out seven and walking seven.

Bobcats: Wright as, Hughes 2b, F. Murray c, Brown 2b, Clapp 1b, D. Murray lb, Soule rf, Soule cf, Cole p.

Clinton Hot in American

BOSTON (AP)—Lt Clinton is the hottest thing in the American League, including the pennant fight, thanks to a barrage of seven straight hits.

Thrown into the lineup when Carroll Hardy was ill last week, Clinton — the fourth Boston outfielder — climaxed a great surge Wednesday when he helped the Red Sox beat Minnesota 9-5 after the Twins won the doubleheader opener 5-4.

For the afternoon, Clinton had two homers, two doubles and three singles, drove in four runs and scored five, boosting his batting average 64 points to .292.

What's more, Clinton is in the running for a shot at the major league record of 12 consecutive hits set by his manager, Mike Higgins, with Boston in 1938.

"I can't explain the streak," shrugged the smiling 26-year-old. "I do know playing regularly helps. That's boosted my confidence back. I just hope I can hit half as well the rest of the season."

Clinton was hitting .097 until last night when he hit a grand slam and a two - run homer against Kansas City. Since then he has 16 hits in 23 trips (.696) with 14 RBI.

Make Clean Sweep

Russ Score At Regatta

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Russian oarsmen scored a clean sweep in their races in the Independence Day regatta on the Schuylkill River Wednesday.

A crowd estimated at more than 45,000 saw Soviet representatives win the single and double sculls over two other scratches and sweep to an easy decision in the eight-oar shells against five other crews, including the Ira Cathcarts Rowing Club, which placed fifth.

The distance in all three races was 2,000 metres, official Olympic route.

Vyacheslav Ivanov, who took the Olympic singles crown in 1958 and 1960, won his specialty by two lengths in the compara tively slow time of seven minutes, 40.8 seconds. The American and Canadian champion, Seymour Cromwell of Cambridge, Mass., was second in 7:41.2.

In the doubles, Ivanov and Yuri Tyuksikov won by a length in 6:58 over Dave Wilmerding and Bill Knecht of Philadelphia Vesper Club.

The Russian victory in the eights was the most impressive. They crossed the ram-drenched Cathcart in 6:17.3, ahead of Cathcarts in 6:17.3 and West Side Boat Club of Buffalo in 6:34.4.

Minor Baseball

The Braves cut short a lastinning rally by the Indians to pull out a 5-4 Pee Wee baseball league victory at the Alemite Field last night.

The Braves scored three in the second and fifth innings and two in the sixth to grab an 8-1lead. Indians got one in the sixth and four in the bottom of the seventh to make it close.

The winners had nine hits, including a home run by Bill Cockburn, while the losers collected five safeties.

Quebec Leads Cricket

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Quebec continues to lead after three days of play in the Canadian junior cricket championship.

After two straight wins earlier in the week, Quebec was held to a draw Wednesday by its chief rival, Ontario.

In the second match British Columbia handed Manitoba its third consecutive defeat, 122-75.

In the Ontario-Quebec match, Ontario batted first and scored 178 runs for five wickets before declaring their innings closed.

British Columbia scored 122 runs all out against Manitoba with captain Chris Springer leading the way with 64 runs.

Standings show Quebec with five points on two wins and a draw, followed by Ontario with one win and two draws; British Columbia, one win, one draw and one defeat; Manitoba, three defeats.

Sir Barton-Man O' War Recalled

Match Races Nothing New

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Match horse races have been run off and on in this country nearly 130 years, and possibly the most celebrated was held Oct. 12, 1920, at Kenilworth Park in Windsor, Ont. Racing fans still talk about that one.

Stories of the occasion were revived this week when it was announced that a couple of two-year-olds, practically unknown outside Ontario, would settle their differences July 7 for a winner-take-all purse of $15,000 at Toronto's Woodbine track.

The race involves two of the fastest two-year-olds ever seen at Toronto — Cascs from the Dennisteel Farms and Aim a Fire owned by Roxie Glan. Each owner, Jack Stafford and Glan, and the Jockey Club has put up $5,000 for the $15,000 purse.

The 1920 affair was a natural. Sir Barton, owned by millionaire Commander J. K. L. Ross of Montreal, had surprised the racing world by becoming the first triple crown winner—Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes — the previous year.

Man O' War, a two-year-old in 1919 and thus not eligible for the triple crown races, had won 20 of 21 races in two years. He had lost as a juvenile to a horse named Upset.

BIG STAKES

Ross was naturally, centred around which was the better horse. The late Abe Orpen, then racetrack operator and professional gambler, put up $75,000 and a cup valued at $5,000.

Other, track operators in the north got drawn in and the good thing when they saw it, also bid for the race but Orpen's price was highest and he got it for Kenilworth, a track he owned at the time.

Admission was $5 a person. Man O'War, affectionately known as "Big Red," won the $15,000 race by seven lengths. The crowd was announced at about 30,000 but in those days, and even into the 1930s, track operators were known far and wide as manipulators of attendance figures, and it could have been 20,000 on that 1920 October afternoon.

That was the last race for both horses. They were put out to stud.

In 1937, Sir Barton died at the age of 21 in almost complete obscurity at a farm near Douglas, Wyoming. Man O' War died 10 years later at Lexington, Ky., and was given probably the most elaborate last rites ever accorded an animal.

More than 2,000 persons attended his funeral. Automobiles were parked for almost a mile leading to his burial ground. The cover was put on the large oak coffin. The 30-year-old was extolled by nine speakers and many of those filing by to look at the red thoroughbred reached down to touch his flesh.

BRONZE STATUE

A French sculptor, Herbert Haseltine, was commissioned to do the big horse in bronze. His statue, unveiled in 1924, died in January, 1951—remembered his greatest stallion even after he was dead.

His will directed that executors preserve and maintain the horse's burial place at Riddle's Faraway Farms and that the statue be maintained as a "suitable manner."

Riddle bought Man O' War as a yearling for $5,000. He won purses totalling $249,465 in his two-year racing career and he sired foals by 386 mares.

The last chapter to the story of the internationally - famed match race was written in July, 1951, when Commander Ross, who went through nearly $12,000,000 in a fabulous career, died at the age of 75 at his adopted home in Jamaica.

Quinte Soccer

Trenton Ambers increased their lead at the top of the Bay of Quinte soccer league standings last night by defeating the Belleville Parsons Cleaners 5-3 at the Fair grounds here.

Parsons goals were scored by Sutton, Fancey and Corbeau.

FACES MURDER CHARGE

SILVERDALE, Pa. (AP) — An eighth-grade boy was held today on a murder-charge. Police say he admitted stabbing a 10-year-old playmate, Theresa Cahill, during an argument over some kittens. Charles Clarkson III, 13, told police Tuesday he killed the girl after they found some kittens in a field and argued about whether to leave them there or take them away.

THE Melrose CAMPBELLFORD

Tourists State Fishing Good At Resorts

CAMPBELLFORD — Tourist resorts in the area reported good catches of bass on the weekend, although there were few muskies taken. A few anglers did report taking muskies, but most were undersized and returned to the water.

A check of district resorts on the weekend showed the catches of bass and muskie were about normal for the season opening. Most operators said the larger muskies are taken a week or two after the opening. A ten pound channel cat and two gar pike were caught in Bradley Bay, south of the town, and several fishermen reported losing muskies. Pickerel were biting well, and anyone who had a line in the water caught all the pan fish they could eat.

Reports from Bradley Bay indicate a number of pike are being taken, along with some pickerel and a fair number of bass, many of which weigh about four pounds. Crowe Bay, north of the town, is also yielding excellent bass, but muskies in both areas have been few.

Many attended the open-house at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Elliott to extend congratulations and best wishes. The property has an extra building in lot 31. Phone us today for details.

Mrs. Lewis Milligan and little daughter, of Indianapolis, spent a recent weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Milligan.

Mr. and Mrs. William Oliver, Belleville, had dinner Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Milligan.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Gray and family accompanied by Mr. Gray Sr., of Toronto, have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. Gnaedinger. Mr. Gray Sr. is making extended visit with his daughter, Mrs. Gnaedinger.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stewart and children, Lorraine, spent the long weekend here with relatives. They were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ken McMechan. Other guests for the same evening were Mr. and Mrs. William McMechan and Mr. and Mrs. Harold McMechan and baby Heather.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hubble, Foxboro, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clare Wesse.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis McCullough of Toronto spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Wesse.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hudgins, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Kimmerly and Mrs. Fred Bird, of Kennedy Hill, had tea Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Sherry Denille.

A large crowd attended the "Laying of the Corner Stone" at Melrose United Church, Sunday afternoon, July 1st, at 2 o'clock. Many former residents were back for the occasion. Among them were Mr. Donald Macfarlane, accompanied by his wife and son Ian, of Toronto, who are spending the holiday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Macfarlane.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Starr and daughter Linda spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Long.

Weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack English were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Cole of Falconbridge; Mr. and Mrs. George Cole and children, Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Cole of Oshawa.

Mr. Thomas Howard, Scout leader, and assistant, John McLaren, spent the weekend

INFORMATION FOR PERSONS CONSIDERING A CAREER IN ACCOUNTING

For many years the Certified Public Accountants Association of Ontario has provided educational facilities for accounting students who are employed in the offices of practising public accountants, and for those otherwise employed.

Following the recent merging of membership of The Institute of Chartered Accountants of Ontario and The Certified Public Accountants Association of Ontario, arrangements have been made for students presently registered on the C.P.A. course of study to continue to graduation. However, no new enrolments will be accepted by The Certified Public Accountants Association of Ontario.

Those seeking a professional career in public accounting may apply for enrolment on the course of study of The Institute of Chartered Accountants of Ontario. Enquiries should be directed to The Registrar, The Institute of Chartered Accountants of Ontario, 69 Bloor St. East, Toronto 5.

For those who prefer a professional accounting career in industry, there will be available a course of study of a standard equivalent to that formerly offered by The Certified Public Accountants Association of Ontario. Arrangements have been made for The Society of Industrial & Cost Accountants of Ontario to conduct this course, separate and distinct from its other course. As an interim measure, students will be enrolled by the Society on the present C.P.A. course of study with the understanding that upon graduation they will be granted a designation, other than C.P.A., to attest to their achievement.

ENQUIRIES SHOULD BE DIRECTED TO THE SOCIETY OF INDUSTRIAL & COST ACCOUNTANTS OF ONTARIO, 81 WAUGHT STREET, SOUTH, P.O. BOX 178, HAMILTON, ONTARIO.

THIS NOTICE IS PUBLISHED BY THE CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS ASSOCIATION OF ONTARIO

Astrological Forecast

For Friday, July 6
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Stress of deception in connection with money matters, self-deception! Picture is apt to be too rosy or too black. Look for "Mr. In-Between." Be patient, diplomatic and cautious.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Much to be gained through realization that life without love can be cold, lonely. Moon in section of chart which makes these things apparent tonight. See the beautiful, not the unpleasant.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Best results achieved by being "one of the gang" tonight, if possible. Agree with friends in order to shine. Relief from current tensions very beneficial. Read, improve mind.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21). Relaxed attitude extremely important. Tension "carried" today. If you are upset, you transmit this attitude. Take things as they come. Worry can only make matters worse.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Long - range view creates rhythm which results in ultimate gain. Being short-tempered, or "short" in view of panoramas around you adds up to loss. Be usual Leo showman tonight.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23): Lunar cycle high means independence, originality stressed. Pluto and Neptune involved in personal planetary pattern today . . . indicating tendency to "leap" over the obvious. Be alert!

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): This is not the day to make tremendous demands. You get what you ask through attitude of diplomacy. This is not sign of weakness. Consideration brings friends and happiness.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 22). If you "give" of yourself this could be rewarding day and evening. Otherwise, minor disputes are featured. This would prove debilitating. Sense of humor, flexibility are keys.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Time to sum up, to realize what efforts are being wasted; then "economize." Brooding adds up to unhappiness. Tonight see the best in others and they will reciprocate.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Plan for travel in connection with vacation and for creative activities, including, pursuit of hobbies. Especially promising for romance, adventure. In all, a red-letter day!

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): There is apt to be doubt in your mind concerning activities of one close to you. But best now for keeping these thoughts to yourself. Others may prove ultra-sensitive.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Cycle could go higher. Take it slow and easy, especially when it comes to signing agreements, making financial commitments. Like Gemini, important that you fight tendency to brood.

If today is your birthday . . . this should prove exciting month as far as new contacts are concerned, for meeting people who stimulate you. By this October look for opportunities and for change, travel, greater financial security.

General Tendencies: Day when the old "crumbles" to make way for the new. Cycle up for Leo, Virgo, Libra.

Kennedy Tells West Europe U.S. Ready to Form New Deal if They Close Ranks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has told the nations of Western Europe that if they will close ranks and pool resources the United States will be ready to negotiate with them a new "Atlantic" partnership."

Kennedy made a calculated bid Wednesday to shape decisively the powerful and conflicting political forces now at work in Europe.

State Secretary Rusk, who had an important hand in the policy declaration, feels European nations are now caught up in a ferment of development out of which fundamental decisions must soon come.

Kennedy chose the birthplace of United States independence Philadelphia, to make the statement.

The choice of the time and place suggested that the United States looks forward to the creation of a United States of Europe as one step in a larger design involving progressive merger of separate sovereignties into some larger political unity.

CITES PARALLEL

Kennedy spoke of this process as "interdependence." He defined it as moving toward a mutually beneficial partnership between the new union now emerging in Europe and the old American union founded here a century and three-quarters ago.

U.S. administration officials cautioned against reading into Kennedy's speech any more than a long-range statement of purpose.

Involved in a meeting at Paris this week are French President de Gaulle and West German Chancellor Adenauer.

Adenauer has long been a champion of European unity. De Gaulle favors formation of a "Europe of the fatherlands," meaning an alliance of otherwise sovereign states.

Adenauer and de Gaulle, however, often see eye-to-eye on anything issue which tends to overshadow their differences on Europe's future. That is the issue of dealing with Russia on Berlin and German questions. They are both hard-policy advocates.

Kennedy offered the Europe partnership in economic, political and military fields. He said the task "will not be completed in a year" but that the time has come to "let the world know that this is now our goal."

Car Expenses Not Deductible Says Board

OTTAWA (CP)—A person's expenses in getting from home to work and back—whether by car and chauffeur or shoe leather — are not deductible when calculating income tax, the tax appeal board has ruled.

In a judgment made public Wednesday, Chairman Cecil L. Snyder and J. O. Weldon of the board dismissed the claim of William H. Martyn of Toronto, a Trans-Canada Air Lines pilot, that he was entitled to deduct $362.30 in 1960 for car expenses incurred in driving from his Toronto home to Malton International Airport.

Jury Urges Sale of Slippery Elm Be Banned

KINGSTON (CP) — A coroner's jury ruled Wednesday that self - inflicted abortion caused the death June 7 of Mrs. Marlene Rose MacDonald of Kingston.

The jury recommended sale of slippery elm—the white inner bark of the tree — be banned.

Mrs. MacDonald's mother, Mrs. Dorothy Amey, testified her daughter told her of her intention to use slippery elm to procure an abortion.

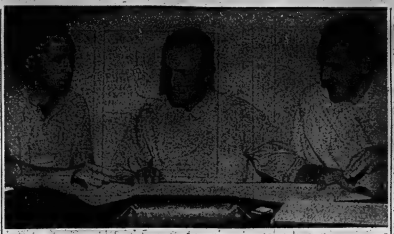
Sergeant of Detectives J. W. Kealey told the jury he went to see a druggist whose name Mrs. MacDonald gave her husband before she died.

He said the druggist sold the slippery elm for 25 cents as "cure and told him: "You don't inquire as to why people buy it. Some people buy it as a cold remedy."

Four doctors testified slippery elm's only use is for procurement of abortion. It is only sometimes effective, they said, and risky due to danger of infection.

Sharp Increase In Imports In January

OTTAWA (CP)—Heavier buying of capital equipment abroad played a big part in January's sharp increase in Canadian imports.



The bureau of statistics today placed the month's import values at $492,317,000, a slight decline from its earlier estimate but still 14.6 per cent more than last year's corresponding figure of $429,480,000.

Imports of non-farm machinery rose steeply to $54,627,000 from $42,960,000 a year earlier. Incoming auto parts were valued at $34,796,000 as against $20,860,000 in January last year and electrical apparatus rose to $28,173,000 from $20,351,000.

Other import gains: Aircraft and parts up to $27,643,000 from $22,731,000; crude petroleum at $26,754,000 as against $25,518,000; autos and trucks $15,066,000 compared with $11,251,000; and engines and boilers $16,491,000, up from $13,885,000 a year earlier.

Purchases abroad of farm machinery and implements dropped in January to $15,810,000 from $18,474,000. Values of imported fruits rose slightly to $10,854,000 from $9,928,000. Cotton prodidt imports were about steady at $9,852,000.

Values of all imports from the United Kingdom dropped in January to $43,000,000 from $46,160,000 a year earlier. Biggest climb in values was in imports from the United States, which rose to $332,914,000 from $297,144,000.

Commence Fair Grounds Building To Provide Secretary's Office

Another building will shortly be joining the permanent fixtures on the Belleville Fair grounds. This will be a new secretary's building, which will be located on the west side of the grandstand.

Of concrete block design with a gabled steel roof, the new building will provide adequate space, 16 by 24 feet, and easy access for both fair officials and entrants. In addition the secretary's office has been in a small dark corner under the grandstand, where facilities have been crowded, to say the least.

The new building will straddle the present fence line which separates the track from the rest of the area. On the track side of the fence the structure will be designed to accommodate pari-mutuel betting when the occasion demands. At other times these windows will be used for the normal business which takes place.

The opposite side of the building is to offer access for business through a Dutch door so that when the grandstand area is closed off for the paid admission shows the office is still open to the public.

The new building is expected to greatly streamline the heavy workload of the secretary's office at fair time by providing both adequate room and improved facilities, fair president Carl Thompson says. The cost of the new building will be covered mostly by government grants, with about one-quarter of the estimated $1,500 cost having to be raised by the local fair board, explained board treasurer Bob Phillips. It is expected that the board's share will be raised largely through revenue produced by renting the building's facilities to organizations which hold events on the track.

Erection of the building was approved at a recent meeting of the board of directors and, from final details of the plans being completed construction is now under way with the contract let to Cecil Hubbs.

Strike Leaders Against Terms Of New Contract

TORONTO (CP)—A majority of leaders of five striking Teamster union locals have said they are against new contract terms aimed at settling the Ontario trucking strike now in its sixth week.

John Kennedy, vice-president of Toronto Local 938—representing about half of the more than 7,500 striking drivers — said terms fall 5½ cents short of agreements signed separately with about half a dozen trucking firms.

Mr. Kennedy said "it our membership turns the proposals down, we have no alternative but to stay out."

Wilfred Sefton, president of Windsor Local 880, said his executive is "quite against" the proposals and said the same is true of the Hamilton executive.

Vice-president of the newly-constituted Local 141 in London, Patrick Hallinan, said "we're not too keen on the proposals either."

The local leaders, who went into executive sessions Tuesday to discuss terms arrived at by government conciliators a n d management during the weekend," are expected to recommend rejection of the terms.

Membership meetings voted on the terms Wednesday and the ballots will be counted in London Friday.

KILLED IN CRASH

LAS PALMAS, Canary Islands (AP) — A four-engined Spanish Air Force plane with 34 military men aboard crash landed at Gando Airfield here Wednesday. Officials said one man was killed and 20 others were injured. The plane's landing gear collapsed after touchdown and the aircraft caught fire, a spokesman said.

Living Costs Advance To Record High

Increase Due to Sharp Rise in Food Costs

OTTAWA (CP)—Living costs advanced during May to a record high level due to a sharp rise in food prices and higher costs of housing and clothing.

The consumer price index, in the wake of the May 3 dollar devaluation, rose two-tenths of a point to 130.9 on June 1 from 130.1 a month earlier.

Today's report by the bureau of statistics did not indicate how much of an impact was caused by devaluation of the dollar's exchange rate to 92½ U.S. — before a slip which increased prices of imports.

The latest index level compares with the previous record high of 130.3 on April 2 and is 2.8 points higher than the 128 mark reached June 1 last year. The index is based on 1949 prices equalling 100.

Food prices rose on a broad front during May, affecting basic foods such as beef, pork, lamb, veal, chicken, flour, cereals, sugar, potatoes, most fresh vegetables, grapefruit and apples. The food index rose more than a point to 125.6 on June 1 from 124.4 a month earlier. However, prices for dairy products — eggs, fresh milk, butter, cheese, pastries, orange juice and canned vegetables — were lower.

RENT STEADY

Housing and clothing prices prices were the only other areas in the consumer price index to show increases. Price indexes held stable for transportation, health and personal care, and tobacco and alcohol.

The increase in living costs followed a slight decline in industrial wages and salaries in April. The index of average industrial wages and salaries at May 1 last date available—was 126.7 compared with 127.2 a month earlier and 123.2 a year earlier. The index is based on 1949 wages equalling 100.

The consumer index, compiled from a survey of fifty-eight employers in nine major cities, covers a wide range of industries, represents an average of 625,000 workers.

Increases in rents, home-ownership costs, and prices of furniture, floor coverings, utensils and equipment pushed the housing price index to 134.9 from 134.5 between May 1 and June 1. Rents in almost a year and the homeowner allotment is unchanged during the traditional moving month of May.

The clothing index advanced to 113.1 from 112.8, with higher prices for men's and children's wear, piece goods and clothing services such as laundry, dry-cleaning and shoe repairs. Women's clothing prices were down.

LLOYD IN EAST, PERHAPS TO GET MEDIATOR

Four Doctors Flee Following Threats

REGINA (CP) — Four doctors left Saskatchewan Thursday as a result of threats arising from the doctors' strike against the CCF government's compulsory medical care insurance plan.

They left amid speculation that Premier Woodrow Lloyd may be seeking outside mediation—an idea which the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons rejected earlier.

The speculation grew after the premier flew to undisclosed destinations in Eastern Canada Thursday, the 37th day of the strike. He was expected back here tonight or early Saturday.

And Deputy Premier J. H. Brockelbank said the cabinet has been considering calling a special session of the legislature in an attempt to settle the dispute.

In Regina, the Keep-Our-Doctors Committee which had sought delay in the July 1 start of the medical care plan, announced plans for a mass protest rally Wednesday on the legislature grounds.

MAKES DEMANDS

A committee statement said: "We will demand that the provincial government cease to ignore the expressed wishes of the people and take immediate steps to suspend the medicare act."

The College of Physicians and Surgeons has said suspension of the act is necessary before doctors will provide normal medical services.

More than 200 of the college's 700 practising fliers set up emergency services at 35 designated hospitals when the plan went into effect.

Spokesmen said the number of doctors has dwindled by about 35 and it is uncertain how long the free, volunteer service can be maintained.

Thursday, the Medical Care Insurance Commission admitted during the plan made its first

Laver Wins Wimbledon Men's Singles

WIMBLEDON (Reuters) — Rod Laver stroked his way to a 6-2, 6-2, 6-4 victory over fellow-Australian Martin Mulligan today to win the men's singles title at the Wimbledon tennis championships for the second consecutive year.

The lefthanded Laver had little trouble with his unseeded opponent, only the fourth ranked player ever to reach the men's singles final here. The defending champion was the top seed.

Laver's victory took him another big stride on the way to completing a tennis "grand slam"—winning the Australian, French, British and American titles. He now has won the first three and added the Indian championship for good measure.

Housewives Pick up Scalpels, Open Non-Profit Medical Clinic

SASKATOON (CP) — A non-profit medical clinic, born in the strife of the Saskatchewan doctors' strike, is doing a brisk business in a downtown Saskatoon office building.

Two doctors, Mrs. Joan Wisney and Mrs. Margaret Mahood, have undertaken the flow of patients in their fourth-floor suite.

The clinic went into operation Tuesday, three days after most Saskatchewan doctors went on strike against the government's compulsory, pre-paid medical care plan.

Documents were being drawn up Thursday to incorporate the clinic as Community Health Services (Saskatoon) Limited under the Mutual Medical and Hospital Benefit Association Act.

The organization is the brainchild of the United Packinghouse, of Canada, Local 640, Saskatchewan field representative of the United Packinghouse, Food and Allied Workers (CLC).

About 60 persons showed up last week at the meeting he called in a union hall to endorse the project.

Later Dr. Wisney, a housewife for the last four years, and Dr. Mahood, offered their services to staff the clinic.

Dr. Mahood is the wife of Ed Mahood, unsuccessful NDP candidate for Saskatoon in the June 18 provincial election.

All patients treated at the clinic have exempted their physicians' medical care plan.

Mr. Lyons, a grandfather and father of seven, has been elected first president of the fledgling organization.

Eventually, he hopes to see the clinic expand into allied medical services with the addition of a pharmacist, optician and dentist.

The downtown clinic has sprung up in Prince Albert and a loose provincial organization of such clinics is in the making.

The organization, Mr. Lyons said, now comprises two representatives each from centres in Prince Albert, Saskatoon and Regina.

Mr. Lyons said he hopes eventually that what he terms terms "consumer - operated medical clinics" will spring up all across the province and change the face of medical practice.

Ten-Mile Parade by 55,000 Shriners Attracts Whopping Crowd of 300,000

TORONTO (CP)—One of the greatest turnouts in Toronto's history — some estimates reached as high as 300,000 — jammed main streets eight to ten deep to watch 55,000 Shriners stage a 10 - mile parade Wednesday night.

Take New Year's Eve, the Grey Cup and the Santa Claus parades, roll them up together and you've got an approximation of the crowd that watched the Shriners' gargantuan spectacles.

It was complete with bands, clowns, drill units, horses, camels, cars, trucks, buses and ground-borne miniature helicopters.

Ten miles of nobles, potentates, bands, horse guards, clowns, floats, noise machines and marchers throbbed through the main downtown arteries.

It was the grande finale of Tuesday's kick-off march. Torches lighted the parade route.

LIKE MARDI GRAS

"It's like New Orleans at Mardi Gras," one Shriner shouted. Others likened it to New Year's eve in New York's Times Square, Toronto's Derby week in Louisville and V-E Day.

"Your people turned out stronger than anywhere else," said Police Chief James A. Dallas of Memphis, Tenn.

Torontonians were sorry to see their rollercoss friends leave but were consoled by the thought that the fezzes will be back in seven years.

During the first two hours of the parade at least nine persons collapsed and were taken to hospital.

As the parade dispersed, many Shriner floats and bands started minor processions of their own and ended up in lobster - and bars of downtown hotels.

For many the fun started early in the day. A jazz band from Wichita, Kan., erupted into an early afternoon jam session in the lobby of the Royal York Hotel.

Hordes of visitors meant booming business for city shops but one officials said that he expected became failed to reach advance estimates which ranged as high as $15,000,000.

As the Shriners prepared to leave and packed the city for its liberality, officials announced that the 1963 convention will be held here.

Chicago, New York and Washington were also bidding for convention sites for the next three years in that order.

Govt. Gets Injunction To Halt Boycott by CLC

BULLETIN

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. Justice N. C. Fraser of the Ontario High Court of Justice, today granted the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority an injunction bordering striking ship - handlers back to work.

OTTAWA (CP)—The government announced today it is issuing a court injunction to halt the ship-handlers' boycott which has tied up the St. Lawrence Seaway and will appoint a commission to investigate the "operation and activities" of the Seafarers International Union of Canada (Lind.).

The announcement was made in a joint statement by Labor Minister Starr and Transport Minister Balcer after a long conference with Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Mr. Balcer said the injunction he and Mr. Starr are being sought in Toronto and in Montreal.

The announcement said the special inquiry will look into "matters relating to the disruption of shipping in the Great Lakes, the St. Lawrence River system and connecting waters, including the operation and activities of the SIU."

Mr. Starr told reporters that the composition of the inquiry board—whether one or more members — would be decided soon.

"As soon as we set it up, it will begin," he said.

Mr. Starr also said he has been in touch with American Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg to seek renewed U.S. efforts to reinstate five Canadian ships owned by Upper Lakes Shipping Limited docked here in five American lake ports.

He did not name the ships or the ports.

The statement issued by the two ministers came 27 hours after seaway workers, members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, launched a boycott against all grain - handling crews belonging to the SIU in Canada or the United States.

The statement said:

"In view of the disastrous effect that the boycott of ships in

Tanks and Troops Enforce Calm After Stores Looted

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Tanks and troops patrolled streets on nearby Duque de Caxias today after frenzied mobs shouting "we want food" plundered more than 100 stores in a running fight with police and shopkeepers.

Mayor Adolfo Bezi said 18 persons were killed and more than 100 injured before army units quelled the rioting and discarding in that city of some 80,000 about 10 miles northwest of Rio.

Two other persons were reported killed in similar but less violent food riots in the Rio suburbs of Sao Jaoa do Meriti and Nova Iguacu.

The riots erupted during a general strike called by Union leaders demanding the formation of a "popular nationalist government" to settle the governmental stalemate between Jotlist President Joao Goulart and the Conservative-dominated congress.

After conferring with Goulart, the national union leaders called off the strike action on such staples as beans, flour, rice, sugar and salt in the face of the country's inflation. Storeowners have been withholding their ample supplies of these items in hopes of getting higher prices later.

Long lines of housewives have formed in front of Rio stores this week as supplies dwindled. Early this week 20 persons

EFFORTS TO HALT ROBERVAL FIRE ARE FUTILE

Other Settlements Are in Danger

ROBERVAL, Que. (CP)—The Trenche River fire roamed through the untabulated regions west of here Thursday like a bear in a berry patch.

The area of 600 lumberjacks and seven tanker aircraft were futile.

Authorities said only heavy rain could stop the fire, which has doubled in size in more than 50 square miles in the last two days.

Half - a - dozen other major fires also grew in the Quebec woods Thursday, but only one threatened a community.

Village of Lac Ste. Jean, some 60 miles north of Ottawa, returned to its normal Thursday night after 90 firefighters halted a blaze that threatened to destroy the settlement.

They used a bulldozer to build a smoldering, half-mile wide sand barrier around the village. Flames ate their way to within 100 feet of some of the houses.

The worst fires were in the Lac St. Jean region surrounding this community 135 miles northwest of Quebec City. Here the Abitibi region 500 miles north of Montreal.

EATS THROUGH WOOD

A 16-square-mile blaze was burning 50 miles west of Roberval on Chantiers Gagnon Limitee Property along the Perles River. Another 2,500 square miles of wood went up in the slash fire.

The Wreake River fire, also in slash, has burned 6,000 cords of wood worth $100,000 and two wooden bridges, but only a few scattered fishing camps.

Two other fires were burning north of Lac St. Jean on leases owned by the St. Lawrence Paper Corporation, but were still square miles in size, the other fire.

Largest in the Abitibi region was a fire 40 miles west of Parent, Que., on the Bell River.

An RCAF helicopter joined the fiery air armada in the outbreak on E. B. Eddy leases.

At Val Senneville, the district forestry office reported "numerous fires breaking out over a 30-square-mile area" and a fire between Barraute and Val d'Or was 20 miles long and one mile wide.

Another in the Malartic region had covered 1,000 acres brush.

Warm, Sunny Weekend Seen

TORONTO (CP) — Weekend weather outlook for southern Ontario:

The near perfect weather of the last week is expected to persist through the July 1 weekend. Saturday will be sunny and warm, with temperatures in the 80s. Sunday threatens a few showers in extreme southwestern Ontario but should clear. Although some cloudiness will be noticed, should remain fair and warm.

Welland Canal Traffic Cut By Boycott

Two SIU Ships Block Both Ends of Seaway

ST. CATHARINES - (CP) — Welland Canal traffic, reduced to a trickle Thursday by a canal workers' boycott of ships operated by the Seafarers' International Union (Ind.) of Canada, was cut off altogether Thursday night when two SIU-manned ships blocked both ends of the canal.

The SIU - manned Blanche Hindman, owned by Hindman Transportation Company of Owen Sound, blocked the Lake Ontario entrance when it was edged along the wall until it was only about 100 feet from the first lock gate at the eastern end.

Later, at Port Colborne, the freighter James C. Wallace of Port Colborne, also refused entry since early Thursday, attempted to follow the ocean ship to within 100 feet of the west end of the Welland.

Lock operators dropped the heads of gates in both sides of the Bellelal and the Wallace had to come back. But her progress prevented any other ship entering or leaving.

The canal workers' boycott coincided with a general boycott of SIU-manned ships by ships in the St. Lawrence Seaway, started to demonstrate the workers' sympathy with the Canadian Maritime Union (CLC) bitter rival of the SIU, IN CLC UNION

The lockmasters are also members of Canadian Labor Congress affiliate the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers.

Vessels manned by CMU crews had no difficulty moving through the seaway but ships with SIU crews found the waterway closed to them from Montreal to Port Colborne.

Ships operated by Canada Steamship Lines, largest of the lake operators, were hard hit.

The CSL ship Provencal ocean freighters are tied up in the canal and four more are waiting in Lake Ontario for passage.

The move that first blocked the Welland ship was made by Capt. O. John Tackaberry of Scarborough, Ont., after vessels manned by CMU crews went past his ship and were locked through.

"I had been waiting for upbound passage since 8:30 this morning," Capt. Tackaberry said. "No one is supposed to go ahead until he gets the green light from the lockmaster, but that's what went by me.

TUG GOES BY

"I checked with the gate tender and told him I was next in line and that I was going to move up when the signal was given. He told me to go ahead but while I was waiting a tug went by with the red light."

The captain maintained he had not intended to block the canal.

Macklen Carson, a representative here of the CSHC said Thursday night the union is "very pleased with the way the boycott is moving."

"It just shows what can be done by a little co-operation against the gangsterism that we have been subjected to."

The SIU has been blamed for

Merchants Derived More Fun Than Hard Cash From Shriners

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto merchants derived more joy than hard cash from thousands of Shriners this week.

The throngs of Shriners in town for their annual convention, variously estimated at 50,000 to 100,000, were predicted to have spent between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000 — but today as the fez - topped merry - makers clogged railway stations, it was apparent that many on their way to homes all over North America, many of them retailers, were disappointed to learn that the Shriners hadn't brought more memories of their visit.

Big hotels, bars and many restaurants reported business up during the week by as much as 30 per cent. Shrine officials estimate the convention anriched Toronto business by $10,000,000.

But many downtown businessmen, who watched floods of potential customers hoot and toot their way past the stores all week, said they had one of the slowest weeks of the season.

"The Shriners are a very buying mood," said a jewellery store salesman. "They're here to have fun. They don't have any more to spend than any other bunch of American tourists."

If the sunshine boys did not buy much from the downtown merchants, they did draw thousands of Toronto people into the downtown area.

"Most of our business has come from city people who came downtown to watch," said a restaurant owner. "It was as busy as we thought we'd be."

Merchants agreed, however, that Shriners and injected a happy spirit throughout the business district.

A tavern owner who did a shower business than usual said: "The warmth they generate seems to go right through the house. Even strangers start talking to each other — very unusual in Toronto."

Kennedy Hopes Britain Joins Market Soon

Tightened Alliance With Europe Aim

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Kennedy says he hopes Britain will decide to join the Common Market this summer and that a United Europe and the United States can speed plans for an intensified alliance with benefits for within the rest of the free world can share.

Amplifying his July 4 speech at Philadelphia where he spoke of the possibilities of an Atlantic partnership, Kennedy told a press conference Thursday he wants the new Europe not to be a rival in prosperity, but of strength, looking outward and willing to be in harmony with the U.S.

"We would not want this to be a rich man's club while the rest of the world gets poorer," he said. "The benefits of this kind of union would be shared."

SEES MANY CHANGES

Kennedy hinted that when Europe and the U.S. start negotiating as equals, there will be a great many changes in transatlantic military, economic and other vital relations. For years the U.S. carried a great number of the world's burdens on its back. Now it would expect Europe to take over more of the load.

"We are concerned that Europe and the U.S. play their proper role in assisting the underdeveloped world," Kennedy said.

He realized that a European giant no longer would want to be dependent on the U.S. and this would acknowledged that stronger pressures have been put on Europe to be independent nuclear force.

Kennedy hoped that the new

Heifer Rescued From Cistern, One Other Trapped in Barn

A yearling Durham heifer, missing with its mate for up to five days, was rescued Thursday evening from the cistern of a vacant barn in the west end of the city.

The yearling heifer had fallen through the floor of the barn into the cistern containing up to four feet of water.

The second heifer was found trapped in another part of the barn. It was also without water for possibly as much as four or five days.

The two heifers were owned by E. H. Potter of R. R. 3 Belleville, who keeps part of the Ponton farm in the west end of the city for pasture.

Children were blamed for leaving the gate open leading to the Ponton barn. The heifers wandered through an open barn door, one of them falling into the cistern and the other becoming trapped in the barn.

They were discovered late yesterday afternoon by Mr. Potter who happened to notice the open door at the Ponton barn.

City firemen were called and the heifer was hoisted with ropes from the cistern.

The animal was in critical condition from its long immersion in the water up to and above its head. It is being attended by a veterinarian.

The second heifer was almost crazy from thirst when found and had to be driven away from the water trough following its release.

Essay Will Be Printed in Firm's Mag

Sometimes a class assignment can end up in an unexpected situation as Sharon Walker of 53 Lambert Drive, a grade nine student at Moira Secondary School, recently found out. When her class was assigned to write a business practice essay on borrowing money based on information obtained through a personal interview with a firm in the field, Sharon visited a local finance firm, Associates Discount Corp. Ltd.

The essay turned out to be a success at school with Miss Walker receiving an "A" and here the matter might well have ended. The essay, however, was also viewed by Stan Mills, manager of the firm's local branch, who felt the essay good enough to send into his head office.

At the head office the firm's executives took the essay given a very clear interpretation of the word and chances are that will be printing it in their house magazine, "Spirit," which has a wide circulation through Canada, the United States, South America and Hawaii.

So it seems possible that a Belleville girls essay on finance companies could well be read in a South American magazine on the beaches of Wallikiki.

Fire Rating

Tweed Forest District

The fire rating has been classed as high and the need for rain was stressed by an official of the Lands and Forests of the Department of Lands and Forest this morning.

"If we don't get rain soon the situation will be dangerous", the official added. The fire rain in the district fell last Saturday and since then the ground has turned very dry.

The department called two fires out since yesterday but six are still burning, all being patrolled and all under control. The fires are being patrolled are in Tyendinega, Kilingsan, Shannebrandon, Lynden, Elizafield and Clarendon districts.

The Tweed official stressed the need for extra safety precautions by all those persons using the district forest areas because of the high fire hazard rating.

And the rangers are keeping a hopeful eye toward the sky, looking for that much-needed rain.

Friend Visits Clan Johnstone Troupe in City

The last surviving members of the renowned Clan Johnstone troupe of yesteryear were visited earlier this week by one of their members in the person of Mr. Norine Hulme of Lakeworth, Florida. While in Belleville on Monday evening last Mr. Hulme renewed old acquaintances with Mrs. Albert Johnstone, the former Pipe-major of the Belleville Rifles Band, Albert Johnstone and his sister, Mrs. Ernest Taylor, both of whom now reside on Hastings Drive. He also visited with Mrs. Stan Leanox, daughter of Mrs. Johnstone and Mrs. William "Billy" Grant of Gordon Street, the last local surviving member of this famed band, with the exception of a very few, who have left the district.

Mr. Hulme has made music his career for over forty years joining up with the Belleville Rifle Band, when they had just returned from their world famous tour lasting from May 1906 to September 1908. Before joining this band he was a member of the Governor-General's Band of Ottawa. He was a very popular musician on not one but two tours with the clarinet and the saxophone, being one of the famed vaudeville troupe known as the Five Brown Brothers (saxophone quintet) with which he toured the continent after his return to the U.S.A. upon the conclusion of the Kilties' Band tour.

Mr. Hulme has played with some of the finest and most famous bands and orchestras in the States, among the names others the Gilckie Band of the Edgewater Beach Hotel in Chicago, Liberati's Band, Bob Mamac Cayill Band, the Creatore Band, the track band of John Phillip Sousa and in later years the Tommy Dorsey Orchestra, from which until his retirement ten years ago has been most interesting, and varied. Now the musical scene, covering a scope of nearly half a century. He is presently making a trip through Southern Ontario and some Northern U.S. States renewing acquaintanceships with old musical friends of the past and chief among his ports of call was this city with its musical memories of Mr. Hulme, has harbored since his last appearances here back in 1905.

Eight Foremen Complete Safety Course Here

A seven-week safety course, sponsored by the Industrial Accident Prevention Association of Toronto, has been successfully completed by a small group of foremen from various industries in the city.

The course which began on May 24, was completed on Thursday by eight men who participated. Bob Marriott, safety promotion department, Eastern Ontario was chairman.

The idea of the course was to try to prevent accidents through the enforcement of safety rules.

On the final phase of the safety course Thursday, foremen were told how, and how not, to lift heavy objects. Mr. Fred Lee, safety supervisor for Safety Promotion, demonstrated.

The proper way to lift a heavy object he said, was to bend the knees, close up to the ooze, grab hold of the object to be lifted, and keeping the back straight, stand up. The key he said, the strain is on the strong muscles of the legs and not on the relatively weak muscles of the back.

Supervisors graduating from the course will be presented with the Industrial Safety Development course certificate in the near future at their industrial plants.

The eight men taking the seven-week course were: Gordon Nelson, Amplifone of Canada Limited; William Neave, Aluminum Goods Limited; Ken Mullis, Jerry Ackerman, British Columbia Oil; Larry Stephens, Stephens - Adamson; Frank Westerhof, Dussen Brothers; Doug Wraney, Canada Linseed; Hasmny Dolige, Shell Oil Company and James Trudeau, Trudeau Motors.

The purpose of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association is to provide employers with technical assistance and services that will aid in reducing accidents so the lowest possible level.

Animal Act Is Not Seen After Mishap

Captain Eddy's wild animal act proved did make it to the "big top" yesterday.

Scheduled as one of the main attractions at the Crist-ian-Wallace brothers circus which played at Zwick's Island in afternoon and evening performances, part of the wild animal act ran into a delay in getting to the circus grounds when a trailer carrying several lions was damaged when it sideswiped a hydro pole on West Dundas Street.

The lion cages had to be unloaded from the damaged trailer and loaded onto another truck before they complete the journey to the Zwick's island. The last animal cage did not make it to the island until the afternoon performance was completed.

There was no explanation given, but the wild animal act didn't show at the evening circus performance.

Plan One-Day Quinte Region EMO Course

A one-day orientation course to give Government Emergency Measures Organization executive committee members background information, in order them to prepare plans for their respective departments will be held on Monday at the city hall council chambers.

The one-day course starting at 9.00 a.m. was announced today by Lt. Col. Angus Petty, co - ordinator for the Quinte Area Emergency Measures Organization.

Col. Dutty said it was hoped the orientation course would enable executive committee members to prepare a tentative plan for their respective departments by September 30th.

Later organizational courses will be held for municipal officials and employees with the aim of introducing them to their roles in national survival. This phase of the program is scheduled for completion by November 1st of this year.

Public courses with the aim of training a reserve of personnel that can assist in event of an emergency will also be held.

The Quinte Area Emergency Measures Organization is made up of Hastings and Prince Edward counties, along with the two separated municipalities of Belleville and Trenton. Key personnel from each municipality have been named to various committees.

a series of harassments against Upper Lakes Shipping Limited and its crews, members of the CMU.

Capt. Tuckaberry's move left officials of the St. Lawrence Seaway authority in a tickling twitter. If they ordered Capt. Hindman to move back to clear the channel they might appear to be pulling rank on the CMU. But if they left it where it was the Seaway authority is announcing intention of keeping shipping moving.

SOME CLEAR THROUGH

In Montreal, ships that had entered the seaway before the boycott began were cleared through the St. Lawrence locks but the seaway employees on the system's easternmost lock and they would not handle any SIU-manned ships not in the water way prior to the boycott.

Coincidentally, the boycott began almost simultaneously with an announcement of a two-per-cent wage increase agreement between the SIU and seven major great lakes shipping firms. The contract includes a clause the door for the time being on CMU efforts to wrest bargaining rights from the SIU, call a representation in the present 44-hour work week to 40 hours this year and 40 hours in the 1961 season.

Companies signing were: Canada Steamship Lines, Paterson Steamships Limited, Hall Corporation of Canada, Ltd., Upper Lakes Shipping Ltd., Mohawk Navigation Limited and Provincial Steamships Limited.

AFFECTS SHIP

One of the first vessels affected by the boycott was the cruise ship South American, carrying 342 tourists from Columbus, Ohio. The ship was turned back at Port Weller after an alright-and-by-the-Great-Lakes-Seaway, N.Y., to beat an SIU picket line and the crew members of the Canadian seamen's union.

The South American had brought the Shriners of the North American convention in Cincinnati, Ohio, on a cruise on a tour of Thousand Islands region of the St. Lawrence River.

Chief Purser J. Wilson said the ship may take the passengers to Montreal, N.Y., where they can board buses for Columbus.

Ships passing through the Canadian locks at Sault Ste. Marie will probably not be affected by the boycott. Vessels could simply be diverted through the American canal system where employees are members of the Canadian United States Corps of Engineers.

At Port William, three grain ships and one package freighter were unloaded today as the boycott incident.

Capt. Duncan Beaver, harbor master for the Lakehead harbor commission, said the boycott is going to cause delay in fact there, "but God only knows how long it's going to happen within the next two days."

50-Year Jewel Presented at I.O.O.F. Meet

TWEED, — Monday night was a memorable occasion in the annals of Tweed I.O.O.F. Lodge No. 230, when one of their members received his 50-year jewel, three others celebrated 25 years in the order and another was installed as District Deputy.

Mr. Samuel B. McGee, one of the oldest members of the Lodge, was honored on the occasion of 50 years membership in the Tweed Order and was presented with his jewel by the Deputy Grand Master of Ontario, Earl Fox, nephew of Mr. McGee.

George Carlisle of Stirling, Past District Deputy of Madoc district, presented quarter-century jewels to Arthur McCarey and Harold Foster of Tweed and Alex Nicholson of Oshawa.

Heath J. Jones, who was commissioned District Deputy of Madoc Lodge District No. 45, at last week's session of Grand Lodge in Toronto, was installed by Past D. D. Carlisle in a colorful ceremony. Arthur McCarey who was also in Toronto for the Grand Lodge sessions will act as Mr. Jones' secretary.

Representatives from all lodges in District 45, including Stirling, Madoc, Campbellford, Springbrook and Thomasburg were present at this special meeting.

Is Fined $50 For Gas Theft

A member of the RCAF at Ottawa, Pilot Officer M. Selkirk, 24, was given two weeks to pay a fine of $50 when he appeared before Magistrate T. Y. Wills in city court here this morning on a charge of stealing gasoline from a truck parked on Elliott Motors' used car lot on North Front St.

Selkirk pleaded guilty to the charge.

Inspector McLauchlan told the court that on Sept. 5 during the early hours of the morning, while two constables were on cruiser patrol, they drove into the car lot to check it.

Upon entering the lot, they observed a person crouched beside a vehicle. When the accused was asked by the constable why he was there, he took them to a truck parked in the rear row of the lot, where they found a piece of hose hanging from the gas tank.

Inspector McLauchlan said the accused admitted to police he had taken gas from the truck and was going to put it in his car. A part pail of gasoline was found at the scene.

Two Sentenced In Cheese Case

Magistrate T. Y. Wills passed sentence on two men in city court this morning, when they appeared before him charged with being in possession of a quantity of cheese, property of the Black Diamond Cheese Company.

Herbert Genereaux of Pepper Ave., was sentenced to 10 months plus 28 days in jail on a charge of being in possession of stolen goods and three months consecutive on a charge of car theft.

Genereaux first appeared before the magistrate on June 8 at which time he elected to be tried by the magistrate and pleaded guilty to both charges.

Thomas Smith, 26, appearing before Magistrate Wills on June 15 was charged with having in possession of a quantity of cheese the property of the Black Diamond Cheese Company.

At that time, Smith elected to be tried by the magistrate and entered a plea of guilty. He was sentenced this morning to 10 months plus 30 days.

Smith has been in custody since June 6th and Genereaux had been in custody since June 4th. As the magistrate told the two men before, at the time they were sentenced, he would take into consideration the time they had spent in jail up to that time.

In passing sentence this morning, he told them that was a serious offence and he felt a substantial sentence should be imposed.

U Thant Concedes Mistakes By U.N. in the Congo

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

In the first speech of his 16-day tour of Britain and Europe, including Prime Minister Macmillan and Opposition Leader Gaitskell—the UN is not a ruler in the Congo. Its role was to help and advise, but it was not to be used for actions of the Congolese government and other elements.

He appealed to British experience in bringing colonies to self-government for understanding of the UN problem—and he also appealed to the British sense of humor.

"One of the most important roles of the United Nations in conflicts or difficulties is that of a dignified conductor or, perhaps more accurately, of the dignified substitute of Aunt Sally—the large and conspicuous figure at which things can be thrown both with impunity and with an almost complete certainty of hitting the target."

That listed these successes in the Congo:

Law and order exist once more and Europeans are returning despite the horrors that followed the army mutiny after the achievement of independence two years ago.

Parliament was finally reconvened on Aug. 1, 1961, "because of the strong effort and protection, and a steady trend toward national reconciliation.

Katanga, which has been the question of Katanga, which has raised, as I well know, much heated, though not always well-informed interest and indignation in this country.

Convicted Spy Fights to Stay In Britain

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Robert Soblen, convicted spy who tried to kill himself rather than go to jail on a American charge of life, today carried his fight to the British courts to escape being sent back for actions of the United States. He was on at least a 120-day respite against being moved out of Britain.

Shortly after midnight, a High Court judge handed down a unanimous, corpus, Soblen's lawyers said this means he cannot be ordered out of the country until given a court hearing—fixed for July 16.

Soblen jumped bail and fled to Israel last week after his year-long appeal in America against a life sentence failed. He was tracked down and expelled from the country by the Israel government.

But the spy's lawyers in Tel Aviv made known they were still trying to get the legal officials to unseat and give refuge to him.

Whether Soblen escapes prison or not, his doctors have said he has only at-out a year to live as he suffers from leukemia.

Wm. Faulkner, Author, Dies

CHARLOTTES VILLE, Va. (AP)—Nobel Prize-winning author William Faulkner died in Oxford, Miss., early today, a spokesman for the University of Virginia said.

Faulkner, 64, had left the university some weeks ago for his home in Oxford.

Faulkner had spent much of his recent years at the Univer-sity of Virginia, where he was lecturer in American literature.

He won the Nobel Literary prize in 1950.

Details of the death were unavailable but, sources here indicated it was of natural causes.

Thant Talks With Lord Home

LONDON (Reuters) — U Thant, acting United Nations secretary-general, held wide-ranging talks today with Foreign Secretary Lord Home.

They were on a short official visit, Thursday night had discussions with Prime Minister Macmillan.

The talks were understood to cover many questions as UN finances, the Congo problem and the staffing of the world body's secretariat.

Council Hears Protest On Condition of Streets

TRENTON — The walls of Trenton's council chamber were lined with taxpayers on last night's meeting of council.

There to protest conditions on their streets were a number of Cedar and Baptiste Rd. residents who spokesman told council that the weed growth on these streets was abundant; that shacks stood beside and behind homes; that when parts of the streets weren't full of water, they were full of broken glass and that although they had complained to various town officials, no action to clean up the streets had been taken.

Mayor A. MacDonald, who owns a lot on Cedar Street himself, agreed with everything the complainants had to say. He said that he, too, had failed to get action from town officials.

Council will ask the town officials to reconsider the situation. Railway companies will be asked to clean up their property, adjacent to the streets and town-owned property will be asked to do same. In the meantime, the town solicitor will see that action will be taken to make residents clean up their property.

Reg. Jones, president of the Trenton Ratepayers' Association, obtained a petition from council that two councillors would be appointed to the association's meetings. Council will also take some action to see that there is not a by-law, which forbids car repair on town streets, by which the police and the public works' committees will investigate. A by-law to improve a Bay Street lot, claimed by its owner to have been ruled out by a 1961 by-law, will be asked to take action on this.

SAYS DOG EXISTS

One Baptiste Street resident told council that a "dog" existed in the area. He said that that his car had sunk into the long this spring when frost went out of the ground. Another resident spoke up and said that two years ago, a small child had been "pulled out" of the "dog." The owner of the land on which the bog exists, will be asked to take action on same.

John Saylor appeared before the board to ask that he be allowed to buy a small triangle of land, adjacent to the property of Mr. Stanley Drive. Mr. Saylor said that he had looked after this piece of land for years, without actually owning it. Originally, the land was reserved by the town for possible use as an access to the Bay Bridge, but it now has to be little or no possibility that the land will be needed for this. The public works committee will consider the sale.

Council passed a rule on policy of accepting out-of-town residents as tenants for the Quinte Citizens' Queen View Manor, deferred any decision, pending report on changes in rents available by next council meeting. Three single spaces in the new parking lot on Dundas St. but there is a possibility that these may be rented by town residents in the near future. Council felt that many of the town citizens who weren't aware of the low rental and the facilities available should be told. Fancy. It was felt that town residents should be considered first, and then, if all requirements failed, to rent, out-of-town residents could be taken.

Councillor Lloyd Warner, chairman of the Industrial and Economic Development Committee, told council that the committee would meet with John Weir, a Toronto lawyer, tomorrow night for a final presentation in connection with

Trenton Lions Entertain Outside Clubs

TRENTON — Wednesday, Trenton Lions played host to Belleville Lions at the Trenton Country Club. Lions from both centres, plus a sprinkling of Rivenia club members, spent the afternoon at golf, then enjoyed a dinner in the lounge, hosted by Trenton Lions' president, Stan Linton.

First low gross went to Kenneth Hayward Aziz; second low gross to F. J. "Pete" Aziz, a Lion; first low net, Joe Burton of Belleville; second low net, Frank Ryland of Trenton; third low net, Ralph Weavey of Trenton; fourth low net, Dr. G. W. Nelles, Trenton; low hidden hole, Al Parkhurst, Belleville; high hidden hole, John Sturks, Belleville; first honest golfer, Eric Devaney, Trenton; second honest golfer, Leo president Stan Linton.

Next week, Trenton golfers will entertain club members from Picton.

Anyone For Pigeon Pie?

TRENTON—Councillor Ross Scott reported at council meeting last night that "people were getting up on the roof of the market building at night, on ladders, and getting pigeons."

The councillor asked that barricades, made to forestall such action, be repaired.

Councillor Burtt also asked for some sort of action to prevent motorcyclists from zinging fire department trucks on their way to fires. In a number of instances, the trucks have been delayed by cars, attempting to "beat" them to the fire.

Town solicitor Roderick Campbell told council that the Ontario highways act, contains a clause making it an offence to drive within 100 feet of fire trucks, and that town police are authorized to enforce the Ontario law.

In his dog catcher's report for June, Councillor Burtt reported that 13 dogs had been destroyed; two sold and two returned to their rightful owners.

In June, the councillor reported, the Trenton fire department answered 24 calls, five of these being in Murray Township. No major fires were reported and the costliest "misuse" fire, in which property damage was set at $1000.

On Advisory Body

TRENTON — E. C. Alderson, P.Eng., Town Engineer at Trenton, has been appointed a member of the City Engineers' Association's permanent advisory committee to the Ontario Minister of Highways, the Hon. W. A. Goodfellow. The committee consists of C. E. A. members and members of the Ontario Department of Highways who meet monthly to discuss and recommend improvements to urban-municipal roads.

Murray Twp. Sets Tax Rate

TRENTON — Murray township council met yesterday to set up tax rate structure for the coming year. Tax bills will be sent out around Oct. 1st and the annual payment will be due around Dec. 1.

Residential and farm rates were set at 8.7 mills; township commercial at 14.4 mills; county rate at 10.3 mills, (the township contributes towards county—costs for Northumberland and Durham) and the high school levy will be on a 9.3 mill level and the high school debenture levy, will be based on a 9.4 mill reckoning.

Council voted to take out membership in the Lake Ontario Development Association as it was felt that the association could do a great deal towards publicizing the township's available undeveloped land along the Trent, (among other things). This land could be used for cottage building, and the ads would benefit the township twice, through the purchase price and subsequent tax payments.

The township road superviser will be asked to clear a road into other township owned land which fronts on the Trent River at Glen Ross.

Present at the meeting were Reeve Douglas McIntosh; deputy reeve Fred Brown, township clerk Angus Gunter, building at night, on ladders, and getting pigeons."

Says Front St. Turned Into Car Race Track

TRENTON — A Front Street resident, Edgar Mould, has appealed to the town to "do something about" a situation existing on his street.

Mr. Mould says that every night, Front Street residents are subjected to a display of reckless driving," by younger drivers, according to the complainant, tear down the street, side by side, at speeds in excess of 60 mph.

"Do something before it's too late," pleads Mr. Mould in his letter to council.

Councillor C. V. Green will bring the matter up before the traffic committee.

"Perhaps they are doing the best they can with one speed trap, but the complaints I have received are the speed trap set up and move to the other side of the river."

Haloes Jarred Loose

If it were not tragic, the Saskatchewan medical care impasse would be productive of many a chuckle.

There are those people who argue that, regardless of the merits of the case, the doctors had no moral right to strike. Most of these people are precisely the same ones who defend the right of labor unions to strike, no matter what inconvenience these strikes may cause the general public.

Then there are other people who see the doctors as the gallant defenders of the traditions of a noble profession and as champions of freedom against the threats of tyranny. Most of these people are precisely the same ones who hold up their hands in horror whenever policemen or firemen or garbage-collectors or even brewery workers consider resort to the strike weapon.

Only one thing is certain—no matter who wins, both sides will have lost their haloes. The CCF Government is acting just like any embattled employer when he considers his employees' demands are unreasonable. The doctors are acting just like any group of union members when they consider that they have a legitimate grievance. The CCF Government is going to have a difficult job convincing the majority that it is known the secret of achieving concord and is the champion of collective bargaining while doctors are going to have just as difficult a job convincing the majority that they are concerned only with the welfare of mankind and have no interest in anything as sordid as mere money.

For, in the final analysis, that is what the fight is all about. The doctors' fear about the damage the compulsory medical care insurance will do to the doctor-patient relationship just will not do. The doctors, by their strike, have done more damage in a few days to the doctor-patient relationship than any compulsory insurance plan could do in a decade. The present plan sets fees at 85 per cent of those approved by the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons. Since the doctors would receive pay for all their work, and not for only those services provided persons financially able to pay, this is fair enough. But what the doctors fear is that, when the Government becomes, in effect, their only employer, they will find it extremely difficult to increase fees, if and when the steady rise in the costs of other services and of goods makes this desirable or necessary. They are also afraid that they may become subject to regulation in the manner in which they discharge their duties. The doctors are fighting for the right to practise medicine as they themselves see fit and to charge whatever fees they like. The politicians are fighting for the right to practise politics as they see fit, to promise whatever services they like and to provide these services under whatever terms they think fit.

Dead Men Tell Tales

John Brown was a shiftless good-for-nothing in the opinion of some of his contemporaries. He was slightly insane in the opinion of history. After establishing himself as a renegade and outlaw, if an altruistic one, in Kansas, he set out for bigger game.

With 22 men he attacked and captured the federal armory at Harper's Ferry, Virginia. Col. Robert E. Lee brought a troop of soldiers from Washington and recaptured the armories.

John Brown was hanged by the federal government, in Richmond, Va., for declaring war on the United States. During the civil war which followed his death, the federal battle song was "John Brown's body lies a-mouldering in the grave, but his soul goes marching on."

Adolph Eichmann was a colonel in the German SS corps. He was hanged recently for his part in the execution of millions of Jews during the Second World War. Within the past week a Jewish girl was captured by unidentified persons in Buenos Aires and tortured. The attackers carved a swastika on her breast. In another incident Buenos Aires police decided a Jewish boy who had swastikas carved on his face had not been attacked. The Jewish business quarter in Buenos Aires is closed now, and anti-Semitism runs high in the city.

John Brown, alive, was a petty rebel who would have been forgotten in jail. Dead, his name became a war cry.

Eichmann would have been forgotten by his supporters had he been imprisoned, or given freedom within Israel. Let us hope his name can never become the symbol of a powerful movement.

I believe in violence and I like all types of wars, even an atomic war that would destroy everything. If that happened, we would all be turned into angels.—Artist Salvador Dali.

Cambodian Fairy Tale

Once upon a time there was a wise hermit who lived in the jungle. Through boldness, he had acquired the magic power of bringing the dead back to life. One day he saw a tiger killed by a poisoned snake and whose nest he had unwisely decided to take a nap.

The wise man felt sorry for the poor tiger and by his magic powers he brought him back to life. But the tiger was so wicked and so ungrateful that he accused the hermit of disturbing his sleep and announced his intention of eating him at once to avenge him for his insolence.

The wise man was naturally very upset, and he begged the tiger to find a judge who could settle the matter properly. The tiger accepted the suggestion quite readily, for he was sure that in the jungle where he was the supreme ruler, no one would dare to take the part of the wise man.

The first animal they met was the wolf. When he saw the hermit and the tiger approaching, the cruel wolf thought to himself: "We must find a way of getting rid of this trouble-some wise man who is begging to court our wild favor." And he then believe that strength and numbers are the only most important things in the jungle." When he heard that he was to be judge, he was delighted and immediately condemned the hermit to be eaten.

But the hermit, who had guessed the wolf's mean intentions, refused to accept this judgment and suggested that a fox who he thought was good-natured should be consulted since he ate nothing but grass. When the fox met his judge, however, he was panic-stricken and since he could not run away, he did his best to appear as if he was a mean. When he heard that he was to judge, he felt very, very sorry for the hermit, but he was so frightened of the tiger that he, too, condemned the man to be eaten.

Again the wise man rejected the judgment, since he realized that the fox was a coward. He suggested that they appoint the wolf to judge the case, for he regarded him as an honest and impartial bird. He knew that the wolf was fed only on animals which were already dead, and he, moreover, he had nothing to fear from the tiger. But when the vulture saw the two approaching, he immediately began to think of a way of killing the wise man so that he could get what remained of him when the tiger had finished his meal. He highly suspected that the wise man should be a sage.

The hermit refused this verdict, too, saying it was selfish, and he appealed to the monkey who he assumed was good-hearted, honest and disinterested, because he ate nothing but fruit, never harmed anybody and spent his time playing.

But when the monkey saw the hermit, he flew into a violent rage because his father had once begged for a free a man from a trap and had been smashed on the head as a result. Deciding to avenge his father, the monkey also condemned the hermit to death.

The wise man was beginning to despair and he decided to call upon Tevada, the god of the forest. But Tevada, whose job it was to keep peace among the animals of the jungle, had himself been killed by one of the most troublesome of all the animals in the forest, a wise man who made life difficult by their hunting parties, their woodcutting and the fires they started. In Tevada's opinion, the best way of getting rid of these evils was to keep men out of be, too, condemned the wise man to be eaten by the tiger.

Discouraged by so much prejudice and ill-will, the wise man asked the tiger for one last chance — to be judged by the first animal they met, instead of being very fair and just. The tiger, who was still hungry, and guessed the wolf's mean intentions, refused to accept this judgment and suggested that a fox or who he thought was good-natured should be consulted since he ate nothing but grass. When the wise man met the fox, however, he was panic-stricken and since he could not run away, he did his best to appear as if he was a mean. When he heard that he was to judge, he felt very, very sorry for the hermit, but he was so frightened of the tiger that he, too, condemned the man to be eaten.

Too Gullible About Diets

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

Diets, like operations, are an endless source of concern to the public. Unfortunately, the frequently are based on non-professional advice, sought after from desire rather than necessity, and neglected quickly for the least passing whim.

Lest there be misunderstanding, we hasten to affirm our conviction that diet do have a place of importance among therapeutic agents. Prescribed and directed by competent medical and dietary authority, this device is one which offers benefits to the serious user.

But, and this is an unfortunate feature of it all, they also provide a profitable channel for the exploiter of human idiosyncrasies, and they may become a factor in impaired health when they are pursued as a cult or fad.

Existing legislation concerning advertising permits the presentation of any product on any "get slim" theory that happens to occur to him. Like the pusher of patent medicines, diet promoters may make any claims they like. Even if false representations do not appear on the product itself, there is no apparent violation.

Recently, for instance, a Canadian newspaper carried a full page advertisement of a volume in which the author claimed to present a scheme whereby one could eat fat and grow slim. Such a proposal, as was intended, would have a ready appeal for the many individuals burdened with excess avoirdupois.

Nutritionists, however, blasted the theory elaborated by the author and presented evidence alleged to reveal the falsity of the claims. The same book, it is noted, was confiscated in the United States by the Food and Drug Administration.

Not being nutritionists, dietitians or medical authorities, we do not pretend to be able to measure the usefulness or uselessness of any dietary theory or program.

But we do believe that a gullible public has been too often subjected to those who would victimize it in this regard. In our opinion, the only diet acceptable and beneficial to any individual is that which is based upon the advice and guidance of a competent authority.

Anything else may be productive of harm.

The Lord's Day Act, forbidding all but essential commerce and work on Sunday, was passed by the House of Common 56 years ago today—in 1906—after a bitter debate in which some of the strongest opposition came from French Canada. It was a blow to provincial enforcement, however, as it has never been widely amended in many parts of the country.

1885 — French chemist Louis Pasteur performed his first human inoculations on a human — a child bitten by a rabid dog.

1944 — Parliament assumed leadership of the Indian Congress party.

Specialty Shops Thrive

Windsor Star

One advantage of big cities is that they usually have a host of specialty shops. These are stores, usually little ones, which concentrate on the sale or service of the one commodity.

A city, indeed, need not be large to make such a shop a profitable one, depending on the character of the community. Victoria is an example. It is said there are more people of British birth there, proportionately, than in any part of Canada.

The native-born British are tremendous tea drinkers, not only that, they are connoisseurs of tea. They know one kind from another and the better the greater. So there is a little shop there with high-priced package, and quite expensive.

And in Vancouver there is a store, on the main street, with a window full of various types of pickles or curried meats, ham, bacon, beef, etc. It also caters to the palates of gourmets.

One of the advantages of the influx of immigrants in the postwar years, of course, is that they have brought with them their liking for, and abilities to make, French and Italian types of bread; Danish pastries, etc.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

July 6th, 1942.

Although the intricate machinery in the control tower over the bay broke when the lightning arrestors broke windows and electric light bulbs in the tower, over the weekend the first indication that trouble had occurred was when a large quantity of glass was found strewn about the floor of the control room early in the morning. Had the intricate controls been tampered with, navigation through the Bay of Quinte might have been disrupted and brought to a halt.

Yesterday, Trooper Ward saw considerable excitement when five small pigs, the property of Maurice Hinchey, escaped from the pen, and led residents a merry chase. All but one fact only four had been recovered at sundown. Mr. Callaghan was the owner of the lost pig raising, had the five shoats penned in a shed at the foot of George Street and while admiring his small porkers, the alert little fellows effected escape.

Mrs. L. Geigier, Mrs. W. Kennedy, Mrs. G. Cherry and Mrs. A. Buck spent Wednesday in Thomas' attending Green Lodge of the L.O.B.A. which is being held this week in the Royal York Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Hall of Emily Street received a cablegram from their son, James Hall of the R.N., that he had landed safely in Scotland.

There Are No Foods That Will Counteract Calcium

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What foods will counteract an overamount of calcium and cholesterol in the body?—Mrs. F."

"There aren't any foods to 'counteract' calcium. If, at times, reduction of calcium is necessary, then it is simply a matter of avoiding, or cutting down, the foods which contain a lot of it.

But this isn't often necessary; for more frequently the exact opposite is needed.

Indeed, some people wrongly assume that calcium is a nasty substance that is to be avoided. This is not so.

The idea, no doubt, arises because sometimes there are "calcium deposits" in one part of the body or another. "Spots" on the lungs are calcified areas. Greasy joints often have calcium deposits. Painful feet are another example — "spurs" of calcium may form on the heel or elsewhere, and hurt.

But none of this occurs because the patient has, or is eating too much calcium.

Calcium is a vital ingredient in healing a wound or injury. If you cut yourself, a clotting agent goes to form the scar tissue. This agent is calcium. A wood alcohol industry is likely to be located here with works on the bay shore near the Marsh and Hanbury plant. The proposed company has put up a deposit of $150 for the expense incurred in submitting a by-law to the ratepayers to approve or reject the proposal. The city proposes to give the land and make a fixed assessment for a term of years.

Mr. Stewart Masson, K.C., solicitor-general, will leave on July 10th, to spend some time in the Old Country and on the continent.

Mrs. Peter McGregor, of Toronto, is visiting for the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. G. Henry Graham of Alexander Street.

Latent Talents Come to Light In Prison

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Among the many periodicals I read every month are several prison magazines — and some of the most honest and thoughtful writings appear in these journals.

It may be true that prison tends to degrade and brutalize the average inmate; but it is equally true that many men in prison have developed unsuspected gifts of talents and insights they had hardly suspected before.

John Bunyan, an unschooled tinker, wrote his immortal "Pilgrim's Progress" while in jail. Oscar Wilde's most mature work was composed in Reading Gaol. The best of Paul Verlaine's lyrics, and the deepest of Dostoyevski's psychological probings were written in the world from prison.

America's most prolific short story writer, O. Henry, wrote almost all his stories while doing a five year term for forgery. Thomas More and Leight Hunt lifted with his genius to new heights from their cells. Even King James I of Scotland wrote the best poems of his age in prison.

Not all these men, of course, were criminals in the ordinary sense of the word. Many were political prisoners, as is Tom Socrates and Gandhi; others, like Marco Polo, Boethius, Galileo and Defoe, had violated the creeds and customs of their times.

Yet, regardless of the charge, prison seems to have a strange knack of bringing out the desire for self-examination and self-expression in many men. While jail tends to bestialize some, it has exactly the opposite effect upon others — as Balzac wrote in a letter to a friend from his Paris cell, "Some of our worst elements are to be found in prison — and some of the potentially best, as well. The qualities that go into the making of a talented criminal are the very qualities that would make a successful lawyer, in the arts and professions: independence, resourcefulness, and a craving for creative non-conformity. . . .

Once society learns how to harness these abilities in constructive instead of anti-social work, only half the battle against crime will occupy our penal-ists; and the prisons themselves will become places of reform and rehabilitation, not antiquated modes of punishment, as they are today.

An intelligent and talented man in jail is as much an indictment of society's neglect as it is of the individual's wrongdoings. When Brahms remarked that Beethoven might have been a great criminal had he not discovered his ability to compose music, he shrewdly anticipated the truth of modern psychology that the criminal is often an artist without portfolio.

South African Bill Fierce

Montreal Gazette

The International Commission of Jurists has described the South African "Sabotage Bill" as the "culmination of a determined and ruthless attempt to enforce the doctrine of apartheid," and has said it would create civil liberties to a degree not surpassed by the most extreme dictatorship of the Left or the Right."

The "Sabotage Bill," which is the immediate cause of the protest, can only be described in terms.

It can apply to any action which the government chooses to describe as opposed to law and order, such as a strike for higher wages, or the display of anti-government slogans on walls, or demonstrations against the government. In fact, the term "sabotage" must be considered to mean any opposition that the government does not like.

The penalties prescribed range from five years' imprisonment to flogging, and apply even to juveniles. The Bill also considers a person to be guilty until he has proved himself innocent.

This is indeed a massive attack on the liberties of the individual and on the Rule of Law, a move to the totalitarian and virtually absolute powers that are ordinarily available from only those enjoyed by Communist governments.

The South African "Sabotage Bill" is a repudiation of the democratic tradition which is the heart of the Western world. It is not surprising that it should be bought forward for South Africa has long been moving in the direction of arbitrary government. But even if the action is not surprising, it is startling, because it has been put under such sustained attack.

THE PACKSACK
By GREGORY CLARK

A doctor friend of mine and I were on our way to a dinner tache. Suddenly he suddenly took my elbow and drew me to a halt over by the kerb on the other downtown street.

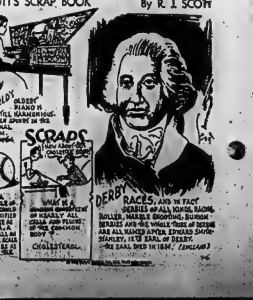
"Take a look at that," he said, quietly, "and tell me what you see."

I looked where he pointed.

It was a new and very fashionable gentleman. The display in the window consisted of trays of gorgeous cakes, large and small, delicious looking, melting to the eye. But we could take only glimpses of them because of the people standing before the window at once.

"Notice anything funny?" asked the doctor.

I tried to do so.



"Except for one fat man," said the doctor, "they were all staring in that window are ladies. And they are all fat!"

He was right. There wasn't a slim one in the site. They were all solid, fleshed, of beam.

"In all but very few exceptions," said the doctor, "fat people are making a public confession, by their shape, of the have-nots. They have been guilty of, over the years."

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were reported unchanged today.

The egg market was barely steady with offerings adequate for a poor demand.

Country sales as quoted by the federal department of agriculture on Canada grade eggs, delivered Toronto, in fibre cases: A large 32; A medium 28; A small 19-20; B and C grades no market.

Butter prices Canada first grade: Ontario tenderable 51-52; non-tenderable 49½, in light trading: western 50½ (nominal).

BIG SWAMP

Okefenokee Swamp, part of a U.S. wildlife refuge on the Florida - Georgia boundary, itself covers some 800 square miles.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Trading was extremely active with all classes and grades of cattle selling at higher prices and closing strong except medium and good cows at the Ontario Public Stockyards this week.

Good and choice vealers were scarce with lower grades selling at steady prices. Hog prices were strong to higher and lamb trade was slightly higher.

Cattle receipts were estimated at about 5,700 head, about 1,100 fewer than last week and about 1,100 fewer than the same week in 1961. Receipts from Western Canada numbered 271 head compared with 87 last week.

Slaughter cattle: Choice steers 26.50-27.50 with sales to 28 and several loads of fancy feeder steers up to 28.50; good 25-26; choice heifers 25-26.50; good heifers 23-24 with choice 24.25-25.25; medium 20.50-22.50; common 18-20; choice fed yearlings 23-27 with odd top to 28; good 22-23; choice cows 18-19 with sales to 19.50; medium 16.50-17.50; commons 15-16.50; canners and cutters 13-15; good heavy bologna bulls 20-20.50; common and medium 18-19.50.

Replacement cattle: Good Ontario stockers 24-27 with stock calves 30-32; common and medium stockers 22-23.

Calves: Choice vealers opened at 30-32 with odd tops to 33 and closed at 29-31 with sales to 32; good 26-28; medium 23-25; common 19-22; boners 15-18.

Hogs: Grade A 31.25-32.75; heavy sows 22.50-22.90; light sows gaining a $2 premium; stags 17.50 on a dressed weight basis.

Sheep and lambs: Good spring lambs mostly 20 a hundredweight with odd tops to 20; good light sheep 9-12; common sheep 3-6.

KENNEDY HOPES

Europe still would allow the U.S. to maintain its nuclear monopoly and to continue to be responsible for Europe's security against a Soviet nuclear threat.

The present nuclear arrangement seemed to be satisfactory as far as the U.S. is concerned, "but if Europe does not agree with that and she may not particularly as she develops this additional union, then we would be prepared to discuss an alternate arrangement," he said.

'Secret' Visit By Princess Leaks Out

LONDON (CP) — Princess Anne's "secret" visit to France shows just how difficult it is to escape the fierce white light that beats about the Royal Family.

Elaborate precautions were taken to keep reporters off the scent. But the press soon winkled out the secret. Buckingham Palace said Wednesday:

"Quite frankly, we wanted to keep the whole thing as quiet as possible. A royal spokesman said, "We didn't want droves of newspapers men banging around. But we were never under any illusions."

The petite 13-year-old princess, who will be 13 in August, left London's Waterloo Station Wednesday night with a small party. Alongside other passengers just like any ordinary holidaymaker, she boarded the channel ferry Falaise at Southampton, and arrived early Thursday at St. Malo, the "city of the corsairs" from which explorer Jacques Cartier set sail for Canada in 1534.

Although the visit to France was described as "educational," it is hoped that the princess will "have fun" as well. Her brother, Prince Charles, accompanied his father to Germany earlier this year and enjoyed himself immensely.

Speculation that the visit is a prelude to Anne going to school in France is probably premature.

Shaggy Look for Boys Entering School Next Term Definitely Out Say Experts

By PATRICIA RUSAK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

For teen-agers who want to be in style when school resumes next fall, here's the word from New York and Toronto on what will be shown in Canadian stores:

For girls—either the cowgirl (Western) look or the boy look or the more feminine ballet look.

For boys—the slim look with conservative colors and strong accents on neatness. The shaggy look is definitely passé.

For the boy look, a black and white wool herringbone tweed and white shirt with a maroon paisley weskit will do the trick. Black flannel blazers with brass buttons and paisley lining or the tweed Norfolk jacket with plaid skirt and weskit sets will also be popular for girls who want to look boyish.

The belly look, of course, is achieved with a wide belt on your skirt and blouse or sweater combination.

Smart ensembles with belts are grey flannel pleated skirts with striped blouses, red ladies with navy blue or pleated skirts or solid-colored circular skirts with matching sweaters.

Cotton tartan dresses are also smart with wide belts, especially for early fall.

For young men, striped or checked trousers worn with button-down collars and tapered fronts will be in vogue. Poncho shirts are also still in fashion.

The well-dressed young man will be in sports blazer, double or single breasted and usually black, with black and white checked trousers.

Practically all trousers for fall are slim and bellless with narrow legs and no cuffs. For outerwear they should be worn with plain-colored dark socks.

Norfolk jackets with belts across the back are making a comeback in dark tweeds, but the two-button continental jackets will remain most popular.

Sweaters for girls will include wool tweed pullovers, printed horseshoe - necked and turtle-necked jerseys, lacy mohair and wool plaid cardigans and pullovers.

Zipper-front sweaters will be popular for both boys and girls, and there are also hooded ponchos for casual wear. Skiing has influenced sweater styles, many bulky-knits having Scandinavian designs.

Almost anything goes for a young lady on a date. For casual dating quilted skirts are featured along with dresses or paisley print wools and brushed mohair. For parties, dresses are of lace-trimmed rayon velvet and silk organdy, and for formal occasions gowns of acetate satins, matelasse brocade, peau de soie and ottoman silk.

24 New Members Initiated at ANAF Night

Approximately seventy-five members were in attendance at the A.N.A.F. Memorial Hall on Thursday evening for the semi-annual initiation ceremony which saw twenty-four new members called to pledge their allegiance to Queen and Country.

The new members were paraded to the hall, led by Bugler Leader Gary Christopher, with Pipe Major Dave McLauchlan, Piper Mike Evans and Drum Major Al Burns providing the marching selections.

President Cec Brown called the meeting to order and in welcoming the new members he reminded them of the significance of the Cross, while Vice-president Stan Melbourne and remembership chairman Fred Drew drew attention to the symbolic flag and wreath, for which all veterans ought so hard to preserve. The very impressive ceremony was terminated in climax as each new member knelt on the dais and received his beret and lapel button.

were injured in a food riot in the suburb of Niterol.

The transportation crippling strike set the stage for the visit tomorrow in Duque de Caxias.

Thousands of workers unable to reach work milled about in the centre of town and storekeepers fearing violence shuttered their shops.

Angered, the workers marched on one store shouting "we want food." A guard drew a pistol and fired two shots, hitting a child, a witness reported. The mob became enraged, beat the guard to death, stripped the body and looted it.

Then the mob moved on down the main street where looting and arson. Some rioters fired pistols, the witness said. Police and government troops fought the mob for several hours as shop after shop was sacked.

BIG CLOSED TIGHT

The general strike virtually shut down Rio. No planes, buses, trains or ferries moved. Most industries, banks, offices and shops were shut tight.

The strike was less effective in other cities. The stoppage originally had been called to protest the naming of Conservative Senator Auro de Moura Andrade as prime minister instead of a member of Goulart's Brazilian Labor party.

After only 36 hours in office, Andrade quit on the eve of the strike in a dispute with Goulart over selection of navy and air force ministers for the new cabinet. Despite the resignation, the union leaders went ahead with the strike to try to force parliament into naming a member of Goulart's Labor party to the prime minister's job.

But the Labor party is in the minority in parliament, and the two biggest conservative parties are insisting the next prime minister come from their ranks.

Picton News

Prompt Action By Brigade Saves Home

PICTON—Prompt action by neighbors who formed a bucket brigade saved the home of Henry Laird from destruction by fire last night. About six o'clock, fire was noticed in the roof above the kitchen. Neighbors were quickly on the scene and using buckets of water got the outbreak under control. Fire departments from Bloomfield and Camp Picton also rushed to the scene and helped make sure the fire was extinguished. Damage was confined largely to a hole in the roof of the house which is one mile east of Picton, opposite the Golf Club. The fire is believed to have started from sparks from the kitchen chimney.

D.V.B.S. Held At Churches

PICTON — Protestant churches in Picton are sponsoring a Daily Vacation Bible School for children. Pre-grade I are meeting at the Baptist Church, grades 1-6 at the United Church. Miss Doreen Davis of McMaster University, is supervising both schools. The classes continue until July 13.

Bill Rabbie Honored by Community

PICTON — Relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rabbie, Bloomfield, this week to honor their son, Bill, who is leaving July 12 to spend three years in England with the Department of External Affairs, Ottawa.

Mr. Rabbie served five years with the R.C.N. and 18 months on the Distant Early Warning Line.

On behalf of the gathering Gordon Fox extended good wishes, while a watch was presented by Bert Singer.

P.E. Road Paving Making Progress

PICTON — Good progress is being made in the paving program in Prince Edward County. The section of Highway 14 from Picton to Crofton has been completed under a provincial highway contract by the McFarland Co. The same firm is now engaged in a contract ten miles of paving in Picton and district at a cost of $56,000.

WEDDING

JONES — WAY

MARMORA — The Rev. T. V. Hart officiated at the wedding in St. Peter's United Church, Peterborough, on Saturday, June 30th, when Jean Marlene Way, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Way, was united in marriage to Eric Douglas Jones, Brockville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Jones of Marmora township.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of faille taffeta, featuring a full skirt with front panel and having a separate back panel, caught at the waist with a bouffant bow and falling into a short train. The fitted bodice was accented by three-quarter sleeves and neckline embroidered with seed pearls. Her waist-length veil of silk tulle was held in place by a small pillbox of matching taffeta and lace. She carried a bouquet of white roses and white sweet peas interspersed with fern.

The maid of honour was Miss Joyce Jeffery, cousin of the bride, and the bridesmaids were Miss Joyce Campion of Marmora, and Mrs. Ralph McKee, Trenton, cousins of the bridegroom. Their dresses of fern green nylon sheer over faille taffeta featured full skirts, short sleeves and plunging back necklines, with self bows to the waistline. Matching headpieces of matching tulle were adorned with bows. They wore white gloves and shoes and carried bouquets of brilliant yellow mums with fern.

Miss Karen Way, niece of the bride, was the flower girl, gowned in a frock of brilliant yellow nylon, featuring a short, full skirt. She wore a flowered headdress, white shoes and gloves, and carried a basket of multi-colored sweet peas.

Douglas Stewart of Smiths Falls, cousin of the bride, attended the bridegroom, while Robert Way, brother of the bride and Gerald McVeigh of Brockville, were ushers.

The wedding music was played by the church organist, Mr. Charles Allan, and the soloist, Mrs. James Goldie, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Benedictus".

For the wedding trip to Cape Cod, Mass., the bride wore a box suit of imported white linen with black accessories and a corsage of red Sweetheart roses.

The reception was held at Thelger Lodge, Young's Pt., where guests were present from Toronto, Kingston, Stirling, Brockville, Marmora and Smiths Falls. The mother of the bride received the guests wearing a street-length dress of cloud blue organza over blue printed taffeta with matching waist-length jacket, flowered hat, white accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother chose a sheath dress with short-sleeved jacket in champagne beige, matching flowered hat, copper tan accessories, and a corsage of yellow Sweetheart roses.

Upon their return the couple will reside at 48 Hubbell St., Brockville.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerry G. Harrington are shown on the church lawn following their recent marriage in Frankford United Church. The bride is the former Miss Marilyn Frances Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phillips, of R.R. No. 2, Frankford. HARRINGTON — PHILLIPS

FRANKFORD — A double-ring wedding ceremony was performed at High Noon, Saturday, June 23rd in Frankford United Church when the Rev. Charles Judd united in marriage Marilyn Frances Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phillips, of R.R. No. 2, Belleville, Ontario, and Mr. Gerry Gohen Harrington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Harrington, of R.R. No. 2, Frankford, Ontario.

The church was decorated with pink gladioli and white daisies. White satin bows marked the guest pews.

The home decorations were cut flowers of peonies and mums and pink and white streamers.

The traditional wedding music was played by Miss Eleanor Beach, of Frankford, Ontario, and the soloist was Miss Rosalyn Robertson of Belleville, Ontario, who sang, "The Wedding Prayer" during the wedding ceremony and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length wedding gown of imported organza, with bouffant skirt and, touched off with appliques of lace and sequins bon the bodice basque. The bouffon bodice was self-accepted neckline, also accented with lace and sequins, short sleeves, long lily-point sleeves; finger tip tulle veil with scalloped edges, held by a head piece of norganza petals. She carried a white Bible accented with pink Sweetheart roses and white streamers knotted with pink rosebuds.

The maid of honour was Miss Donna English, of Belleville and the bridesmaids, Mrs. Donald Wannamaker of Downsview, Ontario, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Helen Hart of Belleville. They were gowned alike in yellow nylon organza over taffeta with short cape sleeves, scoop necklines in front and back, tight fitting bodice with band to create empire waistline. The full skirt was gathered at the waistline, accented by front panelling of tiered organza. They wore white gloves and shoes and headpieces of yellow veiling accented by norganza flowers and carried nosegays of white and mauve mums centred with white roses.

Miss Debbie Harrington, niece of the bridegroom was flower girl. She wore a white sleeveless flocked nylon dress with yellow chiffon cummerbund, matching hat, and carried a basket of yellow and white 'mums.

Master Dana Wannamaker, nephew of the bridegroom acted as ring-bearer and carried the rings on a white satin pillow.

The groomsman was Mr. Donald Wannamaker, Downsview, Ontario and the ushers, Mr. Fred Phillips, R.R. 2, Belleville, brother of the bride and Mr. Wayne Harrington, of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom.

The reception with 110 guests was held in Rose Lowery Hall.

The bride's table was covered with a white linen cloth centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, topped with doves holding the rings. The bridal bouquets added a pretty setting.

The bride's mother receive-ed in a white lace dress over beige taffeta with beige and orange lace accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

The bridegroom's mother assisted in an orchid organza dress over flowered taffeta with matching orchid organza three-quarter length coat and orchid hat; white accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

For their wedding trip around Lake Ontario, going by Kingston and returning via Niagara Falls, Ontario, the bride chose a navy suit trimmed with white, with white accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

Guests were present from Trenton, Harrowsmith, Toronto, Downsview, Scarborough, Brighton, Belleville, Campbellford and Frankford.

They will reside at 25 Secluded Drive, Apt. 108, Downsview, Ont.

Previous to her marriage the bride was honoured at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Bill Gardner with the office staff of the Belleville General Hospital present, at which the bride was an employee, a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Elwin Hart with Miss Helen Hart as co-hostess, at a presentation given by the accounting staff of the hospital, and at two community showers honoring the bride and bridegroom, and also at a presentation given by the charivari gang.

Honor Couple On 40th Anniversary

RAWDON — On July 1st Mr. Robert H. Hoard and Mrs. James Hoard of Mount Pleasant-Rawdon entertained 35 guests in the former's recreation room in honor of the 40th wedding anniversary of their aunt and uncle Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ketcheson of Bethel-Zion.

The guests were in attendance from Trenton, Halloway, Picton and Stirling, and included an elderly aunt Mrs. Nellie an Reid of Halloway. Mrs. Hoard's guests served a salad supper luncheon to the guests.

It was quite a surprise to the honored couple as they had been invited to a birthday party. However they were delighted to have a visit with their relatives, several of whom were at the wedding in 1922.

Mrs. Ketcheson (the former Molly Park) is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Park and Mr. Ketcheson is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Ketcheson of Phillipston.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips are salesmen at the home of her mother, on Bridge Street, Stirling. The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Ross Hoard. They have resided almost continuously in the Bethel-Zion community.

The honored couple were the recipients of several lovely gifts and messages of congratulation on this happy occasion.

The party also featured three birthday anniversaries, Miss Linda Hoard, Mrs. James Hoard and Robert Hoard.

Pitman Music Pupils Pass Examinations

The following pupils of Grace Pitman, ATCL, Stirling, Ontario, were successful in the 1962 examinations held by the Royal Conservatory of Music at Albert College, Belleville:

Grade V Piano—Helene Labertha Oosting, honors.

Grade II Piano—Douglas Earl Faulkner, first class honors.

Grade II Theory — Rosalyn Rodgers, first class honors; Barbara Ann Vardy, first class honors; John Svoboda, first class honors; Edward Svoboda, first class honors; Jeannie Klompmaker, honors; Linda May Finkle, honors; Larry Seeley, honors; Betty Irene Sine, pass.

Women's S.G. Elects 1962-3 Officers

The Women's Study Guild held its final meeting for the 1961-62 season in the form of a pot-luck supper at the home of Mrs. A. R. Orr. The 1962-63 percentage of the members enjoyed the varied and delicious fare, and a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Mrs. Orr for her hospitality.

During the business period, a motion carried meeting the annual fee. Reports were given on the year's work by the following: Study Group, Mrs. J. C. Murdoch; Worship Mrs. A. Wells; programs, Mrs. H. G. Wyllie; Mrs. Ross George Meades, Jr., lookout, Mrs. A. Wells.

The president, Mrs. M. M. Beresford, thanked everyone for the wonderful co-operation which had resulted in such a successful season.

1962 OFFICERS

The nominating committee presented a slate of nominees, from whom the following were elected by ballot: President — Mrs. N. I. Medcraft; vice-president — Mrs. Ralph Ellis; secretary Mrs. R. H. Wallbridge; treasurer, Mrs. J. C. Murdoch.

The Worship Service for the evening was taken by Mrs. George Meades and was based on Paul's Letter to the Corinthians and his letter to the Romans. Paul's definition of fellowship and citizenship are still valid in today's world, said Mrs. Meades, and is new and full of troublous detours, such incidents as Christian mass press on and try to draw others to the path as they go on. The closing hymn was "Christian citizenship and brotherhood."

Mrs. R. H. Wallbridge presented part 2 of the program, "French Canadian Heritage", which deals with the life of Louis Hebert, as found in Quebec. Illustrated by lantern slides on view to demonstrate some of the different art forms. At the present time, there is a great vogue for old French handicrafts, both in the language, Mrs. Murdoch said "Habitant French is a medley of archaic French words, Acadianisms and, as a whole, is far removed from 'Parisian' French."

SCHOOL SYSTEM

The school system was analyzed and it was stated that much French is completely autonomous, and no central authority exists.

"Despite the imperfiences of Brother Anonymous", was an objective formerly wholly reading for light on changes in French Canadian thinking, as the whole economy of their modern ideas.

The present government in Quebec is considered progressive, and the program of highways, schools, hospitals and classical, is now broadening to include most other fields.

The Separatists are not generally considered as seriously in Quebec as they would seem are elsewhere, in fact, the majority of French language dailies decride their ideas and are urging implementation of the reforms presently being proposed by the LeSage government.

FIRST ART DISPLAY — Doreen Lindsay, London, Ont., artist, stands beside one of her creative oil paintings, Night City, on display at her first exhibition in Montreal. Painter and Art Teacher Likes Children to Work With in Montreal Studio

By RUSSELL PEDEN

MONTREAL (CP) — "When you work with children you learn a lot from them," says Doreen Lindsay, painter and art teacher.

The statement is one that few teachers of any subject would challenge. To say case, the influence of her pupils at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts hasn't harmed Miss Lindsay's art career, which started six years ago with a poster-painting contest in London, Ont.

Her work has been exhibited for the first time in Montreal at the Galerie Huot on downtown Amherst Street.

"Undubitably, Miss Lindsay has talent," wrote Claude Jasmin of La Presse, one of several newspaper critics to appraise the collection after the three - week exhibition opened June 6.

"Most of the paintings are so well executed that one would believe that they which technique suits her best."

FIRMNESS PRAISED

Doreen's selection for her Montreal debut included nonfigurative oils worked with spatula and brush, a diarama of sketches, one collage and two monoprints — oils painted on a sheet of glass and transferred to heavy, absorbent rice paper.

The latter medium found most favor with the Montreal critics. Jasmin said the "resolution, firmness and continuity of the monoprints."

Another indication of Doreen's ability is the renewal of her appointment to teach Saturday classes at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts for the third straight year.

She and her fellow teachers instruct children between the ages of 3 and 14 in the use of tempera, pastels, charcoal, sand, paste, clay, plaster — any medium that comes to mind.

Children do such exciting work, she said in an interview. "Each one is a genius because he has no repressions. He can express anything he knows."

WORK ON MURALS

Occasionally, her classes collaborate on huge murals which are displayed prominently at the end of December and May exhibitions.

"Like many of their elders, they don't like having their work taken from them. They're always delighted to see what they've done. They're always amazed."

During the week, Doreen teaches art in 23 pupils of the Trafalgar School, a private girls' school in Montreal.

Here, too, imagination in the choice of art media was important.

"I once gave each pupil in a class of senior girls a hammer, a chisel and a huge block of plaster and let them sculpture to their hearts' content. They were delighted."

Delight in painting and sculpture has been with Doreen ever since her own school days.

Through a poster - painting competition at Beal Technical School in London, she won a one - year scholarship to Instituto Allende in San Miguel, Mexico, 100 miles north of Mexico City.

STUDIED WITH LISSIMER

Once in Mexico, she extended her stay to two years by working one of the institute's own scholarships.

Doreen had scarcely returned to London before she was off again, this time to Montreal on a scholarship to study painting under the renowned Canadian artist Arthur Lismer at the Montreal Museum.

There she has studied and taught for three years, except for the summer months when she returns to London to direct art classes for the city recreation department.

On Sept. 1, Doreen is to be married to Gabor Silasi, a Montreal portrait photographer who shares her view that marriage need not interfere with career.

"Of course not," she says, "Both of us have careers, and both of us plan to continue with them."

Teen-agers Get Pat on Back From Teacher

OTTAWA (CP) — Today's teen-ager got a pat on the back from a Toronto teacher Thursday.

From a survey taken among 226 high school students, Miss W. Park, an associate professor at the University of Toronto, said she found today's adolescents have more spending money than ever before but they save a fair share of it and many plan to finance their own education.

"It is evident that with more education beyond high school as a goal and the wisdom to save to achieve it, we can expect great things of our young Canadians as they assume the responsibility of maturity," she told a group discussion on the final day of the Canadian Home Economics Association biennial convention here.

Miss Park said the students' incomes varied from $7.50 to $17.97 a week and that 69 per cent was earned by the students themselves. Those questioned were boys and girls from Grades 9 to 12 in schools at Toronto, Scarborough, North York, Sudbury and Whitby. They obtained their incomes from part-time employment, part-time jobs, regular allowances and irregular amounts given by parents for some specific need.

Sidney South W.I. Visits Museum Here

For their July meeting the Sidney South Women's Institute visited the Hastings County Museum. There were 19 members and two visitors present. The members found the tour very interesting. Most of them were interested in the hand hewn lumber beam with the joint being made by one piece being pegged to the other, as nearly all their barns and some of their homes were built that way. A few were surprised, too, to learn that the road they travel daily used to be the old Frankford toll road and that the toll was paid in pence, which was the currency at that time (before 1860).

An old map of this section of Hastings County showed all the saw mills and of interest to the Institute was a church marked Wesleyn Chapel, which is thought to be Alkens church. Of course, everyone was interested in the Cooldery collection, the handcarved piece of furniture, the inlaid work, the silver, jewellery and foot stools, also the pictures, most of which were water colors.

After the tour, the president, Mrs. H. W. Hollonsby, thanked Miss Barbara Weese and Mrs. Gerald Ellis for showing the members around and announced that the August meeting will take the form of a picnic, to be held at Cooke's Island on August 1. Everyone is asked to be there for 12 o'clock with a potluck lunch will be served.

Branch directors are planning the program and there will be something for children and adults alike, in the form of games and races.

Cake Recipe Dangerous Says Expert

OTTAWA (CP)—A cake recipe being passed among housewives and church groups could be "very dangerous," Eleanor Ordway of the federal food and drug directorate says.

The cake, called red velvet, requires one quarter-cup of red food colouring. The original recipe specified cochineal, a red color, which is not dangerous but this specification has been omitted as the recipe has been passed along. Some reds are coal tar colors which can be dangerous if consumed in quantity, Miss Ordway explained.

"One-quarter of a cup is a ridiculous amount. Housewives should be very cautious in using this type of recipe," she said.

Most recipes requiring food colors called for only a few drops or at the most one teaspoon. The law permits one part in 2,500 of the red coloring.

Miss Ordway said cakes were removed from a Winnipeg store when they found it to have more coloring than was permitted under the food and drug regulations.

Some mothers was raised by home economists attending the Canadian Home Economics Association in all 1 communities here.

One of them said the recipe has "swept the west from Vancouver to Winnipeg." Miss Ordway said it is making its way into Ontario and her department is trying to obtain a copy of the recipe.

GIRL GUIDE, BROWNIE NEWS

The 1st Corbyville Brownie Pack which was started last September for Carmel, Corbyville and Glenora girls had a successful year. Through the goodwill of Corby's Distillery the pack has a spacious meeting place in the Corby's Cafeteria.

The initial enthusiasm with which the Mite girls started their Brownies activities was maintained throughout the year and there were rarely any Brownies absent from their meetings.

The following girls were successful in obtaining their Golden Bar badges towards the end of the season: Elizabeth Bellstedt; Sharon Brownlee; Cathie Crook; Kandy Freeman; Jo Anne Gradwell; Marcia Hanna; Sharon Julian; Cheryl Mackay; Marilynn Plampton; Gail Reynolds; Linda Thompson; Susan Thompson and Catherine Voudell.

The last meeting of the year took the form of a Mother's party and the guests of honor were the commissioner, Mrs. A. Bethune; the area commissioner Mrs. R. Settle.

On this occasion the Brownies said farewell to their Brown Owl, Mrs. F. H. Bellstedt and welcomed their new Brown Owl, Mrs. D. Graham. The function as Brown Owl of this pack.

Culture of Europe, Charm Of Near East Both Evident In Wife of Ambassador

By PAULINE VAILLANCOURT
Canadian Press Correspondent

ROME (CP)—The culture of Europe and the charm of the Near East are both evident in Mrs. Leon Mayrand, Egyptian-born wife of Canada's ambassador to Italy.

Herself an accomplished musician and painter, Mrs. Mayrand is perhaps best known to those Canadians who visit Italy on art scholarships or bursaries.

Pianists Dale Bartlett and Malcolm Troup, singers Guy Lavoie and Jacqueline Martel, and painter Umberto Bruni are among the young Canadians she has befriended and helped to arrange concerts or exhibitions.

The simplicity and charm of Mrs. Mayrand are displayed to their best advantage in a personal interview. Painting and music are her favorite subjects, but underprivileged children run a close second.

"I love children," she confided, "and to help the underprivileged ones is both a personal duty and a pleasure to me."

SPEAKS 10 LANGUAGES

Mrs. Mayrand has three grown children—two sons and a daughter. The eldest son is studying the history of art and archeology in Paris; her daughter is married to a political audience course at the Sorbonne; and the youngest son is assistant to the well-known stage director Jean Delannoy in France.

A Canadian by adoption, Mrs. Mayrand was born Letizia Kerstetzian of Turkish parentage. She travelled often as a child with her parents between Turkey and Italy; and began her formal education in Florence. Later she went on to study music and the history of art in Paris.

Her husband's diplomatic career has provided Mrs. Mayrand with many opportunities for study.

In the course of successive postings to England, Brazil, Russia, Chile and Spain, Mrs. Mayrand has acquired fluency in 10 languages.

"Languages are marvellous," she says of her accomplishment, "they are the keys to foreign countries."

Leon Mayrand has represented Canada in Italy since 1958.

A former embassy secretary in London, Rio de Janeiro and Moscow, he has also been three-year terms as ambassador to both Chile and Spain since 1951.

50 Women Scholars Meet To Discuss World Peace

By PATRICIA RUSAK

TORONTO (CP) — Fifty women scholars from more than 25 countries will gather in a Laurentian hideout Sept 9-13 to concentrate their creative brainpower on one question — world peace.

Chairman of the Conference of Women for International Co-operation Year will be Mrs. W. D. Tucker of Toronto, president of the Voice of Women, a peace group which organizers devoted to promoting world peace.

The meeting at an unidentified spot in the Laurentians will be closed to the press and public in an effort to provide an atmosphere for free and frank discussion of problems and exchange of views.

An open meeting will follow in Montreal Sept. 14-15. Dr. Margaret Mead, the American anthropologist, will deliver the keynote address.

Others who have indicated they will attend are Dr. Postumus van der Goot of Amsterdam, author of Women and Peace, Mrs. J. B. Priestley and Diana Collins, leaders of the women's peace movement in Britain, and Sarajini Alyar of the Indian Co-operative Union.

Eleanor Roosevelt may be on hand, Mrs. Tucker has also had correspondence with Mme. Pandit of India, former president of the United Nations General Assembly, and Princess Amrit Kaur, former Indian health minister.

Nina Popova, president of the Soviet Women's Committee, is arranging for a Soviet delegation.

Purpose of the conference is to study ways of implementing International Co-operation Year should the UN General Assembly adopt the idea this fall.

Prime Minister Nehru of India suggested an ICY in an address to the assembly last November when he said: "Co-operation or perish; peaceful coexistence or no existence at all."

Mrs. Tucker said the Canadian government was approached by the Voice of Women and has agreed to support the proposal for ICY.

"We hope the adoption of this resolution could prove as significant for the humanities as International Geophysical Year was for the sciences," she said.

The general topic of discussion at the two - day meeting at the University of Montreal will be "Search and research for Peace — New Approaches." It will be followed by the annual meeting of VOW.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E.Q.?

If you're planning to visit a sick friend, here are some questions you might ask yourself to diagnose your bedside manners:

1. Should I let him know I'm coming?
2. Who should I call — the patient or a relative?
3. If he's in a hospital, how long should I stay?
4. If he's convalescing at home, is there a time element?
5. Should I bring a gift?
6. How should I entertain him?
7. Is it polite to ask about his illness?
8. If the "patient" is a new mother, how should I behave when I visit?
9. What sort of gift is best for a sick child?
10. Is it permissible to plump a patient's pillows or answer his phone when it rings?

Answers:

1. Yes, so you won't arrive at a time when it's inconvenient for him to see you. A nosy visit might interrupt a nap or a meal, or might coincide with a pre-arranged appointment. It's always more thoughtful to check before checking in.

2. If the patient is recuperating from a fairly literal or an operation, then it's better to clear a visit with his next-of-kin. If he's had a minor ailment, then a direct call would be permissible.

3. The length of any social call — twenty minutes to a half-hour, for instance, should be obeyed. Naturally a visit should be shortened if the patient appears tired, but it may be prolonged a bit if he's hale and urges you to stay.

4. Again, the condition of the patient is the deciding factor. The visit should be brief, however, and certainly should not inconvenience others in the household.

5. It's not necessary, but a small present usually acts as a tonic when one is sick.

6. With small talk that will amuse and divert him.

7. It's always impolite to probe. If the patient mentions his illness in a good listener, but it's inconsiderate to give him the third degree or contribute intelligence that might be highly incidental.

8. While a new mother is not sick, the visit still should be brief, for a case she might be tired. If the baby is exhibited, view it from a respectful distance. Don't expect to be entertained with refreshments, be and unobtrusive aid if the visit overlaps a feeding.

9. Something quiet. Depending on the child, books, construction toys, cuttouts, a three-dimensional viewer with slides — all help keep him occupied and fairly interested.

10. If he requests it. Too much fussing can be upsetting to a patient. Of course, a visitor may ask to be of help, but he shouldn't insist if the patient politely declines aid.

Club Activities

LITTLE MESSENGERS

RAWDON—Mrs. Garth Joslin opened the regular meeting of the Little Messengers at the church on Sunday morning with a sing-song of favorite selections.

The study books were synopsized by the leaders, Mrs. Joslin gave Junior Round-Up and James Hoard outlined another chapter of Thomas Team. There were 22 members and eight visitors in attendance.

Larry Jaffs gave his report and piano solos were rendered by Joan Jaffs and Geraldine Jaffs. Selections were read by Janet Spencer and Joyce Jaffs; Nancy Johnson and Carolyn Merrick contributed a duet.

The worship service followed with Donna Knight rendering a quiet music. Brenda Campbell gave the call to worship. The Bible lesson was read by Glen Spencer and the meditation by Brenda Williams. The offering was gathered and dedicated by Bonnie Williams and Lorraine Jaffs.

The meeting closed with prayer by Carolyn Merrick.

QUESTION:

I would like to know if you have a recipe for Bliss torte? If so, would you please send it to me? — Doris J.

ANSWER:

I was pleased to receive your request. I am hoping others will read it through carefully for it is different than Canadian cakes and something Canadian cake bakers should try and have in their cake files.

FRIDAY

Dinner Menu

Shrimp and Potato Casserole (see Wednesday); Chilli Cauliflower; Limas in Tomato Sauce; Sliced Cucumbers and Radishes; Baked Rhubarb Dumplings; Fluffy Hard Sauce; Tea.

BLITZ TORTE (12 servings):

Sometimes called Lightning Cake. ½ cup soft butter or shortening, ¾ cup sifted icing sugar, 4 egg yolks, well beaten, 1 cup sifted all purpose flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon milk.

Mix together well the butter or shortening and sifted icing sugar, then beat in the well-beaten egg yolks. Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt and stir these in. Stir in the milk. Spread this batter in 2 greased and floured 9" layer cake tins. Make Meringue: Four egg whites, ½ cup fine sugar, ½ cup icing sugar, ½ cup shaved blanched almonds, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 egg whites until frothy. Then beat into them gradually the first 2 amounts of sugar until stiff. Spread half of meringue over batter in each pan. Sprinkle each with half of the almond and last amount of sugar. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr., about 35 to 40 minutes or until cake tests "done" and meringue is set. Cool. Remove from pans carefully. Place one layer on serving plate, meringue side up. Spread with Rich Custard Filling: Mix together in saucepan ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 5 tablespoons flour, then stir in 2 cups rich milk until thick, then cook 1 minute, stirring. Remove from heat and stir a little of this into 4 beaten egg yolks (or 2 beaten eggs). Return to hot mixture and stir over low heat 1 minute. Cool and add 1 teaspoon vanilla. After spreading this over meringue on one layer place other layer on top, meringue side up. This may be garnished with a piping of unsweetened whipped cream.

LETTER:

Just came from doing my weekly grocery shopping and wondered how many large families can get enough meat to satisfy them. The prices today are ridiculous — My mother used to make a 25 POUND cake. Mrs. A. W.

Buy the cheapest cut of pork and cut any fat off. Cut in 1½" to 2" pieces. Cover with water, bring to boiling point. Add salt and pepper. Simmer until well done and equal amount of sliced potatoes and cook just a few minutes. Put in large casserole and thicken the juice. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr., approximately 15 minutes. I've found the secret is to have lots of juice and no onions . . . Mrs. M. B.

The June meeting of St. Andrew's Women's Guild was held recently in the Sunday School room, with the president, Mrs. Sly, presiding.

Business included plans for forthcoming Synod in early fall. Mrs. Sly closed the business meeting wishing everyone a happy and safe summer.

Mrs. R. MacLean, the wife of the minister, was presented with a beautiful leather purse, as they are leaving for Scotland shortly. There were noticeable wet eyes in the room as the MacLeans have endeared themselves to many, and a reluctant farewell was given them.

Mrs. M. Barlow led the assemblage in a sing-song with Miss Kathleen MacCullough accompanying at the piano.

Cake and tea was served by the welcome group.

Anita D. — We've been married ten years and have two children, both now in school. Mike never made a decent salary and when he were laid off two years ago, I went back to work. Things went along smoothly. We cared for the children, I caught up with things over the weekends. After a few months he obtained a right job, making it possible for me to stay on mine while he covered the homefront.

I now have an excellent position as a private secretary, I earn $125 a week, enabling us to own a second car and refurnish our home from top to bottom. Such treats couldn't have been dreamed of before. My friends and family used to say because we were always broke, Now we can hold our own. Michael D. — She can hold her own, but how about me? How does she think I feel with a wife who makes more money than I do?

Yes, it was great that she could contribute the raises when I lost my job. But I thought it would be just a temporary arrangement. Now I'm working again and it's time for Anita to quit and stay home with our children. They need a mother around. And I'd like a decent meal.

I admit it's more glamorous for her to work in an office than to pot-rustle around our kitchen, I admit too that the extra money is nice. But her place is in the home right now. People think I can't support my family and it makes me ashamed that she's working. We lived pretty well for eight years on what I earned. We had our own home and car. Those luxuries she buys aren't worth all the sacrifices she asks.

The Council: What makes a marriage such a challenge is the job of holding on to the precious loves at the same time — the ego, or self-love, and the mate. Trouble is that the mate has an ego, too, and that's the roadblock into which Anita has just collided.

Trouble is like a pimple. First there's irritation and inflammation, then a clear point emerges. Anita and Michael face that clear point: Is the gain in dollars worth the loss of other treasures? They must sit down in a spirit of friendliness (alone if they feel nothing enough to be fair to each other, or with an impartial counselor if they don't) and re-examine the value of their life in terms of what matters most right now.

We suggest that they take pencil and paper and literally write up the pros and cons. The questions: Can the home be maintained on Mike's salary? If so, what will be gained by Anita's relinquishing of a job? What will be lost? Can both Anita and Michael accept the losses?

We suspect that there is more to the debate than the mere dollars-and-cents angle. In favor of Anita-at-home are the arguments that she can be a better husband more by maintaining a well-run household where he can relax, that she can be a full-time mother to her young children, that she can restore and bolster Mike's male ego. But Mike must face the question hinted at above: What happens to Anita's ego, now that she has proved herself in the business world? Can he keep her feeling "less feet tall," the way he does now?

So we must add that it's important to work out a five-year plan. What's best for now? Let's assume it's an arrangement for living on what Mike makes. What's best for later? Possibly a part-time job for Anita, with her hours within school hours if family mealtimes and companionship. And, still later, there may be a Career in Anita's stars — with her money pooled to make it become "our money" for household help and vacations.

Anita seems to be the type of woman, Mike, who will serve her best in the home best if you sympathize with her ego-needs. To function outside it is due course.

Invite Japan To Build Plants In United States

TOKYO (AP)—The Kennedy administration has invited Japan to invest in building factories in the United States.

The invitation was announced by the Japanese Foreign Ministry and confirmed by a spokesman for the U.S. embassy.

Wichita, Kan., Wilmington, N.C., Maine, New Jersey and areas on the west coast were mentioned as regions where industrialization might be expanded with Japanese funds.

Such a development would help balance a U.S. adverse balance of payments situation, it was said. Japanese exports to the United States last year totalled nearly $1,000,000,000. Imports from the United States totalled $1,200,000,000.

Teetotaller's Drink Spiked Court Told

LONDON (AP) — Charlie Walther's anti-liquor crusade so peeved his fellow cab drivers they laced his orange juice with a stiff shot of alcohol.

That was how, a court was told Wednesday, Walther came to be jailed for drunk at the wheel of his car.

Walther's lawyer said Charlie's zealous anti-drink campaign had annoyed other members of a politically-rich suburban Sydenham. One night when he temporarily left the club-room someone poured booze into his soft drink.

The shot sent Walther to pieces, the lawyer said.

The judge fined Walther 20 guineas ($56.80).

CAMPBELLFORD

Retiring Rotary President Reviews Club's Year's Work

CAMPBELLFORD — President Bill Dawson, the relinquishing office as president for 1931-32, reviewed the work of the Rotary Club of Campbellford in the past 12 months.

He paid tribute to Rotarians George Nicholls and George Sprague, the former for providing the club with interesting programs and the latter for his faithful work in looking after arrangements at the weekly dinner each week.

Reviewing club projects, president Dawson said the "Adventure in Citizenship," where students from the Ottawa Normal School each year to see how Canada is governed, and the United Nations Seminar, at Queen's University where two students are given insight into the composition and work of the United Nations.

Support Foster Child

The club contributes to the support of a foster child in Greece, assists the Boy Scouts in providing them with a meeting place. The Retarded Children's School which started under Rotary sponsorship, is, he stated, now receiving considerable aid. The school is held in the Rotary Youth Centre building, a club-owned property which is rented to the school.

The Rotary Clubs have also been an agency which is dedicated to work for crippled children. The Campbellford Club has had very successful experiences in the discharge of this important function.

200 PER CENT CLUB

It was pointed out the Campbellford club is a 200 per cent club with respect to the Rotary Foundation, an international project designed to create goodwill between nations.

In conclusion, President Bill dealt briefly with projects of the year which included the travelogue series, a booth at the plowing match, the car draw, and the Victoria Day celebration.

He paid tribute to all who had assisted during the year.

CAMPBELLFORD

Parents' Delegation Asks P.S. Board to Supply Taxi Service

CAMPBELLFORD — Owing to and from the Kent to holiday arrangements, the Public School Board held a special meeting on June 20th at 7.30 p.m. in the Sr. Bridge St. School. All members were present, also Mr. Whitfield of Kent School and vice-principal, Mr. D. Miller, of Bridge St. schools who reported for Mr. Rothwell who left that evening for Germany to act as physical training directory for the summer months at one of the camps there. Mr. W. A. Murray presided.

PARENTS PRESENT

Present was a delegation of parents, whose children had been assigned to attend Kent School kindergarten, is being held. The delegation spokesman was Mrs. John Douglas, who asked for the delegation, that a taxi service be given by the school next year to carry these children to Kent - kindergarten.

She explained that it was not the distance that was the worry but the fear of the canal for these young children. Also many of the parents have brought homes in the Bridge St. district to be near the school, and express their sympathy with the worries concerning the go-in the Sr. Bridge St. School.

DESERONTO

Bush Fires Cause Heavy Timber Loss

DESERONTO — Bush fires were the bane of the local fire department over the weekend. On Wednesday afternoon of last week, the department was called to the bush north of Marysville, where the fire from the dump of Tyendinaga township had spread to the heavy timber surrounding it. When the department arrived some of the spruce and cedar trees 30 or more in height were going up in gushes of flame and the fire was spreading in a circle covering about 15 acres.

After several hours hard work, the firemen confined the blaze but not until considerable fencing and timber had been burned. Stumps and dead falls were still burning and on Thursday afternoon a breeze again started the fire spreading. Again the outside circumference was worked by the firemen and the water carried by relief men to patrol the confines.

Despite the heavy rains of Saturday, the fire again began spreading on Monday and it was necessary for the firemen to spend about two hours to control it. While the loss is not apparent it will be heavy as a goodly number of good pine and cedar suitable for fencing were destroyed. The loss of fencing will also be considerable and without heavy rain there is danger of still further damage. The blaze threw smoulders through the moss and stems to travel underground and break out in places seemingly all the Thursday forenoon plan on ploughing a fire break around the dump in the near future.

Successful Living

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Can Girl 16 Travel With Him?

DEAR DORIS—My mother would like to meet my girl friend, but can't make it to here this summer, so I want to take my girl friend home with me (700 miles) on my vacation. Her mother thinks she is too young (16) but has agreed to go along with whatever you say.

A friend of mine took his girl just as far to his home when she was the same age. They travelled by car and we are going to travel by train. Don't you think she should be able to go?

DORIS CLARK

HOPEFUL

DEAR HOPEFUL—Afraid not. She is too young at 16 to travel that far with you alone or spend a long vacation in your home.

DEAR DORIS—My daughter has been working for five years away from home. Now she is being married and wants to have her wedding in the city (100 miles from her home.) What I would like to know, is it up to us to pay for a reception for a lot of his friends and none or very few of ours, as it is so far she doesn't figure on asking many from here, just relatives?

Who (in this case) is the one to send out invitations? Her or her mother? Who would or should be asked to toast the bride?—WONDERING.

DEAR WONDERING—Could you share the expense with them?" Tradition has it that the bride's family provides the wedding, but it also says the bridegroom may have the say about the location of the reception and the number of people invited.

You will have to free wheel on this. Air it all with your prospective son-in-law—and remember you will be glad all your life if you make the day special for your girl. Be sure, too, that distance does not put you out inviting any dear friend who wants very much to come.

The bride's parents send out the invitations. Toast to the bride is given by the clergyman, the best man, or a close family friend.

DEAR DORIS—We are both just thirty. We have two boys. He is married and tells me he thinks he loves another girl. I know her and she is nice.

What should I do? Move into another room until he makes us his mind? If we stay together do you think I have a chance of winning him back, or will he end up hating me?—WANTS TO DO RIGHT.

DEAR WANTS—Stay where you are. Marriage partners often have misgivings about each other

You are the wife. You are young and attractive. Meeting his need, not denying it, is the road to his devotion. Could you spruce up a little?

DEAR DORIS—I need a job very badly. My husband has been sick for about six months, but now is gone away to find work. I have been looking for work for some time without success, answering ads in the paper, but what makes it difficult is I have no telephone, and live quite a way from town.

If you could find me a job, I'd be so grateful because I need it desperately to support my three children who will stay with my sister-in-law while I am out working.—BLANCHE.

DEAR BLANCHE—Are you sure it's a job you want? Three children can mean full-time work without going looking for outside jobs.

There is government help for you while your husband seeks employment. See your regional welfare officer about this.

Then if you still feel your sister-in-law can pinch hit successfully, for part time, ask around for a neighborly neighbor who would take a telephone message for you. Then you could register with your nearest National Employment Service and leave a phone number.

To be accessible in a hurry sometimes means the difference between landing a job and losing it to someone handier.

CONFIDENTIAL TO PAT—I am wondering how much good your typewriter will ever do you. The letter I got was full of typing errors and poor spelling. But as a baby sitter you are too slap dash.

Awkwardness is a part of growing up. And you can learn spelling. So I would say, see a counsellor about your aptitudes and interests. Then you can recognize your particular star and hitch your wagon to it.

Income Tax Explained

Written and designed for the taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax Office.

By C. A. MILLER
Former Supervising Assessor Income Tax Dept.

Many taxpayers get in trouble with the tax office when they consider themselves as separated for taxation purposes, but the income tax assessor treats them as only living apart from their wives when assessing their returns. If the taxpayer is separated from his wife and there is no written separation agreement signed by both parties, or a court order compelling him to support her he is not considered to be legally separated for taxation purposes. If the taxpayer is not legally separated and is only living apart from his wife, he cannot claim the equivalent to married status on any other person. If he is voluntarily contributing to the support of his wife and family. For taxation purposes he is treated in the same manner as when they live together. His exemption for his wife will be determined by the amount of the wife's earnings. If she earns in excess of $1,520 he has no claim at all for her, no matter how much he contributes towards her support. If there are children, he may claim the ordinary child's exemption, providing his contributions are sufficient. In no case such as this is the taxpayer allowed to deduct from his income any amount contributed to the support of his wife and family. He must either have the exemption as laid down on the return, or nothing at all.

When the wife from whom he is living apart makes out her tax return, she need not report any contributions she has received from the husband. If there are children and the husband and wife cannot agree as to which one should claim them, the claim may be denied to both, until such time as they reach a decision. In no case may they both claim the children.

Question 1 — am living apart from my wife, by mutual consent. I contribute $100 per month towards her support. What do I claim on my return $1000 exemption or deduct the $1200? She has no other income.

Answer. You claim the $1000 exemption only. You are treated the same as if you were living together in the absence of a written separation agreement or Court Order.

Question 2 — I am not legally separated, but do live apart from my wife. I pay her $100 per month. She has a full time position and files her own tax return. Can I claim as a deduction the amount of money I give her?

Answer. No. You are treated as a married couple living together and as her income exceeds $1250 you have no claim of any kind.

White's District

WHITES DISTRICT—Mr. and Mrs. F. Sandercock spent the weekend in Toronto with his brother, Mr. R. Sandercock and Mrs. Sandercock. His mother, Mrs. J. Sandercock, who spent the past week in Toronto returned home with them.

Field day for Sidney Public Schools was held at the O.S.D., Belleville, last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Linn were Sunday guests of Sgt. J. Linn, Mrs. Linn and family of Cobourg.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Trice, Stephen and Cathy of Belleville were holiday guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Curtis. Mr. Trice assisted Mr. Curtis on the farm.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Stickle and Mr. and Mrs. C. Jeffery and Miss Sharon Jeffery were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. W. Jeffery.

Mr. and Mrs. Ketcheson and Mr. and Mrs. R. Stickle spent last weekend in Peterborough and Lakefield districts.

Among those who attended the Johnstown strawberry social on Thursday evening from Whites District were: Mr. and Mrs. C. Stickle, Mr. and Mrs. D. Sandercock and boys, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Ketcheson and children.

Mr. C. Stickle was a Sunday afternoon caller of Mr. Jones.

Church and Sunday School services were held on Sunday morning at White's Church. In the former service the junior choir sang "Jesus Bids Us Shine" and in the latter service the beginners sang "Jesus Loves Me" with Miss Betty Cooper as pianist.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hogle of Trenton and Mrs. P. Donaldson and children of Toronto were Friday evening callers of Mr. and Mrs. Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Westfall.

Mr. C. Curtis has been assisting his brother, Mr. E. Curtis, with some work on his barn.

Mr. A. Arbuckle entertained last week, her mother, Mrs. H. Thomson of Point Anne, and her sister, Mrs. Podmilshack of Batawa.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Arbuckle of Camp Borden spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Arbuckle.

The tapman is the man who keeps the floormen in the bar supplied with beer. He also sells it directly to customers who are too thirsty to wait for normal service. Wallace Mack, a tapman for 13 years, finds it is hard work, with the demand on some evenings.

Beer Parlor Fights Fewer Today Says Veteran Tapman

"When you get a fight, it's usually between two young punks, who can't hold their beer. And they're usually too drunk to know what they're fighting about," Wallace Mack, the man who said that, should know. He's been tapman in a Belleville hotel for 13 years now, and he's seen a lot of fights. But there aren't as many now as there once were, he says.

The beer parlor as an institution is considered in different lights by different people. To some, it's a den of iniquity and the probable home of the devil. Few consider it a temple of purity, but none of the customers consider it degrading. Possibly, of course, because by the time drinking becomes degrading, the drinker is no longer in condition to think. But Canada is probably the only country in the world in which the beer parlor, and the beer drinker, are treated with such disrespect.

England's pubs have earned an international respectability. The German Biergartens, especially in the south, were long the haunt of the nobility. In the Latin countries, wine replaces beer.

Where beer parlors in their various forms are accepted, they become the centre of sociability. The person looking for a friend can find one there, in an old acquaintance or a complete stranger. In Canada, the beer parlors serve the same purpose, for their relatively restricted clientel.

Some people don't like alcohol, in any form. Their reasons may be similar to those of Wallace Mack, who hasn't taken a drink himself in six years, though he may have poured more than a million in that time. Mr. Mack says he sees so much beer during the week, (he works 13 hours per day, six days each week), that he's not interested in more when he gets home. Also, he explains, he has a wife and five children to feed."

COST IS HIGH

How some of the regulars in beer parlors feed their families is something tapmen often wonder. According to Mr. Mack, some of his regular customers spend an average of $10 to $15 per day on beer. And there are other regulars, spending not so much, who are living on unemployment insurance. And there are some who would like to be regulars, who seem to live without an income. These men could often make a living, or at least keep themselves in drinks, by going the rounds of the tables in beer parlors, if the staff did not interfere.

The staff interferes though, for the protection of customers. Sometimes they wind up providing small loans to customers themselves, if they haven't worked in bars for long. They soon learn better though; Mr. Mack estimates he has lost more than $140 in small, short term loans made over the bar. It isn't the loan he minds losing so much, but a customer owing him money will often take his business to another bar from then on, to avoid being asked to pay.

There are all types to be found in a beer parlor, that's what makes the job interesting to the tap man. The customers are there for reasons ranging from despair to celebration, and they act and react accordingly.

And they will be there whether the beer parlor is considered respectable or not.

What's a circus without a balloon or two? Before and after the big show, inside and outside the tent, there are lots of them for sale. And not those old fashioned, plain, ordinary balloons either. Like everything at the circus, the balloons must be bigger and better, balloons within balloons for example.

Candy floss is the traditional circus treat, probably because the floss is so big that little sisters can hide behind it to take a bite of big sisters' floss. But there's lots of it for both; so nobody seems to mind.

Small boys and elephants go together, but not those. And when it rains you are going to see real live elephants in a few moments, the big one charging out of the poster takes on a little extra thrill.

British Doctors Respond To Saskatchewan Appeal, Sixteen Already on Way

LONDON (CP) — Telephones jangled and doorbells rang almost incessantly at Saskatchewan House Thursday as British doctors responded to the province's appeal for practitioners to provide emergency services.

By Thursday, the provincial medical care insurance commission's country-wide plea for help had resulted in more than 100 offers from doctors who said they are prepared to fly to Saskatchewan to serve temporarily.

So far 16 doctors have either arrived or are on the way to the prairie province.

Saskatchewan Agent-General Graham Spry, speaking for the medical commission, told a press conference the province hopes to recruit between 50 and 100 professional men to fill the gap left by Saskatchewan doctors who have withdrawn their services in defiance of the government's new medical care insurance scheme.

ADVERTISES FOR AID

The rush at Saskatchewan House was the result of a huge direct - mail advertising campaign launched by the provincial government last week.

The pay scale offered for the temporary posts ranges from $1,200 monthly for interns and assistants to just under $2,000 a month for doctors with more than 10 years experience.

Cost of air transport to and from the province, registration fees and other expenses are being borne by the medical care commission.

Spry said the direct-mail campaign became necessary after British medical publications declined to refuse any advertising offered by the Saskatchewan medical commission.

(In Saskatoon Thursday, Dr. Sam Landa, emergency co-ordinator for the Canadian Medical Association, said the emergency care situation in Saskatchewan is reaching a critical stage. He said available personnel are being spread "very thinly" across the province.)

FREES COMMUNITY

The withdrawal of services by Saskatchewan doctors is attracting widespread attention from British publications.

The Conservative Daily Telegraph says in an editorial that it is ironic that those wishing to escape from the shackles of one health service offer their services to bolster up another."

"Some, of course, will be actuated by purely humanitarian motives," the paper adds. "But there is something very uncongenial in the thought that doctors could ever bring themselves to the point of striking."

The New Statesman, a left-wing weekly, says no democratic body elected government could be expected to yield to what it terms "political blackmail" by the medical profession.

Railways Take Exception to Some Demands

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's railways said Thursday they take the strongest possible exception to most of the points submitted by their non-operating employees to a federal conciliation board studying the employees' new contract demands.

Details of the railway's arguments on the demands, however, were withheld until Monday.

The board, which started its sitting Wednesday, was adjourned until then after the railways said they were not ready to continue at once with their case.

They said they had expected the 15 CLC-affiliated unions that bargain for the non-ops to take at least four days to present their arguments. Instead, the unions cleaned up their initial presentation in less than a day and a half.

The board findings, under the chairmanship of Mr. Justice Craig Munroe of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, will not be binding on either party.

The main issues in the dispute are wages and job security. The 100,000 non-ops are seeking a 20-cent-an-hour grade increase plus a job security program that amounts to a virtual job freeze.

Exports to Cuba Going Down Every Month

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian exports to Cuba plunged spectacularly in March, accentuating a downward trend that began in February.

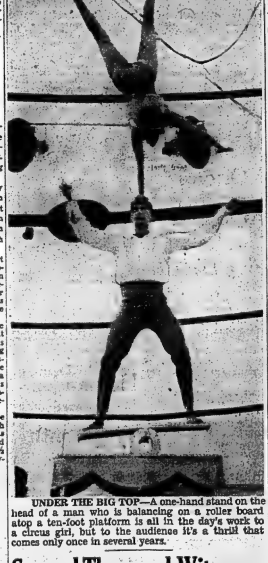
The bureau of statistics reported today that March exports to the Communist-oriented Caribbean island totalled $246,354 compared to $2,646,315 in March of 1961.

The March figure was less than half the $550,000 figure recorded in February—which itself was the lowest in more than 10 years.

For the first quarter of 1962 exports were down by more than one-half from the same period a year earlier—$3,197,588 as compared with $6,866,827.

Predictions here are that Cuban purchases from Canada will continue to decline.

Female Sarus Crane Flees Zoo Home



TORONTO (CP) — A red-headed female sarus crane from India has fled its Riverdale Zoo home, leaving its wing-clipped mate "just wandering around in the pen."

The five-foot tall bluish grey bird with a nine-foot wingspan was seen in the Newmarket area Wednesday but flew off in a northwesterly direction when provincial police tried to catch it.

Zoo foreman George Stewart said the unclipped female apparently was chased by children Saturday during one of its frequent late evening outings for a snack of worms and insects on the Riverdale flats outside the bird pen.

The bird will return home gladly, Mr. Stewart said, if it comes near enough to hear calls from the other birds, including its mate. But, added zoo curator Dr. Norman Scollard, if the bird gets to the marshy area around Brantford, about 35 miles north of here, it might be content with its new-found freedom.

The birds are believed to be 1 mid. However, Whitchurch Township farmer John Stevens said the female, who grazed peacefully on his farm for 1½ hours Wednesday, charged anyone who came near it.

UNDER THE BIG TOP—A one-hand stand on the head of a man who is balancing on a roller board atop a ten-foot platform is all in the day's work to a circus girl, but to the audience it's a thrill that comes only once in several years.

Princess Anne Having Good Time in Paris

PARIS (Reuters) —Princess Anne, 11-year-old daughter of Queen Elizabeth, arrived under top secret conditions Thursday on a "French only" visit to a Loire Valley chateau.

Her first visit to France was expected to last a week.

Princess Anne was welcomed lit the Chateau de la Lorie here by the 68 - year - old Marquis Louis de Saint-Geuys and his wife.

Both the marquis and his wife speak good English but the order at the chateau was "No English for the next week."

The princess will have a playmate in the marquis' daughter, 11-year-old Florence de Saint-Geuys.

The royal party travelled in a three-car convoy led by British embassy counselor Brooks Richards. A car with French plainclothes police followed the Princess and her companions. A discreet guard surrounded the chateau Thursday night.

In London, Buckingham Palace spokesmen stiffly refused to discuss details of the princess' visit, complaining that the press of Britain, France and probably Italy would be camped on the doorstep."

Several Thousand Witnesses Testify Circus Has Kept All of Its Old Allure

According to a rumor, someone, somewhere, once outgrew the secret impulse to join a circus. It has even been suggested that some people have outgrown even the desire to see a circus. There might even be some truth in the rumors, but yesterday several thousand Belleville and district residents found time to walk down to Zwicki's Island to see the Kiwanis - sponsored Cristiani Wallace Bros. show, in the afternoon and evening performances.

It was a big top circus, with the main show under a monster tent. Sideshows were housed in large trucks and smaller tents.

Booths on the grounds sold soft drinks, hot dogs, and the traditional candy floss. The sideshows were opened early, to pull in their trade before the main show.

Children and adults swarmed up onto platforms to look in on a monster snake, a man killer, dozing peacefully under armour glass. Two chickens in the cage with the snake worried about their short future.

Across the midway a barker screamed the praises of a slim young girl who stood on the edge. The girl, he said, would soon go inside the tent and tie herself into "14 entirely different knots", for the benefit on any one who would part with two small quarters of a dollar. The children looked up in awe. Adult reactions were mixed. A man on the stage waved the swords he would swallow while the barker explained that he would first remove the handles, to prove the blades did not fold up inside.

Conservatives Drew Most Of Support in New House From Rural Areas in June

Export Volume Due to Sales To U.S., China

OTTAWA (CP)—Big increases in sales to the United States and Red China buoyed Canada's export volume in the first quarter of 1962.

Despite export declines to Britain, France, West Germany and Australia, the over-all volume in the January-March period showed 9.7 per cent to $1,352,530,000 compared with $1,232,780,000 in the same period last year.

The detailed figures were released today by the bureau of statistics.

Exports to the U.S. "went up about 25 per cent or $166,922,000. The sales were $818,561,000 as against $651,639,000 a year earlier, Sales to Red China—again reflecting the wheat deals —rose to $42,123,000 from $5,527,000.

Thus the gain in sales to both countries was $203,218,000—more than 20 times the over-all export increase of $19,725,000.

Value of shipments to Britain in the first quarter fell to $191,694,000 from $218,943,000. Those to West Germany went down to $33,718,000 from $39,629,000. Sales to Australia fell more sharply, to $19,511,000 from $26,104,000 a year earlier. Exports to France dropped sharply to $10,090,000 from $17,239,000.

The newsprint market showed sagged slightly to $168,594,000 from $172,800,000. But wheat exports—the No. 2 export commodity—were sharply higher at $125,465,000 as against $10,171,000.

Export gains were also recorded for wood pulp, lumber, crude oil, aircraft and parts, fish and fishery products, nonfarm machinery, nickel and aluminum. Other declines were in copper and products, and uranium ores and concentrates.

A small boy in the crowd asked if he would chew them well.

THREE RING SHOW

Inside the big top, three rings kept the audience and the performers on the go. Elephants lay on pretty girls, then lifted them to near the tent roof, to prove they were ticklish. Two chimpanzees kept the show going a little faster than their trainer had planned. Indian maidens and dance hall girls swung through their acts on ropes and swings near the tent roof while the clowns below added to confusion.

Finally, a golden suited female "Miss X 1" streaked from the mouth of a cannon into sun-orbital flight. She came to rest in an accurately placed net near the end of the tent. The show was over.

But those who missed it can still hope for a return another year.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Progressive Conservatives, often labelled in the past as allies of big business, drew most of their support in the new Parliament from rural areas.

Analysis of June 18 election returns shows that 69 of the Conservative government's 116 members come from ridings wholly or predominantly rural. Another 14 are from mixed urban-rural constituencies.

By contrast, the Liberals, who lost power for 22 years with the help of farm support, won only 29 rural seats this time and 17 of the mixed urban-rural variety.

Liberal strength now is rooted in the cities and built-up areas and elected 53 of their 99 members.

This switch in the pattern of urban-rural voting behavior is just one of the unorthodox results of the election returns.

For the first time in a Canadian election, the party winning the largest number of seats failed to carry either Quebec or Ontario. Conversely, the Liberals are the first party to win the most seats in each province without winning the election.

GAINS IN QUEBEC

Social Credit, with 17 rural seats among its total of 30, gained most heavily in rural Quebec, and its only four western seats are rural.

Eleven of the New Democratic Party's 19 members are from cities.

The rural-urban boxscore (total party seats bracketed):

	Rural	Urban	Mixed
PC	(116) 69	33	14
Lib	(99) 29	53	17
SC	(30) 17	7	6
NDP	(19) 6	11	2
Deferred	(1)		1
Totals	(265) 121	105	39

PRAIRIES LOYAL

One election feature was the loyalty shown the government by the three Prairie provinces where Conservatives took 47 of the 48 seats in 1958 and re-copped this time with 42. They suffered only two losses in the 34 rural seats.

The reflected satisfaction with agricultural conditions, including large sales to Red China, and certain special payments over the last five years to grain farmers.

The Red China wheat agreement was the only item that came close to being a campaign issue. Only Social Credit opposed it although the Liberals sought to have all the details made public.

The Conservatives' heaviest rural losses were in Quebec where they dropped 17 of which 16 went to Social Credit, which won 26 of its 30 seats in that province. Conservative strength in Quebec was trimmed to 14 from 30.

Yet in Ontario, where the Conservatives won only 35 seats compared with 64 in 1958, they lost only five rural ridings. They won 14 of the 34, compared with 19 in 1958.

Homemade Lifejacket Found in Bay

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A homemade lifejacket—the first fashioned by three convicts to their daring break from Alcatraz June 12—has been found in the bay, the Navy Coast Guard says.

Stained with blood, it gave substance to speculation of a federal prison official that the brothers killed the mastermind of the escape, the newspaper says.

"This was matched on the lifejacket, and it was still blood, indicating the wearer slipped or was pushed out of it after being shipped," it adds.

The lifejacket was found a week ago but no official source would say where or by whom.

Fred Wilkinson, deputy director of U.S. prisons, some time ago expressed a theory that the escape mastermind, Frank Morris, Louisiana bank robber, might have been slain later by his companions, Clarence Anglin and his brother, John, Alabama robbers.

Wilkinson said that if the three fled the island on a make-shift raft or boards they would soon have encountered trouble in the chill bay waters.

Wilkinson said he thought the brothers would have killed Morris in such a situation.

It was believed the homemade lifejacket was made in the workshop hideaway Morris and the Anglins had in the attic above a cell block. It was paried together from sleeves or rubber raincoats.

LAUNCH BIGGEST SHIP

QUEBEC (CP)—The biggest naval vessel ever built in Canada was launched Thursday at the Davie shipbuilding yards in nearby Lauzon. It was the 22,000 - ton tanker supply vessel Provider, which got a champagne sendoff from the wife of former navy comptroller, Rear-Admiral A. Wright. The Provider will be an ocean-going gas station, supplying warships with fuel at sea.

Ups and Downs in Life Of Joan Crawford in Book

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Writing of her early years, in the movies, Joan Crawford comments: "Maybe I did play harder than anyone else but I worked harder, too. Perhaps (it was) because I had such an inferiority complex, because I was trying to compensate for all I lacked in education, poise and background. I wanted something out of life and this was the only way I knew to acquire it."

This helps to explain the phenomenon of Joan Crawford, which is described in depth in her new autobiography, Portrait of Joan, written with Jane Kesner Ardmore. It is an interesting study of the longest-lasting of all the Hollywood "stars"—she made her first film in 1925, is starring in three this year.

TELLS OF HUSBANDS

The book tells about the ups and downs of her career and marriages. About the husbands—

No. 1, Douglas Fairbanks Jr.: "Douglas was trying to prove something, that he was as good a man as his father, that he was a 'sit, a practical joker in his own right. He didn't have to prove this to me. I was his best audience, but that wasn't enough. He needed a larger audience, and entertaining constantly, he'd dispel his energy. When the guests would leave, alas, we were without communication."

No. 2, Franchot Tone: "There was never a doubt in my mind that Franchot's talent was greater than mine, and I tried very hard to give him more scenes, to build his ego. It just didn't work. It was no wonder that he gradually broke away. I tried to assert himself. He was working in A-film. I wasn't. One afternoon I dropped by his dressing room to surprise him. I did.

No. 3, Phillip Terry: "I had never really been Phillip. I realized that, I had not really loved him. . . I don't like pauses, and this pauses ended in divorce. Never marry out of loneliness. I owed him an apology from the first."

No. 4, Alfred Steele: "You fire fi . . . to my life, a man

RING WITH ISLANDERS — Singers Marg Osborne and Charlie Chamberlain appear together with Don Messer and his Islanders each week on a national CBC television show

Marge Osburne Got Start Singing Because of a Bet

HALIFAX (CP) — Marg Osburne, the plump brunette vocalist of the Don Messer country music show, got her start as a professional because of a bet.

At 16 a cousin visited her in Moncton, N.B., where she was brought up, heard her sing and bet her $5 she didn't have the courage to telephone a Moncton radio station and ask for an audition.

She took the dare and the next thing she was singing on the air. It wasn't long after that Charlie Chamberlain, the singer now seen weekly with Marg on Don Messer's Jubilee, was injured in an auto accident.

That led to Marg joining Don Messer and his Islanders, a wildly country music group that's played and sung for years over the air from Charlottetown. Strangely, most of them were born not Islanders at all but were from New Brunswick.

Charlie was in hospital two months. Marg was hired as a replacement and has been with the group ever since.

"When Charlie recovered, they couldn't get rid of me," she says jokingly. "We became fixtures on the show and now there's no separating us."

The group is seen Monday nights on CBC's national television network and is also heard over the national radio network every week.

Marg sings mostly old songs or duets in duet with Charlie. But she also handles popular music, as on three guest appearances now seen weekly with Marg on Don Messer's Jubilee.

Miss Osborne, 36, is married to Austin Squarebriggs and they live in Dartmouth, N.S. with their two children, David, 8, and Faye, 2.

She has mixed feelings about the tours with the Don Messer group. "I love to see new places . . . but I dislike travelling and living out of a suitcase."

Team Picked

All-Stars Play Orioles

NEW YORK (AP) — Larry Shepard, manager of Columbus Jets, picked four players from Rochester Red Wings as he named the final 28 members of the International League's all-star team which will play Baltimore Orioles in Rochester Wednesday night.

The top 10 players, including both right- and left - handed pitchers, were chosen previously by the league's managers. Tommy Richardson, league president, made known Shepard's selections Thursday.

The Rochester players picked by Shepard are Les Narum, right-handed pitcher; Bob Saverine, second baseman; outfielder Pete Ward and player-coach Luke Easter.

The other players picked to round out the squad are shortstop Ted Kazanski of Toronto; catcher Don Brand, third baseman Bob Bailey and outfielder Willie Stargell of Columbus; catcher Tim McCarver of Atlanta; Al Downing, southpaw pitcher, and outfielder Benny Maiseoky of Richmond; first baseman Ray Barker of Jacksonville, and Carl Mathias, another southpaw pitcher, of Syracuse.

Shepard also named Kirby Farrell and Clyde King, managers of the Buffalo and Rochester teams respectively, as his coaches.

The starting lineup, as picked by the managers, has Frank Herrera of Buffalo, at first; Phil Gagliano of Atlanta, at second; Lou Johnson of Toronto, John Herrnstein of Buffalo and Vic Davalillo of Jacksonville in the outfield.

Bob Lipski of Buffalo, is the starting catcher with either Steve Boros, a rightie, of Toronto or Don Blowe of Columbus, a southpaw, on the mound.

Argo End Out for Five Days

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP)—Offensive end Bob Jewett of Toronto Argonauts will be out of action for four or five days with badly bruised ribs.

Jewett received the injury Wednesday during the Eastern Football Conference team's first defensive scrimmage of their two-week training camp here. X-rays Thursday showed there were no fractured ribs.

Among those already sidelined are halfback Dick Jeric and Boyd Hall, Jeric with a shoulder separation and Hall with an injured knee. Fullback Herb Griffin was knocked out with a sprained ankle and isn't expected to be ready for any other sight to 10 days.

Coach Orv Agase said Thursday he doesn't intend to make any cuts from the 56-man roster until after Wednesday night's inter-squad game here.

Redmen Have Chance to Win Trophy

MONTREAL (CP) — The Churchill Trophy, formerly awarded to the winner of a national intercollegiate football final, will be given to the winner of an exhibition game here Sept. 29 between McGill University Redmen and St. Francis Xavier X-men.

The Canadian Parapiegic Association, which sponsors the trophy contest and gets the proceeds of the game, said the trophy would be contested in exhibition games in the next several years "until college football is organized well enough to have a truly national title."

In past years, the Quebec-Ontario championship had played off against the western conference champions.

However, a spokesman for the association said, the eastern clubs have become too strong to produce an even contest with the western winners.

Last year, Queen's University Golden Gaels refused to travel west to meet the western winners and the trophy was not contested.

Hernandez Boxer of The Month

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Carlos Hernandez's sensational one-round knockout of Pedro Rose Wag was named Ring Magazine's Month honors for the hard-hitting Venezuelan lightweight in the latest National Boxing Association ratings.

The quick knockout of the veteran lightweight contender gained Hernandez the laurel over lightheavyweight champion Harold Johnson of Philadelphia and former lightweight champion Flash Elorde of the Philippines who made successful title defences.

In addition, Hernandez was named the No. 1 challenger for champion Carlos Ortiz.

In the heavyweight division, Bob Cleroux of Montreal was rated eighth contender for champion Floyd Patterson's title.

Russia Wins Over Game British Crew

HENLEY, England (CP)—The powerful Soviet Navy eight, pressed all the way by a fighting British crew, swept into the Grand Challenge Cup final at the Royal Henley Regatta today.

The Soviet title-holders defeated Britain's Molesey Boat Club by one length in a stirring dual fought to the last moment down the one - mile, 550-yard course.

The Russians jumped into a lead of half a length in the first quarter of a mile and then, stroking at a high rate, sought to kill off the British crew in the next 600 yards. They increased their lead to 1½ lengths but were not allowed to drew farther away.

The two crews raced for the next 700 yards with no visible difference in the bow feet of clear water between them. Molesey's final spurt narrowed the deficit but couldn't put it in front.

The Russians were timed in 6:46.

The Washington and Lee High School crew from Arlington, Va., advanced into the semi-finals of the competition for the Thames Challenge Cup.

But the only other American crew left in the competition, the Detroit Boat Club, was soundly trounced by Britain's National Provincial Club crew, which he broke the record for the Thames Cup competition Thursday.

Washington and Lee had a tough battle with the Argonaut crew, made up of London dockworkers, before squeezing out a three-quarter-length victory in the quarter-finals of the Thames Cup for Eight-oared crews.

DETROIT CLUB BEATEN

The Detroit oarsmen were outclassed by the National Provincial team. They finished the Eight-oared lead from the start and won by 3½ lengths in the time of 6:49.

The bank crew meets Washington and Lee in the semi-final Saturday.

Austria's Stuart MacKenzie won his semi-finals heat in the Diamond sculls after crossing the finish line with three lengths behind Poland's Eugeniusz Kubiak.

The 26 - year - old five-times Henley champion put up his hand as he drifted to a halt and claimed a foul. The race was awarded to him and Kubiak was disqualified—but only after an amazing series of conflicting announcements which threw the entire riverside into confusion.

The course announcer first awarded the race to MacKenzie on Kubiak's disqualification. He corrected the statement within minutes to announce the verdict for Kubiak and MacKenzie's disqualification.

For a moment it seemed as if the Australian, regarded as the world's foremost sculler, had finally been defeated. But yet another correction gave him the verdict and a place in the finals.

Bunning To Start

Detroit Ace Unbraten In All-Star Games

BOSTON (AP) — Manager Ralph Houk completed selection of the American League all-star squad Thursday amid speculation that Detroit's Jim Bunning will be his starting pitcher.

Announcement of the full squad is face the National League stars in Washington Tuesday was made by American League president Joe Cronin and included a special concession to play New York Yankees slugger Mickey Mantle in right field.

The junior circuit numbers only one southpaw on its pitching staff—Hank Aguirre of Detroit Tigers.

Houk, skipper of the world champion Yankees, has picked seven right-handers for this year's first all star game from last records backstabbed Bunning (8-4); Rick Donovan, Cleveland (12-3); Camilo Pascual, Minnesota (2-4); Ralph Terry, New York (10-7); Dave Stenhouse, Washington (5-3); Bill Monbouquette, Boston (7-8), and Hoyt Wilhelm, Baltimore (3-5).

Houk picked the pitchers himself but followed the shotgunner for the rest of the 25-man squad, naming the second choices in each position and asking his own catcher, Elston Howard, who finished third in the balloting at that spot.

HAS GOOD RECORD

Bunning is unbeaten in all-star competition and has a string of five scoreless innings in the inter-league classic.

Previously announced as starting players, selected by their fellow athletes, are outfielders Leon and Roger Maris of New York and Leon Wagner of Los Angeles Angels, his catcher Earl Battey and third baseman Rich Rollins of Minnesota Twins, Baltimore Orioles first baseman Jim Gentile, Chicago White Sox shortstop Luis Aparicio and Los Angeles second baseman Bill Moran.

These eight must play at least three innings, barring injury, in the inter-league classic.

Those backing them up will be: Outfielders Rocky Colavito of Detroit, Lee Thomas of the Angels and Chicago's Jim Landis; infielders Norm Siebern of Kansas City Athletics, Bobby Richardson and Tom Tresh of the Yankees and Baltimore's Brooks Robinson plus catchers Gus Bonnano of Cleveland and Howard.

Mantle was picked as a centerfielder but he'll likely start in right field with Maris moving to centre as has been the case in the Yankees regular games since Mantle returned to the lineup after an early-season injury.

Houk picked two managers, Baltimore's Billy Hitchcock and Washington's Mickey Vernon as his coaches.

Two Step Out Of Lineup At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Import linebacker Gerry Nesbitt and Canadian end Bill Sowalski have stepped out of the Ottawa Rough Riders lineup.

Nesbitt, unable to get the salary increase he sought, decided Wednesday to sit out his option and bid next year for a berth with Dallas Texans of the American League.

Sowalski, 31, an eight-year veteran with the Eastern Football Conference club, told coach Frank Clair that he had reached the stage where he had to choose between football and a job with a property-management firm.

Leafs' Pena Wins With Five-Hitter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The International League often a happy hunting ground for hitters, more closely resembled a pitchers' paradise Thursday night.

Ron Taylor and Herb Moford produced fourhitters, Orlando Pena contributed a five-hitter and Taylor and Pena finished with shutouts. Of the winning pitchers, only Atlanta's Raul Sanchez, single, giving up two hits in the two innings of relief he worked.

Taylor, Toronto-born Taylor led Jacksonville Suns to a 2-0 victory over Richmond Virginians. Moford pitched Rochester Red Wings to a 9-1 verdict over Buffalo Bisons and Pena shutout Syracuse Chiefs. Toth got the benefit of Rohnie Plaxas 10th inning run-producing single as the Crackers beat Columbus Jets 4-3.

Pena (7-6) struck out 10 and was staked to all the lead he needed when Toronto rushed in four runs in the first inning. Mike Demeter led the Leaf hitters with a double and his 13th homer of the season.

Moford (4-5) struck out eight, walked only three and got the benefit of a 15-hit attack. Jim Woods led the assault with four hits, including a homer, and three runs batted in.

Taylor (5-1) had a one-hitter until he tired in the eighth. He struck out 10 and walked only one. A Jack Cullen pitch which sailed over Taylor's head in the third touched off a brief scuffle which resulted in four players being ejected, Buddy Barker drove in both runs for the leading Suns.

Plaza stroked his line-drive single with the bases loaded and two out in the Atlanta 10th against Columbus. Toth worked the last two innings in relief and picked up his fourth victory against five losses.

All Canucks Now Out of Bike Race

SAINT GAUDENS, France (AP) — France's Robert Cazala Thursday won the 12th leg of the Tour de France bicycle endurance race, a 207.4-kilometre (128-mile) grind over mountains from Pau to Saint Gaudens.

Britain's Tom Simpson took over the "yellow sweater" that is symbolic of the over-all leader in the 23-day test around most of France.

Cazala's time was five hours, 59 minutes, 37 seconds.

Meanwhile the last of seven Canadian entries in the Tour de l'Avenir for amateur bicycle racers were eliminated from the gruelling contest.

Royal Williamson of Toronto fell and injured a shoulder. He finished the stage but arrived after the deadline and was eliminated.

Earlier in the day Raymond Nolet, of Trois-Rivieres, Que. dropped out. The other five Canadian starters had dropped out in earlier stages. Williamson and Nolet were far back in the field.

Calgary Man Paces Field In Shooting

EDMONTON (CP) — Ron Baker, a Calgary marksman, paced the field as the first 200 rounds were fired in the Canadian trapshooting championships.

Baker brought down 99 of 100 birds in singles competition Thursday and followed with 94 of 100 in doubles. It gave him 193 of 200 and a two-bird lead in the race for the Canadian high overall championship.

Harvey Millard of Red Deer, Alta., followed a 99 in the singles with a 92 in the doubles for a 192 total. He is runner-up to Baker in combined score.

Vera Holdsworth, of Calgary, Canadian women's champion in five of the six years the championships have been held, took the lead in women's singles competition by breaking 97 of 100. Mrs. Betty Crossley of Vancouver had a 95 and Mrs. Frances Searl of Sharon, Ont., an 85.

The championships get down to serious business today as Canadian titles go to the top singles marksman, the best marksmen in five clays events, the leading junior shotgunner and the Canadian women's singles winner.

32 Soccer Fans Held After Riot

MONTREAL (CP) — Thirty-two soccer fans arrested after a riot at Fallon Stadium Wednesday, including a boxer, and three runs batted in.

Taylor (5-1) had a one-hitter until he tired in the eighth. He struck out 10 and walked only one. A Jack Cullen pitch which sailed over Taylor's head in the third touched off a brief scuffle which resulted in four players being ejected, Buddy Barker drove in both runs for the leading Suns.

Plaza stroked his line-drive single with the bases loaded and two out in the Atlanta 10th against Columbus. Toth worked the last two innings in relief and picked up his fourth victory against five losses.

Sentence for the 32 was postponed to Sept. 20 and the accused were ordered to sign $200 bonds to keep the peace for a year.

Earlier Thursday the National Soccer League suspended all further First Division games at the Fallon Stadium pending a meeting of the Province of Quebec Football Association Monday.

The riot halted the Hamilton Steelers - Montreal Capitals game with 16 minutes left to play and Capitalia leading 1-0.

Two Hamilton players needed hospital treatment after the fans roughed them up.

CROTHERS INJURED

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Crothers, crack 30-year-old middle distance runner for Toronto's East York Track Club, pulled a back thigh muscle Wednesday night during training and is almost certain to be out of the Canadian relay championships here tonight. The injury may also keep him out of the British championships at London next weekend.

Strange Final

Unseeded Czech Killer

WIMBLEDON, England (CP) A ranked United States tennis star is faced with the prospect of solving the secret of an unranked Czech woman who has become the giant-killer in the women's singles of the all-England lawn tennis tournament.

Mrs. Vera Sukova, 20-year-old bespectacled blonde, has reached the women's singles finals by upsetting four of the world's stars.

Her opponent in the final, Saturday, is Mrs. Karen Hantze Susman, 19-year-old U.S. Wightman Cup star.

Karen was seeded No. 8. Nobody thought of seeding Mrs. Sukova, an ambling, heavily built baseline player who has been around the European circuit for years and never done anything spectacular.

But in the last 10 days, she has demolished Jan Lehane of Australia as fourth seeded and defeending champion Angela Mortimer of Britain, U.S. Wightman Cup star Darlene Hard and 1958-1960 Wimbledon champion Maria Bueno of Brazil.

Mrs. Sukova achieved her most incredible triumph today, Loping about the baseline and playing a largely defensive game, she edged out Miss Bueno, 6-4, 6-8, in the semi-finals.

Mrs. Susman avenged a Wightman Cup defeat and crushed Ann Haydon of Britain 6-4, 6-1.

WEZEE A PLAN

"I don't know much about Mrs. Sukova," Mrs. Susman admitted, "but I watched her play a few times, and I know she is a baseline player. I shall have to start thinking out a plan to beat her.

It won't be easy. One of Mrs. Sukova's most distinguished victims, Darlene Hard, summed her up like this:

"She's one of the most deceptive players I've ever had to play. She seldom seems to play an aggressive shot. You get in the way of her volley and her overhead and her backline drives, but the ball comes back at you every time."

Mrs. Sukova, a former basketball international who keeps her weight down by going for long runs three times a week through the winter, came to Wimbledon with a skimpy tennis wardrobe of one shirt and one pair of socks.

"I shall take the shirt back to my hotel and wash it in time for the final," she said. "The socks are my lucky pair."

'M' Boys Starting to Hit Ball

NEW YORK (AP)—Mickey Mantle has been hitting home runs at such a spectacular pace of late it is difficult to believe he's been wrenched in a fall more than six weeks ago, still is far from healed.

In the last 10 games, New York Yankees and Mantle his his 15 home runs. Roger Maris, whose bat suddenly has become alive again after a sluggish spring, has hit seven homers to six for Mantle. Maris hit his 19th of the season Wednesday and Mantle hit his 14th and 15th in only 45 starting games. His leg injury kept him out of 30 games.

"My leg doesn't bother me swinging," he explained Thursday. "It hurts only when I'm running or when I have to pivot to make a throw."

Mantle's batting average is .321. Still she most feared batter in the American League, Mickey has been walked 32 times and has reached base more than 50 per cent of the time.

Ball Career Closes for Bob Grim

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The pitching career of Bob Grim has come to a quick close, only seven years after he was named Rookie of the Year in the American League.

"I've had it," said Grim as he prepared to leave Kansas City for his home in Brooklyn. "I'm through and I know it."

Grim did a respectable job as a relief pitcher for Kansas City Athletics before he was released May 26 and he admits he was surprised at being released.

"But at the same time I knew it was coming sooner or later. I just don't have good stuff any more. I feel sure if I tried, I could get another job pitching but I'm just not interested."

Grim is only 35 and should be at the peak of his career, but his arrow injury reduced his effectiveness years ago. A right-hander, he won rookie honors in 1954 when he won 20 and lost six for New York Yankees.

As a relief pitcher this year, Grim was scored on only twice in his first 10 appearances but was hit hard in his next two appearances and drew his release.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Peter Ryan, Canadian ski champion and racing car driver, died the other day as a direct result of participation in his favorite summer sport. Some time ago Kid Paret, a boxing champion, died from injuries received in the ring defending his world title.

Hugh Randall of Louisville, was killed auto racing at Langhorne, Pa. Over the holiday weekend—and this is habitual—several people died as a result of traffic accidents.

Death is no respecter of persons. Nor is the Grim Reaper fussy about his modus operandi. But of late the favorite lethal weapon appears to be the racing automobile.

Striking at times swiftly and terribly, death and the automobile have been partners almost since the advent of the powered vehicle. Post-holiday newspaper editions carry the same story year after year. Only the figures differ.

But the more sensational headlines carry the stories of young men injured and dying in flaming wrecks of speeding racing cars. It seems this brand of tragedy is kept spirit for young hot-blooded men who drive the missionary rockets at death-defying speeds against time tracks and human opportunities.

As one writer says: "They profess to be sincere disciples of safety and sanity than the average office worker toiling home after five o'clock. Perhaps they are. But safety is a relevant thing. At racing speeds it looms exactly as long as you stay in one piece."

Juan Manual Fangio, five-times world auto racing champion, retired four years ago. He is 51. In his day, he had no peer. Recently, he said:

"If I had my way, I would advise any youth wanting to go in for auto racing not to. I've been through it, and I know what professional auto racing is. Of course, you can't tell a hot-redding young man 'don't.' He won't listen."

For those who won't listen, he advises, "Don't try to reach the top too fast. Do it step by step and build incside yourself a monumental feeling of self-confidence, sureness in your actions.

"Remember, the road to the summit is paved with smashed cars and bodies of daring-do youngsters who tried to the break. It is skill, not brash courage that matters in a race.

"Auto racing is a very dangerous sport—that's why crowds love it. But it is also a gentlemen's sport. In my 32 years on the tracks, I still have to find a driver who deliberately did me foul."

"At first," he says, "stay behind the veteran of the track and you'll be safe. But no matter how good you feel you are, and how good friends tell you you are, respect the veteran. He has survived more than you have in this gruelling game.

"Keep fit so that your reflexes stay good. Treat your car well and do not take blind chances. You must be able to divide the thin line that divides the speed that kills from the speed that wins."

Fangio still drives, but says he will never return to the race tracks. "Too many times are sorry," he says. "My track friends are all gone. Luigi Musso, Alberto Ascari, Peter Collins, Eugenio Castellotti, Jean Behra, Wolfgang von Trips, the Marquis of Portago and many others are no more. And Stirling Moss has crashed.

"We have given way to a new generation."

As a sports columnist puts it: "The drama, the glory, the tragedy of it goes on. It is a way of death because death is allowed to win. It is fine sport except that widows and mothers of drivers have a different name for it."

Cleveland Indians Tie For Top Spot

Colavito Hits Three Homers

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Don Dillard, fresh off the Cleveland bench, has fired a two-homer salvo to give the Indians a piece of the American League lead.

The 25 - year - old outfielder came on at a late-inning substitute Wednesday and hit a grand-slam in the 13th inning for a 6-2 victory over Detroit Tigers. Thursday night he replaced the injured Al Luplow and slammed the game-winner with two out in the ninth for a 7-6 victory over Detroit.

The latest victory anglewored by the lightsliting left-handed swinger overcame a three home run performance by the Tigers' Rocky Colavito and carried the Indians into a first-place tie with Los Angeles Angels, who were not scheduled.

In the only other AL game Jacks Brewer and Jim Gentile led Baltimore Orioles to a 5-4 decision over Chicago White Sox.

Dillard, hitting .191 before his Wednesday heroics, entered the Indians lineup Thursday when Luplow collapsed with a pulled muscle after making a spectacular running catch of Bill Bruton's drive in the fifth inning. He failed to get a hit his first time up, but in the ninth he tagged a Ron Kline fastball pitch to snap a 6-6 tie brought about by Colavito's trio of circuit shots.

NEARLY MARKS HISTORY

Continuing a rampage in which he has hit at a .320 clip for the last month with 11 homers and 29 runs batted in, Colavito connected in the fourth, fifth and seventh after grounding out his first time up. In the eighth, with a chance to become the first player in baseball history to hit four homers twice, the Tiger slugger lashed a long foul before grounding out. Colavito hit four consecutive homers June 10, 1959.

Colavito's third homer—his 20th of the year—created the tie that Dillard broke to give the triumph to Bill Dailey (4-0). Luplow and John Romano also homered for the Indians.

The White Sox built a 4-1 lead against Jim Fisher in the fourth inning, but could get only one hit thereafter against Hal Brown (4-2) and Wes Stock. Brandt made it 4-2 with a homer in the seventh, then doubled to drive home the clincher in the eighth. Gentile knocked in a pair with a bases-loaded single. Frank Baumann (5-5) took the loss.

Making Good

Pirates High On Bailey

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—It's no long reach from Long Beach to the major leagues the way bonus boy Bob Bailey is going.

The jump from high school ball in California to a berth with Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League within two years appears well within the abilities of the 19-year-old catcher. That way he's been playing lately for Columbus Jets of the International League has Pirates brass convinced the huge bonus-perhaps a big league record—they gave him was a sound investment.

Bailey signed for a sum somewhere between $150,000 and $200,000 upon his graduation from high school June 7, 1961.

Thirteen months later, the six-foot-one, 190-pound infielder is the Buzs' pride and joy, looming large in their 1962 plans. The first 13 months were something of a struggle, but in the last month, Bailey has come into his own in a big way.

RAISES AVERAGE

Climaxing a month-long surge in which he has brought his batting average from below .320 to .300, Bailey collected three home runs in a doubleheader sweep over Syracuse Chiefs Sunday. The last was a game-winning blow in an extra inning.

A witness to the seven-RBI Sunday show was Pittsburgh general manager Joe L. Brown. With Pirates president John Galbreath watching the proceedings, Bailey banged a dramatic last-of-the-ninth home run with a mad on to beat Buffalo Bisons 8-5.

When the Jets hit the road Tuesday night, it made no difference. Bailey promptly paroled Atlanta pitching for a home run and single, driving in three runs —the margin in a 5-2 victory. That gave him the club lead with 13 homers and 46 RBI.

Whale now, Bailey has been fielding brilliantly. Playing third base most of the time and also filling in at short, the youth has been "major league' all the way, writers covering the team report.

TO TRADE VISITS

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) The United States and the Soviet Union completed a homeand-home tennis deal Thursday. Four American stars—two men and two women—will play in the Russian tennis championships at Moscow Aug. 12-19. Four Russians will compete in the U.S. championships at Forest Hills, N.Y., starting Aug. 20.

Dodgers Swamp Giants

Leaders Showing Amazing Power

By JIM HACLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Its their usual style to dazzle the National League opposition with speed and footwork. But for a change of pace, the streaking Los Angeles Dodgers are using a heavyweight punch.

For example, they rolled to an 11-3 romp Thursday in the opener of the big mid-season four-game series at San Francisco, pounding out a 14-hit attack that included four homers as they won their seventh straight and boosted their lead over the Giants to a game-and-a half.

It was the Dodgers' fourth victory in five meetings this season with their up-coast rival and prime pennant challenger—and the winners made it a runaway with a touch of just about everything. There was the long-ball belting, the base running dazzle of Maury Wills and high on the list, another star performance by premier righthander Don Drysdale.

The strong-armed speedballer quelled the lusty Giant batters for eight hits and won his 15th, tops in the majors. Drysdale's chief support came from Tommy Davis, Frank Howard, Ron Fairly and Willie Davis, who counted four homers among their total of nine hits. Pitcher Ken Hunt

In the NL's only other game, Alvin McBean threw a five-hitter as Philadelphia Phillies blanked Philadelphia Phillies 5-0 for their seventh victory in a row and the Phillies' eighth straight loss.

The Dodgers clipped lefthander Mike McCormick for their four homers and six of Roseboro's pushed the Dodgers ahead 4-0. Tommy Davis hit his 17th homer in the fifth and Howard promptly followed with his 20th.

Against Duffalo in the seventh, Willie Davis reached first on an error and second on Tommy Davis singled and stole second. Howard hit a sacrifice fly and Fairly singled for two more runs. Larsen surrendered three more as the Dodgers added a triple, by Larry Burright, a double by Roseboro, a single and stolen base by Maury Wills and singles by Willie Davis and Fairly.

Behind this versatile offensive, Drysdale shuttered his way along handsomely, striking out eight — including Orlando Cepeda three times and Willie Mays twice—and walking just one. His chief troublemaker was Willie McCovey, who homered and singled.

Wills had two steals, giving him 46 for the season and the Dodgers' hom one-hall raised their team total to 93.

The Pirates rapped Jim Owens for all five of their runs in the first two innings. They loaded the bases on walks against the Phillie right-hander in the first, coming up with two runs on a double play grounder and Roberto Clemente's single, then wrapped up the scoring in the second with a walk. Bill Mazeroski's triple and Dick Groat's first homer of the year.

McBean was 5-5, doled out six singles and one walk.

Joyces Outlast Bobcats

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Building an early lead on the opposition's errors, Joyce Real Estate blew away themselves in the eighth inning and managed to hang on for a 9-7 win over the Bobcats in a comedy of errors at the Fairgrounds last night.

It was without a doubt the weirdest game of softball played here this year. The losers committed 11 errors in all, a season record, while the winners were charged with five.

Big Bob Butterfield, Bills hill tormentor, faltered in the late innings after pitching no-hit ball for the winners for 6 2-3 innings. He ended up with a five hitter for the victory, striking out 11 and walking six.

Carl Jones, a left-hander, was the victim of circumstances in his first start on the season mound. He gave up only two hits in the first six innings but still trailed 6-1 when he left after seven frames. He fanned four and walked two and gave up five hits in all. Roger Cote finished the scoring over the last inning, three and passing two.

Carr's bum single and errors loaded the bases early then with Faulkner singled and Muirhead hit a deep fly ball to left field for a 6-1 score in the seventh.

Then Joyces too caught the "bobbler" in the eighth. The first two men up on via mistakes and "Shiner" Murray singled sharply to score both. Errors and a walk filled two more errors pulled Bobcats to within one run. They had men on second and third and trailed 7-6 when the inning was over.

A walk, a error on Davis's sacrifice and Kingston's two-run single gave Joyces a 9-6 lead going into the last of the ninth. Murray singled through first base and Clapp doubled him home so end it at 9-7.

Len Sinclair ruined Butterfield's no-hit bid with a clean single after two were out in the seventh. Frank "Shiner" Murray had two singles. Earl Clapp a double and "Wiener" Brown a single for the other Tebbits hit.

Chuck Kingston tripled and singled, Bert Faulkner doubled and singled and Stu Muirhead homered for Joyces. Terry Kelser and Claude Carr added singles.

Minor Baseball

The Twins squeezed past the Royals by a slim 2-1 score in a Bantam league baseball fixture at Victoria Field last night.

The winners scored both their runs in the second inning to grab a 2-0 lead. Royals cut the margin in half in the third and the clubs played errorless ball thereafter.

Twins had just three hits and the Royals but two in a tight pitching duel.

New Course Record

G. Bowerman Shoots 66

Gery Bowerman, one of the top golfers in the Quinte district, set a new course record for the Bay of Quinte Country Club Thursday afternoon when he fired a five-under par 66.

Bowerman, who earlier this year had a hole-in-one on the 165th, came up with identical scores of 33 out and 33 in yesterday to better the former course record of 66.

And the former record holder was right on hand to see his mark fall by the wayside. Allan Freeman, pro at the Trenton RCAF course, set that earlier record of 66.

Yesterday's foursome consisted of the Bay of Quinte pro George Balazs, Ab Tobe, Bowerman and Freeman.

Bowerman set his record the hard way, shooting three bogeys. He countered the bogeys with four birdie hoovers, and battering the old record with a couple of eagle threes — on the fifth and 15th holes.

The Bay of Quinte club member is currently in the running for the club championship and if yesterday's round is any indication,

Nicklaus Has Some Bugs To Iron Out

TROON, England (AP)—Jack Nicklaus, United States Open champion, today talked about his worries that he might not even qualify for the British Open golf championship starting Monday—"because of some bugs in my game."

Nicklaus, of Tucson, Ariz., is among the favorites in the field of about 250 golfers from 18 countries entered for the championship.

Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., who won the title last year, is the 5-to-1 betting favorite. Nicklaus and Gary Player of South Africa, winner in 1959, are joint second favorites at 11-to-1.

"Some of my iron shots have been 15 feet off target to the right and this kinda bugs me," the 22-year-old Nicklaus said.

"But I have had my clubs adjusted and I'm hoping things are going to get sorted out quickly. I played a round late yesterday afternoon with the adjusted clubs and had a 68. That's the best I've done here."

After the round Player, fifth in the moneywinners on the American circuit, said the Troon championship links were in poor shape. "The greens and fairways are terrible," he said.

Qualifying rounds will be played over the Troon championship links and secondary course of Lochgreen Monday and Tuesday. A maximum of 130 low scorers will advance to Wednesday's play. The field will be cut to a maximum of 50 for the final two rounds Friday.

CZECHS HAVE TROUBLE

PRAGUE (Reuters) — The Czech economy is under "considerable difficulties" following the failure to fulfil planned targets in industry and agriculture last year, the government said Thursday.

OHA Senior Teams to Hold Meet

LONDON, Ont. (CP)— Lloyd Pollock of Windsor, president of the Ontario Hockey Association, said Thursday night he has called a meeting of OHA senior teams in London Sunday.

Tom Jaques of Chatham and Sam Fox of Windsor are to report on their attempt to line up enough clubs to operate on a salary basis, instead of the present share-the-wealth. Pollock also hopes to have the Senior A league formed. Deadline for entries is Aug. 1.

DEPUTY APPOINTED

TORONTO (CP)—S. W. Clarkson, 41, has been appointed deputy minister of the Ontario department of economics and development, it was announced Thursday.

TRADING
HERE'S HOW IT WORKS

Let us say you own a home with a mortgage for $10,000 and you want to upgrade your home and move to a better area. We will bring on the market, let us say, $15,000 worth of homes. We therefore have an equity of $5,000. When your home is sold and placed in one of our homes, at let us say $15,000, you will have an equity of $5,000 plus $10,000 or $15,000.00. You will then have the choice of either retiring the mortgage for $9,500 with of course lower monthly payments or you could assume the $13,500 mortgage and move to a better home. It is all that simple and we do all the work. Why not trade for home the modern way — TRADE.

4 BEDROOMS
2 BATHS
IN WESTGATE

This home is the ultimate in a family home. Situated in the most central hall in front you can see at Glenwood Park. Proceed down the main hall into the large living room and dining room. Off the dining room is the family kitchen with built-in bath. Off the large bench kitchen there is a 2-piece bathroom. Out of the side door at the kitchen is a second door leading to the carport. All this and more for only $15,900 with about $3,000 down.

BOY GETS 15 YEARS

LONDON (Reuters)—A London schoolboy who admitted the non-fatal arsenic poisoning of his father, his 22-year-old sister and a 15-year old school friend, was sent Thursday to an asylum for the criminally insane for 15 years. The boy, Graham Frederick Young, 14, admitted the poisoning. None of the victims died. Medical experts said the boy felt a sense of power when he held poison in his hands.

CAMPBELLFORD

St. Mary's School Holds Most Enjoyable Field Day

CAMPBELLFORD — St. Mary's School held its annual Field Day on June 30th, sponsored by St. Mary's P.T.A. The weather contributed greatly to its success. It was encouraging to see so many parents and others present for the activities which were in memoriam and varied. All the children seemed eager and anxious to participate in the different races and put everything they had into the activities.

It was evident at all times that the participants were entering the races and games for the good sportsmanship of it and not merely for honor of winning cups and gifts, which is as it warmark of 100 per cent sportsman.

The winners were as follows:

Senior girls (tie), Mary Frances Paul and Elizabeth McGrayne. "Senior boys, Robert Lee. Intermediate girls, honor and it is also a real honor Margaret Morris. Intermediate boys, Bernard Crower. Junior girls, Mary Lee Mitchell. Junior boys, Henk Tillari.

The following assisted in the running of the races and games: Pat O'Sullivan, announcing events; Vincent Hartington, starter; Ed Hillis, Terry O'Sullivan and James Quinlan; judges 1st place, Leo Doherty, 2nd place, Tim O'Hay, 3rd place, E. Coe; pinning ribbons on, Isa Lace, Maureen Kelly, 2nd place, Brenda Scarborough and Judith Reed; 3rd place, Kathleen Day; scrutineers, Mrs. Ed O'Connor and Miss Ann Lejohn.

All boys and girls and guests were treated to soft drinks which were donated by St. Mary's P.T.A. Candy suckers, the gift of Mrs. A. F. Kaufmann, were given to the younger children, and balloons, the gift of Mr. J. Smith were given to all the boys and girls who participated in the events, but who did not win a ribbon.

It was a successful afternoon and it is an annual affair to which the boys and girls of St. Mary's eagerly look.

MONUMENT TOPPLED

MACLEANS (Reuters) — Some 100,000 persons looked on with approval Thursday as bands of youths tore down a monument commemorating the arrival of the French in Algeria 132 years ago.

INFORMATION FOR PERSONS CONSIDERING A CAREER IN ACCOUNTING

For many years the Certified Public Accountants Association of Ontario has provided educational facilities for accounting students who are employed in the office of practising public accountants and for those otherwise employed.

Following the recent merging of membership of The Institute of Chartered Accountants of Ontario, the Certified Public Accountants Association of Ontario, arrangements have been made for students presently registered on the C.P.A. course of study to continue to graduation. However, no new enrolments will be accepted by The Certified Public Accountants Association of Ontario.

Those seeking a professional career in public accounting may apply for enrolment on the course of study of The Institute of Chartered Accountants of Ontario. Enquiries should be directed to The Registrar, The Institute of Chartered Accountants of Ontario, 69 Bloor St. East, Toronto 5.

For those who prefer a provincial accounting career in industry, there will be available a course of study of a standard equivalent to that formerly offered by The Certified Public Accountants Association of Ontario. Arrangements have been made for The Society of Industrial & Cost Accountants of Ontario to conduct this course, separate and distinct from its other course. As an interim measure, students will be enrolled by the Society on the present C.P.A. course of study with the understanding that upon graduation they will be granted a designation, other than C.P.A., to attest to their achievement.

ENQUIRIES SHOULD BE DIRECTED TO THE SOCIETY OF INDUSTRIAL & COST ACCOUNTANTS OF ONTARIO, 31 WALNUT STREET, SOUTH, P.O. BOX 178, HAMILTON, ONTARIO.

THIS NOTICE IS PUBLISHED BY THE CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS ASSOCIATION OF ONTARIO

Astrological Forecast

Saturday, July 7
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)—Day when positiver attitude wins. Answer to pressing question is yes. Overcome temptation to complain. If you do so, there is chance complaints will vanish!

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) Persistence important if you seek to accomplish goals. Favorable lunar aspect today means excitement in the air. This applies to romance, change, travel, vacation.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) —More "power" on your side than you might perceive. Tendency is to get bogged down in details, to be "grumpy". Avoid this by getting work out of way early. Tonight, relax!

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) —Control urge to move about aimlessly. Much entertainment close at hand. Self-satisfaction is earned, not handed to you. Spotlight on your potential.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Money matters may continue to command attention. If you let matters "slide" you could find yourself paying and paying. Check budget. But do not lower standards.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Push. Initiative emphasizing as Moon occupies your zodiacal sign. But don't expect something for nothing. Friends make promises, differs. Thank them, but remain self-reliant.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Trying to talk your way out of unpleasant task could make matters worse. Best to live up to promises. This way you actually gain and tasks turns out to be easy.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Avoid attitude which offends others who mean the most to you. Let affection shine through. Be willing to give of yourself. Tonight excellent for making new friends.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — Not very easy to create something out of "thin air". Put ideas on paper. Make real effort to express thoughts. Good for career opportunities, for helping one less fortunate.

Capricorn (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) — What could appear as an obstacle early today actually is a healthy challenge. Meet it. Avoid person who wants to be "tiger". Be understanding, diplomatic. Tonight you could "shine".

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — You may find yourself giving and giving, with little to show for it. Better put foot down early. By doing so you gain respect, results. Let others know you will stand pat on "good hand".

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)—Your abilities, skills should be appreciated. But don't press demands. Hold back on arguments, angry letters. Obtain proper relaxation, rest.

If today is your birthday . . . this month finds you relieved of numerous burdens . . . if only you take advantages of vacation opportunities. Year in general is one marked by change, opportunity, and romance!

General Tendencies: New products made public which, more than ever, point up age of Automation. Adjustments necessary. Persons in "high places" make concessions.

Robert Pelley, whose enthusiasm town, talks things over with Mayor resulted in a Youth Centre for his Jack Robertson.

Teen-Age Canada

17-Year-Old Wins Youth Centre for Hometown

17-YEAR-OLD WINS YOUTH CENTRE FOR HOMETOWN

By ELIZABETH BARRETT

(Jack Hutton is on holidays. Miss Barrett, teen-age editor of the St. John's, Nfld., Telegram, takes over Teen-Age Canadian this week.)

Robert Pelley is an enterprising young man.

The 17-year-old native of Gander, Newfoundland, decided last year that his town needed a youth centre. He brought his idea to Mayor Jack Roberston, and was told to provide material evidence of the need.

Since then the grade 11 high-schooler has organized a Gander Youth Agency, comprising all the boys who share his ambition. This Agency sent several months examining available youth facilities in its airport community.

Robert called two citizens' meetings about the youth club. None, May 28 at, which the general plan was approved, and another, June 4, at which he presented the complete findings of the Agency.

At this meeting, he said: "Although adults have suggested that there are opportunities for local youths in the Scouts, Air Cadets, Guides and various church groups, we felt that many young people want a building entirely their own, which they can help build and maintain.

The centre, he explained, would be "entirely for youths"; a place where they could develop hobbies, perhaps form a drama club, and follow the usual teenager's pattern of talk, music and sports.

Although all organization to date has been done by boys, the club will eventually be open to girls too. Its constitution, drawn up at the first committee meeting, parallels that of nationally known boys' clubs.

Members of Gander's citizens' committee for the youth club are still debating its placement and organization. The immediate need is a building, and meetings will have to be supervised by a paid full-time director or by the combined efforts of volunteering townspeople.

Robert is now quizzing his young friends to find out how many would patronize the proposed club.

He will present his findings at the next citizens' meeting and will outline the schedule of club activities formulated by the Youth Agency and the citizens' committee in co-operation.

Gander, known as "the Crossroads of the World," is a town of about 9,000 which has a reputation for producing outstanding youths. In 1961 both boy and girl winners of Newfoundland's Rotary-sponsored Public Speaking contests came from the community's St. Joseph's Academy. The top winner in a provincial mathematics competition also is a Gander native.

Robert, newest name on the town's honor roll, has surpassed both the province's cities, Corner Brook and St. John's, by his efforts for the youth club. Neither larger community has a central youth organization.

After pursuing his ambition for more than a year, Robert hopes it is "only a matter of time" before the planned centre becomes a reality.

An Indianapolis psychiatrist recently stood up before students in his home town of Brazil, Ind., and delivered a case history which had a completely unexpected punchline.

He was talking about a woman called Mrs. X who told him that at the age of 23 she felt as if she and her husband, Rob had "suddenly become old." They had married shortly after high school.

Before marriage, she said, he had been a bold, confident young man like his high school friends. But, like most of his high school friends, he still had some of "the little boy deep inside him—and was afraid to admit it.

"I guess I was the one who should have made us walk," she said. "Girls at that age can see a lot more clearly than boys can. Boys don't really know why they do feel so insecure, and they think none of the other fellows feel as frightened as they do."

The psychiatrist sat down with these words. "What I didn't tell you was that Mrs. X came to see me on Nov. 22, 1967, five years from now.

"And you know Mrs. X very well. She is sitting in the second row, and Bob is over there near the back."

Sunday School Lesson

Present-Day Situation

By ROY L. SMITH

There is something very serious about this week's Sunday school lesson if we are inclined to study it closely. There is a remarkable parallel between present-day situation that corresponds to the ancient situation which led to the little kingdom of Judah found itself.

Actually, the events we are studying occurred perhaps as much as 50 years before the time of the lesson of last week. The young King Josiah had been on the throne for about 13 years, and during that time had made some desperate efforts at reform. But without having made an appeal to the deepest moral and patriotic motives of the people, little had been accomplished.

Jeremiah, the prophet, was about 19 years of age, and had begun to preach hopes that the reform sponsored by the government was going to bring about the re-demption of the nation. But as time went on and relatively little was accomplished, he began to lose confidence in any political reform, and to see that if a real reformation of the people was to occur, it must proceed from the inside out. In other words, it must be built inside the hearts of the people.

IT'S A PERSONAL MATTER

It is especially important that there shall be laws, but the best of laws will fail if they do not appeal to the conscience of the people. Integrated, for example, will cease to pass more peaceably and with good will when a sufficient number of individuals are willing to recognize the Christian principles of brotherhood and justice. The prohibition experiment failed because it was not supported by the consciences of the people.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for July 8th: Jeremiah Condemns Present-Day Complacency. Jeremiah 11-13; 5-8; 7:1-7; 19; 21; 35:1-11.

In the conflict with communism in which we find ourselves engaged at the present moment, it is a moral matter. Something has gone out of the American way. We have come to the point that we depend upon the government to do the things for us that we ought to be going for ourselves. Democracy is that the private individual shall assume responsibility for himself. The most dangerous idea is that the government must assume such responsibility. And until we are willing to return to the old-fashioned American doctrine of personal self-reliance and responsibility, we are doomed to a steady grey to the Marxian philosophy.

The government can, and must, do much for the individual, but he must do the most for himself. The vast majority of his decisions must be made inside his own life and conscience. If we are unwilling, or unable, to make these decisions for ourselves, and take the consequences, then communism will step in and make the decision.

The national and political situation with which the prophet

Report Canadian Soldiers Beat German Workers

BONN (Reuters) — Police in Bielefeld, a British garrison town in north Germany, have reported trouble involving Canadian soldiers.

A German police spokesman said: "Eight or 10 Canadian soldiers attacked two German workers outside a Bielefeld bar. They knocked them to the ground and kicked them.

"The Germans suffered facial injuries and had to be treated by a doctor."

The spokesman said the incident took place Wednesday. The soldiers were from a Canadian unit training at Senne-Lager Camp, near Bielefeld.

"They were leaving the bar when they ran into Germans who were passing by," he said. "After the attack the Canadians, some in uniform and some wearing civilian clothes, jumped into cars and drove away, he added.

British military police are investigating, the spokesman said and the Canadian commander has promised to send a Canadian military police patrol into Bielefeld tonight "to prevent further trouble."

Italian Jet Carrying 94 Persons Missing

Reports Three Minutes Before Due to Land

BOMBAY, India (Reuters)— An Italian airliner carrying 94 persons was believed to have crashed today after failing to land here at midnight.

A land, air and sea search was pressed for the plane as Alitalia Airlines announced in Rome that it must be presumed lost, it had been missing so long.

A search plane pilot spotted a plane wreck near Aurangabad—the airliner's last reported position—but it turned out to be that of an Indian Air Force bomber which crashed today on a routine flight.

Indian Air Force planes continued searching for the airliner but visibility was poor and a ground search was started.

At sea eight search vessels were ordered to scan waters within a 100-mile radius of Bombay.

Meanwhile relatives assembled at the airport, hoping for news of loved ones.

The plane was Aurangabad, about 180 miles east-northeast of Bombay, when its last report was received.

The plane was believed to be carrying 88 passengers and a crew of six.

Alitalia officials planned to send up another wave of search planes as soon as weather was cleared.

Land parties were organized around Aurangabad and a helicopter flew to the area from Bombay's Santa Cruz airport.

Indian naval vessels searched the waters in the Bombay area.

FREE TO STRIKE IN NUCLEAR WAR — McNAMARA

U.S. Not Committed To Spare Cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defence Secretary McNamara has let it be known the United States has not locked itself into a commitment to spare Russian cities from destruction in the event of a nuclear war.

Informed sources said today this was the import of remarks McNamara used Thursday in answering questions about his strategy that aims at confining any nuclear weapons to military targets, as much as possible.

In a speech three weeks ago at Ann Arbor, Mich., McNamara said the United States had concluded that as far as is feasible, principal military objectives in event of nuclear war "should be destruction of the enemy's military forces not of his civilian population."

He said then "we are giving a possible opponent the strongest imaginable incentive to refrain from striking our own cities."

STRENGTH FLEXIBILITY

At a press conference Friday, McNamara stressed the flexibility of U.S. nuclear strategy and said:

"We have a force so large that we can be certain that it can absorb a full first strike by any potential enemy and still survive with sufficient power to destroy the military capabilities of that enemy.

"This permits us, should we choose to do so, to adopt a strategy that would direct the surviving force against the military targets or that potential enemy."

Then McNamara added:

"I emphasize the words 'permit us' however, rather than stating that it would be necessarily planned to be used in that fashion."

This sentence raised questions as to whether McNamara was broadening the terms of his spare-the-cities strategy.

Sources familiar with McNamara's thinking said the defence secretary was saying the United States is not ruling out a possible strike at Russia's cities—if such an attack is to the advantage of the United States —even if the Russians avoid hitting U.S. cities in a surprise nuclear assault.

FREES NO STRIKE

The sources suggested the United States is leaving itself free to strike at Soviet cities if, for example, the Russians should start their conventional ground forces in motion to overrun Europe.

On other major points, McNamara said:

1. The effectiveness of the Communist guerillas in South Viet Nam has declined, but continued it will be years before that war is won.

2. He has no evidence that 10,000 North Vietnamese troops, who backed pro-Communist rebels in Laos, have moved or will move into South Viet Nam.

Concessions Offered in Medicare Fight But in Some Ways Opposition Stiffens

REGINA (CP) — There were slight indications of a softening approach Friday on both sides of the bitter Saskatchewan medical care dispute.

But opposition stiffened in some quarters as the doctors' strike against the CCF government's compulsory, prepaid medical care insurance plan proceeded its first week.

A second court action was launched Friday with leave granted to three residents to seek an injunction which would, in effect, suspend the operation of the Medical Care Insurance Act.

In Saskatoon, two doctors prominent in the emergency service which 200 of the province's doctors have been providing at 35 designated hospitals called for a special session of the legislature to deal with the dispute.

And the government of Premier Woodrow Lloyd, who flew to undisclosed destinations in Eastern Canada Thursday, He was expected back late tonight or Sunday.

The application for an injunction asking suspension of further activity by the administering Medical Care Insurance Commission will be heard in Queen's Bench Court next Tuesday.

The suspension is sought until the validity of the act can be tested in court after the vacation season, in September.

The application was sought by Hans Beal of Saskatoon, a vice-president of the province's Keep - Our - Doctors Committee; Dr. Lee of MacKenzie; Brand of Saskatoon and Ralph Purdy of Regina.

In the statement of defence was entered against a writ launched earlier in the week by two doctors who sought damages and a declaration that the act is beyond the power of the provincial legislature.

The doctors' motion was termed "frivolous, vexatious and an abuse of the process" of the court by counsel for Welfare Minister A. M. Nicholson, who was named a defendant along with 10 other members of the provincial cabinet and former premier T. C. Douglas.

The action in Regina is based mainly on the contention that the Medical Care Act disqualifies virtually every resident of the province from seeking election or retaining a seat in the legislature.

The application is maintained by Regina residents in a conjunctural relationship with the government and that by virtue of other provincial law this disqualifies them from seeking election.

The call by two Saskatoon doctors for a special session of the legislature "no matter what it was called for, as long as it dealt with the medical care dispute" was the first by prominent members of the College of Physicians and Surgeons.

It came from Dr. Sam Lande, co-ordinator for the emergency service plan being operated by the college co-ordination with the Canadian Medical Association, and Dr. Mark Ballan, emergency care co-ordinator for St. Paul's Hospital.

Earlier, Deputy Premier C. H. Bentley said the government has considered the request but

Fight Against Medicare In Courts Points up Trends

OTTAWA (CP) — A court action against Saskatchewan's controversial medical care legislation may point up a developing trend in Canada's constitutional development—a shift from federal cabinets to the courts in exercising power to disallow provincial laws.

The powers differ. The British North America Act gives the cabinet wide powers to disallow any new provincial statute within one year of receipt of a certified copy. The Supreme Court of Canada and lower courts may overrule a provincial law only if they find it to be outside provincial jurisdiction.

The Saskatchewan action was launched Tuesday in Court of Queen's Bench at Saskatoon by Regina lawyer W. J. Cranley of Prince Albert and M. H. MacKenzie of Saskatoon.

They asked the court to declare the province's Medical Care Insurance Act, effective July 1, unconstitutional on the grounds that it goes beyond the province's powers.

In the country's formative years, the federal veto was a fairly common practice. It has been used 112 times since Confederation but only rarely after 1920 and not at all since 1936 when the Liberal cabinet of Mackenzie King disallowed Alberta social credit mortgage and banking laws passed by the Alberta Social Credit government which sought to establish provincial banks and issue money.

Since 1936, federal government practice has been to let disputed provincial statutes stand and leave it to individuals or groups to test their validity in court.

Technically, the cabinet has

Imported Doctors Ineligible To Practise, Strikers Claim

REGIAA (CP) — The Saskatchewan government's corps of emergency doctors, recruited as a stop - gap aid to the province's supply of physicians, was embroiled in controversy today.

The newcomers, most of them flown here from Britain, have been described as ineligible to practise in Saskatchewan. The provincial government has taken accused of "strike-breaking."

The hiring agency, the Saskatchewan Medical Care Insurance Commission, says all its short - term help has current doctors' licences are fully qualified and that it is solely interested in providing medical services to communities without doctors.

Most of the criticism has been general, centering mainly the principle of importing outside doctors and the amount of their payment.

Donald Tansley, chairman of the commission, said it has moved a British doctor from her original hospital assignment at Biggar to a post at St. Margaret's Hospital in the West - central Saskatchewan town of Biggar by a doctor supplied by the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Five new arrivals expected this weekend will increase the total British emergency crew here to 15. They are hired on contracts providing return air transportation and remuneration from $200 to $400 a month for one to three months' terms.

The Canadian doctors have also been recruited by the commission from other parts of Canada.

The government - hired doctors are working apart from some 200 members of the college of physicians and surgeons who are providing emergency service free since July 3 in 35 hospitals.

E. J. W. Barootes, vice-president of the provincial medical college, said reports from Saskatoon Friday that the government is importing doctors ineligible for licence to practise. He did not say where Saskatoon got that report.

In Regina, Jack Kinne, Medical Care Commission secretary, said: "No British doctor has been refused registration by the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons."

Under Canadian law and medical practice a British doctor automatically qualifies for registration by the Saskatchewan medical college provided he is on the British Medical Association register and is of good character.

American doctors would have to write examinations before being permitted to practise in

RIOT-MARKED TRUCK DRIVERS' STRIKE ENDED

Vehicles to Start Moving at Once

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Eastern Canada's violence-marked truck drivers' strike has ended.

Trucks which have been standing idle as much as 12 weeks because of separate strikes in Ontario and Quebec are expected to start rolling again during the weekend, following settlement of both the walkouts.

Both strikes involved members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (Ind.).

The strike by 1,400 Quebec drivers, which began more than a month ago, and the Ontario walkout, was also the first to be settled, if only by a matter of hours.

The contract signing at Montreal came early Friday night, a few hours after some 600 shirt - sleeved strikers removed the terms almost unanimously, ending a strike that cost an estimated $12,000,000 for $12,000,000 in its 83-day duration.

VOTE IN FAVOR

Settlement of the Ontario strike was announced in London, Ont., by Leo Gerard, Toronto, and Lawrence McDougall, president of Tvansport Local 141, London, after strikers voted 1,900 to 1,694 in favor of ending their six-week dispute.

Included in the vote were ballots cast by members in London, Windsor, Toronto, Kingston and Hamilton. Windsor Local 880 rejected the terms Friday night in a show-of-hands vote that appeared to be a formality before the Teamster constitution.

Alfred Perry, president of Local 880, said Friday he had "no idea" why the voting in Windsor wasn't by secret ballot.

Representatives of the five Teamster locals involved and the Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau, bargaining agent for 65 Ontario trucking firms, met continuously over the weekend in Toronto at the end of the strike's fifth week.

The settlement calls for a wage increase of 28.5 cents an hour, less than the 34 cents demanded by the union, but two cents more than was recommended by a conciliation board agreed to by the employers.

RECALL WORKERS

A spokesman for the transport bureau said companies have begun recalling employees for regular Sunday night shifts.

"The companies are happy to see the strike settled and are about to return to normal operations," he said.

He refused to say how much the companies lost in money during the strike. Business took over, but admitted the trucking firms "are losing a lot of time" getting it all back.

McDougall said all pickets will be withdrawn tonight. He said he understands the Windsor local will ratify the vote and all result despite the show-of-hands opposition.

Blast 650 Feet Beneath Surface Tosses Chunks of Earth Into Air

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — An eyewitness to the most powerful nuclear blast the United States says huge chunks of earth shot "into the air as if they were weightless."

"It was quite different from the small air blasts we've seen—see a mushroom cloud," Representative Craig Hosmer, (R-Calif.), Nevada Republican said Friday. "There was no mushroom cloud in this one. There was a plume of dirt coming up out of the earth."

Hosmer was the only member of the congressional atomic committee to view the 100-kiloton explosion detonated 650 feet below ground at the Nevada test site, 65 miles north of Las Vegas.

"There was a small amount of flame, but there was no fireball," he said. "It was just heat escaping. There was a tremendous amount of dirt and dust kicked up."

He said the first sand dust formed a dark cone which then spread over the area and finally reached a height of about 19,000 feet. Then winds from northerly winds, he said.

Hosmer boarded a helicopter the early hours of the morning for the crater formed by the explosion. The crater is said to be a half-mile of the blast point.

"It was a little difficult to get to it because the wind was blowing the sand around," he said. "There was a hole, roughly a quarter of a mile wide. The bottom wasn't visible because of the heavy dust, but the sides of the crater were very steep."

"We've learned a tremendous amount today about excavating with nuclear explosives, which is essential for such projects as the alternative canal to the Panama Canal and other large projects."

Labor Congress Promised Probe Of Lake Strife

Price CLC Demanded To End Seaway Boycott

OTTAWA (CP)—With the St. Lawrence Seaway running normally now, the government is expected to announce early next week the precise terms of reference of its promised inquiry into labor unrest on the Great Lakes.

The government promised the inquiry to meet one condition set by the Canadian Labor Congress as its price for ending a 30-hour boycott by seaway canal workers against ships manned by crews belonging to the Seafarers International (Ind.).

The boycott was ended by union order after the seaway authority obtained court injunctions to force seaway workers to handle all ships.

In announcing the inquiry, the government pointed out its general task. It said the inquiry will consider "matters relating to the disruption of shipping in the Great Lakes, the St. Lawrence River system and connecting waters, including the operation and activities of the SIU."

The CLC, some of its affiliates and the Canadian Seamen's Union have repeatedly called for an investigation of the SIU in Canada. The SIU has refused.

However, indications are the terms of the inquiry will be broader than the CLC wanted. It will probably not be limited to just the SIU and its activities. The CLC wanted to be free to fight SIU backing with all its resources.

The short-lived boycott was aimed only at SIU manned ships but when it was begun at the Welland Canal the result was a blockade of all vessel movements.

The Hamilton Hindman crew, signed by SIU crewmen, swung across the channel to the Welland, cast off Canal Lake Ontario end, and blocked all traffic after canal operators refused to handle it.

With the lifting of the boycott, shipping began to move again. Seven ships had been stopped at the Lake Ontario end of the Welland and 12 at the Lake Erie end, and more than a dozen in the canal itself.

The government acted under a provision in the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act—the federal labor law, GIVES LABOR MINISTER

It permits the minister of labor to make any inquiries he sees fit "into any dispute or any matters and shop gives him power to "do such things as he considers calculated to maintain or secure industrial peace and to promote conditions favorable to settlement of disputes."

Sources said the labor department believed it could not act

BANDMASTERS MEET

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — About 200 bandmasters and their wives from across the country began gathering here Friday for the Canadian Bandmasters' Association's 50th anniversary convention. The convention, which ends Sunday, is being held at the campus of the University of Western Ontario with a concert by the London Philharmonic Orchestra at 35 wind and percussion players.

Moroccan Army Occupies Part Of Algeria

ALGIERS (AP) — Moroccan troops occupied areas of the Algerian Sahara in a new challenge to National Premier Youssef Ben Khedda's moderate regime. Fears arose that Khedda also would try to make good its claim to parts of the oil-rich desert.

Already reeling from internal turmoil that threatens civil war, the Algerian leaders were further humiliated by the land - grabbing move to Morocco's King Hassan II.

But the Ben Khedda regime appeared powerless to move against the Moroccan occupation until it sets its own house in order, and the Algerian leadership split was at its worst.

Rebellious Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella, the radical Wilaya 5 leader, and Ben Khedda on the eve of Algerian independence, have set up a steady drumfire of criticism of the Algiers' regime from his refuge in Cairo.

Aussie Wins Diamond Sculls For 6th Time

HENLEY, England (CP) — Stuart MacKenzie of Australia, at the world's foremost sculler, won the coveted Diamond for the sixth straight year today at the Royal Henley Regatta, defeating Britain's Bill Barry by three lengths.

MacKenzie, 28, a chick sexer, swept over the one - mile, 550-yard course in 7 minutes, 36 seconds to set a record for consecutive wins in the 152-year-old regatta.

Not since 1883, when English-man Jim Lavender won the diamonds for the fifth straight time, has anyone been within striking approaching MacKenzie's achievement.

Barry, a half dozen; now someone else can have a go."

MacKenzie said Australian oar has fleshed out the finishing line.

Two Killed In Explosion Of Jet Bomber

ST. FRANCIS, Kan. (AP) — Two airmen were killed Thursday exploded high over this northwest Kansas area Friday night, scattering debris over a wide area.

The jet-pilot bailed out. He was picked up and taken to hospital at Benkelman, Neb., for treatment of injuries.

The plane, from Schilling Air Force Base, Salina, Kan., crashed the base that an engine had caught fire.

Willie Burr, a farmer working in a field, heard a blast and looked around.

"I saw three smoking pieces coming down, and the largest piece looked like it was going to hit my house where my family was inside. I ran inside, and it gave me a mighty sick feeling."

The fuselage skimmed past Burr's house and left a crater 75 feet long, 20 feet wide and 20 feet deep in a 300-acre field.

$58,000,000 Added in June

OTTAWA (CP) — Some $58,070,000 was added to Canada's foreign exchange reserves from commercial transactions in the last week of June following announcement of the government's new austerity program, an official report indicates.

The report, published in the Canada Gazette, said the foreign exchange holdings totalled $1,908,700,000 at the end of June and is just over $700,000,000 higher than the $1,200,000,000 which Prime Minister Diefenbaker said was the reserves when he announced the austerity program June 24.

Most of the increase comes from $650,000,000 borrowed from the International Monetary Fund and $250,000,000 obtained through reciprocal currency arrangements with the Bank of England and the United States federal reserve banking system.

That means that some $58,000,000 was added to the reserves in the last week of June through normal transactions.

DOLLAR RISES

Moreover, during the same week the exchange rate on the Canadian dollar rose from approximately 91¼ U.S. cents to close the month at a shade under the dollar's par value of 92½ cents.

In the first week of July the exchange rate rook even further, 21 was quoted in New York Friday at $1.04, which is slightly better than one-eighth cent above the parity level.

Friday's report shows that the government's austerity program and other measures announced June 24 have succeeded in reversing the previous heavy drain on the exchange reserves.

Canada. The commission says the two Americans, both with long experience as doctors, have been hired as hospital interns under the superior large of a licensed doctor.

Meanwhile, an organization formed to keep Saskatchewan doctors in the province says the government by bringing in outside doctors has "cast the first stone that will strike the breakers."

A statement issued by the Keep - Our - Doctors Committee said an estimated expense of at least $100,000 has been incurred by the government for recruiting.

"This is another indication that the government is continuing to spend the people's money with reckless abandon to justify what it would call 'cutbacking,' the statement says.

Dr. Neville Smith of Regina, a spokesman for the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons, declares, if they continue to practise, are supporting the government's stand in the dispute.

New Potatoes, Raspberries Seen on Mart

Gooseberries, raspberries and Norland potatoes are now on the Canadian dollar store from approximately 91¼ U.S. cents to close the month at a shade under the dollar's par value of 92½ cents.

In the first week of July the exchange rate rook even further, 21 was quoted in New York Friday at $1.04, which is slightly better than one-eighth cent above the parity level.

HOW LONG CAN A MEDICINE LAST!
Each one has its own problem. Some must be taken soon after compounding for they lose potency daily. Certain drugs deteriorate quickly when exposed to light — others to heat. Some medicines absorb moisture from the air — others can give up less stable ingredients and decompose.
Pharmacists have been trained how to protect the potency of all drugs. That is why a pharmacist must attend college for many years to gain this knowledge. When you get your medicines from your pharmacy, potency is positive.

until Dec. 6, 1962, to act on its powers as described in the Saskatchewan legislation. Unfortunately here consider such action unlikely.

Copy of the act was received by the secretary of state's department last Dec. 7, it was sent to justice department lawyers who dissected the provincial legislation to determine whether it appears to be unconstitutional or against national interest or policy.

REFUSED ASSENT

A constitutional complication arose last year in Saskatchewan. Lieutenant - Governor Frank Bastedo refused to give royal assent to a bill that would have reopened some 2,000 mineral contracts for negotiation.

The federal cabinet reproached Mr. Bastedo's action a month later and gave the bill royal assent through an order-in-council.

In the last 10 years the Supreme Court has wiped out at least four provincial statutes on the grounds they infringed on fields reserved for Parliament. Several others, on the grounds it encroached federal jurisdiction were struck down.

1925—The Montreal holy - day closing bylaw and the Quebec statute under which it was passed. The bylaw ordered stores to close on Roman Catholic holy days and was found to be an infringement on criminal law.

1935—The Saskatchewan Mortgage Corporation tax exemption the province to postpone for two years payment of debts by any person who was in default on the grounds it dealt with bankruptcy and insolvency.

Fire Rating

Tweed Forest District

The fire danger rating in the Tweed forest district remains high today as the area enters it's seventh day without rain, according to an official of the Department of Lands and Forests, at Tweed this morning.

One of the fires burning yesterday has been called out, this is the Lynch area, but a new fire has taken its place.

The latest fire reported is in the Wooler area, but it, like the other five, is being patrolled. All are under control.

With a large number of campers and fishermen expected in the forest areas this weekend, the Department of Lands and Forests has requested once again that extreme caution be used. Forest beds throughout this part of the province are very dry.

Costume Day At Playgrounds On West Hill

A "costume day" was held at the West Hill Playgrounds on Friday, June fourteenth under supervision of playground leaders Donna Hall, Pete Carver and Lois Hurst. The children portraying their favorite characters paraded around the playground past the judges and prize winners were as follows:

Prizes were as follows: best costume as chosen by Mrs. M. Donovan was Lorraine Rivers; most original — Ronnie Adamson; best dressed boy — George Pickard; best dressed girl — Nancy Molloy; best dressed child under school age — Debbie Stinkle; most colorful costume — Susan Bradshaw; funniest costume — Stephen Graham; ugliest costume — Douglas Murray; prettiest costume — Sandra Mitchell and finally the craziest looking (tie) — Jeanette Carter and David Barrett. The judges of the special event were Sue Steed, Ron Uens, Nancy Sager, Janet Post and Elinor Andrews. The judges had a difficult time on deciding the winners as the costumes were all so good.

A "treasure hunt" followed the contest and the children scarred the playground for the hidden treasure. All in all the event was successful and the children appeared to have enjoyed themselves.

Redneresville Cottage Razed By Fire Friday

Loss amounting to approximately $6000 resulted yesterday afternoon when fire completely destroyed a summer cottage and contents on the south shore of the Bay of Quinte west of Redneresville. The cottage, located at Redner's Beach, was owned by Bernard Redner.

City firemen were called to the scene when the blaze had got too great a start and nothing could be done to save the building.

The owner told firemen that he had been at the cottage an hour before the fire was noticed and when he left everything appeared to be in order. When the fire was noticed the entire interior of the cottage was aflame.

Legal Wrangle Looms Over Runaway Spy

LONDON (AP) — A complex legal wrangle looms in London over runaway spy Robert Soblen's chance gamble to cheat U.S. justice.

Soblen himself lay in the hospital bedside ward behind high walls of London's Brixton jail — protected, for the moment, by one of the oldest laws of England.

A writ of habeas corpus granted by a High Court judge Friday gave the 57-year-old father of two a last chance to escape a life jail sentence for handing secrets to the Russians in wartime.

Soblen's lawyers followed this move with an application that he be granted bail pending the hearing.

The home office announced it could not consider this application until after the habeas corpus hearing in the High Court July 17. Soblen cannot be shipped out of the country until the court hears the case.

As he was moved from Holloway Hospital for the writ hearing Sat Friday, Soblen managed a thin smile and said: "I feel rough, but I have hopes."

Bleeding from self - inflicted wounds in his wrists and abdomen, he was hurried to Hillingdon Sunday, three hours before airliner flying him from Israel to the United States.

Jumping through the ball, Soblen earlier had fled to Israel on a passport forged in the name of deceased brother after the U.S. Supreme Court rejected his appeal against the life sentence.

Hasty Pees To Leave for Annual Camp

The Hasty Pees are off to summer camp tomorrow. About 200 members of the regiment will spend Sunday, June 17 to July 14, at the Militia camp at Barriefield, near Kingston, Ont.

At the camp, they'll live in tents and take part in training. Most of the training will be infantry skills and national survival. The men will be paid for their services. They will be issued with extra allowances for their specialized qualifications.

An advance party from the regiment is already at the camp, preparing for the arrival of the regiment. According to present plans, the regiment will travel by army buses to the camp gates. At the gates, they will leave the buses and march into camp in full review order.

Hotel Refuses Reservation for Dr. R. Bunche

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Dr. Ralph Bunche, American Negro winner of the United Peace Prize, Friday night publicly denounced a hotel owned by Atlanta hotel's refusal to make a room reservation for Dr. Bunche, undersecretary for special political affairs at the United Nations, who had been invited as mediator in the 1948-49 Palestine conflict.

He charged the hotel reservation question in a speech prepared for delivery at the annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

He referred at the outset of his speech to the Dinkler Plaza Hotel and said he brought up the matter only "to underline a fact that I consider very important: the press gets interested in an exclusion story of this kind only if an individual Negro of some prominence is refused accommodation at a hotel or restaurant, although the place welcomes any white face with the money to pay."

He said he granted to anyone "the right to find me acceptable as a person, as an individual; but never to label my group and slur my ancestry as the reason for rejecting me."

Did Not Know Enumerator Had Served Time

TORONTO (CP) — The registrar-magistrate for Trinity riding testified Friday he was surprised to learn an enumerator who had served time in federal election had served a jail sentence.

H. L. McKinstry told the special enquiry into alleged enumerator irregularities in the Toronto riding he fired George Ewing, whom he had known for several years, after a newspaper account of Ewing's criminal record was published.

Ewing was arrested following a 1957 demonstration in front of St. Paul's riding and indicted on 12 charges of perjury, uttering and breaches of the Federal Elections Act.

Although they lived outside the riding he was an enumerator in Trinity subdivision Mr. McKinstry said. He said he had not asked the chief electoral officer if one person could enumerate two subdivisions.

Ewing was appointed J. Wright, of London, Ont., was ordered early in May after two Democratic Party candidate Thomas Patton complained of irregularities. It continues in Osgoode Hall.

The inquiry is to determine if Mr. McKinstry knowingly or negligently appointed unqualified persons as deputy returning officers or enumerators made false oaths.

Mr. Ewing was subpoenaed by the commission but will be in Europe until July 12.

Want to Return To Lonely Isle

In the summer Militia Recruit Course, Sgt. Snelgrove, of Peterborough, instructs a platoon in map reading. Sgt. Snelgrove is a member of the Millbrook armouries of the regiment, but is living in Belleville for the course.

Student Militia Recruit Course on at Armouries

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment's Student Militia Recruit Course got underway last Monday. This is the seventh annual course in the series. About 105 recruits, high school students more than 17 years old, are enrolled in the course with the regiment, of these, about 80 are training at the Belleville armouries. Some of the others are training at Madoc and fifteen recruits, from Port Hope and Millbrook, are training with another regiment in Cobourg.

The recruits signed for a two-year enlistment in the regiment. For the first five weeks, during the summer, they are being trained for 8 hours a day, daily, and being paid regular militia rates, plus a subsistence allowance. If they pass this course, they will be qualified as trained recruits. Their winter training, Monday nights, will then be devoted to advanced training in the course of their choice.

Their basic training is in drill, fundamental infantry operations, and national survival. Passing out parade for the recruits in this course is scheduled for August 2, at 8.00 p.m.

Huckleberry Rocks Are Well Populated

The annual harvest of the huckleberry rocks is again in full swing!

Reports from the blueberry area northeast of Tweed along Highway 7 indicated the blueberry rocks were well populated with pickers over the past weekend and the same is expected this week. Both the amateur family groups of pickers as well as the professionals were represented.

A reasonably good crop of blueberries is expected this year although pickers state that rain is needed.

Unique Cars To Visit City On July 16th

As previously mentioned, the London-Brighton Commemoration Tour will be passing through this district, giving local residents a chance to see these beautifully restored automobiles.

On July 16th, the tour of forty automobiles will leave Brighton via Highway 2, pass through Trenton between 4.00 and 4.25 p.m., Belleville between 4.45 and 5.15 and no on to Desoronto where they will spend the night at Davison's Motel.

Next morning, Tuesday, the tour returns to Belleville around 10.00 to 10.30 a.m., turning south to Bloomfield, where they will be met by representatives of Prince Edward county council, Picton town council and the Picton Chamber of Commerce at 11.15 a.m. The route through Picton will be east along Main to Johnson, north to Queen, west to the end of Queen and back on to Main via Downes Ave. Passing along Main again the tour will proceed to Bridge to the Lake-on-the-Mountain for lunch with the reception committee. This tour through Picton is due to leave Sharpe Motors at 11.45.

Leaving by the Glenora Ferry at 1.30 p.m. the tour will drive to Kingston arriving at 3.00 p.m. They will parade in Old Fort Henry to be joined by members of the Vintage Automobile Club of Montreal. After touring the fort the combined tours will drive along Highway 2 to Ivy Lea for dinner and the night.

On Wednesday, July 18th, a visit will be paid to the Upper Canada Village. Thursday, a run through part of the Rideau Lakes to Westport for lunch, then in the afternoon to Carp Motel in Kingston for dinner via Bedford Mills, Jack Lake, Perth road and Inverary.

People taking part in the tour are members of either the Antique and Classic Car Club of Canada, the Historic Vehicle Club of Ontario or the Vintage Automobile Club of Montreal. They come from Sarnia, Windsor, Toronto, Hamilton, N.Y., Portland, Detroit, Port Credit, Hamilton, Kingston and Montreal.

FINAL TOUCHES — Remi Giroux (right) applies a few final polishes to a Porsche Carrera coupe as driver-owner-mechanic Wayne Kelly watches approvingly. The action climaxed a full week of preparation of the car for the sports car races at the St. Eugene Circuit this weekend.

HMM, WHAT'S THIS — That might have been what Porsche driver Wayne Kelly said to himself as he adjusted the timing of one of the four camshafts on engine of his sports racing car. The local enthusiast has to rely on himself for the complete repair and tuning of his car.

Trenton Driver Wayne Kelly Trying for Canadian Title

This weekend the St. Eugene sports car race circuit just off Vankleek Hill, Ontario, will be the scene of the Quebec region event for the Canadian sports car racing championship. The Montreal MG Car Club, which is sponsoring the event, has laid on a special 25-mile race to qualify as a championship event.

Amongst the top cars there will be the Porsche contingent, which has been the subject of a single marque to contend for racing honors at the top Canadian events. Among the drivers in this group are some of Canada's top men, including the 1961's Canadian champion Ludwig Heimrath of Toronto.

A local sports car racing star last, who first cut his teeth on racing in a number of events and the famous European circuits, is amongst this group, Wayne Kelly of Trenton will be driving his Porsche Carrera coupe on the St. Eugene circuit this Sunday.

One of the few top drivers with a top quality car who has no patron or sponsor, Kelly has to rely on himself to finance, maintain, tune and repair his $7,500 car, as required, as well as race it. Needless to say his progress towards such a goal as the Canadian championship is beset with many difficulties which do not plague the sponsored or subsidized driver who has the facilities of either a benefactor, a well-equipped organization or both behind him.

FRIENDS HELP

These problems are alleviated by several friends who are able to show up from time to time to lend a hand at pulling apart an engine, to preparing the sleek, silver coupe for an event or to get it on its trailer and give it a tow to an event (the Kelly family car is non-existent).

The Kelly Carrera is a rare car. Its external features are shared by any other Porsche coupe and even its basic engine layout is similar (a four cylinder, horizontally - opposed, air-cooled motor). The major difference is that this is a machine built for unusually high performance.

Instead of the ordinary pushrod arrangement of operating its valves, the Carrera engine depends on four overhead camshafts, a technically superior (and more costly) design over the normal engine's single camshaft.

Extra large brakes, especially designed and built to take the heavier stresses imposed upon them by racing; light-weight alloy wheels with special racing tires to withstand abnormally high speeds on the straightaways and extreme stress when cornering; double ignition systems to provide reliable ignition at engine speeds well above the normal engine's revolution range - - all of these and delivery of horsepower to make the Carrera a very different Porsche indeed.

DOES ON WORK

Kelly, as stated, does all his own work on the car and engineer There are very few mechanics in Canada who are knowledgeable in the stripping and assembling of the special Carrera engine and even fewer who have the experience and talent for tuning it to perfection once the engine is assembled.

To watch the Trenton lad work on his engine is almost as much of a delight in viewing smooth motion with no wasted motion as to watch the car on a race circuit. Kelly has the technique for stripping and assembly down to a fine art having had the unfortunate necessity of doing so on several occasions during his racing season. His basic training in this was gained as a young school held at the Porsche factory for outstanding drivers from the Hitler Youth in the Canadian Air Force in Germany.

Tuning has been a major problem, however, with about four to five hours spent each time and careful attention required as for a normal engine, what with the four separate camshafts and four carburetors to be aligned and adjusted.

The past week's preparation for the St. Eugene race has been a successful one according to Kelly's mechanic who has been running better and, with the addition of a new set of collapsed clutch disc during the final test runs of the car, everything is functioning perfectly. It is hoped that the engine's new found dependability have affected the local enthusiast in the early events of the season as he has entered both and Sunday evening will see him competing in both events here with some silverware from the St. Eugene Trophy Races.

E.P.B.C. Dean Of Men to Be Guest Pastor

CAMPBELLFORD — The Rev. N. E. Schlarbaum, Dean of Men for the Eastern Pentecostal Bible College, will be supplying the pulpit of the Campbellford Pentecostal Church in pastor Hornby's absence during the months of July and August.

One of Ontario's native sons, Mr. Schlarbaum has had varied background of experience. He was in the army for five years during World War II. After the war, he studied at Moodies and the Prairie Bible Institute for the past 12 years he has been on the college staff. Besides his responsibilities as Dean of Men, he teaches "World Wide Missions, Pastoral Epistles and Ages and Dispensations." He has been camp speaker at Elim's Youth Conference and in Newfoundland and Manitoulin Islands camps. His ministry will be greatly appreciated by the local congregation.

Algerian Leaders Find It's Harder to Be Men of Peace

By DAVID GARCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Tragedy still haunts the sun-drenched land of Algeria in the wake of hard-won peace.

The turmoil that greeted the independence reaching from Sunday's referendum is giving its place has emerged the ugly reality of a Nationalist government driven by disillusion and threatened by the armed forces whose actions helped put it into power.

The conclusion observers drew from developments in recent days is that Algerian leaders are finding it more difficult to be men of peace than men of war.

The Evian agreements between France and the Moslem Nationalists brought the prospects of peace and an independent Algeria.

AMITY ENDS

Until last week Nationalist leaders managed to maintain a united front.

Not even the coldly premeditated campaign of murder and violence waged by the illegal European Secret Army Organization could provoke a breach in their discipline. But victory, in the form of an overwhelming "yes" vote for independence last Sunday, did.

Mohammed Ben Bella, Nationalist deputy leader, openly broke with Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda. He appears to be backed by many of the commanders of the Algerian National Liberation Army.

The feeling is that the breach cannot be healed in terms of race hate - - West clash or international issue. The conflict is within the four separate camarderie and four carburetors to be aligned and adjusted.

The past week's preparation for the St. Eugene race has been a successful one according to Kelly's mechanic who has been running better and, with the addition of a new set of collapsed clutch disc during the final test runs of the car, everything is functioning perfectly. HOPED TO LEAD

Ben Bella, 42, is a dedicated revolutionary who hoped to assume control of the National Cabinet government when the French released him last March after five years in jail.

"He is much like a man who, after having been beating the life of his limbs and indulges in hot violent exercise," says the London Economist.

"But Mr. Ben Khedda's revolutionary past is behind him, replaced by the hard school of carrying responsibility and having to come to terms, not merely with France but with the world as it is lived in."

Much will depend on the attitude in the future of Houari Boumedienne, Algerian minister in Ben Khedda's government. He was one of the original conspirators behind the armed uprising of Nov. 1, 1954, and was the respect of the troops he led.

If he backs his premier to the hilt, there may be some hope that the army will support the government, thus lessening the danger from violent international battle.

CONCESSIONS

sibility of calling a special session but a prior condition would be the return to normal practice of striking doctors.

The general secretary of the OMA, Dr. A. D. Kelly, said earlier that a special session might be a step in the right direction for discussion between the college and the government should he hold first.

In Regina, a special meeting of the Saskatchewan College of Dental Surgeons decided it will have to curtail certain types of dental service because of the doctors' strike.

The dentists planned on withdrawal of their services but agreed unanimously to support the stand of the doctors. They asked for repeal of the act.

The Medical Care Insurance Commission said approximately 30 per cent of the province's 4,300 hospital beds have medical care.

SMALL HOSPITALS CLOSE

Commission Secretary Jack Kinsel said apart from the 35 hospitals, staffed under the college's emergency service another 25 hospitals are operating with medical care coverage. About 20 small hospitals had no doctor. Two small hospitals remained closed.

At Yorkton, it was announced that emergency service would remain today. There are no doctors to service the emergency ward. The hospital was one of the 35 covered by the doctors' scheme.

The board of governors of the Regina General Hospital in a resolution following a closed session urged the government to suspend the act and the doctors to resume normal practice.

At Saskatoon, a Keep-Our-Doctors rally was held by Dr. James A. Forrester that the University of Saskatchewan medical school is in danger of closing.

He said the dispute has brought "serious signs of erosion in morale." Without elaborating, he said students who are attending the school today may be leaving tomorrow.

which covers more than 7,000 drivers, is retroactive to Oct. 1, 1961, and runs until Sept. 30, 1965. The initial increase will be about six cents. Top wage for a city trucker and bus driver is $1.78 an hour. The pact lasts four years and provides $20 of a demanded $30 in retroactive pay.

It was reported that a conciliation leading to the two settlements was withdrawal of a series of civil and criminal libel actions launched by some trucking firms against the union.

The Toronto truckers did not win their demand for union control over independent owner-operators working under contract for transport companies, and ITU's job and income guarantee for drivers affected by diversion of freight by railpiggback.

However, an earlier guarantee to protect jobs of employees with five years' seniority from piggyback, was extended to cover all drivers with at least two years' seniority.

The new Quebec contract calls for wage increases totalling 26 cents an hour, with most being retroactive to July 1, another nine cents starting Aug. 1, 1963, and a further eight cents Sept. 1, 1964.

It also calls for increased contributions by the firms to health and welfare benefits and improved mileage rates for highway drivers.

The union had demanded 30 cents an hour while the companies offered 24 cents. The new contract will run until Sept. 30, 1965.

Wages of the Quebec strikers ranged from a basic $1.55 an hour to an average of $7,500 a year for highway drivers.

CONFIRMS ELECTION

VANCOUVER (CP) — An official recount completed Friday in Vancouver - Burrard has confirmed the election of Tom Berger, New Democratic Party candidate in the June 18 federal election. The recount was requested by Liberal Ron Basford, who trailed Mr. Berger by 96 votes in the unofficial counting election day. The recount gave Mr. Berger a 90-vote margin over Mr. Basford — 9,173 votes to 9,079.

NDP Leader Seeking Seat In B.C.

By ARCH MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — The New Democratic Party has approached Prime Minister Diefenbaker about the prospect of defeated Leader T. C. Douglas running unopposed in a by-election.

Honorary party President M. M. J. Coldwell and Stanley Knowles, NDP whip for Winnipeg North, Centre and a member of the party executive, called on Mr. Diefenbaker before lunch Friday for about 15 minutes.

There was no indication what developed.

It is believed that the two visitors sought information on whether Mr. Diefenbaker would be agreeable to an early by-election and whether the government would oppose Mr. Douglas in that by-election.

Mr. Douglas has been offered the British Columbia riding of Burnaby - Coquitlam, held by Erhart Regier.

PEARSON APPROACHED

Earlier, Mr. Regier (consulted Liberal Leader Pearson on whether that party would stand aside if Mr. Douglas contested Burnaby - Coquitlam. Mr. Pearson indicated that would depend on the course adopted by the Progressive Conservatives and the Social Credit party.

Mr. Regier has contended it is normal practice in by-elections following a general election to withhold opposition to the candidate of the party winning by a substantial margin.

Aside from whether the three other parties accept this, there is the question of a by-election date. This is purely a matter for the government to set.

After a resignation has been accepted, the government has six months to set a date for a by-election but the date can be any time within the maximum five-year life of the Parliament.

There is also some constitutional doubt about the mechanism whereby an MP can resign in the interval between a general election and the calling of Parliament. No such precedent exists. Mr. Diefenbaker has said he expects to call Parliament in September.

233 Jamaicans Qualify to Enter Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — A total of 233 skilled Jamaicans have qualified for admission to Canada as immigrants under the federal government's new immigration regulations, it was learned Friday.

Immigration department officials said they expect that the Jamaicans will start arriving in Canada from Kingston within the next few weeks.

Movement of the Jamaicans into Canada represents the first concrete reflection of new immigration regulations which went into effect Feb. 1. Under the regulations, persons from any part of the world with suitable educations' and skills required in Canada now may apply to enter as immigrants regardless of race, color or creed.

Prior to the enactment of the new regulations, persons from The West Indies and other non-white countries could come to Canada only if they were sponsored by a close relative or were admitted by order-in-council.

Prospective immigrants were interviewed in Jamaica by a three - man Canadian team.

The team now is in Trinidad and also will visit other islands in The West Indies group.

The department also said that applications received from Hong Kong show that the Crown colony will be a source of trained, educated immigrants in the professional and business fields.

Lake Unions Battle

Belleville, being off the main routes of lake shipping and on the mainlines of two railways, is not so dependent on water-borne traffic as are many of the communities which line the Great Lakes on both sides of the international border.

Nevertheless, Belleville and indeed the whole country has a stake in this traffic, and, therefore, a vital interest in the boycott of certain vessels called by Canadian seaway workers.

In essence, this is a strike in the interests of justice and order. There is no question but that the Seafarers' International Union has been guilty of intimidation, and worse, involving Canadian lake vessels manned by non-members of the union.

It is highly questionable, though, whether the boycott is likely to achieve anything but the promotion of more violence, on both sides of the border, unless the injunction obtained by the Federal Government serves to compel a peaceful settlement.

The history of labor organization on the Canadian sides of the lakes is not a happy one. It is riddled with instances of violence, by union members against strike-breakers, by strike-breakers against union members and by members of one union against another.

Ironically enough, the Seafarers' International Union was deliberately imported into Canada to get the communist-led Canadian Seamen's Union off the back of the ship operators. The CSU fought a rough, tough battle, but lost. In those days, SIU tactics were winked at, on the plea that it was necessary to fight fire with fire. The CSU, a "good" union if judged solely by the standards of what it gained for its members, was small fry compared with the big SIU, which has had even bigger ambitions since the seaway was constructed, at one time dreaming of control of all water transportation facilities on the seaway and the lakes. The SIU, however, ran afoul of the big labor confederations in its expansionist program and here in Canada the Canadian Congress of Labor sponsored another union for lake sailors, the Canadian Maritime Union. The SIU retaliated by making the lives of Canadian ship owners and crew members as miserable as possible, whenever Canadian ships called at U.S. ports. The Canadian Maritime Workers demand a cessation of these harassing tactics as the price for the end of the boycott on SIU ships by seaway dock workers. Judging from the record, the SIU is more likely to step up the campaign against ships manned by members of rival unions, when they call at U.S. ports, than it is to capitulate quickly.

These are the fruits of government reluctance, on both sides of the border, to enforce law and order in labor disputes.

The Easy Road Is Down

In Paris, Ontario, a delegation of parents has complained to the school board that children took walks at noon to school due to a recent reorganization plan.

The technicalities of the circumstances involved, which revolve about the desire to maintain small classes so that students can learn better, we shall not discuss.

What does astonish us initially and anger us eventually is that the parents appear to feel that their children should not be required to walk a mile to a good education. They appear to accept a mediocre level of learning if Johnnie or Mary does not have to walk too far.

We have no sequence with parents who desire the best in life for their children; this is only natural. Unfortunately some people's ideas as to what the best things in life might be are rather juvenile or misguided.

The idea of accepting the easy way out at the expense of also accepting the mediocre or the worthless does not seem to bother too many people today. This attitude, which may be interpreted as a lack of self respect and confidence, is easily discernible to the young and must eventually be accepted by too many of them as the status quo.

The idea of actually getting out and working to achieve a worthwhile goal fails to stimulate many minds or bodies to action these days. Why shift a gear lever when a push of a button will do? Why get out-of-doors and create one's own form of recreation when a television screen offers a state of hypnotic satisfaction? Why attempt to achieve a real goal when one can simulate the motions instead?

Canada was built by people who thought nothing of a five-mile walk to school. She needs the same kind of people to keep her going —up that is. The best place to develop these people is right at home by demanding that our children learn at an early age that they get nothing for nothing and the only easy road is down.

Shall We Play the Game? If So, Which Game to Play

By RICHARD JACKSON

From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — For a rookie in the Parliament Hill league, Toronto Maple Leaf hockey star Leonard "Red" Kelly is learning fast.

He was up the other day, scouting the rest of the newly-recruited talent on Liberal Leader Pearson's big, heeled-up team, and looking over the Commons arena where he'll soon be playing the great game of politics.

So, of course, he went a half a dozen Parliaments or more.

Saddest were those who had been cut down in Ontario, for they were the ones who had been expected to get it in the political neck.

What happened?

Ask a defeated Ontario Conservative MP, and he'll give you three reasons:

"The crime probe. . . "running," said John Charlton, for 17 years MP for Brant-Haldimand whose upset after five dull Parliaments was a real scrimmer, "like a serial story in the newspapers every day."

"The Devalued Dollar. . . just between the pattern of Conservative casualties in Ontario — along the border, the lakeside, from Toronto, eccentrically all the way to Windsor. It was the last two weekends at Buffalo and Detroit that got them in, just as lost weekends in Vermont knocked them off in Montreal.

"And finally, to hear them tell it when they've got their hair down. . . "we were too fat with those 208 votes they rubbed it. . . those 58 majorities, who would have thought they could go down the drain like that!. . . "

"I was wondering, Sir, whether for the sake of your health you might give up cigars and give me a refund!"

Assured that the ropes were that tight, and that just such situation was possible, if not a bang - smash - finish situation was possible, if not altogether probable, the National Hockey League's newest gift to Federal politics pondered modestly.

Then he came up with an answer that was immediate, the old pros of the Liberal Party such as warhorse "Cora Tal" Casselman, "Gentleman Sir Silver Fox" Chevrier, smile when surprised and obviously pleased satisfaction.

The Redhead was catching on.

What would I do, mused Big Red, recall I'd have to wait and see what gave — stand back and see what the particular pressures and special circumstances were . . . kind of quick-glance the score and then make my move . .

"Sounds", beamed Liberal fingerman J. W. "Jack" Pickersgill, "like our boy has been in the bureaucratic business a long time".

And so it did.

Nothing was going to ruin the Redhead.

At first glance, he immediately struck up as by far the best rookie the NHL has ever farmed out to the Parliamentary League.

FOURTH IN LINE

There have been others . . . Lionel Conacher and Wilfrid "Bucko" McDonald of the Liberals, and Gisele Mercier of the Conservatives . . . all of them, to be undiplomatically honest, better by far than they either were at oratory.

Bucko Conacher, through three Parliaments, long enough to latch onto the $3,000 Commons pension that is his, and a politician who can rack up enough Sessions.

This Red Kelly is a new breed up from the NHL.

He's a Liberal, Pepper in his Ivy Leagues. Able to sticks-handle artfully off the top of his head in the practiced company of some of the Parliamentary Press Gallery. Reasonably handsome.

It was easy to know that Captain Mike Pearson, looking over the new team, figured he had something a find in Mr. Leonard Kelly.

The Redhead, unimpressed by the "big game" company, took it all in stride, talking as easily with Liberal economic wizard Walter Gordon, former Deputy Minister Minister Red Drury and the other newly-drafted MPs as with the "Four Horsemen", Pearson, Martin, Chevrier and Pick.

Figure he'll handle the Parliamentary push for the Liberals in such plays as sport, physical fitness, maybe health and such things.

"But I really came up here", he reported with live interest, "to broaden my field . . . sport is known . . . now there are a lot of other things I don't know . . . and these I will learn".

Rural Voter Has Big Edge

Montreal Star

Our Ottawa bureau, commenting on the election, wrote that the Conservative victory in Quebec ration raised the question of redistribution of seats in the Commons. That will be the information available for redistribution," it wrote, "and it is considered likely it should be carried out before another election is held."

This may not be possible, but the government, with this election's experience in mind, should start as soon as may be to redistribute on the basis of the 1961 census. It is bound by law to do so, and Mr. Diefenbaker may be forced into doing so earlier this year. But dissolution left his plans in the air and a government House defeat early in the next session may frustrate it by necessitating the Social Credit gains in Quebec emphasize how greatly the rural seats overbalance the urban seats. Only redistribution carried out by a non-partisan tribunal of some kind could restore the balance.

The disparity in weight is probably evident all over Canada. It is particularly evident in Quebec, Montreal and, with a population according to the last census of 2,600,000, has 21 seats. The rest of the province, with a population of 3,500,000 has 74 seats — one and one-half times the population, more than twice the number of seats. (A few urban seats of the Indian and Eskimo must be excluded from this calculation, but only a few.)

The principle has been recognized. It was one of the reasons why Mr. Diefenbaker had insisted in the Throne Speech from the Throne last January that a sentence: "My government will ask you to take steps to ensure that the forthcoming redistribution of electoral districts is made in an equitable manner and on objective basis." The trouble has been to discover where equity lies and what objectivity is. Nothing in objectivity in the past invariably led to gerrymandering, for every redistribution was controlled by a majority in the House, and Diefenbaker proposed to give the House the last word but to confide the details of redistribution to an Electoral Boundaries Commission of five members; the chief Election Officer of Canada would be one member, the others would be judges of a superior court.

The bill embodying this plan was put before the House in April, got two days of debate and died with dissolution. The government thought, and the bill said, the Commission should complete its task before another election. The Commission could, however, be named and put to work so that by the election after next a more equitable distribution of seats could be provided.

Trade Stamps Build Chapel

Guelph Mercury

A Roman Catholic mission chapelsis is about 20 per cent along the way to his goal of building a new church at St. Jude Wilde the Walls — at the Eastern Correctional Institution, Nelson.

Rev. Matthew J. Killian has announced that the additional $18,000 needed for the project. He has devised an unusual way of getting it.

He is asking supporters to contribute trading stamps — 100,000 books of them — to make the chapel possible. He will, of course, accept money. But he said that all the major trading stamp companies had agreed to contribute the value of stamps to money or building materials for the project.

The chapel, which can be built only after the full amount has been collected, will be used by prayed by the New York State Department of Correction.

It will serve Catholic inmates at the institution, who make up 30 per cent — in round figures — of the 3,000 inmates.

Father Killian is assigned to the post by the Archdiocese of New York.

The New York State Council of the Knights of Columbus has backed this project, and so far has collected 4,000 trading stamp books. The remainder of the 30 per cent — in stamps and cash — has been contributed by others.

The trading stamp companies really took a calculated risk on this unique scheme. Just how they give the flood of proposals they would face if they weren't able to restrict their concession to the construction of a prison chapel.

Darwin Soon Defined Bug

Edmonton Journal

When Charles Darwin was a young man he was persuaded to be a house master in a boys' school. As might be imagined, he talked to the boys a great deal about the wonders of nature, and particularly the many forms of life.

One day, two of the boys decided to have some fun with Professor Darwin.

From the many insect specimens on hand they constructed a most remarkable beetle. They fastened the legs of one specimen to the back of another, and, when pinned it with a head of a third. Finally they gave it two pairs of wings.

They put the "creature" in a little box and proceeded to the master's study. Having tapped on the door and been invited to enter, they did so, and displayed their "find."

Darwin examined the object with minute care, while the boys waited. Said he at last: "Well, I think when you caught it!"

"Oh yes, sir," they replied eagerly.

"Well, then," said Darwin, "I know what it is. It's a humbug."

Boracic Acid Contains 'Poisonous' Properties

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have heard one or two doctors remark that boracic acid should not be used as an eyewash. I have always used it that way. Please give me your opinion. — A. B."

Boric acid (boracic acid is another name for exactly the same substance) is not harmless.

It has toxic properties as an antiseptic; it also has toxic (poisonous) properties. Again there are not powerful as compared with some of the virulent poisons, but they exist.

I see no objection to the occasional use of boric acid as an eyewash, but under ordinary circumstances the eyes don't need washing or rinsing. That's what tears are for. The normal watering of our eyes.

If, on occasion, there is some chronic infection of the eyelids, this deserves serious diagnosis and the use of one of the more modern and more effective drugs, which act more specifically than does boric acid.

Boric acid, in cases, is simply a hangover from an earlier time; perhaps no more than a decade ago, when we didn't have anything better. Now we do.

As for continued, routine use of a boric acid eyewash, let me ask one question: "Why?" We use an antiseptic for a cut or a scratch, but we certainly don't use an antiseptic when we don't have a cut, a scratch or ward off an injury. The same is true of boric acid. Medicine needs treatment, but there's no blessed reason for using medicine when it is not needed.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What could cause a watery and sometimes mucous discharge from the rectum? I am a man in the 60's and have noticed it for years, so far several years. It seems to increase. — W. P."

It's a symptom that should be investigated thoroughly. Among the possibilities are colitis, fissure, allergy.

Hemorrhoids can be cured! If troubled with fissures, fistulas, a blind pile and other rectal problems, write for a copy of my booklet, The Real Cure For Hemorrhoids, containing a long, self-addressed, unstamped envelope and enclose 25 cents to cover handling and postage. Write to Dr. Molner in care of the Box 1345, New York Newspaper Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Too many hobbies are too soon explored, too soon exhaust. Of all hobbies, should be a big enough field to keep the most insatiable hobbyist busy. Again, for the prairie dwellers, there is the new "Prairie Wildflower" book by Dr. Boyd Carmichael, with a similarly inexhaustible appeal. And still another area for the mountains and the far west. Anybody in search of a hobby for "down" wear out should look into botany, which will keep him busy winter as well as summer, since the surest identification of that subject is made in winter by means of the winter buds.

Since this do not seem to fit when approached, botany-walking is the most leisurely, rewarding and all-round-year of all outdoor sports.

There are those who have become so engrossed in the area covered by the book, which treats of only 400 of the 5,000 species of plants in the area covered, that they have gone on to write books of their own. Others have become so interested in the study of the weeds that they have written books about them. Then there are those who have become so interested in the study of the trees that they have written books about them. Stories of Famous Hymns

By HORACE R. POWELL

"THERE IS A FOUNTAIN"

There is a fountain filled with blood,
Drawn from Immanuel's veins;
And sinners, plunged beneath that flood,
Lose all their guilty stains.

* * *

The dying thief rejoiced to see
That fountain in his day;
And there may I, though vile as he,
Wash all my sins away.

* * *

Dear dying Lamb! Thy precious blood
Shall never lose its power,
Till all the ransomed church of God
Be saved, to sin no more.

* * *

E'er since, by faith, I saw the stream
Thy flowing wounds supply,
Redeeming love has been my theme
And shall be till I die.

* * *

Then, in a nobler, sweeter song,
I'll sing Thy power to save,
When this poor lisping, stammering tongue
Lies silent in the grave.

Half a dozen years before Americans drafted and signed the Declaration of Independence, two Englishmen formed a literary partnership which destined to yield some of the world's most beautiful and precious hymns.

One of the partners was the Rev. John Newton, who was serving a curacy at Olney, England to which he had been ordained in 1764. The other was William Cowper, one of England's most brilliant poets and men of letters, whose life had been blighted by repeated attacks of mental despondency and who had come to Olney for a change of scene.

The pastor and poet became inseparable friends whose, about 1770, they embarked on their hymn-writing venture, the collection of religious verses which they turned out together became known as the "Olney Hymns." When the volume of songs was finished, Newton penned a preface in which he explained that the hymn-writing had been undertaken "to perpetuate the remembrance of an intimate and endeared friendship." Undoubtedly, it also was intended to occupy Cowper's mind and to help him escape from his melancholia.

Cowper, who was born at Great Berkhampstead, England, in 1731, was the son of a clergyman. His father was chaplain to King George II. His mother died when William was scarcely six years old. Even as a lad, it is said, the poet-to-be suffered occasionally from the mental disorders which were to bring so much unhappiness in his life in later years.

Two years after the writing of the "Olney Hymns" had begun, Cowper passed through the worst mental crisis of his career. He made several vain attempts to take his life and then, when he had recovered from his obsession, he was so overwhelmed by the realization of God's protecting love and care that he wrote his famous verses:

"God moves in a mysterious way
His wonders to perform;
He plants His footsteps in the sea:
And rides upon the storm.

Deep in unfathomable mines
Of never-ending skill,
His treasures up His bright designs,
And works His sovereign will."

Cowper lived for many years after that and through them all, he found solace in his poetry and in his friendship with Newton. In the last 25 years of his life he wrote some of his finest and most enduring hymns including "O For A Closer Walk With God," "Jesus, Where'er Thy People Meet" and "There Is A Fountain Filled With Blood."

The last hymn, which appears above, has been criticized by some for it graphic imagery, but nearly every critic has found an answering defender. Dr. Ray Palmer, author of the immortal hymn, "My Faith Looks Up To Thee," regarded Cowper's hymn very highly and James Montgomery, another eminent hymnist, called it "a lyric of high tone and character and rendered awfully interesting by the circumstances under which it was written."

A CORDIAL WELCOME TO ALL

A Lift For Living

No Need to Fear Aging If Spirit Kept Young

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Medical care for the aged is a most important and much discussed issue. But how about those who are getting old yet are not ill? In fact, think of the many who feel so well that they wish to work beyond the point where business and industry would retire them.

Some time ago a competent man became the victim of an office shake-up. His record had been flawless. Now he was terrified. He went to a friend and said, "I have made six applications for a job and referred to you. This organization will not consider me if they know my real age — 52. If they add my age, could you conscientiously say I'm 45?"

His friend told him it would strain his integrity to make such a statement. He said it would endorse him even if he were 62. The man acknowledged his age and was employed for more than his previous salary. His achievements are a matter of record.

More persons are alive today than ever before. And what is more interesting, they are more alive at sixty!

Every employed person over fifty is mindful of the "dead line" fixed by age. One of the dilemmas of our day is that while medical science is prolonging our years of possible activity, our industrial system seems to be shortening our years of employability. Certainly it is our social duty to do all in our power to make old age secure.

FIND NEW CHANNELS

We well understand why healthy individuals protest against fixed ages for retirement. But this is a problem which must be studied in the light of our exploding population and our improved methods of production. General David Sarnoff declared recently that by the end of this century a factory worker would be able to produce as much in a seven-hour day as he does now in a forty-hour week. In view of such automation, it is obvious that we cannot all go on producing material things as long as we are fit to work. We must find new channels of creative activity.

We want to be of use to the end of our days. And we can be. One of the heartening aspects of modern life is the new usefulness being discovered by middle-aged mothers after their child-bearing duties are done. Their activities are expanding into the realms of community leadership, public service, adult edjucation, the fine arts. And I think of the many grandmothers I know who are gaily giving themselves to social and church programs.

Chaucer wrote his "Canterbury Tales" at sixty. Goethe completed "Faust" after he was eighty. And we might go on multiplying cases. John Wesley, when past eighty, was still preaching up and down England, saying with a smile, "I choose to live if I grow old."

Now, you may say, use cases or terms do not help the commonplace. To be sure, not many of us can write books in our later years, but we can write down our own thoughts and thus keep our minds growing. Perhaps we cannot become a Grandma Moses but maybe we can paint even after we are too old for golf.

FAMILY SPARER

And I think of an unmarried aunt no longer able to find commercial employment and not capable of creating artistic objects. Yet by her spirit of cheerful fortitude and contagious cooperation she is worth immeasurably much to a whole family circle. She is more than a baby sitter. She is a family-sparker.

Age has its advantages. As I write these words, I am on a short vacation trip with my twelve year old grandson. He has more pep than I, but I enjoy the trip with more lenses than he does, for I have the present sensations perched by the sights we see, plus the memory of earlier trips with my own parents, plus the added insight of later travels, plus the vicarious enjoyment which a grandfather gets from the pleasures of his grandson.

What does a person pass his prime? Physically, maybe in the fifties. Mentally, perhaps in the sixties. But spiritually a person never passes his prime until he begins to think the best is behind him.

And a person with Christ-like faith feels with Browning's Rabbi Ben Ezra:

"Grow old along with me.
The best is yet to be. . . .
The last of life for which the first was made."

Club Activities

ST. JOHN'S Y.A.C.

CAMPBELLFORD — The regular meeting of St. John's Young Adult Club was held Tuesday evening of last week at the Lions Beach in the form of a summer picnic, as it was the closing meeting of the season. Members and their families sat down to a table laden with appetizing foods. Following the meal, many young folk enjoyed a game of ball.

Dr. Smith called the group to order to enjoy a short worship service which included a poem, "Come and Let Us Worship"; and the Lord's Prayer "Our King"; Scripture, Psalm 19:1-8. The meditation dealt with the Psalm 19:24. "This is the day which the Lord hath made, we will rejoice and be glad in it."

In closing this part of the service, Dr. Smith reminded all, "Are we getting the most out of today? Out of its opportunities and privileges and knowledge? Try to get the most out of each day. God has made provision for each day. Use the days so shall thy strength be." Deut. 33:25.

It was decided to change the name of the club to St. John's Adult Club in the fall when meetings are resumed.

Residents Tendered Farewell Party

ROSSMORE — Mr. and Mrs. W. Ross opened their spacious home on the evening of July 4th, when a farewell party was tendered Mr. and Mrs. E. Anderson, who are leaving this community to reside in Belleville where they have purchased a new home.

Mrs. A. Alyea read an address signed by neighbors and friends and Mrs. W. Ross made the presentation of a pole lamp.

A large crowd was in attendance.

A most delicious lunch was served and a social hour enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson thanked their many friends for their good wishes and hoped all would visit them in their new home.

Weddings

SHARPE — STEWART

CAMPBELLFORD — St. John's United Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, June 23rd, when Thelma Irene Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elton McMurrey of Campbellford, became the bride of Eric Carroll Gilbur Sharpe of R. R. 3 Campbellford son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Sharpe.

The Rev. D. M. Smith officiated and Mrs. George Nicholls played the wedding music.

The bride's gown of white nylon over taffeta had a fitted bodice, with a scooped neckline accented by tiny pearl pearls, and was in street length. The waist line featured a pleated sash with fabric cummerbund and matching bow. Her headdress was a tiara of seed pearls and tiny crystals, holding a tulle illusion shoulder length veil. She also carried a cascade of Better Time red roses, as she was given in marriage by her step-father.

Attending the bride was her sister, Miss Pauline Stewart, who wore green silk organza over taffeta, with ruffled organza caught at intervals with petite bows. Her headdress was a matching green petals with a shoulder length veil and her accessories were white.

The groomsmen was David McAdams, and the ushers were Donald Stewart and Ebert Chrysler.

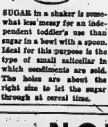
Out-of-town guests attended from Toronto, Cobourg, Peterborough, Orillia, Springbrook and Hoard's Station.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue lace sheath dress with a bell-sleeved bolero and accessories of harlequin blue and the bridegroom's mother wore turquoise linen with three-quarter length sleeves, and white accessories. Their corsages were pink Sweetheart roses.

After a reception at George's Restaurant, Campbellford, the couple left for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and western Ontario.

For travelling, the bride wore a green peau de soie sheath, triacrylic, acrol and viscose. Her accessories were white and she wore an orange corsage and bronze 'mums. They will live at the bridegroom's home, R. R. 2, Campbellford.

Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Sharpe was given a linen shower at the home of Mrs. Ebert Chrysler, and a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Claude Burkitt. The bridegroom was a guest at a stag party at the home of Carl Scarr of Hoard's Station, and was presented with a purse of money.



Friends Honor Couple With Gift Shower

FRANKFORD — On the evening of June 28, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Forbes entertained friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Lawes (nee Sheila McCauley) at a miscellaneous shower.

An enjoyable evening was spent with Mr. Clayton Rose acting as chairman and Mrs. Connie Wallace read the address to Glen and Sheila.

They were the recipients of many beautiful gifts. Both bride and bridegroom thank their friends.

A bountiful lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Jack Parks, Mrs. Ray Parks, Mrs. Dave McConnell and Miss Joyce Huffman.

SUGAR in a shaker is something what less messy for an independent toddler's use than sugar in a bowl with a spoon. Ideal for this purpose is the type of small saltcellar in which condiments are sold. The holes are about the right size to let the sugar through at cereal time.

KANE — GLENN

A lovely summer wedding was solemnized in St. Thomas Anglican Church, Belleville, on Saturday, June 30th, at 2.00 p.m. when Joyce Geraldine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Glenn, R.R. 1, Foxboro, was united in marriage to Mr. Frederick Kane, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Kane, Bellerville. The Rev. A. D. McConnell was the officiating minister for the double-ring ceremony.

White carnations and red roses decorated the church, while white satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mr. Don Davenport, church organist, provided the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist Mr. Boyce Rollins in their renditions. For the processional "Christ is Made the Sure Foundation" was played and during the signing of the register Psalm 23. The happy couple left the church to the strains of Purcell's Trumpet Voluntary.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiantly lovely in a bridal gown of white pure silk chiffon in doll silhouette fashion, accented by a pleated neckline, outlined by appliqued lace featuring short sleeves and rose Alencon lace appliques on the striking bouffant skirt. Her bouffant veil headdress of misty organza was secured with rose appliques and seed pearls. She carried a cluster prayer book crested with a cornflower white orchid and red rose bud ornament.

Her attendant was Miss Anna Mullett of Toronto, who wore a gown of organza over chiffon over taffeta featuring bell shaped skirt and short sleeves. She carried a bouquet of white gardenias and yellow roses.

Mr. David Kane of Napanee, attended his brother, while Mr. Don Fountain, Toronto, and Mr. Tex Beatty, Belleville, ushered the many guests.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Club Canara where the bridal table was prettily appointed with the white cloths centred with a three-tier wedding cake misted about by fluffy ferns, lilac tulle and yellow roses and flanked by yellow and white candles in crystal candelabra.

The bride's mother wearing a mint green dress of bemberg cupioni, white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses received the guests, assisted by the mother of the bridegroom, who was attired in an aqua crepe dress, while accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

For the wedding trip to the Maritimes and the New England States the bride chose a navy dress with white accessories and white orchid corsage.

Guests were present from Cedarville, New Jersey, Rochester, New York; Toronto, Kingston, London, Peterborough, Oshawa, Trenton, Bancroft, Monmouth, Bellrose Manpase, Amelisburg, Foxboro and Belleville.

The bride, previous to her marriage was the honored guest at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Pearl MacMillan in Toronto; a miscellaneous shower at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Charles Mullett, Bellerville, and at another miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Walter Mullett, Bancroft, with her daughter, Miss Anna Mullett, as hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Kane are residing at 296 Victoria Avenue, Belleville.

Making Trip To Klondike By Scooter

TORONTO (CP) — A woman with a spirit of adventure that would do credit to the scurvy dogged days of '98 is off to the Klondike—by motor scooter.

She is Mrs. Jo Rass always wanted to see the Klondike and figured going by scooter was the most interesting way. Her scooter is packed with 150 pounds of camping equipment including a sleeping bag, collapsible camp cot, tent, enough dehydrated food to last 2½ months ("it's dreadful but I'll pad it with fresh fish and game"), .22 rifle, fishing rod, tackle box, tool chest, clothes, axe, compass and first-aid kit.

A writer, she has given up her temporary job with a Toronto public relations firm and plans to work on a novel in the hours after camp each day.

"If I run out of money, I'll work along the way," she says.

She hoped to reach Dawson City in two or three weeks, travelling on the Trans-Canada Highway to Edmonton and then heading up the Alaska Highway. After her trip to the Yukon she plans to keep on the move, scooting toward California.

BIT HIS SON

TORONTO (CP) — Emile Decruell, 34, who admitted biting his 2½-year-old son while disciplining him, was sentenced Friday to six months for assault occasioning bodily harm. Police said the boy had teeth marks and bruises on the buttocks, chest and legs.

Sunday School Picnics

PARKDALE BAPTIST S.S.

Parkdale Baptist Sunday School held its annual picnic on July 2nd at the Outlet Park with approx. 125 persons attending.

Upon arriving, the children immediately dashed for the water, some of the adults joining in as well, the remainder visiting while relaxing in the sunshine God had provided for this glorious occasion.

After everyone had partaken of the picnic lunch, which the ladies had prepared, the children again took off for the beach, the adults visiting or they were a little more slowly, over the lunch and then the races which followed, conducted by Elmer Blake.

The pre-school children enjoyed their individual races and each one received a prize for his or her efforts.

Those who won prizes in the following races were — girls six and seven years, Jill Blake, 1st; Kennedy boys six to seven years, Brent Weaver, Allan Whitney.

Girls eight to ten years — shoe race, Arlene Birchall, Janice Blake; boys eight to ten years, shoe race — Gerald McConnell, George Barlow.

Girls ten to 12 years, — bubble gum contest — Janet Brereton, Beverley Birchall; boys ten to 12 years — bubble gum contest, Bob Allen, Don Parliament.

Girls race 13-15 years — Carol Parliament, Donna Alexander; boys 13-15 years — Don Parliament, Gerry Bankier.

Ladies sack race, 16 and over — Mrs. J. Birchall; Mrs. R. Kennedy; men's sack race, 16 and over — Ron Wickerstrom, Ron Ernst.

Ladies nail-driving contest— Mrs. J. Birchall, Mrs. Zet Twilley; men's nail-driving contest —Ron Douglas, Stew Blake.

Supper was served home, a half-hour swim was enjoyed. Then children and adults alike lined up for the ice cream treat.

The pastor, Mr. Twilley thanked everyone for his or her effort, in making the picnic such a wonderful success.

Girls Give Reasons For Stealing

LONDON (CP)—Girls from North America and Europe do nearly one - third of Britain's shoplifting, a report published here shows.

The three-year study of 1,500 cases shows foreign students or single girls doing domestic work is the major accommodation steal because "it's easy" and "everybody does it."

The girls described a Paris employment agency where the case of shoplifted by various London stores was the favorite topic of conversation.

In one month 30 of 37 girls caught stealing in one store were foreigners.

The report authors, Dr. T. C. N. Gibbens, senior lecturer in forensic psychiatry at London University, and Mrs. Joyce Prince, research assistant at the Institute for the Study and Treatment of Delinquency, suggest some foreign girls who were not made to feel at home in Britain steal for "revenge."

Most girls caught were middle-class and had above-average intelligence, the report says.

Thefts ranged from small quantities of food to items as large as an eight-yard roll of carpet.

The report shows women outsteal men six to one. Most men steal books.

Frisco's Ancient Cable Cars Make Transportation Unique

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

San Francisco — We gaze down towards Union Square from our room in the Sir Francis Drake Hotel; and the American flag atop tall mast it is less than five hours to New York by the world's most modern means of transportation.

And below us on Powell Street, oblivious to progress, is the cable car — designed in the 1870's and never changed — except the cars look like very shiny hills, reminding us it is only a few minutes to Nob Hill or Fisherman's Wharf by the world's most outdated means of transportation.

Unlikely as it is, the cable car is ideally suited to San Francisco, and is its way is as unique as America's Astrojets.

The cable car is a Toonerville Trolley. For those too young to remember what the Toonerville Trolley was, it figured for many years in a comic strip, and was a caricature of a street car. That's just what the cable car is — a caboose-like caricature of a street car, a chunky open-sided rattle trap that to this day represents the only practical way to surmount the steep hills that have grown out of the heart of this city.

BUILT OVER HILLS

There are seven cable lines — miles long and seven miles wide, and surrounded on three sides by water. San Francisco could not afford the luxury of tunnels or bridges around the hills. So it built right over and on them.

Having presented some formidable problems for man and beast, the hills still pull their own weight up some of the grades, let alone a street car. The block-long hills — and even a well-conditioned athlete can feel the pull of muscles as he tongs hanging out, or crawling on all fours. Overhead electric trolleys supplies a long city with, and when modern city planners tried to buried the cars out their vitals in nothing flat.

So here we are in the 1st age, and to do it, they developed a solution to this phase of the public carrier problem. It remains the cable car of nearly a century ago. Like ancient man's charcoal broiler, it has never been improved upon. Despite frequent public cries for something about this embarrassing legacy of a bygone era, it probably will remain.

TURNED ON TURNTABLE

The car operates by hooking onto moving cables under the centre of the tracks. Since it has only one set of controls which must be turned forward, the car is turned around on a turntable at the end of the line, and it is traditional for passengers to help swing it.

This is the motorman's job of operating the car. Its motion is controlled by a lever, also handling a set of levers which grip and release the cable and stick out of the centre of the car. These must be adjusted to the thickness of the cable at hand and desired speed. It is a highly skilled and prodigious job of labor, requiring the use of muscles that went out of style with hydraulics and automation. Occasionally the car comes off the tracks, and the operator reaches down through the floor with a huge hook and snags it on again.

Besides the gripman, there is a conductor who collects fares. How he knows who has and has not paid the fare is something I'd speculate on, because he comes around every few blocks with a single balloon, "Fares!" Apparently it's all on the honor system, since it is quite easy to ride a few blocks and get off unnoticed — we think.

The car is divided into two compartments. To the rear is the inside one, with its rows of wooden benches facing each other parallel to the tracks, in front and open to the air are two back-to-back rows, between which the operator stands and maneuvers the great levers.

OUTSIDE COMPARTMENT

The outside compartment is most popular. San Francisco's brisk climate — is rarely quite very cold — makes for a fun ride. It also has a running board (don't tell us you don't remember what running boards were!) where vertical hand grips make it possible for incredible numbers of standees to hang on for dear life. Sometimes the car merely slows down where they want to get off and they drop down skillfully with all limbs intact.

On the other hand, the cars often stop at unlikely places, such as the corners of intersections, for technical reasons. The traffic they block always waits patiently.

Though many San Franciscans ride the cars for public transportation, a good many of the passengers are tourists, which may be another reason why no one really wants to get rid of the cars as a public menace.

The crews are not unaware of their situation. Instead of calling "Clay Street" they say "Chinatown," and instead of "Nob Hill" they say "Top o' the Mark" rings more of a hint.

There are two cable car lines in San Francisco. One goes up California Street from the Ferry Building to Nob Hill, the other parallels Powell Street to a point near Fisherman's Wharf.

For 15 cents, there isn't a better sightseeing trip left in the world.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Hal W. — I have no feeling for my wife and I've met someone I love.

Angela W. — I hold a deep feeling for him and he can try to love me.

Hal W. — My wife had 16 years in which to arouse my feeling for her. Now it's too late, I've met a woman I love deeply. Why Angie ignores a divorce or not, there can be no turning back for us now.

Suddenly she's trying to become a loving wife. She's even willing to stay with me despite the fact that she knows my heart belongs to another. Where was she for 16 years? Not once did she really warm up to me. She always made me feel like a heel and a brute.

Why did I keep trying so long? Because we have three children, two boys and a girl. The youngest son is very close to me, tells me his problems and cries for me at night. I love the kids but I'd rather not stay in the home. I'm eager for Angie to admit the marriage is dead and stop trying to revive it.

Angela W. — I'm 32 and Hal and I have three wonderful children, aged 9 to 14. While we were never what you'd call the perfect couple, we got along quietly without many spats. Imagine my horror, then, when Hal informed me he'd found a new love and wanted to leave me for good. All through the years he'd spoken with contempt of people who split up and raise their children in broken homes. And now he wants to do that very thing. Worse, his lady friend is a divorcee with a child, too.

I'm terribly crushed by this. His talk of having no feeling towards me, of my being cold is ridiculous! When we were first married he told me he was the luckiest man on earth to have me. Later, he cooled a bit when I had a few blowups with his mother and sisters; But he can't put all the blame on me now. He's just looking for excuses.

The Councils: In one sense a divorce is like a suicide — it's a killing which may well be prevented! This time it's a marriage that's being ended deliberately, instead of a life. But psychologists have found that most suicides throw out feelers, give hints about their intentions in the unconscious hope that someone, anyone, will step in and help. Similarly, parties to a dying marriage often pray (despite external protest) that a wise rescuer (relative, friend, counselor, clergyman or lawyer) will succeed in talking them out of their drastic solution.

Perhaps some blunt talk in our limited space will start a flow of second thoughts in Hal's mind and the flipping of a few leaves in Angie's record-book.

First of all, Hal, why throw away 13 years of "getting-to-know-you"? No matter how greatly the divorcee appeals to you you must start from scratch all over again learning her likes, dislikes, habits and crotchets. Life's too short to start and restart that sort of interbraiding with more than one mate, unless said mate is devastatingly impossible.

Secondly, is Angie really so impossible? We should be in receipt of the lovely children you admit she's given you, and in view of her present condonations, countenances and desire to start anew. Our earnest advice is that you stop short in your present tracks and work with a marriage counselor — first, to understand what went wrong with you two; second, to look coldly and squarely at your new so-called "love" attack; third, to guide you through the first stages of Part Two of your marriage — the part where you both stick meticulously to your original vows to fill each other's needs and establish a firm home for your children.

The only reason cited by Hal is his loss of "feeling." But feelings wax and wane, and no marriage was intended to hold people together through both phases.

75 Attend Vansickle Reunion

MARMORA — The annual Vansickle reunion was held on July 2nd at Ooloong Park with around 75 relatives attending. A picnic dinner was served and during the afternoon ball, games, sports and swimming were enjoyed.

Mrs. Eva Post was sports convener.

The business meeting was conducted by the president, Donald McGregor. It was decided to hold next year's reunion at Little Lake, Brighton and those elected to make arrangements are: president — Graham Vansickle; vice-president — Eldon Vansickle; secretary-treasurer — Laura Vansickle; assistant secretary — Marie Usher; sports convener — Jerry Melville.

Answers attended from Buckhorn, Belleville, Colborne, Courtice, Grafton, Havelock, Lyndhurst, Marmora, Newburgh, Norwood, Oakville, Oshawa, Peterborough, Port Hope, Toronto and Whitby.

MAIL CALL

Question: My daughter is being married this Summer, and we're now preparing wedding invitations and announcements. But we've run into a snag. Our problem concerns the announcements. Should they be sent out before the wedding or not invited to the wedding? A friend says that announcements should be sent to those invited to the ceremony and reception, as well. Is this correct? — Mrs. H.W., Baltimore, Md.

Answer: Wedding announcements are sent only to friends and acquaintances not invited to the wedding and reception and are sent out either on the day of the wedding or a few days later.

Question: Last week end, my husband and I stayed with friends in another city. At breakfast on Sunday morning, our hostess served scrambled eggs, which, unfortunately, I've never liked. I asked, instead, for poached eggs, which a kindly fixed for me. My husband later said I should not have requested something special, since it put her to extra trouble. Was it inconsiderate to do so? — Mrs. B.C.S., Baltimore, Md.

Answer: Entertaining guests for a week end is very demanding of a hostess' time and energy, and a considerate guest tries not to put greater strain on either while it's proper to decline a proffered dish, it's a trifle selfish to request a substitute. It would have been more courteous to fill up on toast and coffee than to ask for a revised menu.

"A SUMMER'S DRIVE"

"The earth is crying-sweet, and scattering-bright the air" — Rupert Brooke.

"Ever delightful is a summer's drive; especially throughout Ontario," we thought early this fresh-laundered day with its dress of sparkling green countryside and clear blue sky, as the family car turned westward on a weekend motoring trip to visit friends, and relatives.

Because of Highway 401 it seemed no time at all before we were passing Toronto and on the Queen Elizabeth Highway, taking the "center" at Hamilton and on to the Niagara fruit district. At noon-hour, we turned off onto a county road and stopped under a shady tree to picnic in the grass, with Lake Ontario shining on one side of us and the escarpment rising like a leafy emerald on the other. This belt of fruitland still maintains its title of "The Garden of Ontario," and perhaps that's why it gives one a kind of shock to see rich wheeland turned into housing lots, especially on the outskirts of various towns.

As we passed through our lovely old village, a member of our party said: "I remember as a girl how much I admired the lovely old mansions that line the main street — and they're only that, whole now seems strangely old-fashioned, probably due to the new suburbs."

We visited some friends and then continued on to St. Catharines. Here we window shopped and discovered a confectionery shop "Diana Sweets" which enticed us within its world of chocolates, that lined whole arrows of glass shelves in an old-fashioned show-case.

"They're all hand-made," the owner told us, who maintained a guard over the cash register near the entrance. "I've been the owner here for 34 years. Two years after I took over the business, a candy-maker started with me and he's been with me ever since. Yes, he makes everything you see there.

And you should see his display of candy eggs at Easter of all sizes; all decorated with beautiful colored flowers every petal separate, perfect. Yes, the candy-maker is 67 years of age and well do I know if he should leave me tomorrow for any reason, I would be helpless to find another to take his place. Candy making, as he does it, has become a lost art. Those who are willing to put in time and patience which it requires. No, when and if my candy-maker goes, these shelves will be filled with gift-fancy candy. Needless to say, we bought some! And they were very special.

Still heading westward we took a secondary road to Brantford and stopped at a rather isolated combination garage-restaurant place for a cup of coffee. The restaurant itself occupied a room of the small white frame house, and the walls were hung with oil-paintings of still-life and outdoor scenes. One was the Anglican Church at Grimsby, . . . bordered the other an Anglican church in this part of Ontario," the pretty, graybaired artist, Isabel Nelson said, who is part owner of the restaurant. And

Question: Fresh meat is an exorbitant price at most summer resorts and with numerous and often large meals to prepare, what ideas do you have in the way of meat dishes made with canned meats, chicken which can be purchased and taken with you? I had planned on canning round steak in sauce stew and gravy, etc., but I work during the day and it seems time is creeping and I will have to resort to other tactics. Thank-you. Mrs. H.F.

Answer: A timely question. Thank you.

I had a similar problem which I solved to some extent last year and which I hope to improve on this year when we are cottaging for the month of July.

I have mailed to you my recipe for Spiced Beef. While it is not cheap, since it goes so far and is ever ready for an emergency meal, it pays off. I also have mailed to you another release giving 2 methods of preparing corned beef (one from canned). Also see Wednesday, July 4th, for Shrimp and Potato Casserole. Take with you cans of pink salmon (1 lb.), tuna flake, corned beef, canned ham, canned chicken, chili con carne, chipped beef (in glass); packages of rice, macaroni and noodles. Liberal amounts of cheese — a 5-lb. wheel of good quality cheddar cheese should be a constant source of protein to you. Of course it could be used with macaroni or spaghetti for a macaroni and cheese supper dish. Also take a whole piece of smoked back bacon in a casing. This is excellent to slice from for bacon and tomato sandwiches for lunch and to extend scrambled eggs for a midweek family supper, and as an accompaniment to pancakes (from box of mix.)

SATURDAY

Dinner Menu

Mock Duck (see Thursday); Mashed Potatoes; Broccoli; Cole Slaw with Eleanor's Old-Fashioned Salad Dressing (see Thursday); Banana Cream Pie; Coffee.

CORNED BEEF

(OR Leftover Beef) HASH

1 can corned beef (2 cups when chopped) or 2 cups ground or chopped leftover cooked beef, 1 onion, chopped, ½-cup butter or margarine, 2 cups cubed cooked potatoes (preferably both), ½ teaspoon salt if leftover beef is used, but none if beef is corned), ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 cup rich milk or cream (cream is preferable).

Gently saute onion in butter or margarine until transparent but not gold. Add the beef and potatoes and seasonings and mix. Cook covered until potatoes become crisp and golden. Pour the rich milk or cream over the top and cook uncovered for a minute or two longer until this liquid soaks into the mixture. Carefully fold over like an omelette to expose browned surface and transfer to hot platter. Serve with catsup or heated chili sauce.

BAKED SAUCED CHICKEN

(From canned chicken.) Remove whole chicken from can; scrape off jelly and cut chicken into serving pieces. Place on buttered shallow baking dish. Pour over Rich Sauce: Melt 2 tablespoons butter, stir in 2 tablespoons flour and when blended stir in 2 cups liquid (see following) and cook until liquid may be milk or the jelly from the canned chicken made up to 2 cups with cream or chicken broth or water seasoned with chicken bouillon cube). Add seasonings: One-half to 1 teaspoon salt, shake of pepper and ½ to 1 teaspoon curry powder (if desired). Pour over chicken in baking dish. Sprinkle top with fine cracker or corn flake crumbs and grated fine old Cheddar cheese. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. until bubbly and golden.

Thistletown Hospital

Thistletown, Ontario's psychiatric centre for children.

Article 1 of 2-part series.

By MATTHEW B. DYMOND, M.D., Health Minister for Ontario

Thistletown Hospital, opened in January 1958, is an Ontario province-wide psychiatric centre for children, situated on 100 acres of land in the north-west corner of Metropolitan Toronto. It has a total staff of approximately 200 and provides residential accommodation for 64 children. The hospital is a specialized centre for training, research, and treatment directed towards mentally ill children between the ages of six and twelve years.

Thistletown functions under new provincial legislation — The Children's Mental Hospitals Act" (1960). While retaining the self-protective provisions of older mental health legislation, this act allows admission, treatment and discharge procedures substantially the same as those in any general hospital. Thus children are never admitted on certificates, cannot be admitted on court orders, may be discharged by their guardians or removed by them on twenty-four hours' notice.

The hospital has an advisory board composed of distinguished psychiatrists and psychologists who advise the Minister of Health directly on any policy changes or innovations envisaged for the hospital. The superintendent, who is himself a psychiatrist, has the overall responsibility for the direction and operation of the hospital; policy and major decisions are discussed in one of four committees, each of which provides core membership of senior department heads.

STAFFING

The clinical director is responsible for the hospital treatment programme and heads a psychiatric department consisting of two staff psychiatrists and three senior post-graduate students in child psychiatry from the University of Toronto. The Psychology department consists of two senior psychologists, one or more psychologists assistants and a number of interns. A department of speech pathology is being established under a qualified speech therapist. The staff is rounded out with Social Workers, Registered Nurses, Technicians, Consultants in Neurology and Pediatrics and Dentistry. An important group in the treatment team of this specialized unit are new to this field and are designated as Child Care Workers.

FUNCTIONS

Thistletown hospital has a four-fold role in the mental health field. It must provide specialized treatment facilities for a wide range of childhood disorders; it must train personnel from all disciplines and is expected to conduct a detailed and intensive program of research. As a specialized resource it advises, sponsors and interprets advances in the mental health field to the community which it serves. Each of these functions is seen as equally important.

Next week I will discuss Child Psychiatric Treatment at Thistletown.

The Golden Years

Always Lean Toward Safe Side If Investing for Retirement

By THOMAS COLLINS

Many of you who are planning retirement are chewing your pencils as you try to figure out the smartest investment for the dollars you've saved. It is a bigger decision for you than for most people because (1) you probably aren't going to have the chance to make any more and (2) the interest or dividends from what you have can be a significant addition to a retirement income.

Many of you have your money in "growth stocks" in the stock market. Many of you have it tucked away in savings accounts at 3 per cent interest. Most of you are somewhere between the two.

Here are two case histories that may be a guide for you:

"My wife and I set up a major retirement goal in 1955, which was seven years ago. We would accumulate $30,000 by the time I retired (on June 1, 1962). Then we would put the $30,000 in government or corporation bonds at 4 per cent return and be assured $160 a month for life.

"This was just what we needed, on top of our pensions to make us comfortable.

"We went into the stock market, with the advice of a good and respected broker. We began putting all we could save into 'growth' issues on the theory that we could not save $30,000 in seven years and thus would have to borrow those stocks that would enhance in value.

"Things went well. Altogether, we had put $23,600 of our money into stocks by the fall of 1961, and at that time the value of the stocks was $31,200.

PRICES WENT DOWN

"Then the price of the stocks we owned began to go down. By June 1 — my retirement day — the $31,200 was down to $21,020. We didn't dare hold on to see if prices would go back up . . . the stock market still was acting crazy. We sold out, put our money into bonds at 4 per cent, for $70 a month instead of the $160 a month we had wanted.

"The $30 difference won't wreck us. But the fact that we lost one-third of what we had in the last six months before retirement was enough to scare the daylights out of us . . ."

The stock market has been kind to nearly everybody for the last 30 years. In the six months prior to this man's retirement it wasn't. Nobody can know when it will be, or won't.

(To be continued)

"I got to retirement in March of 1961, and owned a house worth $15,000 (it was really worth $17,000, but you know how these things go). We had $2,200 in a savings account at the bank for most people because (1) you paying 2½ per cent interest, and $3,100 in a savings and loan paying 4 per cent.

"We were going to buy a trailer and head south, to park in Florida, Arkansas. Our retirement income came to only $240 a month, and $15,000 buying was too rich for us. A couple with that kind of income.

SUITABLE TRAILER

"We got a trailer that suited us for $4,700, leaving $10,300 from the sale of the house. We took $10,000 of that, the $2,200 from the bank, and the $3,100 from the S and L . . . for a total of $15,300. Then we put $10,000 of it in one savings and loan association at 4½ per cent interest, and $5,300 in another.

"The couple investigated (or had investigated for them) a $5-per-acre lot in Florida, where 4½ per cent was paid, and put their money and went away from the spot where they parked their trailer.)

"The 4½ per cent interest from our $13,300 came to $57 a month. It wouldn't vary. It wouldn't decline. It was insured for safety. The $57 added to our $125 pension gave us handsome living in our paid-for trailer home.

But the $57 per month, plus the pension, might buy half as much in a few years as they buy now, if inflation repeats its last of the last 15 years.

All of which means that nobody really knows for sure what he should do with your retirement savings. So use your own best judgment. But lean toward the safe side.

Mass of Canadian Territory Bigger Than 6 of Provinces Combined in Need of Name

By JACK VAN DUSEN

OTTAWA (CP) — A mass of Canadian territory bigger than six of the provinces combined is in need of a name.

One of the actions of the next Parliament will be to slice in two the vast Northwest Territories, making the split along the 105th meridian from about the centre of Saskatchewan's northern border to the Arctic Ocean.

The more heavily populated western half is to be set up as a separate district known as Mackenzie. But the nearly northern eastern sector, most of it in the high Arctic wastelands, still lacks a label.

A decision on the name was to be made at the July meeting of the Northwest Territories Council, the "Parliament of the North."

Suggestions are welcome, but don't bother if you unless you have a working knowledge of Eskimo. The leaning is toward some Eskimo name not too difficult for the rest of Canada to handle.

The 720,000 - square - mile region that will some day become a province is bigger than Great Britain, Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Manitoba, Manitoba and Saskatchewan put together.

A list of names was submitted for study at the winter meeting of the Arctic Institute here in January but all were turned down. These included the Arctic Territory, Nunamark (Land of the Long Day) and Sirmilik (Land of the Glacial).

Members of the council said they either were too hard to spell and pronounce or didn't have a proper connection with the area.

Experts of the northern affairs department were asked to come up with a name for the summer session. So far they have the names, in Eskimo, of Eskimo and one from an American who claims he had a great-grandmother who was a member of the United Empire Loyalists.

The list, gathered with the help of Eskimos, is being circulated in the Eastern Arctic to see what Eskimos and other residents think of it. They will be asked to make additional suggestions.

Included already are Nunamarik (The Homeland), Natilik (Land of the Jar Seal), Arsanning (The Northern Light) and Nanuilk (Land of the Polar Bear).

These, admittedly, are difficult to pronounce or spell. But Deputy Commissioner W. G. Brown of the council says: "So mum, and Miss Jane Gerrie. A was Saskatchewan when it was borrowed from the Indians."

WANT ESKIMO NAME

"We would like to perpetuate the Eskimo name in the north in the country," Mr. Brown said in an interview. The only such recognition so far has been in naming the model Arctic community of Frobisher Bay Place of Man) in the Mackenzie River district.

"We have to find a name that's suitable, pronounceable, Allan Eskimo and white man as well as spell."

Division of the northland was decided upon at the council's January session. All that remains is for the Cabinet and Parliament to approve the decision and for the boundaries to be set out by the council.

When that happens, the name Northwest Territories will finally vanish.

The only name suggested so far from outside the North came from Lester A. Halpin of Portland, Ore., who suggested "Superisland."

He says in a letter to Gordon Robertson, deputy minister of the northern affairs department, that the Eastern Arctic once were known as Superia Land.

Mr. Halpin wrote: "It seems that the restoration of the name, modernized in spelling to 'Superisland,' would be an excellent election. In addition to being euphonious, this name which spells in itself seems to imply vast distances."

The deputy minister replied by letter that he would bring the suggestion to the next council meeting.

Most of the feeling up north, however, is in favor of an Eskimo word. One of the southern provinces — Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan — bear Indian names.

Facts About Berried Shrubs

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

You have a right to be disappointed if your berried shrubs do not produce berries. However, you should have asked your nurseryman if the plant you bought was male or female, or if it was ornamental, a plant that produces both sexes in full blossoms.

On the other hand; it was the duty of the nurseryman to point out these differences since he, not the customer, is supposed to know how the shrubs will perform.

Certain shrubs produce male blooms on one plant and female bloom on another. Many shrubs have both male and female blooms on the same plant. If only one sex is present no fruit can ever be produced. Occasionally hermaphrodite forms, plants producing stamens and pistils in the same flower, do occur among these normally dioecious forms. Bees with the sexes on different plants. This happens more often in evergreen shrubs than in deciduous ones.

Where a male bush is necessary to insure fruiting, one male shrub to three, five or even seven female shrubs is sufficient. The male must be present but keep the majority with the female plants if they are grown near flower beds or shrubs. Ask about this when buying berried shrubs.

HAVE YOU A FRUITING SHRUB?

Among the best fruiting shrubs there is a wide choice and if you are interested talk to your nurseryman early in the season so he can save some for you, or obtain some special plant for you. If the plant you bought was male or female, or if it was ornamental, a plant that produces both sexes in full blossoms.

Twelve Women Insisting On Chance to Be Rocketed To the Moon or Elsewhere

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — Congressman Victor Anfuso, a Brooklyn lawyer and father of five will play a prominent role in tussling with the question of whether women should be sent into outer space.

After all, if we're going to colonize the planets, we'll need women and maybe we ought to get them ready for the trip, at least as passengers," says the New York Democrat.

Anfuso will head a special congressional subcommittee investigation July 17 to consider whether the U.S. should allow women to break the male monopoly on space flight.

Twelve determined women, all of whom have passed the same tests taken by the mercury project astronauts, are insisting on a chance to be rocketed to the moon and elsewhere.

"Well, after all," says Anfuso who professes no strong feelings about taking women out of the home, "the Russians have sent a female into space."

FEMALE QUALITIES

While Anfuso hasn't made his inclination too clear, Dr. Randolph Lovelace of the New Mexico Lovelace Foundation says the women astronauts have proved their endurance tests last year. says there are certain qualities that make the female preferable to the male.

Women are smaller in less, consumes less oxygen, needs less food and has proven herself to be better adapted to sending psychedelical strains in certain stress conditions.

This was in particular reference to Jerrie Cobb, 31-year-old Oklahoma speed pilot who was one of those successfully passing the mercury astronaut tests.

"They'd even settle for a little suborbital flight," says Miss Cobb. "It would at least be a start."

But even more determined is 45-year-old Jan Hart, wife of a Michigan senator and mother of eight. Mrs. Hart, a licensed pilot, has a home behind the women-in-space drive.

PLEADING LETTERS

For months she has been flooding legislators with letters pleading for a hearing and urging them to find a decision. Women passed their tests last year, nothing has happened. If the U.S. doesn't start training the women soon, she argues, the Russians will achieve the first — by sending the first woman into orbit.

Last March she and Miss Cobb pressed Vice - President Lyndon Johnson for a decision. He quickly shifted responsibility to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

To the women, the real issue appears to be NASA Director James Webb who figures he has enough on his hands getting men into orbit without tackling women.

"Anfuso says all 12 women will be called to testify at hearings.

"I'll also call some prominent scientists — men and female — as prominent as people. Some of these girls are definitely brilliant. I think that there is any prevalent feeling among American women that they ought to go into space."

Should Hostess Wash Dishes?

A question of great controversy in our office follows:

Is it proper manners for a hostess to wash the dishes from the meal just served while her guests are still present—THE OFFICE GIRLS.

DEAR OFFICE GIRLS—Was it a fancy affair, I mean with the boss and the boy present, and everybody in best bib and tucker?

This makes a difference. If it's "just us girls," and one of you offers a helping hand, and the hostess accepts, washing up can be a chatty, loosening-up part of the evening.

DORIS CLARK

But if she deliberately carries dishes to kitchen and deserts her guests to wash up—well! For my money the midnight shift, with everybody gone home, is preferable.

• • •

DEAR DORIS—I have the most horrible habit of chewing my fingernails. I have tried a few of the products advertised, that are supposed to help, but they don't. It has developed into such a habit that I don't even know I'm doing it half the time.

I know many others (especially girls) that have unsightly hands because of this. What would you advise me to do? FINGERNAIL CHEWER.

• • •

DEAR CHEWER—The best defence is an offense. Make a job of prettying up your hands. Invest money in a good hand cream, the fixings for a manicure and nail polish. Use rubber gloves when you wash dishes.

Paint ends of nails and fingertips with tincture of quassia. It tastes awful, but the results are sweet.

You remove bad habits by putting good ones in their place. You wouldn't deliberately scratch up a lovely painting, would you?

A TO DEEP IN DEBT—It's the old question. Where does the money go? Not how could you possibly keep any, with that salary and no dependents.

I am sending you my budget chart and a leaflet on the subject. Family agencies have experts in this business of extricating people out of money troubles. See the Children's Aid Society, 62 West Moira Street, which counsels on family problems as well as when children are involved. They won't tell a soul!

DEAR DORIS—Do you know of any place where I could obtain or send for a book concerning "Dating Etiquette"? QUEEN KIKERS.

DEAR NEVER—There are several. I am sending you the name of one paperback which is a great help. Discusses dating, being popular, car rides, how to say no, falling in love, sexual relations before marriage, and many other questions asked by daters.

DEAR DORIS—As a man of 36 I suppose I should be able to figure out for myself the reasons for some of the peculiarities in human behavior, but there is one thing which many times has had me puzzled and which I would appreciate your opinion on, namely: why is it that certain friends and acquaintances, people of either sex, who usually are friendly and ready with a "hi" or "hello" whenever you meet them when they are alone, pretend not to see you when they are with someone else, and act as if they were a total stranger?

I have never been a buttinsky and am rather reserved, but under the circumstances I have described, it seems to me that a friendly glance of recognition would not be out of place. Or could it be that I am too sensitive, and that such behavior is quite correct among some people.—PERPLEXED.

• • •

DEAR PERPLEXED—It could be that:

1. They are so busy talking they don't see you.

2. They are self-conscious about being with the other person, and lacking in the poise it takes to say "hi" or "hello."

3. You are just imagining a rebuff.

This treatment can only do you real damage if you dwell on it. Mind you don't pull the same boners yourself.

• • •

(Doris can tell you about a Canadian resource or book on the subject that concerns you. Write to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

Indians Win 5th Straight To Top Loop

Maris, Mantle Get 4 Homers

By MIKE RATHBY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Healthy Roger Maris and bobbled Mickey Mantle have detonated a homer explosion for New York Yankees. But the world champions' sluggers had to share the spotlight today with a former National Leaguer who led Cleveland Indians back into first place in the American League.

While Maris and Mantle each hammered two homers in a 7-5 bombing of Minnesota Twins, 35 - year - old veteran right-hander Ruben Gomez won his first game in the AL as the Indians extended their longest winning streak of the season to five games by beating Chicago White Sox 5-2.

Gomez' triumph enabled the Indians to break a deadlock with Los Angeles Angels for the top spot. Belted by Boston Red Sox 12-7, the Angels tumbled into third place, a half game behind the Yankees moved into third with a four league lead, while the Yankees moved into second place, a half-length back of the leader.

Maris and Mantle were the story wherever the Yankees go. Maris hit his first homer with two on in the first inning and Mantle followed with his blast. Mantle tagged another in the third, tying a major league record with homers in four consecutive at - bats before Maris wound it up with his 21st in the fifth inning.

BOYS NOT HOT

The barrage gave Maris and Mantle a combined total of 12 homers in three games, although Mantle has produced seven, even though he is still slowed by leg injuries. Maris has nine in 81 games and Mantle seven in 78 games.

A pinch-hit homer by Vic Wertz in the bottom of the ninth gave Detroit Tigers a 5-4 decision over Baltimore Orioles and Kansas City Athletics used a seven-run eighth inning outburst to whip Washington Senators 12-6.

Maris drove in four runs with his homers and Manila accounted for two but Ralph Terry (11-7) needed Luis Arroyo's no-hit relief for the final 2-3 innings to register the victory. Terry left after a pinch-hit homer by George Banks in the seventh, the case was charged to Camilo Pascual (12-5).

Gomez (1-1), formerly with Philadelphia Phillies and the old New York Giants, was picked up by the Indians from Jacksonville of the International League. He scattered 11 hits before the White Sox caught up with him in the ninth and Gary Bell came on to get the final two outs. John Romano's sacrifice fly and Bubba Phillips' ground drove in the clinching runs for the Indians in the seventh, Karly Ryan (4-6) was the loser.

BELINSKY WILD

No-hit pitchers Bo Belinsky of the Angels and Earl Wilson of the Red Sox started. Belinsky left after walking four men as Boston scored two runs in the first inning and Wilson departed in the fourth as Los Angeles came up with five. Pete Runnels drove in four Red Sox runs with a single and double. Sacrifice fly while Jim Pagliaroni drove in three with a triple and two singles. Arnold Earley (2-0) won it with Belinsky (7-4) the loser.

Wertz cracked the first pitch served by Orioles' starter Jerry Hoyt Wilhelm (3-6) for the game-winner after Wilhelm had checked the Tigers on two hits since taking over for Robin Roberts in the fifth. Billy Bruton also homered for Detroit in support of Jim Bunning (8-4) while Hobie Landrith connected for Baltimore.

Home runs by Bob Johnson, Chuck Hinton, Jim King and Bob Meyer highlighted the Senators to a 9-3 bulge over the Athletics but the seven-run uprising keyed by Coot Veryzer's three-run double — his fourth hit—put Kansas City in front. Gordon Jones (3-1) came in while Bennie Daniels (1-10) who hasn't won since spanking day, took the loss.

Juniors At Quinte

Five Youngsters Qualify

Tony Richardson, a member of the Trenton RCAF club, shot a sparkling 75 at the Bay of Quinte Country Club yesterday afternoon to lead a field of 36 district youngsters in the qualifying round of the 40th annual Ontario Junior Golf championships.

Playing under perfect weather conditions and on receptive greens, Richardson and four others qualified for the Ontario finals slated for the Credit Valley Golf Club, Erindale, starting Friday, July 27.

Eighteen juniors, 15 juveniles and seven boatmen battled for the right to play in the coveted finals.

Arden Pigott of the Port Hope club, joined Richardson in the Junior Division. Pigott fired a 76.

In the juvenile division, Alan Hall of the host Quinte club, and Cobourg's Bill Ryan, qualified. Mott shot an 82 (40 out and 42 in) while Ryan fired an 85, including a 39 on the front nine. Mike Lennieo, of Napanee, missed out by one stroke when he carded an 86.

In the boats division, Robby Burgess, of the Trenton Country Club, posted a 86 to qualify in that division.

Richardson and Pigott left little room for doubt in their skills in the junior division. The RCAF representative had to a bad start when he had 5, 6 and 6 on the first three holes. Then he settled down to golf and ended up with a 40 on the front nine.

He and Pigott both scored 35 coming back. Richardson par for the back nine. Gord Findenother Belleville golfer and Don Sherman, of Napanee, tied for third place with 80's.

Prizes were awarded to the top five scores in each of three divisions by T. A. Carruthers, Ontario Golf Association director. He was aided by Mr. Harold Mott.

Following re the complete results:

'Haystack' The Victim

Tolos Boys Win Another

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

If you think Humpty-Dumpty made a splash when he fell off the wall, you should have seen "Haystack" Muldoon when one of the Tolos brothers pretended to push him.

Muldoon, who tips the scales at pretty close to 300 pounds, likes to finish off his wrestling opponents with his "belly flop" special.

He was teamed with the popular "duo, Tolos" in last night's main bout at Memorial Arena against Chris and John Tolos.

The match was all tied up at a fall each, and two lively falls they were, when Muldoon tried to wind it up quickly. He had John Tolos stretched out on the mat when he launched his finisher.

Tolos was having none of it. He rolled over half a second after Muldoon had blasted off. The landing was farther off course than Scott Carpenter's, and Muldoon succeeded only in rending himself knee-deep in something (I don't like that) and an easy victim for Tolos pin.

Chris and John, a couple of the real pros in the dirty-work line, gave "Haystack" the old one-two in the opening fall as well. They dug the big guy sprawls until he couldn't get to defend himself and then pushed and pulled him out on to the arena floor. They jumped on him from the ring apron while referee Lou Plummer discounted merrily along. Muldoon never got back inside the ring before Bunny had reached ten.

Everybory got their licks in during a free-wheeling second fall with the five-man smackdown, ranging from a Plummer bout, Dunlop, Tolos, Tolos, Muldoon and Kleen, providing a laugh for the ring-side fans.

The powerful Mr. Kleen evened matters at a fall apiece when he caught one of the Tolos boys in his back-breaker specialty.

Dunlop, who handed out a few punches of his own during the evening, was on the receiving end on more than one occasion. The Tolos boys swetted him a few dandies and had the man in white convinced that he was Kleen going the punching. Kleen reversed the play on the

Pinch Hitting

By Garry Alexander

Next week should tell the tale for a couple of the Belleville and District Softball League clubs.

The loop is having its roughest year in some time. Loss of a number of top-flight players and the fact that only four teams are taking part in the league schedule has reduced the fan attendance to almost nothing.

The largest attendance at a game at the Fairgrounds this year was slightly over 100 for a Joyce-RCAF game a few weeks back. The paid attendance that night was 87, with kids, and so forth, making up the rest of those present.

The class of ball has fallen off, despite the fact that the Joyce Real Estate and RCAF teams are of top calibre. Rollins Juniors have a good club on paper, but errors and off-and-on pitching has cost them in the win column and at the gate.

Bobcats are battling through their second rough year in a row despite some established players as "Wiener" Brown, Bobby Green, Floyd Crawford and Pat Gilmour. Too many of the players work shift work and some others just never seem to show up.

Joyces have won 11 of their 12 starts, with the second-place Flyers winning eight of 11. The Flyers are the only team that has taken the Real Estaters' measure, 2-0, but Joyces reversed that by a 5-3 win here.

These two teams meet head-on in a home and home series on Tuesday and Wednesday nights next week. Should here at the Fairgrounds on Tuesday and go back to Trenton on Wednesday night. Both games are slated for 8.00 p.m.

RCAF will be going all out to take a couple of wins. They must, if they hope to grab the loop's top rung from the Joyce crowd. A pair of Joyce wins would all but wrap up their second-straight crown. Two RCAF wins, on the other hand, would leave Joyces with a slim two-point lead and the Flyers would still have a game in hand.

And if the fans don't come out for Tuesday's game here, you can bet they have just given up the ghost. Crowds in Trenton have been pretty good all year and Wednesday will be no exception.

The RCAF squad has been trying high of late, hitting double figures in the run and hit columns often enough to place five of their men in the top eight batters. Joyces on the other hand have slumped at the plate but are using good balance to stay on the win trail.

Meanwhile, the Bobcats and Juniors also tackle each other in home and home games on Monday and Thursday nights next week and both clubs are badly in need of some points. Only three teams will be in the playoffs this year.

With two weeks to go in the schedule and Rollins and the Tabbies all tied up with six points apiece in the cellar, a sweep for either team next week would put that club in the driver's seat.

Bobcats topped the Juniors the first time out but Rollins have bounced back to defeat Bill Gilby's boys three in a row, so it looks like anybody's guess as to which club will grab the final playoff spot. Monday and Thursday could decide this issue too.

There is a lot of personal glory up for grabs too in these last few weeks of the schedule.

Right now, Rollins' Ricky Locke is pacing the hit parade with seven and Flyers' ace Ab Mack, RCAF's Don Cole leads the hesper race with four, while Joyces' Chuck Kingston has ten RBI's, one ahead of several other players.

Pat Maracle and Bob Butterfield, both of the loop leaders, top the pitchers, with four wins and no losses each. Mike Ratushniak of the Flyers has won four and lost one.

League coaches and managers, as well as executive members, will be making their selections shortly for the all-star team as well as for the Herbie Henn and Jimmy Barrage Memorial Trophies.

Maracle won the Barrage Trophy, as the MVP, while with Picton last year. Jackie Elliott took the Henn Trophy as the most gentlemanly and sportsmanlike player. Voting should be close in all departments this year. No manager or coach may vote for a player from his own team.

While still on softball, there will be an exhibition game at the Fairgrounds tonight at 8:15 between a Toronto team and Trudeau Motors of the City Commercial League. Trudeau's lead their league by a comfortable margin.

'M' Boys Hitting

Mantle's Legs Getting Stronger Every Day

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — New York's home run twins, Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle, feel it's about time they started hitting together if the Yankees are to sweep to another pennant.

They did Friday night, each clouting a pair of home runs to pace the Yanks to a 7-5 victory over Minnesota Twins that kept the Bombers within half a game of the American League lead.

"I don't think our hitting four homers should be considered so unusual," Maris said.

"Mine have been coming a little more often, but I don't know how long it will be for."

Maris added a new coalition that having Mantle in the lineup helps him a great deal.

"I've had pitches all year," he maintained. "I just haven't been hitting. There's no way to explain it, it use the same swing, the same grip. You try to figure it out."

The slugger added: "I don't waft for good pitches. If I think it's there I swing. The last time I hit two home runs in one game one pitch was up high and the other down low. So I don't think it's a matter so much of getting good pitches."

Mantle, who was batted out for a pinch runner in the ninth, said his legs "are getting stronger every day." But they still give him a great deal of trouble.

"They always hurt me the day after a night game when they bother me after double-headers," he said.

Mickey, batting behind Maris as last season, also doubts if Maris' hitting helps or hinders him or Maris.

"I don't think they pitch any differently to me. It's a fast ball and a curve for the home runs I've had. I work good pitches."

Mantle missed a chance to set a major league record when he came to the plate in the fifth. He had hit the ball safely four consecutive times at bat, including two Friday night and two in his last two trips against Kansas City Athletics Wednesday.

"Sure I knew I'd hit four straight," Mantle said. "But you don't get up there and you'll hit a home run. Sure I wanted to get it."

Mantle grounded out to first baseman Vic Power.

Player Stabbed

Angry Fans Attack Charlotte Infielder

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Nestor (Goose) Velasquez, Charlotte Hornet infielder, is reported in good condition from an abdominal stab wound inflicted by three angry fans outside the ball park.

The Hornets, of the Class A Sally League had just dropped a 3-2 game to Savannah when the stabbing occurred Thursday night.

Velasquez, 20, of Havana, Cuba, a Negro, said the three white fans seized him, accused him of throwing the game, and one of them stabbed him with a pocket knife.

Doctors said the blade apparently did not penetrate the abdomen, although the wound was about two-inches deep.

Through a police mixup, the three men were released when Velasquez was taken to hospital and unable to sign a warrant.

Phil Howser, general manager of the Hornets, said a complaint against the men will be signed and charges will be brought.

Howser said after the police where one of the men attempted to attack him but was thrown to the ground by manager Red Robbins.

Howser said Velasquez walked outside the gate for Velasquez after the game. One of the men had his wife and his two small children in a nearby car, Howser said.

Velasquez, sidelined early in the season with a sore arm, has been in charge of games by fans in recent games. He was charged with a throwing error Thursday night and fans also rode him for failing to knock down a ball which ricocheted to his left for a base hit.

Women's Single Ends Meet

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — The most topsy-turvy Wimbledon tennis tournament in history went into its last day today.

Mrs. Vera Ruhwin, a baseline player from Czechoslovakia who started the tournament as a rank outsider, faced eighth-seeded Mrs. Karen Hantze Susman of Santa Cruz, Calif., in the final of the women's singles.

Rod Laver of Australia, in an electrifying display of driving, smashing and volleying that lasted 52 minutes, retained the men's singles crown Friday by defeating Martin Mulligan of Australia 6-2, 6-2, 6-1.

Mulligan was another unseeded player who upset predictions by reaching the final. A crowd of 14,000, including Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret, saw his demolished and broken by Laver in one of the most crushing exhibitions of tennis seen in a Wimbledon final.

Maple Leafs Pick up Half Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Runs were scarce again Friday night in the International Baseball League, as rain and a misdirected outpfielder knocked out the normal schedule in half.

Both the games that were played were one-run affairs. Second - place Toronto put together a four-run cluster in the seventh inning to whip Rochester Red Wings 4-3 and the Syracuse Chiefs trimmed Buffalo Bisons 3-2.

Rain postponed the Richmond at Atlanta game and the game between the Columbus Jets and the league-leading Jacksonville Suns was postponed when the Columbus equipment failed to arrive at Jacksonville.

The Toronto victory allowed the Maple Leafs to pick up a half game on the Suns. They trail by eight. The Leafs' seventh run scored in Rochester starter Art Quirk until the seventh when they banged out three straight hits.

Dick Lehnes came on in relief and gave up two more hits, then walked Baker — loaded bases — to force Steve Demeter that sent home the tying and winning runs. Lehnes got the loss, Jim Costello, who left in the seventh as a pinch-hitter, got the win.

Buffalo Bisons got 13 hits off Syracuse righthander Ed Roebaugh but could make them hits only three times. The loser was third straight and ninth in the last 12 for the skidding Bisons.

Syracuse got all its runs off rookie Jack Gibson, who left in the fourth.

Giants Could Compete

Marichal Has Simple Formula

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Juan Marichal has a simple formula in his highly successful pitching campaign for San Francisco Giants this season. Starting plus finishing equals winning.

The youthful right - hander from the Dominican Republic followed his formula Friday night, firing a five-hitter and striking out 13 as the Giants bowled off Los Angeles Dodgers 12-3. It was Marichal's 12th victory, every one a complete game, and it moved San Francisco within a half game of the National League-leading Dodgers who had won eight in a row.

Collecting 11 hits off loser Stan Williams and reliever Ed Roebuck, and capitalizing on an errorless day of Dodger misplays, the Giants scored in clusters. They netted four runs in the third inning, five in the fifth and three in the sixth. Meanwhile, Marichal set the Dodgers down without a hit after a homer by Frank Howard on the fourth gave them their third run.

OTHER STREAKS END

Elsewhere in the National League there were other cases of streaks ending. Philadelphia Phillies had dropped a 6-5 and 6-2, snapping a string of eight straight wins, and Houston had seven victories for the Pirates. Hal Woodeshick pitched a 3-0 shutout as Houston belted Jim Bunning, four runs off Williams, who let in the first with a base-loaded balk. Pitcher Aloni Jackie Elly tied it up, then Orlando Cepeda's single, an error by Hottle Davis and Tom Haller's double put San Francisco ahead to stay.

POWER AT PLATE TOO

Marichal himself was the top man with the stick, getting a two on a fly and a single. It was clearly not the Dodgers' night, as Sandy Koufax pitched nine innings against the Cards, and Johnson 6-1 all got in under the 154 cutoff.

Marichal, headed for his fifteenth victory, had retired 20 of his strikeouts while holding the Dodgers hitless after Frank Howard's homer in the fourth.

Woodeshick pitched a seven-hitter for the Phillies and was backed by a 14-hit barrage against the Reds. Johnny Edwards and Frank Bolling drove in three runs each, along with a sacrifice fly and an error, for Houston.

Rod Kanehl hit the first grand slam homer in the Mets' brief history, capping a three-run uprising in the eighth inning of their runaway over the Cards. Gil Hodges started the Mets off with a homer in the second, the fourth of the season, against loser Ray Sadecki. Charlie Neal also homered.

Mathews' homer was the third for the Braves and came in the sixth, scoring Felipe Alou. Banks, who dropped the throw to first on Ken Aspromonte's grounder with two out in the 10th, Hank Aaron hit his 20th homer in the 11th with two bases empty and Joe Adcock hit his 12th with one on in the seventh. Claude Raymond of St. Jean, Que., was the winning pitcher in relief.

Riflemen Practice for Queen's Prize

BISLEY, England (CP)—Canadian riflemen are practising for the Queen's Prize competition which begins Monday. Canadian Dave Cross, the world record holder, was the overall leader after the first two days of the last two years and Lt.-Col. Bert Burke, commodant of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association team, said the low averages is against a Canadian victory again this year.

Mr. Burke said he couldn't rank a Briton as he who will win the Commonwealth's highest individual shooting honor because "it depends a lot on how a man feels that day." But he thought Lieut. Gerry Ouellette, 29-year-old Windsor, Ont., marksman, had a good chance.

Neither WO Norman Beckett, 35-year-old Hamilton area crack shot and last man to win the Queen's Prize last year, nor Sgt. Bernard Weadick, Swedish-born Canadian from New Westminster, B.C., who won it in 1960, will shoot this year.

Flip Coin To Decide Title

EDMONTON (CP)—The 1962 Canadian singles trapshooting championship was decided by the flip of a 50-cent piece.

Lance Wiley, 22-year-old marksman from New Westminster, B.C., called the toss correctly Friday to win the crown.

It ended a display of expert marksmanship at the Canadian trapshooting championships between Wiley and Frank Opsal, 32, a tractor salesman from Vancouver who won the singles title in 1958.

The pair finished in a dead heat after firing at 400 targets in the singles competition, 300 in regulation and a record 100 in a shootoff to break the stalemate.

Wiley also won the Canadian open singles title with his correct call.

Wiley and Opsal shattered the 300 mark in regulation competition and followed with 100 straight in the shootoff. The 100 in succession was a record in a Canadian shootoff.

DECIDE OTHER TITLES

Five other Canadian championships were decided Friday, four closed and three open.

Ken Kolderman of Calgary shattered 291 of 300 birds to win the competition to head the women's title for the sixth time in the seven years it has been a part of competition. He also took the women's open championship.

The Johnson brothers from Lloydminster, Sask., Ken and Bob, won the doubles title. Ken, 15, won the Canadian clay-target championship behind Bob, 17, in a 25-bird shootoff.

Bob, junior champion last year, came back to win the open crown by defeating J. M. Lawson of Montreal, in another 25-bird shootoff.

Brian Dienstrot of Niagara Falls, Ont., won the Canadian sub-junior championships, for competitors under 13 years of age, with 189 of 200.

Interviews Out for Fight Champ

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Welterweight champion Emile Griffith has a barred further press interviews until he defends for next Friday's 147 - pound title fight with Ralph Dupas, His manager said Friday: "We let New York and the atmosphere surrounding Griffith since the death of Benny (Kid) Paret in order to give our champion, Emile Griffith, a chance to defend his welterweight title under the proper mental and physical conditions.

"Up to yesterday, Emile had been allowed the opportunity to train and relax in a manner beneficial to protecting the best effort in defence of his title.

"However, Leo Houlihan, sports columnist contacted Griffith by phone and prodded him with questions that Griffith considers that Griffith was deeply affected. . . .

"From now on — newspapermen will be welcome to all Griffith workouts, but Griffith will not be available for interviews."

The managers did not identify the columnist.

Paret died 10 days after a March 24 fight with Griffith.

Horse Claim Not Good for New Owner

NEW YORK (AP)—Owner Lloyd Arsalquatell watched the start of the ninth race at Belmont Park Friday with high hopes.

His bullet claimed Very Slow Pay, one of the entries in the race for three-year-old fillies, for $2,500.

On the backstretch, Very Slow Pay ridden by Willie Lester, clipped the heel of Marcilld and went down. When track officials arrived, Very Slow Pay, was dead, apparently of a heart attack. Lester was shaken up.

For his $2,500, Arsalquatell got the carcass. It's worth about $10.

Got Some Suggestions From Argo Manager

TORONTO (CP) — Halfback Gerry McDougall came out of his second two-hour meeting this week with managing director Lew Hayman of Toronto Argonauts still undecided whether he will play for the Eastern Football Conference club this season.

They'll meet again Tuesday. Meanwhile, McDougall will be mulling over some suggestions he got Friday from Hayman, who said he still hopes he can help McDougall reach a decision that will permit him to continue his football career here.

McDougall, 27, with Hamilton Tiger-Cats the last five years, was traded last weekend to the Argos for backfielder Bobby Kuntz. Kuntz signed with the Tiger-Cats Mo day night but McDougall, who had earlier told Hamilton he needed time around for the 1962 season for personal reasons, has been hesitating.

Friday he gave Hayman details of the family problems which he feels necessitate his return to his Long Beach, Calif., home where his two young children have been living with his parents since last November.

"I don't want to leave Canada," the former University of California at Los Angeles star said, "I've spent five years establishing myself and I'd lose a lot if I gave it up."

Besides playing football, McDougall is a salesman and partner in a Hamilton bowling alley.

New Record Set

Kidd Guides Relay Team

Hungry Golf Pros Fire Big Rounds

TORONTO (CP)—Bruce Kidd, Toronto Falling Leaf Track and Field Club, Friday set a new record for the 1,000-yard relay at the Canadian championships Friday night.

Kidd, sensational young distance runner, was another man for the team which covered the distance at Varsity Stadium in 2:07.07. Record was 2:08.2, previously was held by the Chinook Track Club and set here in 1959.

The four-mile was one of the best performances of the year and one of four in which Canadian records were set.

Others were the women's 440-yard; the 880-yard relay and Glen Drew's sprint record.

The New York Pioneer club was best in team standings with 36 points to nine in the eight major relay events, followed by East York with two, Hamilton Olympic, Cleveland Striders and Tarrytown, N.Y., each with one.

Kidd, with a very similar competitor—Jim Irons of Olympic — in the four-mile relay, but took the lead after less than half a lap. He lapped Gladeanor's anchor-man before going across the finish line.

SHAVES SECONDS OFF

In the 880-yard relay Cleveland Striders shaved three-tenths of a second of the Canadian record set by Hamilton man sparted across the line for Striders by Dave Mills, Vance Carter, Barry Sugden and Darnell Jones broke the record set by the East York club in 1961.

One of the features of the night was the performance by Brenda Hoffman of Toronto Olympic in the women's 440-yard when she cut about three seconds off the Canadian open record in 37.5 seconds, Previous record was 37.8, made by Kay Clubb of Vancouver Olympic Club in 1961.

The new girl's relay fell when the New York Pioneer team timed in at 1:36.8, squeezing one-tenth of a second from the standing record in which the team was timed by Hamilton Olympic Club set a meet record with a time of 50.2 seconds.

Bitter Dispute

Poland Out Of Regatta

HENLEY, England (CP) — The quiet waters of the Thames boiled Friday in one of the stormiest disputes of the Henley Regatta.

Poland walked out of the regatta after its top sculler, Eugeniusz Kubiak was disqualified in a semi-final event of the Diamond Sculls against the defending champion, Stuart MacKenzie of Australia.

For a while the Soviet camp considered pulling out too. But after a phone call to Moscow, the Russians said they would stay put.

A spokesman for the Soviet crew said, however, that Boris Dubrovsky would have had to be scratched from the final of the Diamonds if he had won the event. Britain's Bill Barry beat him Friday by four lengths.

"We would have liked to show solidarity with Kubiak," the Soviet spokesman said. "MacKenzie was unsporting—he didn't even shake Kubiak's hand. We have no complaint against the regatta—but every sympathy with Poland."

FOR INTERFERENCE

Kubiak was disqualified for interference after he had flashed across the finish line a clear three lengths ahead of the 36-year-old MacKenzie. The umpire said Kubiak had moved ahead of MacKenzie and failed to return to his own waters.

Another oddity of the day was the elimination of Cambridge students John Lecky of Vancouver and Harold Budd of Morristown, N.J., in the semi-final of the silver goblets event for pairs without coxswain.

Nearing the end, Lecky and Budd were about a length behind the German team of Wolfgang Neuss and Klaus Jordan, but the Canadian - American pair seemed to be closing the gap.

Then their scull hit a boom. Budd's oar was broken by the impact and Lecky missed a stroke. The Germans went on to win easily. Lecky and Budd were rowing for Britain's Leander Club.

FOUGHT GAMELY

Barry, a little-known sculler, was three lengths behind at the halfway mark but fought the champion all the way. MacKenzie never was able to increase that advantage.

MacKenzie was under the shadow of his controversial passage through the semi - finals Friday when his Polish next, Eugeniusz Kubiak, was disqualified. Both the Russians and the Polish crews later accused the Australian of unsporting tactics.

MacKenzie had been beaten by Kubiak in Ghent, Belgium, a month previously. The Poles who complained of the umpire's decision against their champion withdrew from the regatta.

A big section of the crowd rooted for Barry in today's final, but there were also shouts of "good old Mac" as he vowed into sculling history.

ON WAY UP — Comedians Allan Scott, 23 (left) and Chris Bryant, 25, former McGill University students, have scored a smash hit in London, England, with their own style of sophisticated humor. The pair, who individually produced successful revivers for Canadian theatres, have been extensively in Canada and the United States. (CP Photo).

Former McGill Students Smash-Hit Comedy Stars In London Night Clubs

By ALAN WALKER

LONDON (CP)—Two former McGill students who met professional after successful college shows have become a smash-hit comedy stars here almost overnight.

Allan Scott and Chris Bryant arrived in London this spring with little money and a satchel filled with high - impact, low-key routines, expecting tremendous competition.

"We thought we'd find England full of expert satirists," 25-year-old Bryant said. "Fortunately, we were wrong. There's a real lack of comic writers here."

They were hired almost instantly, have been playing to packed houses and enthusiastic critics at a cabaret, and now have more television appearances lined up than they can handle.

"British humor has always been pretty broad and obvious," Bryant said. "We arrived with sophisticated humor, a new humor — accurate, vicious satire — and the people love it."

NO STRAIGHT MAN

Scott, 23, is tall, dark, slim and serious looking. Bryant is short, blonde and admittedly plump. Inevitably Scott is taken for the straight man, but they are a definite team. Neither gets the laughs. They build a situation and Bryant comes out of it. That's why it is difficult to define of quote their humor.

"You can't take lines out of the situation and still get roars of laughter."

One sketch involves a nursery-rhyme writer (Scott) trying to peddle his wares to publisher Bryant. The nursery rhymes Blind Mice into a synopsis for a horror movie: "It's you have to be so emphatic about their disabilities"!

But they deny affiliation with the Lennie Bruce "sicknik" school of comics. "It's the nursery-rhymes that are sick, not us," said Scott. "I mean 'cut off their tails with a carving knife,' how sick can you get?"

Bryant's McGill days — Scott and Ginger in 1956 was so popular that it played professionally on Montreal and Ottawa. Scott's Got It Made went to Vineland, Ont., in 1960. They teamed up, toured extensively in the United States and Canada, and eventually decided to try England.

BORN IN BRITAIN

British by birth, they've been out of the country long enough to be able to view British quirks with detachment, while at the same time understanding them. And they learned the trade of sophisticated comedy in North America. But these are not the main reasons for their success. The main thing is that they're funny.

They had to write new material when they arrived here. They brought Canadian routines, thinking we could modify them and get rid of strictly Canadian topical bits, "said Bryant. "But we found it was our attitude that had to be changed."

The funny business is not all laughs, especially for comedians. Scott admits to being cold - blooded and ruthless while he works.

"The search for humor is a very serious business. Comedians don't just sit around and crack jokes at each other."

TV—Movie Column

Retread of Old Movies To Be Fare Next Season

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Next season will see television continuing a trend of recent years — retreads of old movie hits.

Whenever producers are stuck for a new series idea, they search the vaults. The 1962-63 season will see three new shows based on movie classics.

Gene Kelly will be starring in Bing Crosby's old cassock with an hour-long Going My Way. Fess Parker subs for James Stewart in a half-hour Mr. Smith Goes to Washington.

The Virginian shapes up as a 90-minute western based on the Owen Wister book. The Virginian, which was filmed at least thrice.

They will join four other series that resulted from filmar. Dr. Kildare, Cheyenne, Lassie and Dobie Gillis. Few recall that the latter was once a feature starring Bobby Van and a youngster named Debbie Reynolds.

FILM LITTERED

This sort of thing has been going on for years, with the odds heavily against movie adaptations. Last season saw the launch of ITs much - better series: Marie, Father of the Bride, Bus Stop, National Velvet and Room for Daddy.

In the earlier days of television, Mama ran up a long stand with Peggy Wood playing the role that Irene Dunne created in I Remember Mama.

Otherwise the syndication field littered with the remains of movie adaptations that tried with scant success to make the transition to the new medium.

Sports Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Canadian track and field oft-day is a civic holiday. The city, particularly those around Toronto, get a little hot when someone mentions that they run meets for their own benefit. The charges for years have that officials clutter up the infield and that the paying customers rarely know what's going on.

At one time in recent years track meets were held at the Canadian National Exhibition grandstand. It was called the Canadian Olympic Training Plan and youngsters from just about every province made it to Toronto for skull sessions and that was that.

It worked fine, except people stayed away as if the athletes were lepers with fleas.

Officials probably wondered why people passed by the place. But it was simple: They left the CNE props up in the infield and in any events of 100 yards or more the athletes were hidden behind these things for about 75 yards.

HOW THAT

Now that Toronto's Bruce Kidd and his brothers and Vancouver's Harry Jerome are the big names in the sport in this country with their sometimes — sensational running in meets in the United States, officials are perking up. They realize they've got a fairly hot commodity and now they are keeping the public away.

A prime example is the East York Track Club which, this year, has been awarded the British Empire Games track and field trials.

The dates are Saturday, Aug. 4, and the following Monday and officials have been working on the undertaking for months. Their main purpose is to show people how a track meet should be operated. Every worker is an unpaid volunteer and the club has scores of them.

A committee that had a membership of 35 workers to start with now has ballooned into at least double that size.

They've organized committees on publicity, entries, facilities and equipment, reception, transportation, tickets, programs, accommodation and so on. They are bringing in scores of athletes from just about every section of the country, youngsters who have great hopes of making Canada's team to the B. E. Games in Perth, Australia, next November.

BIG-TIME MEET

"We've heard for years that the badgers spoil track meets by cluttering around the finish line and that we don't tell the public what's going on," says Fred Harding of Toronto, an executive of the Amateur Athletic Union.

"There won't be any of this stuff at the trials, I'll promise you that. This is a big-time track meet and it'll be run like one."

The quarter - mile track at East York Stadium has been renovated. It has been rolled and watered every week since May. Special grass runways have been installed for the jumping events.

There won't be many empty seats, if any. So far, 1,500 tickets have been sold for the Saturday afternoon and evening, and Monday morning and afternoon programs—the Monday afternoon session being the finals.

"I think I have the right-of-way—I'm still going for number 6!"

Astrological Forecast

For July 8
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21. to Apr. 19): Today excellent for recreation, for stimulating conversation, reading. Good also for attending lectures, place of worship with family members and friends. Tonight, social activity stressed.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): You help, yourself, now by offering aid to others. This is key for you today. Emphasis on service, teaching and absorbing knowledge from teachings of others. Avoid chronic complainer.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Moon in section of chart related to change, hobbies, romance, creative endeavors. Good for travel, vacation and self-expression. Avoid brooding: it accomplishes nothing.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Action in recent past comes home to roost. Accept responsibility, live up to promise. Attend to detail matters early so you can relax later. Good for dining out, trying the new.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Be sure you make statements which are based on fact. Otherwise, you lose respect of admirers. Tendency is to be extravagant. Curb this or you may go into financial "hole."

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Avoid bitterness in connection with friend's promise, one not completely fulfilled. The more you condemn the less you will receive. Be upositive, encouraging. Results follow.

Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22): Cycle moves up — meaning today is time for added independence. Stress originality. Be willing to take lead, make suggestions. Trust "hunches," intuition. Take long-range view.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Respect loved ones and this will enable them to live up to their potentialities. Otherwise, discouragement follows. This applies to wife, children, friends, romantic interests. Good day to visit those confined to hospitals.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Shrill cries, demands, cause irritation and little else. Diplomatic, pleasant approach wins the day. Good for entertaining at home or being close to loved ones.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Spotlight is now on what actually exists might be poles apart. But a start must be made and today is good time. Check financial affairs. Could be opportunity for improving income.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Moon in your zodiacal sign means this is promising day for achievement, emotional rehabilitation. Good for asking questions, pursuing creative hobbies and also for romance!

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Yes, there are puzzles and mysteries. But much can be understood today if you relax. No time for pushing, pressing or demanding. Be diplomatic. This is the way you gain.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Just how much you mean to friends can be discovered today. You may find that aid comes from unexpected sources. Be gracious, willing to accept helping hand.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): No, this is not time to shirk duties, responsibilities. Today you must's headway if only you show you are willing to use knowledge and experience. Otherwise, loss is indicated.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Member of opposite sex could present you with attractive offer. Better take time to consider, for time is on your side. Favorable lunar aspect today indicates gain through research.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Money matters continue in spotlight. You do your best by heeding your own counsel. So-called experts may not be too familiar with your personal situation. Speculate on your own abilities.

If today is your birthday . . . continue to build for future. Excellent opportunity for advancement could come about in October.

• • •

General Tendencies: Conservatives hold sway since tendency is to take closer look at schemes which seemed to work in past. Cycle remains up for Libra, Scorpio, Sagittarius.

BOWARLAW

Consolidated Schools Topic At F.U. Meet

BOWARLAW — The June meeting of Local 171 of the Ontario Federation of Unity was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harper Bateman.

Mrs. Bateman was chairman and opened the meeting.

A letter from the Central Office was read and it contained a questionnaire on education. Ten of the members dealt with consolidated schools. The members felt that more information was needed about the question in order to reach a decision.

Other questions pertained to subjects taught, methods of teaching, and regarding children quitting school in grade 9 and 10.

Jeanne Williams reported on a County board meeting. Hastings County is going to send 6 delegate to the National Farm Forum Meeting in Ottawa.

It was voted to send a donation to the County to help pay the delegates expenses.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Bateman for the use of their home.

The next meeting to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morton Reid.

Hostess for the evening adjourned lunch was served and a social time spent.

Your Car

Brake Wear Depends on Car Usage

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

When or how often should brakes be serviced is a question which often arises.

A mileage timetable isn't a truly safe guide because some brakes are in dangerous condition after just 1,000 miles . . . perhaps less. How the car is driven, how the brakes are used or abused makes all the difference.

Riding the pedal — steady braking on every downhill grade — lane to lane weaving — trailing cars too closely — foolish speeds in traffic areas — these are typical faults which help to burn out brakes long before their time.

Frankly, if brake conditions were fussed over as much as the mileage, power and gas consumption, road safety would be unquestionably benefit.

When braking distance begins increasing bit by bit, or a free-pedal travel changes, when you need to push the pedal closer than ever to the floorboard, then brake attention is overdue. There are other signs to watch for, as well. A pull to one side, a hard grab, a squeal or clock when brakes are applied are all warning signals.

H.A. writes: "What are the possible reasons for a rattle in the right front wheel?"

(A) A loose nut, hub cap, bracket, or shoe causes the wheel bearing that is loose or damaged.

From J.B.: You write that ignition points can burn out if oil gets on them. Just how would oil get there?

(A) Through clumsy or excessive distributor lubrication . . . or through crankcase pressure build-up which forces oil up into the distributor.

L.P. asks: "There's a funny rattle somewhere in my engine. I don't hear it with the car idling, but it's almost continuous when the car is in motion.

(A) The carburetor air cleaner may be a bit loose. Vibration can also bring a peculiar noise to the motor which is not firmly seated in its carrier.

B.H. writes: "My car is always very light when I drive. Often, I just hose it down with cold water then let it air-dry, without wiping. A neighbor tells me that you claim this will ruin a car. Why is that?

(A) If the car is left to dry under a hot summer sun, the sun's rays can be magnified by the water drops and injure the wax coating.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

TEARING UP
By WINIFRED WILSON

No love is ordinarily lost between robin, house wren, and blackbird; however, it's deciding to forgotten in the face of common danger, be it a predator in the form of man, bird, or another bird. At such a time robin is strength, a bold fight and the weak look to them for help.

Have you watched a robin worm hunting on a lawn, head cocked on one side, listening for the slightest movement underground? When the exact spot is discovered, with a rapid thrust of the long, yellow bill the worm is pulled out of the earth. Gifted with particularly good hearing, the robin is generally the first to give the alarm when a crow, let us say, is about to come looking for some nice fresh eggs. The sharp, loud danger signal informs every living creature within the community that an enemy can be expected. All are on the alert.

The local policeman is the house wren. No enemy need try to enter his territory. He dashes after it, quite unafraid despite his small size. This is not inconvenient for the timid residents, as vireos, juncos, and rose-breasted grosbeaks.

The provincial police is reserved for the blackbird. Not satisfied with defending only his own territory, he sees to it that no one else is neglected if he sees a possible. Flying just over the tall, black fellow, he tears it by pecking the top of its head and its back. We are reminded of a busy worrying bee humming around our own head. And so the enemy is chased until the kingbird is but a mere speck in the distance. Then back home at the best guarded part of the entire colony.

A migrating three many birds team up just for the journey in order to have protection. It is safer to travel with a large group than alone. The timid or the helpless birds that are bolder or stronger than themselves. Many fly by night, and so the bolder birds of the movement we sometimes waken to find in our dooryard the kinds of warblers, thrushes, and flycatchers which, having journeyed successfully, rest for a few simultaneously. Sparrows, blackbirds, and some shore birds have this habit of migrating in mixed flocks. Perhaps warblers are most apt to do so. Here one can surely guess why. They are among our smallest birds, the majority of them 5¼ inches long, and are as retiring and peaceable as those wrens are bold and pugilistic.

Science at Work

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: A plan to make tape recordings of hurricane sounds; research on the problems of radio communication on the moon; and a technique for scientific snooping on infants.

THE SOUNDS OF FURY

Weather bureau scientists would like folks who own tape recorders to keep them handy, when a hurricane approaches, to record the sounds made by the violent winds around the calm "eye."

Bureau scientists have long suspected there may be tornado - like circulations near the centre of hurricanes, and the recordings would help them determine whether this is actually so.

LUNAR PROBLEMS

Radio communications from point to point across the surface of the moon could present a lot of problems, scientists of the U.S. National Bureau of Standards say, and they're already doing research aimed at minimizing them.

For one thing, since the moon has essentially no atmosphere, it is presumed that it lacks an ionosphere — the layer of electrified air which serves as a kind of reflector for certain forms of radio transmission between different points of the earth.

Thus, scientists are assuming that lunar explorers will have to use radiowaves of a type that will follow pathways bending around the curved surface of the moon at a fairly constant height.

BABY ON TV

Science has developed a new gadget to study an activity that has enthralled proud parents since the beginning of time — the "exploratory behavior" of infants.

Small fry begin to explore with their hands as early in life as three months, but exactly how they get that way is more or less unknown.

So, a group of government and other researchers has developed a special crib, equipped with various devices, including one with which junior can turn on a movie just by whacking a sphere.

Various sounds are fed into the crib from outside and various visual stimuli are projected on the movie screen. Junior's reactions and activities are all recorded by a TV camera.

First Pleasure Craft Rolls Off Plant Assembling Line

TRENTON — Yesterday morning, the first made-in-Trenton fibreglas pleasure boat rolled off the assembly line at the West Street plant of Outboard Marine Corporation of Canada.

Later, the craft was launched in the Trent River and owner, Hugh Watts of Waterloo, took the wheel. Mr. Watts who heads an electronics firm in his home city, is now on his way to Port Severn in the boat, with Ross Sailes of London as navigator.

On hand to watch the christening were Mayor James MacDonald; Chamber of Commerce president George Kempf; Group Captain D. J. Williams, Commanding Officer at RCAF Station, Trenton; Outboard Marine vice-president and general manager Tom McMillan; Trenton plant manager L. H. Bearne and Fred Sztuke, division engineer.

Mr. Bearne and Mr. McMillan took guests and reporters on a tour of the plant, where they were shown at least a dozen boats in various stages of manufacture. Mr. McMillan explained that the boats now being manufactured in Trenton are deluxe models. It is expected that eventually, utility models, now being made in the U.S., will be constructed at Trenton.

Mr. Bearne said that approximately 60 persons were employed at Trenton now, but with the completion of the $50,000 addition now under construction, a possible 200 workers will be hired.

Street Square Dance Planned By Committee

TRENTON — The Trenton Recreation Committee has asked town council to give its blessing and pick a location —for a street square dance, planned for the first or second week of September.

Motions suggested by the committee are for the section of the market area, behind Lobb's or the government dock. The affair will be held on a Friday night. Dancers from Trenton, Frankford, Kingston and other centres will be invited.

WILL MEET VETS

Ian Urquhart, Legion service bureau officer, will be at Trenton Legion Hall on July 26, starting at 1 p.m. Mr. Urquhart will give skilled advice on veterans' benefits, war disability pensions, Burnt-Out pensions, treatment or hospital care to those wanting this information. For an appointment phone Ross Grier at Ex. 2-4171.

CADETS VISIT STATION

This week, 23 flight cadets from College Militaire Royale at St. Jean, Que., and RCAF Station, Centralia, visited Air Transport Command Headquarters at Trenton, as part of a reserve officers' training plan. The cadets will visit other RCAF stations in Canada and will fly to overseas stations later in the summer.

All cadets are taking a university course in conjunction with their RCAF training, and upon their graduation, will serve three years with the air force, and perhaps go on to an air force career.

Henry welcomes letters from readers and awards each week a best-selling book for the most interesting letter he receives. This week's winner is Natalie Izzanich, of Rockaway, N.J., who receives a copy of The Adventure of Light, by Frank Jupo, published by Prentice-Hall, Inc.

Dear Henry—I am a boy of 13, and like a girl of 11. Everybody tells me I am robbing the cradle. I asked her if she liked me, but all I got for an answer is: "I have not made up my mind yet." There are two other boys. Should I punch them out or what? — Jim

Dear Jim—Violence is not the way to a lady's heart. You have to be polite (that means not changing the shape of your rival.) You don't know what polite means? Start today by not being down your cheek over a mud puddle and letting the lady of your heart trample over it.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I've a big brother who is mean to me.—YOUR SISTER ANNE.

Dear Sister Anne—I just happened to have some information on your brother and I would say that you are lucky. Many a brother are worse.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—When my mother is asleep my mother tells me to be quiet. The only thing I know to do is to make noises. What can I do?—SIX YEARS OLD.

Dear Six Years Old:—That's not true. You can keep quiet. Just take a book and look at it and you won't even notice that you are being quiet.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I have a real problem. I daydream at school.—YOUR FRIEND JOEY.

Dear Joey:

Follow the teacher with all your might,
Don't let her out of sight,
Your teacher might be embarrassed
But at least you won't be harassed.

HENRY.

Dear Henry—My name is George and I have a friend which I hate very much. He tells lies about me, insults me and my parents and when I'm around he doesn't want to buy anything because he doesn't like to share. I would get another friend but none of my friends live near me and I would have nobody to play with. What should I do?—GEORGE PORONIUK.

Dear George—If you hate this kid he thrush with him. But I know other friends for you. There is Gulliver and David Copperfield who will give you lots of fun. Also you can go exploring with Cartier and Hudson. You will never lose these friends. But there is a slight catch, they won't share their candy with you.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I had a girl friend called Wendy. Ever since I was beat up by two girls Wendy won't go out with me. Instead she goes out with a boy called Mike. Just because I cried, I couldn't help it. No one wants to play with me, they call me sissy.—LOVE CRYING.

P.S. (Please leave this letter as it is, cause Wendy might see it and feel sorry for me.)

Dear Sieve—Girls are getting stronger all the time, you know. There were two of them and one of you. One of them can hold your arms back and the other slug you. Play with what friends you have. The "shame" will wear off, don't worry.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I am quite active in lessons and different activities, but nursing is the only day I have free. My mother says I should practise these lessons but with only one day free it is hard to do it. This is my problem, please help me solve it.—SUSIE GIRL.

Dear Busy Girl—This day was free. Now you know how to use it.

19 Local High School Girls Start Course in Hospital That Could Lead to Career

They call it the "Health Care Team of Tomorrow," and it could be that recruits for future hospital career positions might well be filled from the ranks of such teams.

This week 19 local high school girls commenced a four weeks' course at Belleville General Hospital which could encourage them to take up hospital careers.

The idea is to give team members an outline of the various hospital careers available and if they are interested to help them decide on which careers they would like.

The first week of the course is taken up by lectures on the various phases of hospital operation while the remaining three weeks are spent in the hospital helping student nurses do minor tasks.

The program has been tried with success in certain other hospitals in Ontario, usually on an "after four" basis. This however is believed the first time it has been attempted on a full time basis during the summer holiday period.

NO REMUNERATION

Recruiting of the girls for the course is in charge of Mrs. John Buchan, chairman of the volunteer services, committee, and Mrs. A. F. L. Jones, president of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary.

Hospital administrator Werner Daechsel noted hospitals were particularly anxious to interest girls in the fields of laboratory, nursing, pharmacy and social service fields.

The course sponsored by the Ontario Hospital Services Commission is voluntary and the girls receive no remuneration.

During their four weeks at the hospital members of the Health Care Team will be under the direction of Mrs. Norma Tyrrell, Reg. N., a nursing instructor at the hospital.

In their hospital work health team members will be assisting students nurses in doing minor tasks such a arranging flowers, feeding patients, making up beds or doing small errands for patients.

WILL WEAR UNIFORMS

While taking the course at the hospital the team members will wear the distinctive yellow uniform of the volunteer hospital assistants and will wear purple sleeve badges designating them as members of the "Health Care Team of Tomorrow."

So far the girls are enthused over the course. And the hospital already has applications from seven girls who are wanting to take the course for the month of August.

LABOR CONGRESS

under this provision because a "dispute" in the legal sense of the act did not exist in events leading to the boycott and the inter-union struggle between the SIU and its new rival, the CLC-backed Canadian Maritime Union.

However, other government legal experts held that it gave the labor minister wide powers to take action to launch an investigation.

Meanwhile, the ocean - shipping industry in Canada sent a telegram to Prime Minister Diefenbaker seeking federal legislation to prevent future interruptions to traffic in the seaway route to the inland lakes of North America.

"Unscheduled and unnecessary delays in canal operations result in serious financial hardship to many Canadian ship operators and undoubtedly inflict serious injury on the economy as a whole," said the telegram.

Transport Minister Balcer was reminded that an investigation of Canadian pilotage troubles had been promised last May after river pilots went on strike. "We urge that this also be implemented as soon as possible."

ASKED ACTION

The shipping Federation of Canada in another telegram to Mr. Diefenbaker said it hopes government action to halt a threatened St. Lawrence Seaway shipping will lead to legislation preventing further "illegal" strikes by seaway employees.

"The reputation of the seaway and the Canadian approaches has already suffered severely by lack of decisive government action or policy and we fear further disruption of shipping routes can only result in additional detention and lack of confidence in the seaways as an international trade route," the telegram said.

URGES PLAN

The CLC urged the government to get together with Ontario and Quebec attorneys general to find a common plan on which to tackle outbreaks of violence on the marine front.

The federal position has been that acts of violence must be dealt with by provincial and municipal law enforcement agencies.

The congress also asked that efforts be pressed at "top levels" of government to get the United States administration cracking on overcoming delays and harassment facing ships manned by CLC crews in American lakeports.

British Expert Will Study Medicare

Peer Accepts Invitation By Premier Lloyd

Lord Taylor Helped Set Up British Plan

LONDON (CP)—Lord Taylor, a medical consultant and former Labor parliamentarian, has accepted an invitation to study the dispute between the Saskatchewan government and the doctors who are battling the province's new medical care insurance plan.

It was learned today that Taylor, who played a leading role in the formation of Britains national health service, responded to an invitation from Premier Woodrow Lloyd of Saskatchewan.

Taylor, who probably will leave for Canada some time this week, said the purpose of his visit is to study the Saskatchewan plan and discuss the protest against it with both the provincial government and the doctors.

"I will try to help both sides reach an understanding," he said in a telephone interview.

He noted that the invitation to help came from the premier and added that he hopes to gain the co-operation and confidence of the doctors during his stay in the province.

LEAD EXPERIENCE

"I've had experiences on both sides," said Taylor. "I've been a member of Parliament and I'm still a practising doctor."

His career in public service goes back to the days of former prime minister Winston Churchill's wartime coalition government. He then was director of Hons intelligence, reporting continuously to the war cabinet on British morale and public opinion.

In 1945 he worked with and advised the late Aneurin (Nye) Bevan, who presided over the birth of Britain's health plan.

He was created a life peer in 1958.

Taylor is a neuro-psychiatric specialist. Before entering public service, he was a consultant resident at a number of London hospitals.

Despite attempts to achieve a settlement through mediation, the Saskatchewan government is continuing efforts to recruit British doctors for emergency service in the province.

Roughly 350 medical practitioners have telephoned, written or called at an office set up by the Medical Care Insurance Commission in response to the province's appeal.

Fortyeight have been interviewed and had their credentials checked by a British medical specialist engaged by the commission.

REDS MAKE PROGRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia was credited Sunday with "enormous progress in the nuclear submarine field" that soon may enable the Russians to match the missile - firing capabilities of U.S. Polaris submarines. The estimate came from Senator Henry Jackson, Washington Democrat who has extensive knowledge of military secrets through his membership on the congressional joint atomic and Senate armed services committees.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Cooler, drier air spread through southern and central Ontario last night, bringing welcome relief from hot, humid weather. Widely scattered thunderstorms accompanied with the transition. Some cloudiness is expected in the cooler northwesterly flow of air today. Rather sunny and warm, what warmer conditions are expected Tuesday.

REGINA (CP) — Both government and the striking doctors stood firm in the storm over Saskatchewan's medical care plan during the weekend and plans built up for a mass protest rally here Wednesday.

The government has not committed on the proposed rally but earlier Premier Woodrow Lloyd asked residents to remain calm and avoid demonstrations. A spokesman for the doctors said they "appreciate citizens' support but did not seek violence."

The premier, back from a two-day trip to Eastern Canada, said Saturday he is concerned about the "outright challenge to the procedures of constitutional government" in the doctors' stand.

Dr. H. D. Dalgleish, president of the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons, said in Saskatoon Sunday discussions between the college and government cannot resume until the Medical Care Insurance Act is suspended.

Most of the province's 700 practising physicians have refused to work under the act since it came into force July 1. About 200 doctors are providing emergency service at 25 designated hospitals.

CONVERGE ON REGINA

At different points in the province, plans went ahead for motorcades to Regina, where the mass rally is planned in front of the legislative buildings.

At Assiniboia, 60 miles south of Moose Jaw, Chamber of Commerce President Mel Wardrum said business in the community will close all day Wednesday, in support of the cavalcade.

The motor cavalcades are being organized by Keep - Our-Doctors Committees formed in practically all the larger centres throughout the province to seek delay in the act's implementation.

Since the act went into effect, committees have been set up in a pension of it in hopes that doctors who have said they will not work under the act will remain.

Dr. Dafenbaker said Saturday that the Canadian Medical Association endorsed committee activities of the cavalcade and will ask members to

Former French Premier Bidault Claims de Gaulle's Fall Certain

NEW YORK (AP) — Ex-premier Georges Bidault of France says his national council of resistance is growing and claims the downfall of President De Gaulle is coming "tomorrow or in a year," the New York Times reports.

The newspaper says Bidault keeps on the move from country to country because of the threat to avoid arrest. He was interviewed by Times correspondent Sydney Gruson who described the dispatch from Geneva but stated that he did not talk with Bidault in Switzerland.

Bidault was quoted as saying he couldn't do two things. To re-establish rights he said were destroyed in France and to remove Algeria what he called "the ties that have been broken except in speeches."

He did not say how the goals would be achieved.

Bidault claimed de Gaulle's government represents the minority in France, if you exclude "the Communists. Tomorrow or in a year—the outcome is certain. Everyone knows that the regime is condemned."

Bidault, a resistance leader in France against the Nazis in wartime, was premier four times and foreign minister in two governments.

The French Parliament cancelled his parliamentary immunity from arrest on charges of subversive activity.

HEAVY-HEARTED PM TO FLY TO BRUNT FUNERAL

Senator's Death Shortens West Trip

CALGARY (CP)—After witnessing scenes of the highhearted jubilee of the Calgary Stampede, Prime Minister Diefenbaker planned to fly back east today, heavy-hearted, to attend the funeral of a close friend and confidante, Senator William Brunt.

Mr. Diefenbaker, here to address the sixth assembly of the Canadian Baptist Federation, first cut short his Calgary plans at word of the senator's death and then late Sunday night decided to stay to witness today's stampede parade.

He planned to fly from here to Wiarton, Ont., for the funeral Thursday at Hanover, then return to Ottawa for a Wednesday cabinet meeting.

The prime minister, who counted Senator Brunt one of his life-long friends—the kind of friend with whom he could relax and discuss all political affairs in complete confidence — flew from Ottawa to Winnipeg Saturday to address the Ukrainian Canadian Association, and on to Calgary Sunday for the Baptist convention.

ATTENDS CEREMONY

He officiated at the laying of the cornerstone for a new Baptist leadership training school in Edmonton, then spoke at the Jubilee Auditorium to what amounted to a Sunday evening service.

Mr. Diefenbaker announced that a new centre for prayer and meditation will be opened soon on Parliament Hill for members of the Commons and Senate.

Informants said it is a small room in the West Block, now being renovated. It will be close to the old oak-panelled room used by Alexander Mackenzie, Canada's second prime minister.

Mr. Diefenbaker recalled Sunday night that Mackenzie had been a lone conservative prime minister and also was a Baptist.

The world, he added, needs a more vigorous application of Christian principles to meet the propaganda of communism.

His night address dealt with international affairs from the pulpit of Knox United church. On Saturday in Winnipeg he spoke to the Ukrainian-Canadians on Canada's role in international affairs from the diplomatic and political viewpoint.

Canada would work at the resumed Geneva disarmament conference in the hope of helping to resolve East-West differences, Mr. Diefenbaker told the reduction of arms with proper guarantees that it would be carried out.

The prime minister also reiterated Canada's opposition to nuclear testing and any extension of the nuclear "club."

Soviet Influence Evident In Many Parts of Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — Olive-green Russian trucks move down the broad, palm-shaded streets of Havana, along with 1900 American cars.

Russian movies share double-features with aging Hollywood productions.

The Russian influence is evident in Havana.

Baseball is still Cuba's favorite sport, but chess is winning converts.

Sandal-shod visitors from behind the Iron Curtain are commonplace. Bookstalls have learned that Czechs are more generous than Muscovites.

It is 2½ years since Russia and Cuba made a 15-year credit agreement, promising the Castro regime $100,000,000 in machinery and equipment. A five-year trade and payments pact was signed at the same time in Havana by Premier Castro and Anastas Mikoyan, Soviet deputy premier.

Mikoyan promised Russia would take 1,000,000 tons of Cuban sugar a year for five years —at world market prices. Until then, the United States, which no longer purchases from Cuba, was buying around 3,000,000 tons a year and paying a premium.

Russian-Cuban trade this year is set at 730 million pesos (the peso officially is equivalent to $1 (U.S.), but its actual worth in free exchanges is much less).

The government says the Russians will take 2,800,000 tons of sugar this year, at an undisclosed price.

In 1958 when Castro was bringing to a close his campaign against dictator Fulgencio Batista, only 2.6 per cent of Cuba's exports went behind the

U.S. Labor Secretary Will Mediate in Seamen's Issue

WASHINGTON (CP) — The Seafarers International Union (AFL-CIO) has agreed to call off picketing the harassment of Canadian ships manned by the rival Canadian Maritime Union (CLC).

In turn, Labor Secretary Goldberg has agreed to set up a three-man public board of inquiry to investigate the Quebec-Labrador strike on the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Seaway and recommend possible solutions by Aug. 1.

The inquiry likely will form the basis of Canada-U.S. federal talks on the explosive issue that involves an element of friction and question of sovereignty between the U.S. and labor federations in the two countries.

A labor department official announcing the Great Lakes truce Saturday night, said the U.S. investigative body, "whose membership will be announced in a day or two, undoubtedly will confer with a judicial board of inquiry announced by the Canadian government to examine SIU activities in Canada.

The SIU is an affiliate of the AFL-CIO, though its Canadian

WELCOME RAIN HELPS MOP UP SERIOUS FIRES

Half-Inch Falls On Bad Areas

ROBERVAL, Que. (CP)—Thunderstorms rolled across northern Quebec during the night, bringing welcome rain which may allow firefighters to mop up major forest fires they have been trying unsuccessfully to check for more than a week.

Weather reports indicated that an average half-inch of rain had fallen in the southern Abitibi and northern St. Maurice Valley regions by midnight and more was expected.

Rain was also expected during the night north of Lac St. Jean, where three large fires were burning.

Georges Bernier, director of services in the forestry department, said that probably half-an-inch had wet the huge Trenche River and Shawinigan River fires by midnight.

The Trenche River fire fought by 600 men and eight

Snead, Nagle Smash Records At Two Courses

TROON, Scotland (Reuters) — American Sam Snead and Australian Kel Nagle smashed the records at two courses today in the first of two qualifying rounds for the British Open golf tournament which begins Wednesday.

Veteran Snead, winner of the British Open in 1946, posted a 69 on the tough, Troon course, and Nagle, who won the British title two years ago, clipped three strokes off the course record at nearby Lochgreen with a 65.

Snead was five under par for the Troon course, recently lengthened by 400 yards to 7,045 yards. Until Snead came in the best competitive round on the course was 73 by British player Guy Wolstenholme earlier in the day.

Little Girl Calls Operator To Tell of Shooting in Home

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — The small voice said: "Operator, can you help me? Will you call the police for me?"

"What's the matter, honey?" asked operator Nina Shaw at the Sunday morning.

"There's blood all over my mommy's bedroom. There's a gun laying on the bed pointing at daddy. Mommy isn't moving to me, but now she doesn't talk any more."

Mrs. Shaw asked the youngster for his name and address. Then she held air - year - old Clancy Cottman on the line while she called police.

Moments later detectives arrived at the Cottman home. Clancy and her sister, Edna, 4, were at the door to admit them.

In the bedroom the detectives found Clarence Cottman, manager of a securities office, shot to death. Beside him was the unconscious body of his wife, Beatrice, a .25 calibre colt automatic from which the gun had been fired was on the bed at Cottman's feet.

The 42-year-old broker had been shot once in his right temple and was pronounced dead on the scene. His 43-year-old wife had been shot twice in the side that pierced her left cheek and lodged in the left side of her head.

She was taken to hospital where she told police that she and her husband got up about 4 a.m. for a cup of coffee when Cottman complained he was unable to sleep.

Mrs. Cottman said she left him downstairs, returned to the bedroom and fell asleep. "I just don't know what happened," police quoted her as saying.

U.S. Explodes Nuclear Device 200 Miles Up

Communications Soon Recover From Blast

HONOLULU (AP) — The United States Sunday night successfully shot off its biggest nuclear device miles above tiny Johnston Island in a third effort to explode a powerful warhead in the current test series.

The device was fired off at 10:46 p.m. Sunday, local time, and exploded 15 minutes later on schedule.

In an announcement 25 minutes after the blast, joint task force 8 officials said:

"A large nuclear device carried aloft on a Thor booster was detonated at an altitude of hundreds of kilometres over Johnston Island at 11 p.m., HST. Detonation was in the megaton yield range."

A spokesman said the test was a success.

A Thor missile rocketed the powerful warhead some 200 miles high into clear space over the sateness-dotted island.

SEE IN BLAST

The flash followed the thunderous megaton - plus blast, equivalent to more than 1,000,000 tons of TNT. Tourists and residents in Hawaii some 750 miles northeast of the explosion could see the flash from hills and shore.

U.S. missile prestige rode with today's shot because two previous attempts in the megatitude test failed and repeated delays marred the series.

The shot was the 25th in the series which began in the Pacific last April 25 but the only successful high-altitude test.

The lightning - like flash swelled into an orange - like glow which tinted the cloud with a sunset effect. It was visible for several seconds.

Observers were startled by the sudden flash even though they had been warned of it.

Other devices were low-altitude and mostly dropped from airplanes in the Christmas Island area south of Johnston Island.

BLASTS IONSPHERE

The explosion, from which the United States hopes to gather valuable scientific data in the nuclear arms race, was expected to touch off a jolt in the ionosphere—a band of space 50 miles above the earth — radio waves and in the van Allen radiation belts.

The big blast was triggered from the ground as a precaution to prevent accidental detonations. The warhead was lowered into place after the Thor was launched from a concrete launching pad.

Today's shot, originally scheduled for July 4, was delayed five times in as many days by poor Saturday weather conditions.

Sir Winston's Injured Leg Quite Swollen

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Winston Churchill's injured leg, which developed inflammation of the vein Saturday, has become more swollen, but there is no cause for concern over his health, it was announced today. The former prime minister's doctor said his leg is "rather more swollen" but there is "no general deterioration" as he is "very comfortable."

The "swelling" facing the 87-year-old Churchill's doctors is that when a man of his age has a blood clot it should be put on his feet as soon as possible to avoid chest complications. But with a vein inflammation that is not possible because the exercise might cause chest complications.

The inflammation which could lead to blood-clotting, developed Saturday but Sunday had apparently been relieved to treatment.

The bulletin was signed by the four doctors attending Churchill, among them Dr. D. E. Bedford, chief specialist who was called in when the phlebitis began.

Churchill's doctors Sunday said that his leg, fractured in a fall in Monte Carlo a year ago, showed no extension of the inflammation, or phlebitis, which developed Saturday.

Messages of goodwill are still pouring in for the 87-year-old statesman including one from Frankie and Kennedy. Churchill has replied to the Kennedy message.

Museum Given Some Articles From Lonsdale

Some interesting relics from the history of the village of Lonsdale were among a collection of articles recently presented by the Hastings County Museum by Mrs. Arnold Bolton of Lonsdale.

Articles included a work bench from Lester's early blacksmith shop at Lonsdale, early tools, and signs from two early businesses.

These interesting signs were announced that William Randall, (tailor) and J. Ross (general merchant) were in business. The exact age of the signs is uncertain, however, both businesses were operating in Lonsdale in the 1860's.

Other material donated included examples of early 19th century farm work, pieces of vertically sawed timber from a house at Lonsdale, a rope making machine, a lumberman's peevee and canthook once used by the Rathbun Company (whose headquarters were at Deseronto).

Other donations of material are now being received almost daily and some are on display now at the County Museum, 240 Church Street.

During the summer, the museum is open every afternoon from 2 till 5, and Monday through Friday evenings from 7 to 9.

Fire Rating Tweed Forest District

A careless blueberry picker is said to have been responsible for one of five new fires that started in the Tweed Forest District over the weekend.

The fire brings the total now burning in the district to eleven. All are under control and being patrolled by Department of Lands and Forests officials.

The "berry" fire started in Marmora township and burned over four acres before being brought under control. Other new fires are burning in Mayo, Hershel, Faraday and Radcliffe townships.

It seems the camping public let up on their cautionary methods" an official said today. "All the new fires were started by public carelessness".

Only a few hazard over the entire Tweed forest district is extremely high despite showers that fell on various parts of the district this morning.

There were only traces of rain over the major part of the wooded area. Palmer Rapids, however had a fall of .36 inch.

The forest bottoms in the greater part of cases are exceptionally dry. "One can go from three and four feet in places and find nothing more", an official stated today.

37 Persons Tour Upper Canada Village

The Hastings County Historical Society recently sponsored a bus tour to Upper Canada Village. Thirty-seven persons took advantage of the opportunity to visit the historic village reconstruction, first opened to the public last summer.

Despite overcast weather and cool breezes the day was a pleasant one. Visitors enjoyed the many restored buildings. Of particular interest was the (eerily river boat) were available.

The tour was arranged by Gerald Boyce in conjunction with Rawson Bus Company.

Scavenger Hunt At Q.V. Grounds

On Friday a scavenger hunt was held at Queen Victoria playground. Armed with lists of items ranging from dog hair to watermelon seeds children invaded the neighboring streets. The first team to return completed all of Glenn Anderson, Bryan Brown, Sandra Crane, Susan Fleiger, Mary Jane and Danny Welch. The second-place team consisted of John Eland, Gastone Letourneau, Jacques Letourneau, Fred Lynch, Bruce Macdonald and Timmy Morgan. Members of the third team were Mona Mears, Christine Pollitt, Roseanne Pollitt, Virginia Rodberg and Wendy Watson.

When all the children returned a "mystery" scavenger hunt was held. The correct spot was found by Sharon Paquette.

This event proved to be a success. The supervisor wishes to thank Marianne Carmichael and Donna Means for their assistance.

Judgment Is Reserved Until Friday

Archibald Wilfred Murray, 22, charged in the Booth Radio and TV robbery of May 26 of this year, appeared for his preliminary hearing this morning.

Counsel for the accused, Robert Temple, contended that the only evidence against Murray was his statement, produced by the police at the inquiry. He contended that Murray was forced by police to retract the statement, the crown has no case. Mr. Temple suggested the police officer who took the statement may have used promises as an inducement.

Murray was originally picked up and questioned June 28 after a notebook found at the scene had been identified as his property.

Magistrate Col. T. Y. Wills commented before the adjournment of the court that where there is doubt at a preliminary inquiry, the doubt must be resolved in favor of the accused.

He reserved judgment until Friday.

Careless Driving Charge Brings Fine of $10

Donald Lorne McLuskie, of Church St., was convicted on the minimum fine, $10, and costs totalling $16.00, on a charge of careless driving, in the city court this morning.

In setting the fine, Magistrate Col. T. Y. Wills commented that there was certainly some carelessness, but the degree of carelessness had not been established.

The charge arose out of an accident on June 16, at 12.30 a.m. on Bleecker Ave., when McLuskie driving south on Bleecker Avenue, must have struck a parked car. Avenue struck a parked car occupied by William Robinson and G. A. Burnett. Both parked car faced north, but was parked on the left side of the road.

Mr. McLuskie contended he had been blinded by the lights of an oncoming car. The occupants of the parked car did not see the northbound car described by Mr. McLuskie, but testified the car was in the middle of the road.

The driver down the gravel shoulder which both were parked, about 150 feet from their car.

Two Injured As Cars Collide Near Kaladar

As the result of an accident on Highway 7, west of Kaladar, Jeanne Phillips, aged 18, of 2627 Keller Blvd., Montreal, was admitted to Belleville Hospital Saturday with injuries to her face. Mrs. Bernice Phillips, of the same address, was admitted with a fractured wrist and multiple bruises and lacerations.

The accident, at 5 p.m. Saturday involved two cars. Both the injured were in one car with Mr. Phillips and a second daughter, five year old Carol. Involved carried three people. Both cars were badly damaged.

Air Cadets' Camp Visited By VIPs for Saturday Show

TRENTON—There's a Trenton merchant who lives down by the Belleville Road, next door to the air cadet camp at RCAF Station, Trenton. Now this merchant has run out of bed before 8.45 a.m. in years. Just in time to gulp down a cuppa coffee and get to work.

For the past two weeks, our merchant has been "jumping" out of bed at 6.30 a.m. Reason? At that hour, a very loud voice, augmented by a very loud amplifier, bellers, "Time to get up". Or words to that effect. Well, anyhow, our merchant has company. The more than 400 air cadets in Trent City have to get up at that time, too.

The cadets don't really mind, for there's plenty of excitement and interest in the second week day of their two-week stay at the camp.

Today, Saturday, press representatives, members of the RCAF Association and members of the Ontario Provincial Committee of RCAP cadets spent the day at the camp.

In the morning, the boys paraded in the square. The smiths marched on, Colonel Chapman, chairman of the Ontario Provincial Committee.

YOUR GUESTS

Visitors were taken on a tour of Tent City. "Good heavens", said one committee member, as "they" entered. Others came a-running. "Why didn't you tell us you were coming?" Others had lots to say about the neatness and cleanliness in the Tent City Committee. Flight Lieut. Allen is camp commandor, this year.

Such things as pork chops, fried potatoes and raisin pie in the afternoon's mess; with the afternoon's table partners. In the afternoon, a demonstration program kept everyone on the go. Cadets' displays, the officers' mess and so home.

Trenton has the largest air cadet camp in Canada. Together there are 20 air cadet squadrons in Canada; 20 in cadets in Canada; around 6-800 in Ontario (one-fifth of the nation's).

Twenty three members of the provincial committee planned into RCAF Station Trenton for the occasion.

Lieutenant Baldrock, national president of the RCAF Association and other high-ranking association members were there.

From Trenton, Len Caughey, vice-president of 413 Wing, RCAF Association; Tom Hetherington, chairman of the air cadet committee for the local wing and Doug. Whitley, vice-president of the Trenton branch of the Air Cadet League of Canada, were in attendance at the luncheon.

BELLEVILLE VISITORS

Association members Will Lewis, Bill Brown, Bud Woodcock, Ken Quinte and Rod Cook, proposed officers of Belleville's air cadet squadron-in-the-making, 806 Squadron. Mr. Lewis and Mr. Lake are members of the committee.

The day's arrangements were under the direction of F/L Ed Coit and F/O Jack Reid. F/L Reid is the public relations officer for the air cadet camp this year which 1,600 cadets will attend.

78-Year-Old Woman Aboard As Crew Member

TRENTON — On Sunday, an American yacht, with 78-year-old Mrs. Frances Ganz aboard, as a crew member, slipped into Trenton harbor and tied up at the government dock. Crew members, and owners of the yacht, the Jadwen II were Mrs. Ganz' daughter, Mrs. Dan Deuchs and her husband, Denny.

HERE COMES THE PARADE — Flag bearer Cameron Bunnett, and parade marshals Bernard Hollinger and Kenneth McMechan lead Saturday's walk at Shannonville.

Everyone loves a parade—especially little girls Here Barbara and Elizabeth Grant of Foxboro, watch Shannonville Orange parade.

An Orange parade wouldn't be a parade without the fife and drum bands. Here the drummers and the fife player take the easy way in the parade (in a truck). Good fifers are getting hard to come by for Orange parades.

A parade is always better if there is a laugh. Here, Orangeman Kenneth Vivian and grandson Kenneth Breadman ride on junior sized Shannonville lodge float.

Self-appointed junior parade marshal for the Shannonville "Walk" was Terry Rodgers of Belleville. Terry, seen above with big marshal's sword "walked" with the Plaffield lodge.

30 District Lodges on Hand For Biggest Orange Walk Ever Held in Shannonville

In the "biggest ever" Orange parade ever staged in the village of Shannonville more than 30 district lodges turned out on Saturday as Orange celebrants from the area turned out en-masse to observe the 173rd anniversary of the Battle of the Boyhe.

The monster parade which saw 32 lodges, and three bands taking part, strung out for well over a mile and blocked traffic on No. 2 highway until the marchers were again back in the Shannonville fairgrounds.

The parade formed up in the fairgrounds where earlier close to 500 dinners had been served in the agricultural building.

Heading the parade was flag bearer Cameron Bunnett as chairman of the celebration committee and parade marshals Bernard Hollinger and Kenneth McMechan.

Shannonville L.O.L. No. 242 with Vincent Pascoe as lodge master, was the host lodge for the walk, assisted by Tyendinaga Mohawk lodge.

Bands taking part in the "walk" included the Army, Navy and Airforce Pipe Band from Belleville, the Quinte Highland Pipe Band from Trenton and the "Men of Brass" band from Belleville.

The prize for the best lodge turn out went to Wallbridge, while Sunshine Lodge of Belleville took the men's counter part.

FIFE AND DRUM BANDS

Then in addition most of the marching L.O.L. lodges had their own fife and drum bands.

Lodge Master Vincent Pascoe and members of the host Shannonville Lodge were decked out for the occasion in distinctive organ-colored straw hats, while their "Men of Brass" band rode on a special float which last week had been used in the Shriners parade in Toronto.

The oldest man in the parade undoubtedly was 87-year-old Eddie Clarke of Foxboro, who says he has missed but very few Orange parades in his lifetime and Saturday despite the boiling sun finished the walk much fresher than men 20 or more years his junior.

Speakers for the afternoon program included Shannonville Lodge Master Vincent Pascoe who welcomed visiting lodges and other celebrants; East county Master Dana Court Thompson, County Master Garfield Evans; Brother Harold Pillon; and Godfrey Starr, East county master for Hastings West, past master of Sidney L.O.L. Grand Lecturer for Ontario East and minister at Springbrook United Church.

Concluding the Shannonville Orange celebration, will a South Hastings Baseball League game in the evening and the Orange Dance at night.

LODGES IN PARADE

Lodges taking part in the parade were as follows: Napanee Juvenile, LOBA and LOL lodges; Centreville 756; Lime Lake 1118; MacHeak 2285; Selby, 223; Harrowsmith, 451; Sulphide 1293; Rogers 1136, Malone, 266; Foxboro, Tyendinaga (McDowell) 99; Tyendinaga 266, Plainfield, Sunshine Lodge; Welcome 1230; Point Anne 2366; Carnahan LOBA and LOL; Wallbridge LOBA, Frankford 340; Frankford JOL 356; Trenton 206; Coronation JOL Trenton; Trenton LOBA; Loyalty, JOL Belleville; Lyric LOBA, Belleville, Benefit JOL Belleville; Benjamin LOL 274, Belleville; Ebenezer 974 and Shannonville 242.

Iron Curtain. This figure has risen to more than 50 per cent. Approximately the same proportion of the island's total imports also hails from Communist nations.

More than 800 peasant youths returned from Russia this spring, after a one-year stay at different agricultural technological centres.

Another 1,500 young Cubans are studying in universities in the Soviet Union. Still others are in Poland, East Germany and other Communist countries.

The Russians have promised bonus shipments of many food staples, including rice, lard and wheat. But some diplomatic sources believe the additional quantities will do little to alleviate rationing, especially if the deliveries are stretched out over the next 12 months.

"Take beans, for example," a veteran European diplomat said. "Cuba used to eat 55,000 tons of beans each year. Two-thirds were imported. The Russians are promising 8,500 tons; that's about one-sixth of the nation's total needs.

"On the other hand the Russians will ship 124,000 tons of wheat, when, as far as I know, Cuba's top consumption is around 120,000 tons per year."

Jeeps, tractors and trucks are the most common signs of Russian aid. Hardly a ship docks in Havana that isn't carrying a half-dozen or more Soviet-made trucks.

Poland has sent trucks, light bulbs and cement mixers, but prefers to sell its renowned autos in the United States for dollars.

There have been no announcements on how much military aid Cuba receives from the Iron Curtain bloc. But one look at recent military parades is enough to tell the observer Cuba has a well-armed, high-mobile army, well supported by MiG jet fighters.

STORM HITS CITY

STRATFORD (CP) — A vicious rain, wind and electrical storm slashed briefly at Stratford late Sunday blowing down trees and disrupting hydro service in parts of the city. Lightning twice hit the festival theatre, where a concert was on, but was grounded through a conductor without damage.

Eighty-seven years is not too old to take part in an Orange parade. Eddie Clarke, Foxboro (right) finished parade still fresh. He proves it by "assisting" fellow marcher Clifford Wilson.

Universities—How They Started

As long as universities are coming into the news, it might be worth our while to find out just what a university is, and how it got that way. A university is not a cheering section or a sporting event. It is not even a collection of fraternity houses and drunken parties. It is a place of learning.

Originally, it was called a "studium," and its function was the protection of the students, and the teachers, from those who didn't appreciate the idea of book learning. Also, since most university students in mediaeval days studied abroad, and since there was in those days no legal protection for a traveller in a foreign country, universities were useful for general protection.

A "studium" came into being where a group of students found a teacher, or vice versa. A teacher in those days was anyone who carried a license to teach, (the forerunner of the modern degree), issued by a church or state official. Later, the granting of degrees became the exclusive province of the universities. When the students gathered first, and found their teachers, they hired and fired the faculty at will. When the teacher found the students, he accepted and retained only those of whom he approved. In either case, the students studied. The teacher taught only to the extent that he lectured occasionally and was available to provide further explanation of points that sound confusing in their own studies. Even today, at Oxford, lectures are in such ill repute that the professors themselves do not take the trouble to establish good attendance records. The real teaching at Oxford is in tutorial sessions, in the halls of study, amid a cloud of pipe smoke. That few of these tutorial session have much do with the curriculum bothers nobody.

The university of Paris, for instance, began on the Ile de la Cite, because the Chancellor of the Cathedral of Notre Dame was prolific in handing out licenses to teach. A regular teachers' quarter grew in the area, as several teachers took up residence on the island. There have been classroom buildings and an organized university on the island for hundreds of years now, but most students still live in rooms adjacent to the professor's private home. One exception to this is the Sorbonne, established originally as a theological college when the church became concerned with the rise of agnosticism and atheism in the university. The Sorbonne is one of the few colleges any of the original universities with a tradition of classroom attendance.

The North American concept of collecting buildings and professors, then going out to look for students, arose within the past fifty years. And even now universities are rarely founded with a clear conception of what they will resemble when they are completed. An exception to this rule is an institute of technology, often incorporated into modern universities as a separate college. Because of the tremendously expensive equipment required in the study of modern science an established institute is a prerequisite of a science college.

With arts, an established institute can be a positive drawback. Regular classes can easily lead the student to the feeling that he or she knows what is being taught, without any real study on the part of the student. But learning, the course of study, or the ability to regurgitate textbooks, is not the purpose of a liberal arts course. University training is intended to make people think. And a good argument with a competent professor in a smoky, poorly lit room sometimes accomplishes more than mass sessions in an air conditioned lecture room.

Disinterested Bystanders?

Lawrence Roth, leader of the group of five parents whose suit forced the discontinuation of prayers in New York State public schools, has been bombarded with threatening phone calls and letters.

The threats covered his car, his house, his life and his family. Several displayed violent anti-Semitic feeling in their passionate defense of the abandoned prayers.

But the discontinued prayers were of Christian origin, so Mr. Roth need not feel he has injured anyone's feelings. The people making the threats are unidentified, but it is obvious they have no valid connection with the Christian faith.

Strictly Personal
Money, Power, False Values, No Panacea

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The things that are most true are the things that are the hardest to believe; we can learn them only from ourselves, and not from others — which is why the personal history of mankind keeps repeating itself sadly.

I was thinking of this while watching a group of young organization men at a luncheon recently. Most of them were decent, clean-cut, eager chaps, ready to do or die for success, status and the knowledge of "having it made."

The illusion they suffer from is that their material goals, if realized, will somehow bring them emotional and spiritual and social serenity. They deeply and unquestioningly believe that their present feelings of insecurity or inadequacy will drop away as they ascend the ladder of success, to be replaced with self-assurance and a sense of tranquility.

Nothing could be further from the truth. Beyond the years of youth, experience has taught us all on the outside has little relation to what happens to us on the inside. That is not enough money, or success, or power, in the world to make a person who feels emotionally undersecure feel secure, or a person who feels comfortably and easily within himself.

A week earlier, in fact, I attended another luncheon, at which the speaker was one of the affluent and enormously influential men in his early 60s, who had just returned from a trip to Europe and Asia. This man is rich beyond the usual material sense of the word — but he didn't believe it.

His manner was one of apologizing and embarrassingly obvious. He gave the impression of a man who was trying desperately to convince himself — by the sheer impact of what he was important. And the more he talked, the more he seemed not; his vanity and egocentricity simply revealed the unsure life boy beneath the impressive facade.

And no amount of reassurance from the outside will ever convince him, in the secret places of his heart, that he is a person of consequence. The child inside him keeps crying, "More, more!" and there will never be enough. Since money and power and fame are the symbols of success (and only the realization of infantile wishes can gratify us), no matter how much of these he has, he will forever remain unsatisfied, unsure, and discontented.

This is not to say that the material goals of life are bad or undesirable; they are to be won against mistaking them for real emotional nourishment. They can do nothing for the true sense of self-esteem than a suit with heavily padded shoulders can make a man who feels a weakling. Material padding never fools anyone — including the wearer.

Skindivers Counting Fish

New York Herald Tribune

The idea of taking a census of fish, we admit, is not one that would have occurred to us. And yet the government, which thinks of everything, has one under consideration. Director of the Interior Department 400 volunteer skindivers are counting fish around the coast and shoreline of the United States. The results are expected to be of great aid to marine biologists in determining the distribution and abundance of the fish that inhabit American waters.

Making a headcount of fish must pose, we imagine, certain problems. Presumably some fish might be willing to give the piscine equivalent of name, rank and a serial number if properly approached. But we would guess that most of them, suspicious of pad and pencil no less than of rod and reel, will flee at the sight of the census-taker, possibly murmuring something about having other fish to fry. Or whatever expression it is that fish use in such cases.

Just the same, we wish the skindiver census-takers luck in their endeavors. We don't know whether they are going to ask a special set of questions of one fish in every four, selected at random, but if so, they might probe into such provocative and interesting matters as why salmon really swim upstream, and what the chances are for prolonging the shad season. And we hope that the consustaker will tell us — as they will if they are honest men — not only about the fish that get away, but about the fish that are away.

Two youthful sailors experienced an early morning duckling in the Bay of Quinte today when their sailing craft capsized about 500 feet off the Government Dock. The lads clung to their overturned craft until Ross McKenna, owner of the sailing craft, went to their rescue in a row boat.

As an added precaution for motor vehicle traffic and pedestrians as well, a new steam whistle was introduced on the rear end of the ship switch tower that spots freight cars for the CNR along the Pinnacle Street spur. The whistle is operated by the brakeman and gives a long warning of the approach of the train at street intersections.

Sixty-eight beautiful fur garments valued at $25,000 have been donated by the Retail Furriers of Ontario to the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire, to be used as a medium to raise funds with which to carry on official war work. They are now in the hands of members of the Argyll and St. Julien Chapters are being sold for fifty cents. Any ticket may win any one of the garments up to a mink coat.

'Legicare' May Be Next

Financial Post

Lawyers and addicts may be the next professional groups to adopt prepayment plans.

Both groups are exploring ideas that might lead to lawyer — sponsored legal — fee insurance on the pattern of doctor and hospital medical insurance schemes. Similar thinking is going on among accountants.

One reason is that individually cost-conscious lawyers, firms and addicting much louder than usual these days about legal fees, which can be a serious and unpredictable drain upon a medium or small firm's cash.

Lawyers are especially young ones without an established practice — look with interest at the smooth, routine work of the prepayment schemes into the pockets of member doctors.

Much of the routine work of a law office is searching and assembling — a sort of job an electronic data processor can do faster and better than a human being. Sooner or later, the electronic brains will take over this aspect of a lawyer's work.

It won't eliminate the lawyer — it'll make him more valuable by freeing him for the parts of his practice that take imagination and originality.

But he'll have to put those human qualities to work in order to pay for the machine. Accountants are facing this problem already.

Individuals as well as business firms are increasing their demands for legal service, and some lawyers would like to see clients have to pay a fixed fee for their affairs get into a mess.

Prepayment — with controls to restrain the legal hypochondriac — would be a valuable diagnosis.

A prepayment scheme would also provide a welcome for the subsidization of legal aid for indigents, a problem most law societies are now trying to handle on a voluntary basis without too much success.

All this talk is going on far, far away from the official level. Law societies officially deny that any such notions are circulating, or that prepayment would be applicable to legal services.

"Many people go from birth to death without ever having a need for a lawyer," points out Harold Stubbs, secretary of the Law Society of Manitoba.

"It's not the same as illness, which everyone expects to experience sooner or later."

Pension Only $1.30 a Week

St. Thomas Times-Journal

William Starrie recently retired as an employee of the British Railways which are notionally owned. He had been 46 years in railway service and was one of 16 employees who formed the pool of stock drivers at Normanbury chosen to hand trains to which the Queen journeys.

Starrie was compulsorily pensioned off a few weeks ago on attaining the age of 65. The state-owned railway awarded him a pension of approximately $1.30 a week. Even with several extra shillings for his wife and himself, their total pensions come to around $54 a week.

That, Starrie says, is not enough to live on.

"I might get a job sweeping streets or washing dishes," he said, "but I'm 65, the age at 65 how people will employ you."

It appears the $1.30 railroad pension is quite in order. The wage grades only come into effect a few years ago, so the long service men get almost nothing out of the scheme as yet.

It is not surprising that Mr. Starrie wonders what the Queen and Prince Philip would think if they knew of the man who was hauling their train about for a salary of $1.30 a week after 46 years' service.

Starrie drove a train from London to Brighton, England, in six hours and three minutes in 1937, and that record has not been beaten yet.

Why Jail Remade Man?

Kingston Penitentiary Telescope

If a man sentenced to a term of imprisonment is released before the expiration of that sentence on the premise that he is fully rehabilitated in the judgment of those concerned to decide, then we must assume that something positive has been accomplished.

We must assume that the man released is better prepared to meet requirements of society than he was when he committed his offence. And we must assume, until such time as events prove otherwise, that he is no longer a social detriment.

Apparently not. However well-adjusted, however competent the rehabilitation of the individual, it is felt that justice would not be served if some previous offence, unknown sooner or later, were written off the books in favor of the declared reformation of the offender.

Retribution must have its day. As a result, the more valuable offender is headed back to court, to face the old offence, and, if convicted, sent back to jail.

Already rehabilitated in the judgment of those concerned, he must nevertheless serve another time-consuming sentence.

It might be argued that if he were truly rehabilitated he would have owned up to the offence.

It also might be argued that such a confession, under the existing system, would have done more harm than good.

But he had a chance to make good, to put the past behind him, in what a way would it benefit society for the man to confess to an old offence, committed before the advent of the "new man?"

There is a lamentable lack of logic in a system which rehabilitates with one hand and relentlessly punishes with the other.

The law cannot take its pound of flesh without spilling a lot of blood in the process.

To Your Good Health
Exercise Helps After A Mastectomy Operation

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My wife had her left breast removed a year ago — it was malignant. Ever since it swelled at all times.

It seems to me with all the cancer research, someone would come up with some sort of treatment. She is very despondent, and I understand there are many women in her condition. Any help you can give . . . W.J.A.

Yes, I think I can help. Mastectomy (removing the breast) is a life-saving achievement when cancer is present. It is far from simple surgery. Not only the breast but many surrounding tissue must be removed. This results in a quite extensive wound which has to heal.

Circulation to the area is impaired. Trauma (or shock) to the tissue is severe. Time is required for Nature to restore circulation, muscle tone, flexibility.

It isn't at all unusual for the arm and shoulder to be stiff, painful and swollen, after such extensive surgery. It takes a lot of steady, continued, sometimes painful effort on the part of the patient. It also takes some time for that, by making this effort, the patient gets well. They will, but not overnight!

Speaking frankly indeed, a hard shoulder to the wheel is a make is whether to tell the patient that she will need a lot of time and patience will be needed, or whether to give an optimistic view of how much can be done. Time was you may discourage the patient and get her into the use of trying!" attitude. The other way, you may encourage her to try, and then she expects everything to work out all right without effort.

And the "right" mental attitude for one patient may be wrong for another.

However, the facts are true:

1. It's a real problem, but it can be solved.

2 — Exercise, as soon after the operation as possible, is essential to speedy recovery.

3 — Physiotherapy frequently is necessary. Go to a "rehabilitation hospital" or clinic for treatment.

4 — Many a woman has periodically wept because it hurt to move that sore, swollen arm. She thought it was unfeminine regardless later reaped the benefit of thinking. It's a hard, long task, but there is no easy way.

Dear Dr. Molner: Kindly explain how and why does one person break out time after time with them? — P.L.

They are a "staphylococcal infection" —staphylococcus, and the germs spread easily over the body. They start new boils elsewhere. They are stubborn. Until you get them all out, in each crop of germs — keep starting things all over.

Hence keeping boils covered, taking care not to touch them or let sticking chairs them, and thus preventing spread of the germs is of vital importance.

Note to Mrs. A. A.: Easiest such are by laundering with the dry internal structures which contribute to our general health scene, can result in dizziness and falling. This is one of several reasons why I consistently preach the gospel of never ingesting the least sign of any infection. Start battling it at the earliest moment, because the longer infection persists, the harder it is to correct.

New Prayer For Hurried

Montreal Gazette

Someone, quite anonymous, in the Atchison Magazine, has written "A prayer for a person in a hurry." Whether or not being quite widely reproduced, for it has been in need of most of the time. The prayer reads:

"Thank You, Dear Lord! Keep the pounding of my heart by the quieting of my mind. Steady my hurried pace with the vision of the Eternal reach of time.

"Give me, amidst the confusion of my day, the calmness of the Everlasting Hills. Break the tensions of my nerves and muscles with the soothing music of the singing streams that live in my memory. Help me to know the magical, restoring power of laughter.

"Teach Me The Art of taking unanimate vacations, of slowing down to look at a flower; to chat to a friend; to pet a dog; to read a book instead of a good book.

"Let Me Look Upward to the branches of the Towering Oak and recall that it grew great and strong because it grew slowly and well.

"Remind Me Growing slowly inspire me to send my roots deep into the soil of life's enduring values that I may be fruitful towards the stars of my greater destiny.

"There never was a time in the world's history when so much need to be done, but there never was a time when haste might more surely defeat its ends. For the greatest loss may be the loss of understanding and direction.

"Help us people in a rush do not know where they are going. Failing means of discovering that destination is which is still the shortest distance between any two points.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market slumped slightly lower during extremely light morning trading today.

Mines and gas predominated among industrials, while all other sections but golds eased on index.

In the main list, banks followed with Montreal, Nova Scotia, Toronto - Dominion, Royal and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce all shedding ¼ to ½ range.

Alcoa, Canada Cement and Moore Corporation all dropped ¼. Dominion Tar ½ and Imperial Oil ¼.

Weston, Goodyear, International Pipe Line and Consolidated Paper all eliminated. Beatty Brothers rose ½ to a 1962 high of 8, while General Steel Wares jumped 1⅛ to 10⅝ after news that Beatty Brothers has offered to purchase 160,000 shares of General Steel Wares at $11 each.

On the exchange index, industrials dropped off to 221.32 base metals 1.06 at 183.07 and western oils 33 at 98.26. Golds added .03 to 99.17. The 11 a.m. volume was 347,000 shares compared with 346,000 at the same time Friday.

International Nickel and Falconbridge experienced heavy selling, each falling ¼. Noranda dropped ⅛ and Hudson gained ⅛. In the speculative section, Lake Dufault slipped five cents to 84.

Dome paced the golds with a ⅛ gain, while among western oils, Home B and Pacific Petroleum both declined ⅛.

But Goldberg, after a recent telephone conference with Labor Minister Michael Starr, reached George Meany, AFL - CIO president who is in West Berlin attending a meeting of the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions. Willy Stoph in Berlin is Paul Hall, SIU president.

After several transatlantic telephone calls, Goldberg was able to persuade Meany to interceds in the interest of Canada-U.S. labor peace and get a promise from Hall to call off the cross-border fight. In turn, the SIU side of the story was to be carefully scrutinized by the public board of inquiry.

Renewal Will Be Theme of Vatican Council

By BENNET M. BOLTON

CUTLER (CP) — The Catholic Church is undergoing a renewal as never before.

The samplerinal—the Vatican's outside, established observances—are visible everywhere cleaning and polishing.

All the renovating is in anticipation of the ecumenical council of the Roman Catholic Church, the first in 92 years.

Renewal also is the theme of the council, a worldwide gathering of the Roman Catholic hierarchy to discuss the needs of Peter's flock.

There is much hope that Christian unity lies beyond the doors where 3,000 prelates and theologians will meet in October for possibly six months of discussions and decisions.

Ecumenism — the movement in Christian churches toward rapport and eventual union—is bound to the aims of the council but is not the primary reason for existence. The gathering—to be known as the Second Vatican Council—will be a council of discipline for the internal affairs.

MAKES UP HIS MIND

Pope John has set as an immediate goal the internal renewal of Catholicism and a spiritual revitalization of its approximately 600,000,000 members.

Three years ago, in his first encyclical letter, the Pope linked the council with aspirations for unity. He said:

"For those who are separated from the [illegible] See, it (the council) is a sweet invitation to seek and to find unity."

The invitation to later statements that the unity he has in mind is not a reconciliation in Roman Catholic, Protestant and orthodox churches but a return to the fold of the Roman orthodox to Rome.

Extreme agony and thoroughness have gone into preparations for the second Vatican council than for any of the 20 previous councils.

The 10 commissions and two secretariats appointed by the pope submitted topics into 72 "schemes" or texts. It is these that the council fathers will discuss, debate and finally accept or reject in amended or original version.

There has been no public mention of sensational subjects. And there is sure to be lively debate on such topics as a proposed liturgical reform that would fix the date for Easter as an annual constant instead of the first Sunday following the first full moon after the vernal equinox.

The decrees issued by the council, which sits with the Pope as president, will be binding on all Roman Catholics.

DENOUNCE YMCA

HONG KONG (AP) — The Chinese Communists have denounced the YMCA as an organization of spies and subversive working for American "imperialism." A recent issue of the Chinese Communist Kwang Ming daily received in Hong Kong charged the worldwide youth organization has been "exploited by "ruling groups in the United States" as a "vanguard for U.S. spiritual infiltration."

Japanese Floods, Landslides Take Fifty-One Lives

YOKYO (AP)—Weekend landslides and floods in rain-swept southern Japan took a toll of 51 killed, missing and 38 injured. Weathermen warned of further devastation as typhoon Joan approached.

Service workers in Tura, northern Kyushu, recovered bodies as they dug into thousands of tons of earth that buried about 50 homes when rains loosened the side of a mountain.

An eyewitness who flew over the area reported only the roofs of the railway station and elementary school can be seen emerging from the earth.

Flood damage was heavy in Fukuoka City, whose entire population of 65,000 was ordered evacuated Saturday when flash floods swept through the downtown district. In 1957, Isahaya City suffered 313 flood deaths.

In the coastal city of Kashima, 20 miles north of Isahaya, about 40,000 citizens roamed by flood waters, were being flown supplies from the air by defence forces.

BRIDGES OUT

Other Kyushu damage listed by police included 82 bridges washed away, many tracks blocked by water or landslides and 30 planes and 30,000 acres of rice paddies inundated.

The rains let up this morning, but weathermen warned that typhoon Joan, approaching Japan, may bring further destruction Tuesday or Wednesday.

Quebec Toll From Accidents Worst on Record

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A rash of highway accidents and drownings—and Canada's worst toll of holiday carnage.

At least 79 persons died accidentally in a 24-hour period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday. It was one of the highest death lists of the year, including those for long holiday weekends.

Traffic accidents accounted for two-thirds of the deaths with 48. There were 23 drownings.

Quebec had the highest total with 34, followed by Ontario with 23.

Quebec Provincial Police studied that province's death toll —which included four lives in two plane crashes—the worst weekend in memory.

A survey by The Canadian Press showed only Prince Edward Island was fatality-free.

Newfoundland, New Brunswick, Manitoba and Saskatchewan each reported one death. Nova Scotia and Alberta reported two each and British Columbia four.

The survey does not include natural deaths, slayings, known suicides or industrial accidents.

Ontario dead:

aircraft, has laid waste an area of 75 square miles and was burning during the weekend over a 150-square-mile area.

It is the largest, hottest and smoldiest fire in the St. Maurice Valley since 1964. Like most of the others in the province, it has fed on slash—the debris left after an area has been logged.

The fire started in the Mattice region as the Blueberry River Pulp and Paper Company employees leased near the head of the Gatineau River roared through the area uncontrolled out of control.

Some 200 square miles by Sunday night and had jumped to Canadian International Paper Company tracts.

Bernier said the fire burned in an area heavily logged recently because of inroads by the spruce budworm. He termed it a salvage logging to get timber out before the insect destroyed it.

The Trenche River region—mostly leased by Canadian International—also has been heavily logged this spring, with spruce and balsam logs recently floated down the St. Maurice River to newsprint mills at Trois-Rivieres.

BURNS PUFFWOOD

The fire burned 3,000 cords of puffwood valued at $18,000 and fire fighters spent much of their energy protecting other stacks piled through the area.

North of Lac St. Jean, two fires in the Quebec Forest Corporation limits were being fought by 300 men and another on Les Chaniers Gagnon Limitee property involved 1,500 men. Also in the Lac St. Jean area, a fire covered 8,000 square yards and burned up a 20-mile-an-hour wind menaced the town for a time.

SAVES VILLAGE

A nine - square - mile fire at Lac Bouchette was still burning. Hastily-raised earth dykes breaks probably saved the village of Bouchette, 40 miles north of Ottawa, from destruction Sunday.

Bernier said indications were all these areas had been rain during the week.

"The rain will certainly help," he said. "They are not expect it to extinguish the fires completely. We will have to wait and see, and it will be a big task for many days."

Six Players And Referee Are Suspended

BRAMPTON, Ont (CP) — Six players and a referee were suspended indefinitely by directors of the Ontario Lacrosse Association.

Referee Stan Abbott of Fergus was sidelined until he appears before the executive to explain his report on a recent game in Huntsville. No details were given.

The suspended players:

Terry Sweeney, Hurling Legionnaires, one year for striking an official.

Lorne Waddess, Streetsville Intermediates, pending an appearance to explain charges of misbehavior.

Ken Yeaton, Port Credit seniors, seven days for throwing the ball at a referee.

Wayne Woods, Huntsville Intermediates, indefinite for molesting a referee.

Norm Armstrong, Alliston Intermediates, seven games and final warning for striking a referee.

Harry Pascoe, Streetsville Intermediates, seven games for molesting a referee.

Kingston Rink Wins Title in District Contest

Two rinks of men's doubles took out the finest display of lawn bowling in this city on Saturday that has been witnessed for some time.

The occasion was the district playoffs for the Dominion title and it was won by William Dunnigan Jr., and Ken Edney Jr., of Kingston, over Eddie Denison and Dick Edney from the same city. There were 11 rinks in the competition, supervised by Ken Wright, convener, in the absence of the district chairman, George Free of Campbellford.

A preliminary round was necessary to get the draw in even figures and a rink from Belleville and two from Trenton bit the dust in that round.

In the first round a Belleville, Campbellford and two Kingston rinks won and in the second round only the two Kingston rinks were left and in the final game, some excellent bowling resulted. The game was played on a green that was lightning fast with good draws on both sides and the two rinks stuck closely to the "draw" game throughout the match. It was a fairly even contest until around the 12th, when Dunnigan Jr., who was skipping the rink made a couple of sensational shots to put the game away. It was a battle of wits, the skips trying to outguess each other and the lead changing hands several times. Dunnigan's singles competitor for the district will be played next Sunday.

The results of the games are as follows:

close up Wednesday to allow proprietors and employees to take part.

A spokesman for the college, Dr. Neville Smith of Regina, said at a press conference, that if the Saskatchewan conditions for several months the effect on the province's general health would be "disastrous."

In Regina's Westminster United Church, Rev. Ross Scott told his congregation "if the Diefenbakery contributions by the doctors and various voluntary committees were stopped, our climate and situation would be bettered almost overnight."

He said "the courts of law and not an aroused ballot-informed public opinion, are the places in which the controversy can be settled to the advantage of everyone."

The medicare care fight was referred to in sermons and prayers in other churches.

COURT HEARS PT.S.A

A court hearing was scheduled Tuesday in which three residents will seek an injunction which would, in effect, suspend operation of the act until its validity can be tested in September. Leave to seek the injunction was granted Friday in Queen's Bench court.

An earlier court action was launched by a statement of claim filed at Saskatoon in which two doctors sought damages and a declaration that the act is beyond the power of the provincial legislature.

In his Saturday press conference, Premier Lloyd said of the doctors' strategy: "It has encouraged this spreading to other provinces and would have a state of anarchy."

He said he considers the "sticking point" to be that only two sides to be the college's representative. Also on which Lloyd includes all provincial residents as beneficiaries and is under the administration of a public body.

The premier said he had seen various persons in Eastern Canada regarding possible mediation. So far nothing has come of it.

A spokesman for the Medical Care Commission said 40 doctors are operating under the plan and about 40 more are operating outside the doctor's emergency-only agreement.

At another press conference, Dr. Dalgleish said the halt of normal practice "could lead to total strike. He said there are no persons being deprived of necessary medical treatment.

"A good standard of service is being given," he said.

No Survivors Among 94 Aboard Plane

BOMBAY (AP)—Airline officials said today there were no survivors among 94 persons aboard an Indian airliner that crashed near Bombay Friday.

The report that all 85 passengers and nine crew members had been killed was issued by Alitalia Airlines in a report to its Rome headquarters.

The announcement came as search teams bogged down by mud suspended efforts to remove the rest of the bodies from hillside east of Bombay where the four-jet plane went down in a heavy monsoon rain.

Alberta Girl, 5, Found in Bush Said Murdered

RED DEER, Alta. (CP) — RCMP say five-year-old Marilyn Louise Lee, whose body was found Sunday in a dense poplar grove about 12 miles northeast of Gull Lake, Alta., after a three-day search, was slain.

Police were searching for a suspect believed to be in his 20s.

Sgt. R. C. Coombs of the RCMP said there was no evidence that the girl had been sexually assaulted.

The girl's fully clothed body was struck cold on the ground. A slight abrasion on her throat and another on her left temple were the only indications of violence.

Assails Failure To Pay Subsidy To U.S. Lakers,

WASHINGTON (AP)—In recommending action against federal payment of a subsidy to American shippers on the Great Lakes, Rep. Lankford (D-Md.) charged that Canada engaged in a silly, childish game of tit-for-tat.

Lankford, representative of Alvin O'Konski (Rep. Wis.) said today.

"They refuse to aid an allied American shipping industry . . . but at the same time give money to a foreign nation (Canada) to take the shipping away from us," he said in a statement.

The department's opposition to his bill calling for operating and construction subsidies was described by Lankford as a crippling blow to the Great Lakes area.

"Already one steamship company has announced plans to withdraw from the area," he said. "Others are soon to follow. Unless our nation's leaders move up it will be the end of the Great Lakes with additional thousands of unemployed because of foreign competition."

American vessels carried only 19 per cent of the grain shipped from the Great Lakes last May, he said, while foreign ocean-going ships carried 81 per cent and Canadian lakers transported 49 per cent.

SAFE DEPARTMENT

The commerce department, O'Konski said, apparently knows little about shipping on the Great Lakes and if commerce officials do not they apparently don't care what happens.

"The real tragedy is that the competition, unrestricted and deprecation subsidies offered Canadian and foreign vessels is really driving us from the seas," he said.

"The motto of our nation's leaders is millions for subsidies for foreign and Canadian shipping but not a penny for American Great Lakes shipping."

O'Konski said the United States recently negotiated a new improved efforts to remove the rest of the bodies from hillside east of Bombay where the four-jet plane went down in a heavy monsoon rain.

Weddings

WICKETT — LOUGH

A quiet wedding ceremony was performed at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the Alliance Tabernacle, Moira St., Belleville, when the Rev. Sackville Palmer united in marriage Beverley Jean Lough, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Lough, of Ameliasburg, and Trenton, and Clarence Harold Wickett, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Wickett, of Belleville.

A small reception was held at 2.30 p.m. at the home of the bridegroom.

The couple will reside at 21A Bettes Street, Belleville.

CAIN — BUSH

Princess Street United Church, Kingston, was the scene of a pretty summer wedding early this month, when Keith Geoffrey Cain, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Cain, of Perth, took as his bride, Sylvia Ann Bush, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray F. Bush, of Kingston. The young couple exchanged vows in a double-ring ceremony at 2 o'clock by Rev. Ronald Vetcher, officiated. White shasta daisies decorated the chancel and the guest pews were marked with bows of white satin.

The wedding music was played by Miss Lenore Black and Mrs. Annabelle McCullough sang, "The Wedding Prayer," "The Lord's Prayer," and "O Perfect Love."

Mr. Bush gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a floor-length gown of white nylon organza over taffeta. The fitted neckline and long lily-pointed sleeves of the bodice were trimmed in sequins and tiny seed pearls. The bouffant skirt, fashioned in organza, was edged with deep valances of Chantilly lace caught up at the back with a cluster of roses. Her dainty headpiece of matching lace and organza was caught up into a four-tiered veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of orchids, lily-of-the-valley and feathered carnations.

The bride's sister, Miss Patricia Bush of Kingston, was maid of honor and Mrs. Robert Reid was bridesmaid. Both were gowned in nylon organza over taffeta, styled with rounded scoop necklines and short sleeves, plain bodices and bell-shaped skirts in floor-length with bustle backs, in colors of maize, yellow and shrimp. Their hats were matching organza roses with short illusion veils and they carried cascade bouquets of white Shasta daisies.

Little Miss Jane McMillan, of Brockville, niece of the bride, was flower girl, a petite figure in her soft green frock with matching ribbon headdress. She carried a small cascade posegay of white Shasta daisies.

Constable Donald Thomas, of Belleville, was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Douglas Cain of Ottawa, brother of the bridegroom, and Constable Barry Dowdall of Belleville.

The wedding guests motored to the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Frank Zills, and Mr. Zills, on Highway 33, where luncheon was served on the lawn overlooking Lake Ontario.

Mrs. Bush received the guests wearing a two-piece duster set of printed organza over taffeta, in medium-green shade, with beige accessories and corsage of bronze mums. She was assisted by Mrs. Edward Cain, grandmother of the bridegroom, wearing a navy blue lace sheer over taffeta with matching flower hat, and corsage of white feather carnations.

Following the reception the young couple left on a wedding trip to Cape Cod, Mass. For traveling the bride chose an ensemble of double Italian knit, featuring a slim skirt and loose fitting jacket in Baltic navy with white blouse of matching material. Her accessories were white and she wore an orchid corsage. Upon their return they will reside at Sharbot Lake where the bridegroom is stationed with the Ontario Provincial Police.

Guests were present from Toronto, Brampton, Thorold, Iswa, Ajax, Burlington, Milden, Napanee, Bath and Sharbot Lake.

Crowd of Over 2,000 Hears Bach Concert

By ROBERT TANNER

STRATFORD—Just a few years ago, it would probably have been unthinkable that a concert devoted entirely to the works of J. S. Bach (and by no means his best known) would have drawn to a Canadian city the size of Belleville a sell out audience of over 2000. Yet that is exactly what happened on Sunday when an audience of music lovers from many parts of the North American continent packed the Stratford Festival Theatre for the first concert of the season.

The program opened with three portions of the musical offering composed some three years before Bach's death as a tribute to Frederick the Great (an accomplished flautist) on a theme which the King had given him. The first of these, Ricercare for three Voices, was played by Glenn Gould, Canada's greatest exponent of Bach, upon the special piano built to his own specifications. In this instrument, metal staples have been inserted in the hammers, to give a tone quality close to that of a harpsichord, while retaining the flexibility and dynamic range of the modern piano. Gould, a native of Toronto, is a current darling of the North American concert circuit, having played in Carnegie Hall, New York, and Toronto's Massey Hall, as well as in Montreal, Ottawa and Vancouver.

Gould, the possessor of unusual freshness and clarity in musical matters, was accompanied by this opening number by Oscar Shumsky, violin, and Lorand Fenyves, viola, joined the ensemble for the Ricercare for six voices, another lovely piece of delicate contrapuntal playing.

STORM DISREGARDED

The rest of the afternoon was devoted to two solo recitals, the first of which was the Partita No. 2 in D Minor for unaccompanied violin, in a tour de force which Mr. Shumsky appeared to take completely in his stride. During this item Stratford was

Maple Leaf Does Not Go Far in Identification In Europe, North Africa

Margaret Ness, Toronto fashion writer and commentator, has spent five months travelling through Europe and North Africa.

By MARGARET NESS

ZURICH, Switzerland (CP) — A maple leaf pin doesn't go far toward identifying you as a Canadian in Europe and North Africa, unless, of course, you happen to meet one of the many Canadians travelling abroad.

Only three times was a large pin, worn prominently, recognized as being a Canadian.

In Rabat, Morocco, a civil servant mentioned the pin, saying he had once, visited Montreal; in Madrid another woman started up a conversation after noticing it, and in Rome a hawker made a sale after coming his pitch with the greeting "Hi, Canada."

The fact that the maple leaf is a Canadian emblem of registered belatedly on a few Americans and Britons after they learned the wearer was from Canada.

On other occasions the Canadian accent, or perhaps lack of accent, was the tip-off.

During a five-hour bus ride in Morocco a girl student-teacher mentioned she had some knowledge of Canada but wasn't aware that the maple leaf was a symbol of the country—so a man across the aisle had simply never heard of Canada.

BECOMING KNOWN

But if the pin was seldom recognized, it was evident from a tour of a half-dozen countries that Canadians are becoming better known.

In Madrid I was interviewed on Radio Espagne. At my request the translator of ceremony asked the 100-person audience if they knew Canada and what it was. They did, showing it with a roar of "sí, sí." Then a teen-age girl came to the microphone and answered that Canada is north of the United States.

Some other Europeans were less certain of Canada's location. Many even placed it in South America. And a hotel desk porter in the Canary Islands thought it was in Scandinavia.

On one conducted bus tour in Spain the 32 passengers included seven from Montreal and one from Toronto.

In Las Palmas, Grand Canary, we met Mrs. C. Graf, formerly Florence Best of Toronto, who lives on the island with her Swiss husband.

Leaving on the same plane for Casablanca was James Shuttleworth of Ottawa. On the restaurant in Tangier we met Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roberts of Prince Rupert, B.C.

In Gibraltar, Royal Canadian Navy Captain Peter Leslie of Hamilton and Halifax recognized our Canadian voice, not on the ferry from there to Spain we encountered J. F. Cadaman of Vancouver.

David Walker, a University of British Columbia student from Victoria, had been hitch-hiking across the Continent and remarked that we are only the second Canadians he had met in nearly two months, possibly an indication that tourists from Canada haven't yet copied the American fondness for travelling in rented cars.

In Rome a case of the mumps brought Dr. V. Marcologo who remarked that he had studied at McGill University, Montreal, and Toronto Banting Institute.

Evidently not many Canadian tourists bother to pay a courtesy call at the Canadian embassies. In Lisbon only nine had signed the guest book in January.

In Vienna, where Canadas only embassy attache, Major Margaret Meagher of Halifax, is stationed, only 36 Canadians had registered in the first five months of this year.

In Madrid, the guest book was a little better filled, with visitors from practically every province.

White Cane Club Attends Evening Service

On Sunday evening the White Cane Club members were guests of the Parkdale Baptist Church. The pastor, Rev. Michael Twilley, greeted the members and their escorts.

The service opened with several solos rendered by Mrs. Noel Duncan.

The pastor commented on the turning of the sod at the morning service for the new building to be erected. He also gave an enlightening service, and later extended an invitation to all for refreshments and a get-acquainted period.

Pat Saverino tendered a vote of thanks to the members for transportation and lunch.

Gilbert and Sullivan Gondoliers Delightful

By ROBERT TANNER

STRATFORD (Delayed) — With an imaginative yet boldness the production of The Gondoliers, one of Gilbert and Sullivan's most popular operas, Stratford opened the music season of this year's festival. There seems to be no doubt whatsoever that this show will equal the popularity of its two predecessors, Pinafore and Pirates, which after an extended and very successful season in London, England, are to tour the west coast of Canada and the U.S.A. this summer.

Chief credit for the success of the production must go to the young Canadian director, Leon Major, who, while departing further from the D'Oyly Carte tradition than did Sir Tyrone Guthrie, presents a most coherent and believable re-interpretation (if such a thing as a believable interpretation of W.S. Gilbert is indeed possible). Disdaining the traditional G. and S. encores, in spite of some insistent demands from the first night audience, the show moved throughout at a brisk pace, reaching a climax in the show-stopping Cachucha number, for which appropriate abandon to Alan Lund's choreography. The slow build-up of the opening number, the transformation of "When a Merry Maiden Marries" into a speech at the wedding breakfast — these and many other touches reveal a lively imagination; which does not hesitate to poke fun at Gilbert's own Macbeth or to introduce the theatre's fanfare into Sullivan's Scene.

LOVELY SOUND

After the direction, the music. Under Louis Applebaum's firm guidance the company and orchestra excel themselves throughout — the singing a riot of lovely sound. Perhaps the finest singing is that of Alexander Grey as Luiz and Ilona Kombrink as Casilda, although Gaben Kaye and Lucille Poir of Sparkling Eyes" is a delight. Victor Braun as the Grand Inquisitor, Barbara and Dodi Protero and Darlene Hirst, as their two sons, complete a very satisfactory quartet.

Dinner With Distinction

by Mary Moore

You depend on me to tell you when I have dinners for guests that are successful.

The dinner I am declaiming about for the next two or three minutes has an added benefit,—it is easy. It is fairly expensive though. The main dish is a rich shrimp curry and calls for 2 boxes of fresh frozen de-veined shrimp that cost $2.09 each, but served 7 people generously. Each box contained 14 ounces.

I served it inside a border of fluffy boiled rice, I garnished both ends of the platter with baked banana halves. With it we had new green peas cooked with a sprig of mint. Other accompaniments were chutney and shredded cocoanut.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Baked Chicken Legs in Mushroom Soupsauce; Boiled New Potatoes; Buttered Broccoli Parmesan; Cucumber and Green Onion Salad with Devilled French Dressing; Hot Black Currant Roll; Caramel Sauce; Coffee.

SHRIMP CURRY

2 14-oz. boxes fresh frozen shelled de-veined shrimp; 2 teaspoon chopped fresh or dried minced onion; top and leaves from 1 celery stalk; 1 teaspoon salt; ½ cup butter; 1 chopped onion; ½ cup diced pared apples; ½ cup chopped celery; 1 tablespoon curry powder; ½ teaspoon salt; 1 tablespoon flour; ½ pint cream (18%).

Pour boiling water over frozen shrimp to cover. Add the 1 teaspoon chopped or dried onion, celery top and leaves and 1 teaspoon salt. Put on lid, bring to boil. Remove from heat and allow to stand for 3 minutes. Drain. Add the butter, chopped onion, diced apple and celery; and cook over medium-low heat until the celery wilts and the apple begins to soak up the butter. Sprinkle the curry powder, salt and flour over and blend in. Pour in cream, stirring until thickened. Taste to now to see if it is hot enough with curry flavor for the taste of your family.

Meanwhile to serve 7 adequately cover low heat for ½ hour 1½ cups raw long grain rice in 3½ cups boiling salted water covered, until all grains are separate and tender.

Arrange rice in border around edge of buttered platter. Turn the shrimp curry into the centre. Garnish at both ends with

BAKED BANANAS

7 underripe green-tipped bananas, ¼ cup lemon juice, 1 tablespoon butter, ½ cup sugar.

Peel and cut bananas in halves crosswise. Arrange on buttered shallow baking dish, preferably glass, but do not let them touch. Heat together the lemon juice, butter and sugar and when sugar is melted, pour this syrup over the bananas and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 30 minutes or until they have taken on a slightly rosy shade and are tender. These make a delicious dessert too.

Bride-to-Be Feted at Gift Shower

RAWDON — Miss Dawn Hobbs of Carmel community who has been teaching at public school near Pembroke, Ontario, was tendered a miscellaneous shower previous to her marriage at the home of Mrs. Harry Hagerman and her daughter, Sandra, of Carmel. A large number of ladies were in attendance.

The decorations including pink and white streamers, bells, balloons and floral bouquets.

The program included piano music by Miss Dorothy Sheppard, Miss Linda Johnston, Miss Bonnie Visser and Miss Sandra Hagerman. Readings were given by Mrs. Joe Grills, Mrs. Lorne Brooks, Miss Sharon Grills and Mrs. Harold Johnston.

Mrs. Ray Keating read an address of appreciation to Eileen and she was presented with an array of wrapped parcels by the hostess.

Dawn unwrapped her gifts and voiced thanks to her Carmel friends for their kindness.

She plans to be married on July 14th in Calvin United Church, Carmel, and will leave with her husband for Prince, where she will be employed with the RCAF in that country.

At the close refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

River Valley W.I. Holds Children's Day

STIRLING — On July 5th, River Valley Women's Institute in West Hastings District held their annual children's day at the school with Mrs. Ralph Ulman as hostess. There were 14 members and 30 junior children in attendance.

Mrs. Kenneth Myers, president, opened with the Institute ode, after which Mrs. G. Hessman gave a fall financial statement to date. The proceeds for the strawberry social amounted to over $45. Correspondence included an acceptance from Frankford W.I. to be guests of the group in August; a message re the women's section of the Stirling Fair Board, and an announcement that Mr. Miss Elizabeth Spouse will soon be taking over her duties as County Home Economist.

A leaflet re Ontario traffic safety was passed around for all to view. Plans were made to complete the cupboards in the school kitchen. A donation of $5 was made to be used to equip the kitchen. Roll call at the local fair. Institute members will visit Hastings County Museum at Belleville on July 23th.

Several small bills were authorized to be paid.

At the August meeting the 85th birthday of organizing Institutes by Adelaide Hoodless will be observed and a special effort will be made to extend that day to help FWIC extend Institute work in the North West Territories. Mrs. Charles Wilson gave a report of the recent birthday party of the Hastings Historical Society. The assistant convener for home economics had a few kitchen hints.

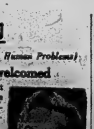
Mrs. Percy McMullen spoke briefly re a letter received from the Hastings County Library board. Mrs. Doug Tucker passed the penny jar and reported over $1 contributed to June. She read several items of interest from "The Countrywomen's Magazine." This included an article re the Adelaide Aberdeen scholarship fund.

Mrs. Allan McDonell convened the program and displayed an interesting booklet on Upper Canada Village. Jane Bush gave a piano solo and Connie Tucker read an article re "Baking Day." Mrs. G. Hessman read a special article entitled "My First School," which was the experiences of a teacher from his first days in public school up to the date of his retirement.

The convener concluded the program by reading "A Busy Person's Prayer."

Mrs. E. C. Hay-Ellis, Mrs. Ernest Carr, Mrs. J. L. Donohoe and Mrs. Percy Ulman were in charge of several games on the lawn for the children and small prizes were awarded the winners.

Mrs. C. Wilson voiced thanks for the program and refreshments and the meeting closed.



The historical group under the direction of Mrs. E. C. Hay-Ellis, Miss Mary Thomas, Mrs. H. Corby and other committee members served sandwiches, fruit bread, relishes and beverages, and the Institute provided ice cream as a special treat.

Due to several other attractions the attendance was smaller than usual.

Holy Terrors Are Unwelcomed

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—Frequently, my aunt and their three holy terrors come to see my sister and I always get the dubious honor of sleeping on a rather mildewy couch in the basement.)

It wouldn't be so bad if the three cousins were human beings—but they aren't. To give a few examples of what goes on: The 11½ and nine year olds eat with their hands and sometimes spoons. The 11½ year old does absolutely nothing he is told.

He has absolutely no respect for anyone or anyone's property. He has broken our translator radio stopped my mother's expensive 400-day clock and broken a couple of windows. Last, but not least, he beats up on my sister and his brother with monotonous regularity. We can't trust him for a minute.

The others are just as bad. Nothing in the house is safe.

Listen to this! My aunt and uncle decided to go to a big party last Saturday. That meant Dad (who can't stand the kids) and I were going to be here watching them. By the time I had them in bed my nerves were shot and I was ready to scream. There went the studying! (This year I'm trying my Grade 13 and I sure could have used the time.)

When they leave, the house is an absolute shambles. Please, Doris, how can we tell them nicely that we are sick and tired of giving free board and babysitting while they gallivant around? They have a lot more money than we have. —POT-WALLOP No. 2.

DEAR POT-WALLOP—Your mother may fear a family feud, but this will come if she doesn't take action. Nerves will fray and tempers let go. Obviously your home is too small for a whole family to move in, even for a day or two.

How about this: Find a good motel on the outskirts of your town and check about prices. When Auntie phones, your mother must summon all her courage to say:

"I've found a grand motel for you and the kids and it's all set. You'll love it. Phone us when you get settled.

"This way we can have you for a meal without falling all over each other." Then she must be firm. They may swoon at first—but this has to work.

DEAR DORIS—I am 14 years old and very interested in learning how to play the piano. We have a piano at home and I try to practice all I can. I started to take lessons but then I was sick for a half year and now we can't afford it. I can read music a little bit and my friends say I should keep it up.

My mother plays the piano but she doesn't help me much. Sometimes when I have a spare minute I start to practise and she makes me stop and do something else. She is talking about selling the piano.

I don't get an allowance so I can't save money from that is there any place you know of that can help me learn how to play the piano?—LOVE TO PRACTISE.

DEAR LOVE—What a find! A girl who loves to practise! Were you always so eager?

Lessons are the best way to learn, but if they are financially "out," ask your conservatory for second hand beginners' books.

Do your schoolwork; help your mother; then ask for a half hour to practise. If she sees you are in earnest, she'll soften. But don't fall down after the first few weeks.

CONFIDENTIAL TO S. D.—Even though you are separated, your husband is sharing the cost, so the invitations should read "Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Duke." You still have a common interest in your daughter.

* * *

(There's help for human problems. Get Doris to tell you where—and how. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your letter).

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a women's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. The Council deals with problems, major and minor, encountered by guidance counsellors and social workers

Mr. D. W. — There's no need for him to pick a college 3,000 miles away.

Stuart W. — It's the only way I'll get a chance to stand on my feet.

Mr. D.W. — Back in 1944 all our children perished in Europe under Hitler. With our whole family wiped out, by wife and I succeeded in reaching this country in 1945, thanks to a series of miracles, friends and a rescue organization. Stuart our only remaining child, was born in these shores shortly after our arrival.

He'll be graduating from high school next year and has his heart set on attending a college just as far from home as he can get. This puts a bright light in the hearts at being separated from him for long periods. It isn't as if he can't get the right courses near home. There are plenty of good colleges around our city. We're pleading with him to apply to one that's nearby.

Stuart W. — My parents have guarded me, shielded me and coddled me so much that I am a laughing stock among my friends. I'm 18 years old. I want to go to camp in the summer, but not after year. I've had to go wherever my parents go. This includes two weeks at a boarding house in Bermudas during my dad's vacation. We join the others who escaped from Europe and they all reminisce.

I've always had to like their friends and I'm sick of it. I'm going to camp in the summer, but after that I'm going to be a man and the only way I can have a man's independence is through distance between my parents and me. I'll write, phone and visit. But I want to see how it feels to stand alone for a while.

The Council: The usual answers won't do in dealing with so unusual a situation. Normally we would say our plea to Mr. W. would be, "Let go," and our encouragement would be directed to Stuart in clearing his birthright to be "free." But Mr. and Mrs. W. are the heirs to a catastrophe inflicted by a madman. They were forced to do an inhuman amount of "letting go." Their present feeling is to be cautious in the extreme normal in view of what has gone before. So our answer here must be cautious in order to fit this understandably hysterical parent-child relationship.

The question now facing Mr. W. is this: Do you regard Stuart as a human being, or as a trophy, your "prize" from the struggle over-seas? Thus far you've been treating him like a museum piece; something to be looked at, displayed, separated from the give-and-take of everyday life. The truth is, and you've been dreading to face it, that your son is an American high school boy. You couldn't take millions of his peers, to plunge into the fray of the future and finding his place as an effective adult. In refusing to let go once again, you are thinking too much of the past, too much of yourselves, and too little of him!

We must point out to Stuart however, that the special circumstances of his birth make it apparent that while he may eventually achieve independence of his parents, they'll probably never be independent of him. He is a vital symbol in their lives — their link with history, their souvenir of what might have been. Once he grasps the concept of the twisted emotional state, he'll be able to make decisions which are fair to himself and at the same time not too excoriating to his parents. For one thing, he can make his friends stop laughing at and down understanding.

Inasmuch as Stuart isn't planning to study orchid growing, which might necessitate registration in Hawaii, we suggest he be sign up in a college somewhere between the other end of the nation and around the corner from home. How about a campus, Stuart, where weekend visits by you or your parents, can bring you face to face occasionally?

It's not only a humane compromise. It saves letter writing!

FOIL ESCAPE TRY

ALGIERS (Reuter)—French marines opened fire Sunday at Maison Carree, an Algiers suburb, to foil an escape attempt by prisoners at the jail here. Four persons were reported injured. Prisoners, understood to include Jean Jacques Susini and Mcolenna, had been agitating for their release, expecting an amnesty with the independence of Algeria.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

ETIQUETTE: WHAT IS IT?

A reader asks: "Just what is etiquette?"

And, the way she develops the point, it's a good question.

"Some say that etiquette is another way of saying good manners," she writes. "But then I wonder just what that means.

"Manners, after all, change from era to era. Henry VIII, for instance, used to eat chicken with his fingers and took his less delicate parts to his dogs.

"The people who lived through the Victorian years did things with a flourish, the heavier the better. Nowadays we're amused at some of the ceremonial and social structures that guided their daily lives.

"No manners do change. But how do these changes occur? And who determines when something is no longer correct? Even today there's a so-called 'right way' to do things, the right procedure for weddings, anniversaries and birth announcements.

"In other words, how can we tell when the right way becomes the wrong way?"

Well, that's quite a mouthful — and I don't mean the Henry the Eighth kind.

If I were to reduce etiquette to a mathematical formula, I would write it as good manners plus good taste divided by custom.

In most social matters, good manners is dictated by good taste, or an instinctive sense of what you are doing is pleasing to others — the note of appreciation, the attentive expression as others talk, the cheerful greeting, the get-well message.

But custom admittedly is a bit more artificial and sometimes is as contrived as a new fashion.

A guest who once burned his fingers at dinner probably saw the possibilities of a fork. In fact, the early Egyptians used them and they existed in 16th-century Italy. But the England of Henry VIII and Queen Elisabeth snorted at forks as "foreign."

Common sense finally had its way, and forks edged into English social life. In fact, Henry VIII's eating habits would have stamped him as a "peasant" if he had lived in a later period.

Neatness obviously has a sense of custom and undoubtedly made the English switch to a more polite way of handling chicken. Although many of us at times would love to put knife and fork aside and deal directly with the fowl, our sense of tidiness forbids it at least when we dine in public.

Custom therefore is a reflection of changing times and changing attitudes. Celebrities occasionally are responsible for new fashions in dress, but no one ever created a custom. It develops slowly and only after twenty years from now.

Who knows! Maybe we'll agree that Henry VIII was right after all.

British Teen-Agers Say Parents Pry, Nag and Hide Facts of Life in Survey

LONDON (CP)—Parents pry, nag and hide facts of life, 16,000 British teen-agers complained recently.

The students from 200 different schools, were polled by editors of Petticoat, British magazine published once a term by students and sold for half a crown.

Thousands of the students condemned their parents as "bossy, inquisitive and officious." The most common complaint was that parents choose their children's friends.

About 12 per cent said they were ashamed of their mother, father or both.

Writer John Penycate said several teachers had complained that students should not judge their parents, but added: "They might as well deplore the shape of the globe."

Although many of the students, ranging in age from 14 to 18, said their mothers outnagged their fathers, most admitted they turned to their mothers with personal problems.

More than half the male students said they had received sex education from their parents. Only 30 per cent of the girls made the same complaint.

Twenty-five per cent of the males say they allowed to smoke or drink. One-third of the girls may not smoke but only one-fifth said their parents would not allow them to drink.

"The legal age at which liquor may be consumed in Britain is 18, compared with 21 in Canada."

Nearly all the students said their parents did not insist they attend church.

JEWELLER
256 Front St. at Victoria Ave.

ELMIRA, Ont. (CP)—Paul Schmehl is a cricket farmer who can't keep up with the demand for his product.

An engineer with a rubber company, he started in the cricket business six months ago to supply fish bait houses in Canada.

"I read about it in a magazine and made a few inquiries. Then I ordered about 2,000 breeders from Michigan and went it in a big business."

He had to get special permission from the federal department of agriculture to import the insects.

After paying the duty and surprising quarantine customs officer who lifted the lid of the box, Mr. Schmehl built two incubators, lined them with lead foil and was in business.

He doesn't raise the black crickets common in Canada. He has Australian grey crickets — they're called grey silkworms — "really tame-bred — and says "fish, especially trout, love them."

Mr. Schmehl says crickets are contented and don't make much noise. They're fed a combination of mash and concentrate shipped from the United States.

So far this year he has sold 500 dozen graded crickets, packed in paper cups or small boxes. He's perfecting a method of keep-freezing them so he can store them somewhere.

His markets include sporting goods stores in Toronto and bait dealers around Lake Huron.

"I could sell more if I had them," he says. "I've a dozen stores waiting for their orders. But cricket farming takes time and I don't seem to have enough of it."

Minimum Speed Limits Set On Roads in Nova Scotia, Nwfld. by Highway Depts.

By ED WALTERS

HALIFAX (CP)—Nova Scotia and Newfoundland have decided to do something about the driver who makes his way at a snail's pace along a main highway.

Recognizing that driving too slowly may be just as dangerous as speeding on some stretches of road, they have both adopted legislation setting minimum limits as well as maximums.

In Newfoundland, a minimum speed of 40 miles an hour has been set for paved portions of the Trans-Canada Highway.

"People get out there on Sunday afternoons driving along at 30 miles an hour and create hazards for persons driving at normal rate of speed," said Clarence Knight, Newfoundland's deputy highways minister.

All paved sections of the Trans-Canada Highway in Newfoundland have two lanes with the exception of a short four-lane section at Port aux Basques near Bonavista Bay. Maximum speed on the paved parts is 60 mph.

On other paved roads in the province, however, the minimum is 40 mph — same as the minimum on the Trans-Canada Highway.

In Nova Scotia a law passed in the last session of the legislature gives Highways Minister Sieghen Kaiser authority to post a 45 mph maximum and a 40 mph minimum where he feels it's necessary.

In addition, a minimum of 45 mph will be set on highways that have an alternative route for motorists who want to drive more slowly.

The minimums are being set, he said, because highways are being built to serve traffic moving swiftly within the bounds of safety.

Nova Scotia roads expected to be the centre of attraction for the new Bicentennial Drive leading from Halifax to a point 15 miles north of the city where it connects with older roads. Sections of the Trans-Canada Highway within the province may also be affected.

The change is the second in two years involving speed limits. In 1960 the province tightened its speeding laws in 1961 by providing for suspension of driving privileges for seven days and assessment of six points on the first conviction.

Accumulation of 10 points results in automatic suspension of driving privileges for a year. Speeding formerly carried only straight fine.

Elliot S. Campbell, registrar of motor vehicles, says it is felt the law is working well and very effective in reducing speeding than it once was.

The penalty for conviction on a charge of driving too slowly is a fine of up to $20 on first offence in Nova Scotia. In Newfoundland it's $10 or two days in jail.

2 Senators Die, Vacancies Now Number Eleven

OTTAWA (CP)—Two members of the Senate—a Conservative and a Liberal—died Sunday, increasing vacancies in the 102-seat chamber to 11.

Senator William R. Brunt, 82, deputy government leader in the upper house and close friend and adviser of Prime Minister Diefenbaker, died of injuries received in a car accident near his birthplace at Hanover, Ont.

Senator William Wall, 80, the first Canadian of Ukrainian descent to be appointed to the Senate, died in hospital in Winnipeg at about the same time of an undisclosed illness.

The deaths left the upper house with 63 Liberals, 25 Conservatives, two Independents and an Independent Liberal.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker was informed of Senator Brunt's death in Calgary, where he spoke Sunday night to the Baptist Federation of Canada.

BLOW TO GOVERNMENT

A leading organizer for the Conservative party in Ontario, Senator Brunt began playing an active role in the work of the Senate immediately after his appointment Oct. 12, 1957. His death is a blow to the government and Mr. Diefenbaker because Senator Brunt was frequently given the job of piloting controversial legislation through the upper chamber.

The senator, a vigorous man who loved to golf and operated a thoroughbred racing stable in addition to his political and legal activities, helped engineer the sweeping Conservative victories in Ontario in the 1957 and 1962 federal elections.

His cheerful, frank personality won him many friends. His impatience with examples of self-importance and his ability to slicing through red tape secured some fellow senators.

The senator had been in Ottawa only two days before his death, boasting about the corridors of Parliament where he was known as a power in government circles although he tried to shun the limelight.

In the upper chamber, he sat at Senate Leader Walter Aseltine's right hand although his job as deputy leader was one he did not seek.

RUFFLED THE WATERS

When he was appointed to the Senate, the staid upper house hardly knew what hit it. It was used to leisure, platitudes, and a gentleman's-club atmosphere built up on generations of sober second thought.

Bill Brunt had no patience for it all. He had been a dynamic force for the institution of Parliament.

But he was a defender of the role of the upper house in Parliament, though young in his ways, and young in years in Senate membership, he used to declared the Senate as a vital institution needed to check on the hasty decisions that it thought sometimes be made by the Commons.

With the imminent retirement of Senator Aseltine, Senator Brunt would have been in line for his post.

YOUNG APPOINTEE

Senator Wall, a Manitoba-born, educationist, was one of the youngest senators ever appointed when he was named to the upper chamber June 29, 1955, by Liberal Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent.

He got his appointment as "a recognition of the progress and contributions which have been made by Ukrainian-Canadians to this country, where they have found the freedom and opportunity to develop economically, politically, socially and culturally."

At the time of his appointment, Senator Wall was administrative assistant to the superintendent of Winnipeg public schools. He had served in that public office but had been an officer of the North Winnipeg Liberal Association.

At Rosetown, Sask. Senator Aseltine expressed regret Sunday at the deaths.

The death of Senator Brunt came as a great shock, Senator Aseltine said, and he will be sorely missed in the Senate.

Senator Aseltine said Senator Wall had contributed much to the Senate.

Senate Liberal Leader William Rose Macdonald paid tribute Sunday to Senators Brunt and Wall, as "two of the most outstanding members" of the upper chamber.

Their deaths are "a grievous loss not only to the Senate but to all of Canada," said Sen. Macdonald, a member of Parliament for 18 years and a senator for nine.

The Liberal leader said that "both men were faithful to their tasks."

Tourists Encounter Great Variety of Store Hours

By CARL MOLLINS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Travellers touring "Canada's Variety Vacationland," as the travel ads describe Ontario, encounter a bewildering variety of retail store-hours as they move around the province.

A Canadian Press survey of a dozen Ontario communities shows that there is no rule or even complex regulations in each town governing store hours except department and close stores and confectionery shops are required to close all day Mondays, except in July, August and December.

WINE CASES

A store that remained opened Monday was challenged by local clothing merchants, but won its case and its claim to classification as a department store late in June.

In St. Catharines, a branch of Towers Mart discount stores was challenged by the city for remaining open until 10 p.m. each week night in the face of a bylaw setting 6 p.m. closing four days a week and 9 p.m. closing Thursdays and Fridays. Towers obtained an injunction in March permitting late closing but a Supreme Court decision on the case.

A similar battle shaped up in Hamilton when merchants in the face of establishment of a late-night Towers store due to open in September outside city limits. Downtown retailers are considering petitions asking city council to repeal bylaws requiring closing Wednesday afternoon and to permit late closing Thursday when the following bylaw to close Saturday night is a holiday.

Fashion merchants are split over a plan to permit an additional three hours of shopping Friday nights. A department store was found guilty in Toronto recently for staying open after 6 p.m. one night to conduct a sale for employees and their friends.

Senator Brunt, Close Friend Of P.M., Dies

HANOVER, Ont. (CP)—Senator William R. Brunt, deputy government leader in the upper chamber and close friend of Prime Minister Diefenbaker, died Sunday night of injuries suffered in a car accident two hours earlier.

Sen. Brunt, 82, was a leading organizer of the Conservatives in Ontario and a prominent member of the Senate since his appointment Oct. 12, 1957, just 25 days before his 80th birthday.

A lawyer since 1908, he divided his time among Ottawa, his Toronto residence and a home and business here in Mc-Kinlay Place. A Grey County farm of some 4,500 people south of Owen Sound.

The senator was driving home alone in his station wagon when he was involved in a collision with a car driven by Robert Mighton, 36, of Hanover at an intersection of Canada Highway 10 and Scenic Drive in Hanover.

He died in Hanover Hospital. Mr. Mighton suffered only slight injuries.

VEHICLES WRECKED

Police said both vehicles were wrecked when Mighton's car, at the intersection without signs, Sen. Brunt had been travelling in, became and was on his way to visit a friend at the time of the accident.

Police said an inquest would be held into the accident, which caused fatal internal injuries to the senator when his chest was crushed against the steering wheel.

Funeral services will be held in Hanover at 3:30 p.m. EDT Tuesday. Prime Minister Diefenbaker and other members of the cabinet are expected to attend the service at Knox United Church.

Senator Brunt's wife, the former Helen Richardson of Rosetown, Sask., was kept under sedation at her home in Hanover. They had married their 52nd wedding anniversary 13 days before the accident.

Other survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Jean Bertram (Beth) Carter, and a son, lawyer William R. Brunt, Jr., both of Toronto.

The future senator and mrs. Brunt moved to Dublin when they were both sports-minded students at University of Toronto. Bill, son of a cattle driver who graduated from local schools to study Arts there at St. Andrew's College, the university and Osgoode Hall law school, was captain of a varsity lacrosse team and coached a girls' field hockey team at which his future wife was captain. They married two years after his call to the bar in 1908.

While building up a law practice that gave him senior partnerships in both Hanover and Toronto firms, he made time for sports. He and his late brother, H. B. Brunt, together founded the highest golf course near Hanover.

Tories Finally Heading For Uplands of Popularity

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP) — Parliamentary observers here are speculating whether Britain's Conservative party is finally heading for the sunlit uplands of political popularity.

The Tories have been reeling under a series of hoolacton defeats for a year or more. These were largely caused by discontent over the pay-pause policy made necessary by government ministers said, by the chronic balance-of-payments crisis.

Now the morale of Conservative members of Parliament is reported to have been bolstered by a speech made last week by Percy Clarkson, Tory Chairman Iain Macleod to the 1922 Committee, an influential group of Tory backbenchers.

Macleod was optimistic and confident. "We shall soon be getting out of the trough," he is reported to have said.

REFERS TO SPEECH

His most tantalizing reference was to a speech made at Luton Hoo two weeks ago by Prime Minister Macmillan promising a fatter income policy and a new program of consumer protection.

Macleod said the prime minister did not "let the cat out of the bag," but said enough to indicate there was a cat in the bag.

This statement is being interpreted by some as implying that the government will soon introduce vote-catching moves to help the young married group in the forefront of housing and education.

The London Times says in an editorial that Macmillan's Luton Hoo speech "can now be seen as the starting point for a new government campaign to win the initiative politically, to develop new policies and to demonstrate the vigor of its administration."

The newspaper says the fate of the government depends on its ability to stimulate a rapid rate of technological advance. A low-growth economy would not sustain the revival of Tory support.

As a first step toward electoral victory, the Conservatives can point to an improved economic situation. Prices are more stable than they were a year ago and there is every hope of a good record in exports.

At the same time, the national prestige of the top Tory cabinet ministers has been strengthened. The Sunday Times says that for the first time all major sections of the Conservative parliamentary party are regarding Home Secretary R. A. Butler as a natural and inevitable successor to Macmillan.

The main banner that the government hopes it will be able to unfurl on its election platform is one displaying acceptable terms for Britain's entry into the Common Market.

The Sunday Express suggests Macmillan may call a snap general election in November if the Brussels negotiations allow him to lay the broad terms of Britain's entry before Parliament by that time.

Sport Slices . . .

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"Get a load of the enclosed clipping; then sell your stocks, cash in on your insurance, get rid of the farm, if you have one, borrow all you can, then light out for this part of the world—and invest in bowling."

So writes a World War Two buddie who ducked all the lead Hitler could throw at him, married a beautiful German fraulein and settled on the right side of the East Berlin wall.

Bill was a bowling fanatic before the war and perhaps that is part of the reason he "rolled" a perfect game in the aerial alleys. A fighter pilot he had twelve "strikes" in his crate before they closed the Big Boy! to him and he sweated it out behind a desk making "seven copies" for the duration.

The clipping he sent was from a British sports periodical with accent on bowling. And if you can believe the bloke that wrote it, the "Arrie", and "Arriets", the Commons and Lords will be in a brief decade or two be passing up soccer, cricket, the Football Cup and the "Derby", not to mention the Tests and the All-Blacks for an all-Europe Bowling Serie.

The game has taken London, Monte Carlo, Switzerland, Germany, and other European countries by blood-vessels by storm. In Monaco the heavy players don't bother to blow out their brains or jump off precipices after the casinos have closed. They head off in a posh bowling lane sipping Scotch and watching Prince Rainier and Princess Grace topple the nuples.

Four lanes were opened a year ago and the Prince and Princess have lockers Nos. One and Two. The popularity of the sport has stunned everyone. The bowl stays open as long as there are players and each player is limited to three games. This means from 10 a.m. to 8 a.m.

In Mannheim, Germany, some 20 lanes are played each day. Pin-setter machines are slow and people talk, chalk fingers and sip drinks between shots. But the balls never stop rolling.

There are some 250 lanes in England with 400 ready at year's end. Sweden has 300 lanes, and West Germany 54, not counting those in the camps of foreign troops.

For many years skeeples was the popular bowling sport in West Germany. It still is, but the "bigger balls and game" are making heavy inroads. The "skeeples" game called "Kegeln" was usually associated with beer gardens and was the poor man's game. The ball is nine pounds lighter than a tenpinner and has no finger holes. Here, perhaps, was the origin of "beer and skittles", for the German boys guzzled huge quantities of suds while "kegeling."

While millionaires, blue-bloods of international society, gamblers and players sip their two-dollar Scotches in plush cocktail lounges surrounding the Monte Carlo lanes, it won't be the same in other parts of Europe. The game is being brought to the financial level of the middle-class people. Bowling has the blessing of the church and school organizations. The "kegeleers" won't be bothered, but tenpinners believe they will eventually change of their own accord.

It says here that more than one European business man is carrying his profits across the border to invest in bowling. They feel sure of the profits and of the chance the income tax man won't look for them in bowling ventures in other countries.

So next year I think I'll pack up, sell and hit the trail for "Yarrop" and its kegling. In fact there are lots of places to start. There's a bowling lane in Kiruna, Sweden, north of the Arctic circle, and right in Aman, Jordan. In Beirut, Lebanon, the owner of the only lane there is shovelling in the money.

Twins Beaten, Tigers Win

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The roles were reversed, but the results were the same: The Yankees won.

Singles - hitters Bobby Richardson and Tom Tresh — who have 13 home runs between them in their major league careers — turned sluggers along with Hector Lopez while Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris — who have 670 career homers between them—punched singles Sunday in New York's 9 - 8 squeaker over Minnesota Twins.

The Yankees' fourth straight triumph, along with a double-victory by Chicago White Sox over Cleveland Indians, 6-3 and 8-4, boosted New York into the American League lead.

Los Angeles Angels fell 2½ games behind when Boston Red Sox defeated them 5-4. Detroit Tigers swept two from Baltimore Orioles 5-1 and 3-2 as Purkey pulled within five games of the top. Kansas City Athletics outlasted Washington Senators 6-5 in 15 innings.

The Yankees crushed the Twins 6-3 Saturday while Cleveland took Chicago 5-3. Ballgame edged Detroit 7-6, Kansas City outlasted Washington 8-4 and Boston defeated Los Angeles 5-4.

FORD STAGGERS HOME

Lopez' homer in the ninth with Maris on base staked New York to a 9-3 lead. Whitey Ford, however, walked the first two men he faced in the last of the ninth, and Don Mincher clubbed a three-run homer off Luis Arroyo to make it close, Ford (7-4) got the victory.

Richardson and Tresh hit early - inning homers with the as bases empty, while singles by Maris and Mantle sparked a three - run seventh - inning rally that broke a 4-4 tie. Harmon Killebrew and Zoilo Versalles also hit homers for the Twins.

Charley Maxwell was the big gun in the White Sox' sweep over Cleveland with six hits, including a home run and triple. The double loss snapped Cleveland's six-game winning string. Juan Pizarro (7-7) struck out nine and limited the Indians to seven hits in the opener, which was decided on Luis Aparicio's two-run homer. Four unearned runs in the first inning of the nightcap made it easy for Ray Herbert (8-8).

TAKES BATTING LEAD

Pete Runnels' eighth - inning homer was the difference in Boston's conquest of Los Angeles. The Angels' third straight loss—and boosted the Red Sox first baseman into the league batting lead with a .340 average. The homer gave Boston a 5-3 lead, but Los Angeles rallied with two out in the ninth. Felix Torres and Tom Burgess led off with back to back scored on a double by pinch-hitter Vic Power. Gene Conley relieved Bill Monbouquette (8-8) and retired the last man.

Los Angeles' third straight loss—and boosted the Red Sox first baseman into the league batting lead with a .340 average. The homer gave Boston a 5-3 lead, but Los Angeles rallied with two out in the ninth. Felix Torres and Tom Burgess led off with back to back scored on a double by pinch-hitter Vic Power. Gene Conley relieved Bill Monbouquette (8-8) and retired the last man.

Baltimore's third straight triple, his fourth extra base hit of the day, in the ninth inning of the nightcap featured Detroit's double victory over Baltimore. Umpire Cal Flaherty ruled Woodf's long fly to right field was caught on top Fielder Russ Snyder was juggling it. The Orioles argued for 20 minutes but it was caught cleanly. Moments later Bill Bruton dislodged Wood in with the winner.

Wood had two homers in the opener, while Paul Foytack (7-4) spaced eight hits. Hank Aguirre (7-3) was credited on four hits, including a homer by Jim Gentile, in the nightcap.

Kansas City got its winning run in the 15th on an error. On a strikeout-double play Joe batter mi s s ed the ball and catcher Ken Retzer trapped Jerry Lumpe, who had been on third, in a run-down. But Senator third-baseman Don Zimman dropped Retzer's throw and Lumpe scooted home with the winner.

Lightfoots Down Horlocks 8-1

Lightfoot Construction tightened their grip on second place Saturday night when they burned back the Woods-Horlock Juveniles 8-1.

The winners scored five times in the third inning and bagged their final three in the bottom of the fifth. Woods-Horlock's lone marker came in the top of the fifth.

Don Smith and Percy Long combined to hurl a five-hitter for the Lightfoots. Smith gave up three hits, fanned one and walked one in the first three frames. Long threw third strikes past seven and walked one in the final four.

Stew Malloy and Wayne Wood tolled for the Juveniles, who touched for seven hits between them. They whiffed one and issued seven free tickets.

Doug Morcom sparked the winners' attack with a pair of doubles. All the other hits were singles and went to Rusty Gerwin, Tom Lynch, Don Wood, Jack Caddick and Cam McKenna.

F. Jury slammed a home run to account for the Juveniles' scoring. B. Norris had two singles with one apiece for R. Turner and W. Wood.

TAKES GRAND PRIX

ROUEN, France (Reuters)—American Dan Gurney was the 46th French Grand Prix auto race in an impressive debut for his new German Porsche.

The lanky, 30-year-old driver crossed the finish line Sunday about a lap ahead of South African Tony Maggs in a Cooper. He covered the 320-mile track at an average of 109.32 miles an hour for a total time of two hours, seven minutes and 35.5 seconds.

The race was the fourth event of the season for the world racing championship. The lead in the championship placings is still held by Britain's Graham Hill with 16 points.

Says Briton Will Win
Palmer British Open Favorite
Will Approach Kingston, Toronto

TROON, Scotland (AP)—Arnold Palmer, U.S. Masters champion, relaxed over an exhibition round of golf Sunday and came off the last green predicting that Welshman Dai Rees, British Ryder Cup captain, will win the British Open championship starting today.

Palmer is the 8-to-1 favorite to retain the title he won at Birkdale, Lancashire. Palmer, who heads the American money winners with a total of $70,000, edged out Rees by one shot in that championship with 284.

A total of 256 golfers from 19 countries teed off today in qualifying matches over Troon and the nearby Loch Green links. A maximum of 130 will qualify for the championship play Wednesday over the 7,045-yard Troon lay-out on the west coast of Scotland.

Loch Green measures 6,788 yards. Both links carry a par of 72.

AUSSIES EUMPETE

Australians Kel Nagle, winner in 1960, and Peter Thomson, four - time winner, and Gary Player, the South African who won the title in 1959, are others chasing the rainbow in the most wide-open British championship in years.

The first prize is worth only £1,400, but it is worth thousands more to the winner in prestige, advertising and endorsements.

The winner also will qualify for the $100,000 world series in Akron, Ohio, in September.

That new championship will match the winners of the British Open, the U.S. Open, the U.S. Masters and the U.S. PGA.

Palmer, as U.S. Masters champion, and Nicklaus, as U.S. Open champion, already have earned their place in the world series.

Seeks Senior A Club Here

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Senior amateur hockey in southern Ontario appears likely to be split into an A division for salaried players and a B division for players who will receive only a part of the profits.

The breakaway from the share - the - wealth plan, under which all the senior teams have operated in a common league, the A division—for the last two seasons, was revealed today at a meeting of Ontario Hockey Association clubs here.

Chatham Maroons, Windsor Bulldogs and a proposed entry playing out of Kitchener were salaries. They plan to meet later this week after discussing the new Senior A league with other interested teams.

Sarnia Sailors, Woodstock Athletics and Stratford Indians will meet in London July 16 to form a Senior B league. Strathroy Rockets and Ingersoll Marlands will be asked to join.

Sam Fox, president of the Windsor Arena, proposed a plan in which National Hockey League or American Hockey League teams would provide players for the nucleus of each senior A team and help to subsidize the club. He said several professional clubs have told him they are agreeable.

Kitchener Tigers and Galt Terriers both have applied for ice at Kitchener Auditorium if the Eastern Professional Hockey League does not have a Kitchener entry this season. OHA president Lloyd Pollock said only one entry would be accepted into Senior A, and he suggested the teams amalgamate.

The failing EPHL may provide a boost to g ne Senior A league. Pollock says he is sure the EPHL league will disband. Most of the clubs have suffered financial losses.

Windsor's Fox said he will approach hockey interests in Toronto, Belleville, Kingston, North Bay, Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie on the possibility of a Senior A entry.

If plans materialize and the salaried A league is formed, the Senior B champions will have the right to challenge the Senior A champs in Allan Cup competition. The B clubs said they intend to do so.

RETAINS TITLE

TORONTO (CP)—David Deville, 16, of Toronto won the junior men's Metropolitan Toronto tennis title Saturday to retain his Ontario Junior Davis Cup championship won last year. The spindley-legged student smothered Jim Merrick, 17, of Toronto in 30 minutes, 10 seconds by scores of 6-0, 6-0.

Moyer Wins Over Wright

NEW YORK (AP) — Denny Moyer, a wild-swinging middleweight from Portland, Ore., avenged the family honor by outpointing Teddy Wright of Detroit in a 10-round bout Saturday night. Moyer weighed 157½, Wright 152.

Wright had posted decisions over Denny and brother Phil Moyer in the last two months. But Denny, except for brief lapses caused by his own wild swinging, was in command most of the way Saturday.

In the third he shook Wright with two lefts and a right to the head. It appeared that was the win the way out. But he clinched and Moyer let him get away.

Judge Artie Aidale had Moyer in front 6-3-1, Judge John Dran had Moyer the winner 7-3, while referee Teddy Martin had the No. 6 ranked middleweight ahead 8-2.

Moyer's record now is 33-7, Wright's 40-8-4.

Why do more people keep buying Goodyears again and again and again?

Research shows that people who do not own Goodyear tires switch brands a good deal, looking for a better tire. We wish them luck. On the other hand, Goodyear owners continue to buy Goodyear tires more often than any other brand. Question: What is the difference between the two groups? Answer: Satisfaction. Goodyear owners have experienced the satisfaction which comes from full value received. With Goodyear, you will too. It's guaranteed.

Leafs Split With Wings, Bisons Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo, getting a big boost from rookie Marcelle Lapierre, 18, was the only International League team able to score up on Jacksonville Sunday.

Lapez threw a three-hit shutout in the nightcap as the Bisons swept a doubleheader from Syracuse 8-5 and 6-0. Jacksonville's leading Suns and Columbus were rained out. Second place Toronto remained 7½ games back by splitting with Rochester. The Leafs won the first 7-0 and the Red Wings the second 9-2. Richmond beat Atlanta 9-6 in 10 innings in the first game, but the Crackers came deco to take the second 2-1.

Lopez struck out six and walked four in winning his third game of the season in the Buffalo nightcap. He helped his own cause with a run-producing single in a three-run fourth inning that put it out of reach.

A six-run fifth inning, including home runs by Bob Lipski and John Bertasteln secured the first game victory.

Toronto right - hander Steve Dalkowski (3-2) threw a three-hit shout and Denis Menke, Lou Johnson and Neil Chrisley stroked home runs in the easy in the first game against Rochester. The Red Wings won the second, scheduled for seven innings, when an error by Sparky Anderson paved the way to the winning run in the ninth. Roberto Herrera doubled in the winner after a sacrifice.

Atlanta came from behind with three runs in the ninth, featuring Don Lock's homer—to tie the game 6-6, and won the opener with three more in the 10th. A walk and singles by Chuck Hiller, Jim Gilbe and Dod Brunmer produced the winning rally. Jim Brumstead and John Davolio held Richmond to six hits in the nightcap, but the Virginians bunched one of those, a couple of walks and an error by Broerical for with their runs in the sixth. Brumstead threw a six-hitter winning.

Dodgers Nip Giants In Tense Duel

By JIM MACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

With the National League lead at stake, Los Angeles Dodgers cashed in with a pair of back-to-back—Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale.

The two pitching stars collaborated on a three-hit performance Sunday as the Dodgers climbed back to the top with a 3-0 triumph at San Francisco. By winning, Los Angeles edged a half-game ahead of the Giants and gained an even split in their key four-game series.

It took some doing, despite the superb pitching. Koufax, the left - handed strikeout specialist with one no-hit victory this season, went five perfect innings and did not allow a hit until the seventh.

The Dodgers finally cracked through southpaw Billy O'Dell for their two runs in the eighth, but Koufax failed to last. Drysdale, the 15-game winner who beat the Giants in the series opener Thursday, was called in to quell a ninth inning threat—and did the job.

While the two pace - setters were staging their tense duel at Candlestick Park, things were exploding elsewhere in the National League in some parting fireworks before the first all-star game break.

SET ROOKIE MARK

Twenty - eight homers were hit, a one league high for an eight-game schedule, with 12 of them in Cincinnati, where the Reds swept Houston Colts in the longest doubleheader in major league history. It took eight hours and seven minutes for Cincinnati to win 13-3 and 13-11 in 13 innings.

Willie Mays' homer, plus one his last time up Saturday, gave him four in consecutive times at bat and left him a major league mark shared by 12 other players. Cardinal Bob Gibson and Bob Gibson held the Mets to three hits and banged out three hitters for a new homers.

Bob Clemente batted across three runs in the Pirates' victory. Stan Musial powered his way to a share of still another record, rapping three homers as St. Louis smothered the New York Mets 15-1. Third place Pittsburgh shaded Philadelphia 6-5 after losing to the Phillies 8 - 4. And Milwaukee divided with Chicago, taking the second game 5-3 behind Warren Spahn's sharp pitching after losing 7-5.

Montreal-born Ray Daviault, who was 237 with his 11-hitter against the Cubs. The 41-year-old southpaw, now 8-10 for the year, stopped the Cubs on two runs. George Altman and Andre Rodgers were the Cubs' big men in the first game, with five hits and five RBI between them.

Milwaukee slugger Hank Aaron, who hit a three - run pinch homer in the first game, was forced to withdraw from the Cub series because of leg injuries and his place was taken by Spahn, named to the squad for the 32th time.

Davis singled him home and stole second and Frank Howard followed with another double.

Koufax, whose nine strikeouts raised his season total to 201, ran his record to 13-4 with Drysdale's aid. The sidesaming right-hander came on with one out in the ninth and a 3-0 count on Willie Mays and struck the man's pinch single and a walk to Jim Davenport. Drysdale completed the walk to Mays, filling the bases, but got Cepeda on a foul pop and Felipe Alou on a force play.

Cincinnati won the opener as Asphalt Houston with a six-run fifth inning after trailing 2-3, then made three comebacks in the second game before winning it in the 13th on Marty Keough's homer and Leo Cardenas' bases loaded single.

ROBINSON SHINES

Frank Robinson had six Cincinnati hits, including a grand slam and another homer, scored eight times and batted in six runs. Gord Coleman of the Reds smashed two homers among his five hits and drove in seven runs. Norm Larker and Bob Cerv of the colts also hit two homers each.

Musial's three homers, plus

Cesca Takes Match Race

TORONTO (CP)—Cesca, the Canadian filly, ran away from American-owned Aim a Fire in the $15,000 winner - take - all match race at Woodbine Saturday. Cesca set a track record of 1:04 3-5 for 5½ furlongs, despite the fact that jockey Hamilton Dalton restrained her in the final 70 yards when her victory was certain.

The official margin of victory for Cesca, owned by J. H. Stafford of Toronto, was 5¾ lengths. The former course record was 1:04 4-5.

It was Ontario's first match race since October 12, 1960, when American-owned Man o War humbled Canadian-owned Sir Barbra Windsor. There was no wagering on Saturday's race.

Majestic Hour, ridden by Evan (Smokey) Agnew, won the $10,000 Sir Barton Maturity Stakes, the afternoon's second-richest feature. It was Majestic Hour's first important stakes victory and was worth $18,740. Majestic Canadian-bred four-year-olds went to the post for the 1¼-mile race over the grass course. Majestic Hour, who defeated Painted Pout by slightly less than one length, ran the distance in 2:04 4-5. Asenaan, Hallowed Ground and Majestic Hour as the Lanson Farm entry, hung on for third money. Majestic Hour is a Canadian-bred.

The dollydouble paid $367.20 for the 1¼-mile race over the grass course. Majestic Hour, who defeated Painted Pout by slightly less than one length, ran the distance in 2:04 4-5. Russ Dominate Henley

HENLEY, England (CP)—The Russians continued to dominate their favorite rowing events at the annual Henley Regatta last week.

The Grand Challenge Cup for heavyweight eights — premier event of the regatta—was retained Saturday by the same Soviet Navy crew that won it in 1961. And the Trud Leningrad crew kept the Stewards' Cup for fours without coxswain.

The Soviet Navy had a terrific tussle with the red-shirted Molo Gorodi crew from Italy before winning by one - third length. Molo Gorodi men, European champions, work in a motorcycle factory in northern Italy.

Trud Leningrad defeated a Dutch crew from Amsterdam by 1½ lengths.

Stewart MacKenzie, the six-foot, 200-pound Australian, who Can Diamond Sculls title for an unprecedented sixth straight year, but his victory was scored by a controversy that arose in the semi-finals.

FOUL DISQUALIFIED

In the semi-final, MacKenzie, 26, finished behind Poland's Zdzislaw Kubiak, but the latter was disqualified for rowing in the Australian's water. The resulting ill-feeling was climaxed by withdrawal of all the Polish competitors.

In Saturday's final MacKenzie beat Britain's Bill Barry by three lengths.

Britain's National Provincial Bank crew defeated Thames Rowing Club in the final for the Thames Challenge Cup for lightweight eights, second most highly rated of the crew events here.

Germany scored its first Henley win and the Second World War in the pairs as Wolfang Neuss and Klaus Jordan won the Silver Goblets by two lengths over London's Steve Farquharson and John Nicholson.

The Wyfold Challenge Cup for fours with cox was taken by Belgium's Force Nagale club, the first European crew ever to win it, and George Justice and Nick Birkmyre of England's Leander club won the Double Sculls for the third successive year, a regatta record.

All-Star Pitchers Start Bunning, Drysdale?

By JOE REICHLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Right-handed aces Jim Bunning of Detroit Tigers and Don Drysdale of Los Angeles Dodgers were expected to be named starting pitchers today in Tuesday's all-star game, the first of two midsummer meetings between the two leagues in the American and National Leagues.

A capacity crowd of 45,015 was assured for this 33rd interleague attraction, the third in Washington but the first in the new $22,000,000 D. C. Stadium.

The second game, which probably will mark the last of the two-game series, will be played in 1969, will be played in Chicago's Wrigley Field Monday, July 30. The American League broke an over-all 16 to 14 edge, but the National has won four and tied one of the last six.

The odds makers, who originally had tabbed the National League a slight favorite, were making it an even game probably because of the older circuit's loss of Hank Aaron. An ankle injury sustained last Friday forced the Milwaukee Braves slugger off the squad.

SPAIN PICKED AGAIN

Mt. manager Fred Hutchinson picked Warren Spahn, the Braves' brilliant southpaw, to fill the mound, thus giving him eight pitchers, the same number selected by Al manager Ralph Houk. The 41 - year old Spahn has appeared in seven previous all-star games.

The loss of Aaron notwithstanding, the Nationals boasted an awesome hitting array led by Willie Mays, the league's batting champ, Tommy Davis, its batting and runs batted in leader, Orlando Cepeda, Roberto Clemente and Ken Boyer. These starters will be supported by such sluggers as the redoubtable Stan Musial, who hammered home seven runs in a game Sunday; Ernie Banks and Felipe Alou.

The American League squad is not without power hitters of its own. In the starting lineup will be New York Yankee Mickey and Mat boys, Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris, who set the home runs between them in the last 15 games; Leon Wagner of Los Angeles Angels, tied with Mays for the homer leadership in the majors, and slugging Gentile of Baltimore Orioles.

HOPE TO FOLLOW

Starting Jerry Fleid will be such longball hitters as Rocky Colavito of Detroit, John Romano of Cleveland, Lofton and Norm Siebern of Kansas City Athletics.

Bunning and Drysdale have starred in past all-star games, but neither has a win. Between four previous classics, pitched five perfect innings, performances (15) Keough (2).

Collins Wins Flint Open

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Long-driving Bill Collins, who had not won a tournament since the Houston Open in 1960, played steady golf over a rain soaked Warwick Hills course to win the Flint Open with a 284 total.

Collins, 33, battled it out shot for shot in Sunday's final round with his fellow Floridian Dave Ragan, Both shot par 72s but Collins took a one-stroke lead into the final round and made it stand up.

A thunderstorm that held up play for more than an hour killed a spectator who was struck by a lightning bolt as he stood near the sixth green. He was Ernest Youngblood, 35, of Madison Heights, Mich.

The lightning bolt hit just as a threesome of Mason Rudolph, Paul Harney and Larry Mowry were near the green. Rudolph said the lightning bolt separated into three pieces as it hit the ground.

"I was carrying my umbrella and I let go of it in a hurry when it hit the ground. I myself I was mighty scared," he said.

Bill Casper, former Flint State champion, and Doug Sanders tied for third with 286, while Joe Campbell was fifth with 287.

Collins, who had won $6,433 at the Flint tour stop for his year, picked up $9,000 for first prize.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver was among seven golfers who posted 289 totals. Lighting with a 291 total. His score by rounds was 75-75-73-68.

Al Balding of Toronto had rounds of 77-73-74-74—300, good for $644. George Knudson of Toronto also won $44 for his 75-77-72-75—299 score.

Brighton 'Kiter' Wins Title

STE. AGATHE, Que. (CP)—Ken Brighton of Brighton, Ont., won his second Canadian championship in a novel competition of kite-flying and water-skiing.

The competitors, wearing water-skis and grasping a 25-pound kite made of aluminum and nylon, had to run a water-skiing course behind a motorboat powered by a 150-horsepower engine.

They were restricted to an altitude of 50 feet and points awarded for form in take-off, landing and wake in the air.

Bonneau picked up $300 in edging out Guy Wees, 22, of Ste. Agathe, for the title and won $150.

The meet was held on Lac des Sables near this community 60 miles north of Montreal.

JAZZ SERIES

Twenty Will Try Channel

DOVER, England (AP)—If it's channel swimming time again.

More than 20 swimmers from all parts of the world, including two Canadians, have told the Channel Swimming Association they will make attempts on the 21-mile stretch of water between England and France this summer.

And 1962 may well be a woman's year. At least six girls will be making the plunge, including Claudia Kolb, a 16 - year-old Winnipeg girl who has been training in the chill waters of Lake Ontario. She is confident she will become the youngest-ever swimmer of the Channel.

Yvan Cliche from St. Georges de Beauce, Que., a law student who once dreamed of his water training in the Quebec City area, also plans to make the swim.

Bus Driver Wins Car Race

ST. EUGENE, Ont. (CP)—Toronto Bus Driver Francis Bradley has taken over the lead in the Canadian sports car championship by winning the 50-mile trophy race at the Concor Circuit.

Bradley drove his Lotus 19 toy to laps of the 2.5-mile track in a time of 39 minutes 1.2 seconds Saturday—about four seconds ahead of former champion Ludwig Heimrath of Toronto driving a Porsche.

Third place was taken by Grant Clarke, also of Toronto, who drove a Lola.

Going into the race Heimrath had 16 championship points and was one ahead of Bradley. With the nine points awarded for Saturday's win and seven for Heimrath, Bradley leads by one.

Players Want Game Reduction

WASHINGTON (AP)—Major league baseball players will fight for reduction of the schedule to 155 games from 162 and a ban on night games on departure dates. The players meet today to draw up their 1963 plans.

It was learned that the Major League Baseball Players Association already has submitted a draft of its requests to the office of commissioner Ford Frick.

Many players feel that the lengthy schedule, adopted after the majors' expanded to 10 clubs, puts too much of a burden on them. Several clubs have arrived at cities at 3 a.m. or 4 a.m. after an all-night ride following a night game.

The proposed cuts in games would work this way:

Each club would play the others 17 times during the season, instead of the present 18. That would reduce the schedule by nine games to the suggested 153.

The Tracks

NEW YORK (AP) — Hasty Lowe's Thrill Slim, ridden by Ralph Neves, came with a rush in the stretch to catch Admiral's Voyage and win a photo finish by about a neck in the $113,900 Hollywood Derby at Inglewood, Calif.

A crowd of about 47,000 went into a frenzy as Drill Slim came on Saturday to win the $88,200 first money. Drill Slim paid $88, $19.40 and $6.80 in the longest shot on the board. Admiral's Voyage returned $3.60 and $2.80 and third-place Doc Jocoy paid $3.

The time for the 1¼-mile feature was 2:00.

Bonjour paid $17.20, $4.30 and $2.20. Near Man was $3.10 and $2.20 and Delta Judge $4.10. The time for the 5½ furlongs was 1:04.

Astrological Forecast

For July 10

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Take your time, especially in connection with travel, legal matters. Tendency is to rush, press, push. But wise course would be one of caution. Avoid person who attempts to irritate you.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Activity today in connection with financial matters. Constructive course says check details with care. Otherwise, emotionalism causes loss. Put foot down, request an "accounting."

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): You may find yourself in the centre of a dispute between two of your friends. Remain neutral. Very good for letting away, beginning vacation and "keeping your head."

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Not very good for attempting to keep secrets. Best to be open, frank, honest and to seek advice from those in a position to "know." Tonight excellent for social activity.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21): In recent days many lessons were learned and today you should put knowledge to use. Otherwise, all is wasted. Once more you are warned against extravagance. Pull in financial reins!

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Brooding accomplishes nothing. Instead, pursue creative hobbies, emphasize the positive. Good for romance, change, travel, vacation. Move ahead; not good for remaining in "rut."

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Attention required at home. Domestic situation should be straightened out, while it is still a minor matter. If problem is money, planetary pattern points to favorable solution.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Trying to be something you are not could prove costly. Best to be on the up and up. Otherwise, you are "called on the carpet." Leave stuff acting to professionals!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Sticking your "chin" out is inviting trouble. Mars opposing your sun means today you should stay away from those who "rush" you into controversies. Remain cool and calm!

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): You may feel sorry for yourself during early part of day. Shake this tendency and you will be pleasantly surprised later. Good day for taking long-range view.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Continuing to dwell on the past or what "could have been" is not constructive. Today make resolution to take new paths. Be independent, begin to exude confidence.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Continue with practical matters, including approach to recent business proposition. See situation as it exists, not as you would like it to be. Strive to be realistic.

* * *

If Today Is Your Birthday — this month excellent for change, vacation, romance, and year in general promises opportunity to fulfill numerous ambitions.

* * *

General Tendencies: Unusual business news, speculation and factors relating to economy apt to be in spotlight. Persons born under Gemini advised to weigh words, actions with much care.

Romeo himself guides his guests in to the more remote lakes where he has built some eight shelters for devotees of early morning fishing and overnight stays for their convenience.

FISH ARE BIG

The lakes offer excellent fishing. Twelve of them have been stocked with speckled trout by the fish race at Arlington Park between Colonel Bradley and Mr. Romeo doesn't expect to be able to keep it in the family. Unlike most outfitters, he does not hold title to the land occupied by his camp.

Romeo is a recent experiment brochure as "not guaranteed to be privileged free, but for the benefit of the public at large."

Operators running camps on Crowe Lake get their supplies from Campbellford, where.

Romeo loses little sleep over his future in the park. An outdoorsman since his youth—he was raised in St. Donat de Montcalm, a small community on the park's eastern boundary—he leaves most management details to his wife and devotes his time to the fish.

Out with a four-man party of friends this summer, he elected to "stay a little longer" when others were ready to return to camp, empty-handed, shortly before noon.

The others had scarcely settled down to supper when Romeo entered, smiling broadly.

"Just a few little ones," he shrugged, pulling up a chair.

After the usual heated discussion, the catch was brought to the table: a dozen speckled trout, the largest a three-pounder.

"It's not enough to know where to fish," one of his disgruntled companions, "You have to know when."

Hartack Gets Win No. 3,000

CHICAGO (AP)—Bill Hartack became the first American jockey ever to register 3,000 victories when he piloted Big Steve to a five-length victory in the fifth race at Arlington Park Saturday.

The 28-year-old rider hit the 3,000 mark in his 10th year of competition, becoming the second jockey ever to achieve such a total in less than 10 years.

Big Steve won by a nose over Corcorbus in the 1 1-16-mile event. Timed in 1:45 3-5, he returned $5.20, $3.80 and $2.80.

Willie Shoemaker, Hartack's perennial rival, is the only other jockey to score 3,000 victories in 10 years. Shoemaker started riding in 1949 and got No. 3,000 Jan. 31, 1959—little more than 9½ years late. Hartack began riding in 1952, thus getting his 3,000 winner in roughly 9½ years.

Sports Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

"There are many other countries where the climate is similar to ours, yet they have good players. Why? Because they have learned how to play them in European tournaments or American colleges and that's exactly what Canada should be doing."

Young players were just as conspicuous from their lack of a couple of ranking court specialists in Vancouver called for a new era in the game in Canada. Jim Skelton and Jim Macken, both among the country's top 10 in the sport, said much of the money being put into Canada's Davis Cup effort is being wasted.

LAY DOWN LAW

Skelton is chairman of Canada's Davis Cup committee and Macken is vice - president of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association.

They advocated a plan that would blast players amongst themselves to practice and conditioning programs before receiving financial aid from their friends' scrapbook. The players would be obliged to sign forms to this effect and any who did not live up to the terms would be denied more aid and dropped from their list.

Skelton put the plan into effect: "It's a hard to train, team," he said.

"This I can tell you right now that if I were to ask a young player to run a mile before working out on the court he would flip — or think I had flipped."

Portland, who said at the time he was not optimistic about Canada's chances against the U.S., declared that this country can't continue to make excuses about the climate being against the development of young players.

By RUSSELL PEDEN

MONTREAL (CP) — Romeo Segouin, a sun - browned shy broker with a stake in Ontario trout are concerned, is one of the few Quebec outfitters still operating within the boundaries of a provincial park.

One of about 30 outfitters in the province, Segouin runs a 45-acre tract in Mont Tremblant Park, 85 miles north of Montreal.

His campers use accommodated in three-room log chalets, and fishermen have access to 18 lakes that dot the rough Laurentian terrain within a day's march.

All members of the Segouin family join in to help in the routine chores that keep a tourist camp operating: cutting and serving meals, laundering sheets, cleaning fish.

Romeo himself guides his guests in to the more remote lakes where he has built some eight shelters for devotees of early morning fishing and overnight stays for their convenience.

Cowan Wins Tourney With a 67

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Defending Canadian amateur champion Gary Cowan Saturday fired a blistering 67 to win the annual tournament of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association.

The 25 - year - old Kitchener salesman, naked later about the prospects of turning pro, said: "If anyone wants to win it, he'll have to beat me personally."

Chris Lehman, 19, of Sunningdale, Ont. on his professional circuit to place second, made 130 for the three rounds and took part in the annual tournament.

Cowan, who shot 65 in a warmup Wednesday, had five birdies and went under par on the 36—72 course in 33-34 Saturday to win the tournament for the second consecutive year and remembered he would have needed his 65 score if he had putted better.

LEADING THE PACK — Porsche driver Wayne Kelly of Trenton, leads the rest of the competitors in the up-to-1600cc capacity sports car championship event held at St. Eugene this weekend. It was the local driver's first victory for the 1962 racing season following a series of troubles in the earlier events of the year.

Trenton Sports Car Racer Wins Honors at St. Eugene

Trenton Porsche pusher Wayne Kelly won the opening event at the St. Eugene Canadian championship races, as well as winning his class trophy, with a lead of over 30 seconds over second-place Gerry Ross of Montreal in a similar Carrera-model Porsche.

The past week's careful and lengthy preparation paid off handily for the local sports car racing enthusiast as his new-ly rebuilt engine called and sang its 'own' kind of victory right from the moment that the starter's flag dropped to open a day of racing on the 1.25-mile airport cuircuit, near Vankleek Hill.

Kelly got off to an excellent start and never yielded the lead to another car on the course until he took the checkered flag of victory 10 laps later. He averaged around 70 miles an hour as he quickly orbited the twisty, tricky circuit which is considered to be one of Canada's hardest courses to drive in spite of its relatively short length.

The hint of a tricky brake situation prompted the local driver to enter the 40-lap final event despite the obvious hopelessness of competing favorably against six of the larger and fleetier sports-racing cars on the coure. These cars mostly powered by six-litre capacity, 400 - plus horsepower engines (compared with the Kelly Carrera's 1.6 litre, 140-horse-power powerplant) offered little opportunity for a smaller car to place well in the overall standing.

Despite his obvious power disadvantage Kelly placed himself in sixth spot overall during the first lap of the race and worked himself up to fourth position overall as well as first in a field of about ten other cars competing for the subsidiary class prize for sports cars of his type.

Kelly was able to stretch out his lead to 30 seconds over his second - in - class challenger, Gary Ross, whose Porsche was showing more power following a carburetor jet change after the first race. He was holding his own for overall honors when his braking problem suddenly resolved itself into a complete lack of stopping power shortly after the half-way point of the main event, forcing his retirement from the race.

The braking problem is to be remedied this week in time for the next set of championship races which will be held this coming weekend at the Greenacres course near Goderich, Ontario.

Church Leaders Taking Hand In Medicare Issue

Meet Cabinet, Doctors In All-Day Sessions

REGINA (CP)—A challenge in the courts, faced Saskatchewan's Medical Care Insurance Act today, the 10th day doctors in the province withdrew normal services in protest against the act.

Meanwhile, talk increased over possible mediation efforts to settle the impasse between government and doctors. And in communities throughout the province last minute plans were drawn for a Wednesday protest rally here.

A group of church leaders emerged as a possible mediating group. Premier Woodrow Lloyd said his cabinet met Monday with a group of clergy that had earlier met with doctors. The group included representatives of Roman Catholic, Anglican and Roman Catholic churches.

From England, a prominent figure in Britain's national health plan, Lord Taylor, was expected to come and study the dispute next week.

At 25 designated hospitals in the province, emergency service was continued by about 200 doctors who belong to the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons and the Canadian Medical Association.

PLAN SALLY

In the northern Saskatchewan town of Meadow Lake, a rally of more than 2,000 persons Monday night backed the provincial Keep Our Doctors Committee in its decision to get the government to withdraw the controversial prepaid, compulsory medical care act.

The committee plans motor cavalcades from outlying districts to the province's 10 centres on the Dominion holiday, July 1.

In Court of Queen's Bench, an application for an injunction which would, instead, suspend operation of the act, was to be heard today. The suspension is sought until the validity of the act can be tested after the session season, in September.

A second court action is pending in Saskatoon, where two doctors last week filed suit against 11 members of the provincial cabinet and former premier C. C. Williams.

The action asks damages and a declaration that the medical care act is beyond the powers of the provincial legislature. If the action goes to trial, it could not be heard before fall when regular court sittings resume.

Dissident reports of the church group, Premier Lloyd said the group was given an outline of a government proposal made earlier — that the colleges accept a government committee that doctors could practise outside the scope of the act and that the doctors return normal service.

STAND UNCHANGED

Mr. Lloyd said future meetings were left to the group, which had received no statement of a new stand by the doctors.

In London, Lord Taylor said "I will try to help both sides reach an understanding if they had experience on both sides. I've been a member of the house and I'm still a practising doctor."

Representatives of the doctors held out no hope the efforts of the Labor government for a settlement.

City police and RCMP said they plan no special precautions for the Wednesday rally at the legislative buildings.

In other developments Monday, Saskatchewan Liberal party leader Ross Thatcher urged the government and doctors to continue negotiation to the dispute.

He said a press conference he considers suspension of the act desirable but not mandatory before doctors resume practice on a special session of the legislature is called.

REGINA (CP)—Despite usage of the term, both sides in the Saskatchewan medical care dispute say the doctors are not on strike.

Dr. H. D. Dalgleish of Saskatoon, president of the Saskatchewan Medical Physicians and Surgeons, prefers use of the word "boycott" but suggests the word "lockout" is closer to the mark.

Premier Woodrow Lloyd says trade unions may object to the word "strike" being applied to the Saskatchewan situation, and adds "a rose by any other name smells the same."

News services and newspapers outside the province have used the term since July 1, when the doctors began providing only hospital-based emergency services as the compulsory medical care scheme went into operation.

USES .IN QUOTES

Newspapers within the province place "strike" in quotes in news agency copy. Stories written by their local reporters use either "strike" or "walkout."

Some of the 13 English language radio stations started using "walkout" but most of them since have stopped.

Eric Kierans, leader of the Saskatoon Star - Phoenix, said, "It's more of a mutiny than anything else. I suppose we can hardly call it a strike when many of the doctors are on duty."

He said about one-third of the 600 medical practitioners in the provinces are providing emergency services.

Dr. Dalgleish said: "First, I would have to say we're not a strike and can't strike.

"Then, you can't call it a strike when some of the third of us are on duty and giving full time and long hours of service to the people."

PREFERS 'LOCKOUT'

He suggested that technically "lockout" would be the more correct in describing the current situation.

"We closed our offices because of the Medical Care Act," he said. "We are open for normal practice."

Dr. Neville Smith, spokesman for the college in Regina, said: "We're not employees. And in fact we're not on strike in any of the strikers offering their services free."

If it were a strike he said, the doctors would be brought in by the government to assist in the emergency program would be "blacklegging."

Donald D. Tansley, chairman of the Saskatchewan Medical Care Insurance Commission, said "I am inclined not to say it's a strike." A strike is usually by a responsible body established by law as a bargaining agency.

The college doesn't fulfill that function.

Ray Gray, editor of the Prince Albert Daily Herald, said The Herald is not using the word strike. "We're calling it the doctors' act in our news service," he said.

Bob Blackburn, news editor of CKCK in Regina, said the station uses strike only in di-

FIRST SECTION OF REPORT ON GOVT. GIVEN

Release May Come Early Next Week

OTTAWA (CP)—The first of five volumes from the royal commission on government organization, a sweeping study of the way government runs its business, has been delivered to the office of Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

He's the man who will say just when the initial report will be more than 200 miles, and might come next week, informants indicated Monday.

The initial report covers some 400 pages and sets out the commissioners' philosophy of management plus its views of some key subjects. Recommendations will be spelled out in more detail in the four volumes to follow.

The commission was established in September, 1960, under the chairmanship of J. Grant Glassco, Toronto businessman. It was instructed to survey government departments, agencies, boards and corporations. There were 20 separate task forces formed to comb government operations.

HIT DUPLICATION

The commission had seven specific purposes under its terms of reference.

They included elimination of duplication and overlapping of services, elimination of unnecessary or uneconomic operations, improvement of the competitive with other methods of transportation.

R. A. Emerson, CPR vice-president, told the board in a summary of the view of all seven railways involved in the dispute that the new non-ops demand would place the entire industry in serious jeopardy if agreed to.

In his own firm, he said, bankruptcy would be avoided only if the lawyers picked up the tab.

Looking at the recommendations of the first two volumes of the report by the MacPherson royal commission on transportation, Mr. Emerson said that by next year railways will be in a new era of competition with trucks, planes and pipe-

Railways Riding 2 Horses In Opposite Directions Conciliation Board Told

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's railways Monday presented a picture of themselves riding two horses going in opposite directions at the same time.

The situation had been better brought under control in a hurry, or they will take a fall never to recover from, he carriers told a federal conciliation board studying new contract demands served on the railways by their 100,000 non-operating employees.

One of the "horses" was spiralling labor costs since the end of the Second World War that have made higher freight rates necessary. The other "horse" was the need to reduce the freight rates to attract more business and make railways

American at Moscow Parley Criticizes Both Russia, U.S.

MOSCOW (AP) — An American political science professor told the Soviet-sponsored peace congress Monday night the Soviet Union is partly to blame for continued nuclear testing.

A member of the U.S. delegation to the congress, Professor Seth Tillman of Chicago told the 2,000 delegates the Soviet Union's unilateral breaking of the test moratorium last Sept. 1, "is very serious, the most serious setback in the last three years."

The congress, stirred by the test ban issue, the latest U.S. test blast news, awaited President Kennedy's expected denunciation of the thermonuclear explosion over the Pacific and his possible answer to the statements by Pontius.

The 33-year-old educationist, who teaches political science at Chicago's Roosevelt University, also criticized the United States.

To the chamber which had sung with cries of "atom murderers" and "warmongers," Pontius said:

"If you continue railing one power a 'warmonger' or a 'wild beast of imperialism,' epithets directed against others without denouncing your own governments when they adopt policies or pursue activities which undermine the peace and safety of the world, you may get emotional satisfaction by one-sided denunciation but you are not helping the cause of peace.

"On the other hand we must give up epithets about the socialist countries of the world such as the 'slave world' or from Socialist countries the 'capitalist world.'"

He also chided Communist China, accusing it of creating border incidents with India.

Believe Blast Surrounded Earth With Shell of Whizzing Electrons

WASHINGTON (AP)—A race-way of speeding electrons probably encircles the earth today some 200 miles in the sky, flung up by Monday's U.S. thermonuclear blast over the Pacific.

This thin shell of whizzing electrons could affect any kind of artificial Van Allen radiation belt generated by the blast—was expected to die out in about a week.

And government scientists said it could not harm anyone.

They predicted in advance of the blast that such a belt of electrons would be produced. But it will take two weeks or so to make sure, through analysis of data collected by U.S. satellites orbiting through space.

The electrons produced by the blast would be caught by lines of magnetic force which surround the earth. They would spiral around these magnetic lines over distances of thousands of miles. At the same time, some of the electrons would be absorbed by the atmosphere.

There was no official word on how much fallout Monday's blast would produce.

But government scientists expected that regardless of the amount it will not start falling on earth for at least a year.

When debris is deposited in the stratosphere, which ranges up to about 150,000 feet, the fallout takes from less than a year to about 10 years to come down.

But Monday's blast was set off even higher, at an altitude of hundreds of miles.

What affect the explosion had on the Van Allen radiation belt will not be known for at least two weeks, said an Atomic Energy Commission spokesman.

The Van Allen belt, considered a potential hazard to space travel, consists of electrified particles—protons and electrons —held by the sun.

The AEC had said that if the explosions did affect the belt the effects were expected to be minor and temporary.

Provincial Police Receive Pay Hikes, Reduced Hours

TORONTO (CP)—The provincial police are to receive pay increases, reduced hours of work and new job classification.

In addition, a new detective bureau will be set up with the appointment of 17 detective sergeants this year and a further 100 detectives next year.

The announcements came Monday following a closed meeting of the newly formed Ontario police commission.

Constables will receive a $200-a-year salary increase retroactive to last April 1, bringing the salary to $4,800 from $4,600.

The work week will be reduced to five days from six "as soon as circumstances permit," a release from the attorney-general's office said.

Police are now described as "first class constable" has been set up and carries an annual salary of $5,000.

Constables with five years' service can qualify for the new classification by successfully completing examinations to be held in each police district during the fall months.

Salaries for the new post will be effective as of September.

Constables unable to qualify at the examinations will be able to prepare for the tests at the new police college at Aylmer.

Other ranks in the police force have also been affected by

COMPANIES HAVE NO PLANS TO HIKE HOLDINGS

Life Insurance Officers Heard

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian life insurance companies indicated Monday they have no plans for any major increase in their holdings of Canadian common stocks.

The Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association told the royal commission on banking and finance that the Canadian market for investment - grade shares is too narrow for heavy once company purposes.

Several witnesses at previous commission hearings had urged that the government relax the portfolio restrictions on insurance companies so they could increase their equity investments in Canadian firms, especially small businesses.

Federal law now requires insurance companies to keep a maximum of 25 per cent of their assets in the form of common shares of corporations which have paid dividends of at least four per cent of share value for the preceding seven years.

PROPOSITION HIGHER

In practice, however, Canadian insurance companies remained below the 10.75 per cent of their assets was so close to the end of the 25 per cent proportion held by British insurance companies operating in Canada was 10.75 per cent.

The association asked Monday for an upward revision in the 25-per-cent limit, because under appropriate economic conditions the present limit might be too restrictive.

Also sought was an end to the general requirement in which insurance companies must calculate their common stock holdings at market value on the day their financial year ends.

This means that a sharp shift in the stock markets—such as occurred earlier this year, can result in "substantial temporary encumbrances" on insurance companies' funds, the association said.

Suggested as an alternative was a system to place the entire portfolio at market values for the three previous years.

In any event, the association said other investments are—by and large—more attractive to life companies.

10 STOCKS QUALIFY

There are about 310 Canadian common stocks that qualified for investment under insurance legislation.

"Of this number about 200 are either of such size or so seldom traded for various reasons that for practical purposes the effective number of available issues is reduced to just over 100," the association said.

A table provided to the royal commission showed the distribution of the $5,742,000,000 in assets owned by Canadian life insurance companies at the end of 1960:

Mortgage loans 44.13 per cent, corporate bonds 18.20 per cent, federal government bonds 7.73 per cent, provincial bonds 6.89 per cent, municipal bonds 7.27 per cent, foreign bonds .32 per cent, Canadian preferred stocks .26 per cent, Canadian common stocks 1.29 per cent, foreign stocks 1.2 per cent, real estate 4.62 per cent, policy loans 6.98 per cent, cash .52 per cent and other assets, 2.80 per cent.

Truck Drivers Reluctant To Resume Work

Union Officials Face Trouble With Rebels

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Membership meetings of two Teamster locals involved in Ontario's province-wide truckers' strike Monday night appeared to ensure a return-to-work movement within the week, but the speed and extent of the movement remained in doubt.

A rebel faction within Toronto-based Local 938 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (Ind.) indicated after a meeting in Toronto that it will ignore a leadership demand for a return to work.

And while members of Hamilton-based Local 879 to end their walkout, it was on the strength of the local's Kitchener and St. Catharines membership. The Hamilton members voted to stay out.

The business of the Local 938 meeting also exposed a return to work, but the members made no headway against resistance by local president, Ken MacDougall, that trade is the result of a vote last week by the five locals involved in the province-wide strike.

In the vote, 1,930 favored acceptance of the settlement recommended by the leadership, while 1,075 were opposed.

LOCAL DESSENTS

Following the vote Teamster leaders predicted general return to work. But Windsor Local 880, which is a show-of-hands vote against, announced it was staying out.

Opposition to the settlement mushroomed until Monday few drivers from the Toronto, London and Hamilton locals were on the job. Kingston Local 91 since among the five had a general, back-to-work movement.

However, later Monday London-based Local 141 decided at a special meeting to go back to work Tuesday.

In Toronto, the Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau, agent for the 87 transport firms involved, sent a telegram to the executive of the Toronto, Hamilton and Windsor locals threatening legal action against them for "unlawful and illegal walkout."

We consider current work stoppages constitute illegal strikes," the telegram said.

TIRES FLY

The bureau also sent a wire to Prime Minister Diefenbaker and cabinet ministers urging that the Teamsters back to work while legal fact - finding machinery to investigate Teamsters union activities.

The settlement that was to have ended the strike called for a five-cent-an-hour wage increase spread over the pact's 18-month duration, with 9¢ back-pay.

Pickets organized by the district council of teamsters blocking a resumption of operations by non-union trucking firms, among them the largest highway carrier, Smith Transport, have been relaxed to impartial operations, some with police protection.

Police and pickets clashed briefly at Direct Winters Transport in Toronto as police removed the strikers from company property.

Mr. MacDougall indicated at the Toronto meeting that members have refused to return to work in Local 938 would deprive themselves of a freight production should the companies take disciplinary action.

'Switchboard' Satellite in Orbit Will Broadcast on TV Tonight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A switchboard-in-the-sky relay satellite rocketed into orbit today as the United States stepped forward in space relay systems for swift, worldwide transmission of radio, television and telephone signals.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced at 7:35 a.m. EDT that the communications satellite was in orbit. It thundered away from Cape Canaveral at 4:30 a.m. EDT atop a towering three-stage Thor-Delta rocket.

Officials scheduled the first communications experiments with the satellite tonight and if all goes well, American television viewers this evening will see the first live TV pictures beamed by satellite.

Within two weeks, Telstar may serve as a relay point for the first live transatlantic television show and a number of radio, telephone and telegraph messages between the United States, Western Europe.

The Thor-Delta blasted Telstar exactly on schedule, brilliantly illuminating the pre-dawn sky before vanishing into a low cloud bank. Within 20 minutes NASA officials announced a successful firing of all three rocket stages.

Preliminary orbit figures showed that Telstar was circling the earth every 157.8 minutes on a path ranging from 593 to 3,503 miles above the earth. These are close to the figures sought—590 minutes, 575 and 3,400 miles. Speed of the satellite varied from 13,220 miles at its high point to 18,380 miles at the low altitude.

Officials said the near-perfect

Top Americans 'Certain' for British Open

TROON, Scotland (CP-AP)—Arnold Palmer, defending champion in the British Open golf tournament, shot a brilliant 35-32—67 over the Lochgreen course today and appeared certain to qualify for this year's Open.

Today's performance gave him a total of 145 for the two days of qualifying rounds. He had a 76 Monday.

The field of competitors was cut to 330 professionals and amateurs after Monday's round. Only 120 golfers will qualify for the 72-hole championship starting Wednesday.

It was expected a 36-hole total of about 148 would be needed to qualify.

Australian pro Bruce Devlin came in early today with one of the best scores—a four-under 68. Added to his 72 Monday gave him a 140 whole total of 140 and assured him a place in the field.

Phil Rodgers, one of the good money winners on the U.S. pro golf circuit, qualified with a two-under-par performance to add to his earnings of $17,000. Sharp putting spelled the difference for Rodgers on the second 36 holes.

Just Wasting Time Gambler Tells Police

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP)—With a curt, "You're just wasting your time," convicted gambler Joseph (Newsboy) Moriarty Monday dismissed a lawyer's attempt by authorities to question him about a huge check found in Jersey City.

A total $2,500,000, which authorities say belongs to Moriarty, was found last week in two private garages here.

Deputy Police Chief Augusto Mondo and Hudson County's assistant prosecutor, Joseph Hanrahan, flew to state prison in Trenton for what turned out to be a five - minute meeting with Moriarty.

Except for saying "I'm not answering any questions, you're just wasting your time," Moriarty remained mute.

The 53-year-old Moriarty, described as the numbers kingpin of Hudson County, is serving two to three years on a gambling conviction.

Churchill Has Blood Clot In Injured Leg

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Winston Churchill's doctors said today the 87-year-old statesman is suffering from thrombosis.

Thrombosis is a condition caused by clotting of the blood in a blood vessel or organ.

A medical bulletin issued on Churchill said "there has been some thrombosis (blood clotting) in his injured leg."

The bulletin said Churchill's left leg, which developed inflammation of a vein after he broke his thigh bone in a fall, was less swollen.

It was the first time the 87-year - old Churchill's doctors have mentioned thrombosis. Previous bulletins have mentioned phlebitis — inflammation of the veins — the condition which developed in Churchill's leg, broken in a fall at Monte Carlo June 15.

Dependence on Volunteers In Emergency Is Criticized

Doubts by the success of an emergency measures organization if too much dependence is placed on volunteers for its operation were expressed here yesterday by the head of the local medical aid fire fighting organization.

Belleville fire chief Gerald Vance told yesterday's meeting of the Quinte Area Emergency Measures Organization that it was almost impossible to get men to act as fire fighters in a volunteer capacity and he said that police departments "were in on the same boat."

He said civil defense was not going ahead as well as it had said down in plans and suggested that one of the reasons was that too much was being expected from volunteers.

"If we depend entirely on volunteers we will have a big job getting the Emergency Measures Organization going," he said.

LOOSEN PURSE STRINGS

The chief suggested that the Federal government should take more interest and "loosen the purse strings a little."

"After all it is to the government's benefit, as well as to that of the individual."

Chief Vance outlined the accomplishments of the mutual aid fire fighting setup which embraces the 10 counties in Prince Edward and Hastings. He said the system was "organized in 1957 and was working out very satisfactorily despite a few initial problems. Fourteen municipalities are members.

Under the system each emergency fire fighting equipment and personnel may be sent from one municipality to another.

Interest in the mutual aid scheme had been recognized for its operation of department efficiency, with considerable new equipment having been purchased by the smaller municipalities.

Establishment of a foam bank with supplies at Belleville, Madoc and Bloomfield, was one example of increased fire fighting efficiency in an age of specialized fire fighting requirements. Foam is used to fight fires where combustible fluids and liquids are involved.

NEED VOLUNTEERS

Col. Angus Duffy, co-ordinator for the Quinte Area Emergency Measures Organization, referring to Chief Vance's comment regarding volunteers, said nevertheless that volunteers were needed to make the organization a success.

"Why should I be interested" he asked.

"I've given 30 years of my life to fire service, so why don't I just forget about the whole thing".

"The reason I am doing it is because I happen to like the counties of Prince Edward and Hastings".

The Quinte Area Emergency Measures Organization takes in the two counties of Hastings and Prince Edward along with the town of Trenton and the city of Belleville.

Yesterday's orientation meeting at the city hall was to acquaint officials from the various municipalities with problems involved in a possible nuclear attack and to provide a background information so visiting committee officials to make tentative plans for operation in an emergency.

Fire Rating

Tweed Forest District

The forest ranger's right bower, rain, came to his assistance yesterday with showers dampening down the woods of areas and reducing the fire hazard to "medium."

However the rainfall was not sufficient to have any noticeable effect on the eleven fires burning in the district. They are still active but under ranger control and patrol.

The weather in the northern areas was summer perfect today according to Lands and Forests officials. It was sunny with cloudless skies and enough coolness to make it ideal for resident and visitor.

Rotarians Will Sell Hats

The Rotary Club of Belleville will be undertaking a project to publicize the Belleville Fair through the sale of hats, club president Harry Rathbun announced yesterday afternoon. The project will be conducted along the same lines as were the Rotarians' hat project for the International Trade Fair last fall. The campaign is expected to get under way in the very near future.

Mayor Pleased By Progress of District EMO

The fact that the Quinte Area Emergency Measures Organization is "off the ground after coming into being only a few short months ago, has resulted in considerable satisfaction for Mayor A. M. Haig of Belleville.

Mayor Haig, as first chairman of the local EMO, told organization executive officers at their orientation meeting Monday that the local organization after only a few months was already further advanced than were many similar organizations across the province which with been organized for as much as two years.

The reason to date of the local organization was to a large measure attributable to the wonderful co-operation of the necessary municipalities, the mayor said.

Mayor Haig said that as time goes on all in the local area would come to realize that the Quinte Area EMO had been formed.

All prayed, he said, that there would never be any requirement for the organization to function in the manner for which it was formed, but if there were a nuclear attack and nothing had been done in the way of planning "we would rightly carry the shame to our graves."

However, he said there was no nuclear requirement for EMO, the organization would serve to bring the member municipalities closer together.

TRINITY DUFFY

Mayor Haig paid tribute to the local EMO co-ordinator Col. Angus Duffy whose dedication to the emergency measures organization was with him a religion.

As result of Col. Duffy's interests in Quinte Area EMO he was well advanced and, "its proper, provincial, the local organization would be a symbol of efficiency throughout the province."

Wardens from Prince Edward and Hastings also spoke briefly to the meeting.

Warden James Fox of Prince Edward said that he also spoke briefly to the meeting.

Warden Harold Varty of Hastings said the organization would mean there would be people who would know what to do in the event of a nuclear attack.

of the Pontius speech. Soviet reporting of material unfavorable to the Soviet Union has been unusual.

Pontius did not spare the United States in his criticism.

He said a majority of the 100-member delegation agreed with the United States was "mistaken in perpetuating the Soviet Union's right to veto Soviet territory and "violated the spirit of the world by suppressing the invasion of Cuba."

He said the United States "has not made a program to negotiate peace over Berlin, behaved promotes an arms race by stepping up conventional armaments and that it is aiding fascist junta in Saigon, South Viet Nam.

Younger Set At Presqu'ile Raises Fund

The Crippled Children's Merrywood Camp, which operates at Presqu'ile Provincial Park, caught the attention of the younger set around Presqu'ile Point West, Bobby Gordon reports.

Eleven-year-old Bruce Latimer Jr., received a letter from his father, Jane, who is Camp Counsellor at Merrywood Camp and was so impressed by her account of what is done there for the crippled children that he and three friends, Terry Gordon, Bobby Gordon and Billy Miller, organized their own fund-raising project. Gathering up articles from the cottagers at Presqu'ile Point, the boys raised $14.33, which sum they presented to the local Rotary Club to be used in crippled children's work.

Tourist Spending by Foreigners Likely to Set Another Record

OTTAWA (CP)—Spending by foreign visitors in Canada this year may establish a record of $500,000,000 for another record, officials said today.

Queries and reservations so far have been running ahead of 1962 at border crossings.

At least part of the reason is attributed to the devaluation of the Canadian dollar in terms of United States currency, giving American visitors from six to eight cents more spending power on each dollar.

The dollar was pegged at 92 cents American May 7 and the tourist industry has been a direct beneficiary, it is held.

Foreign tourist earnings from all sources last year totalled a record $472,000,000 but were outstripped only by newsprint and wheat.

Ninety per cent of the tourist income is from U.S. sources.

The Canadian Government Travel Bureau said today that its rate of inquiries was about six per cent ahead of last year toward the end of June. Border crossings by passenger vehicles were running three per cent ahead of year ago from the 12-month total was 71,690,000. May and June were expected to continue the sharp increase of seven per cent recorded for April alone.

About a third of the vehicles stay more than 24 hours.

The Trans-Canada Highway is a major source of American visitors, says the travel bureau reports. The opening of the final hard-top section in British Columbia is expected for the end of July and many visitors want to take the route through the mountain ranges.

Quebec's Laurentian area reports high bookings. So do the Thousand Islands and Muskoka Lakes area in Ontario. Toronto, paced by the recent five-day Shriners convention, is said to be having an excellent year.

Some resorts have reported bookings higher by 50 per cent than a year ago, travel bureau officials said.

The bureau's advertising budget for the current fiscal year has been increased by $100,000 to $1,800,000 and this is all spent in the U.S. There is no advertising in Europe although the bureau has opened an office in London.

Store Sales Week Ending June 30 Up

OTTAWA (CP)—Department store sales in the week ended June 30 were up 20.2 per cent from the corresponding week last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

DBS attributed the increase to an additional day in the shopping week compared with the previous year.

The bureau also released details of sales for May which showed department store sales up 9% per cent to $126,721,000 from $114,907,000 for the same 1961 month.

The brought January - May figures to $540,256,000 from the year ... previous total of $538,-297,000.

Power Cut In P. E. County By Heavy Wind

Wind of extreme velocity swept over the southern part of Prince Edward County on Monday afternoon and when it was over knocked down over a hydro wire, a large part of the county was out of power for nearly an hour.

The wind storm was accompanied by heavy rain, which flattened some of the crops in the vicinity but not enough to cause serious damage.

Mrs. Bruce Martin, of Outlet Beach, stated to The Ontario Intelligencer today that the wind was the heaviest she had seen in some time. A yachting party from Rochester, N.Y., pulled into the Quinte Yacht Club for moorings and stated the wind in Brighton and Weller's Bay was very heavy and there was a big swell, which made navigation difficult. The party stated they did not see any boats in trouble.

John E. Roper, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Roper, R. R. 1, Carrying Place received his degree in electrical engineering at Waterloo University convocation on July 7. He is a graduate of the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational Institute. He has accepted a position with the Bell Telephone Co. and will reside in Montreal.

Bowling Notes

Four rinks of women's ladies tournament bowling on Friday for a tournament and two of them came back with the top prizes. The three-game high was won by a rink of Mrs. Anne Avery, Mrs. Jessie Hamilton with Mrs. Myrtle Smith as skip, while the two-game high was taken by a rink of Mrs. Irene Trudeau, Mrs. Thelma Fitzgibbon with Mrs. Anne Wright as skip. The one game high was won by the host club of Mrs. Mary Doran, Mrs. Tilly Green with Miss Rose Spry as skip. The women all report a lovely time and the greens in beautiful shape. A luncheon was held in the new clubhouse between the first and second games.

On Thursday last two rinks were tied for the top spot in the afternoon league for the women's section of the club. Mrs. Irene Trudeau and Mrs. Thelma Fitzgibbon were tied by twelve rink of Mrs. Mary Van Tassel, Mrs. Anne Avery with Mrs. Grace Clapp as skip. The tie has been played and Mrs. Avery and Mrs. Chris Howard.

One of the most popular tournaments in the district play is the mixed four and one will be sponsored by the Campbellford Club on Wednesday next week. The rink can be composed of two men and a woman or two women and a man but the man cannot be a vice skip. He can either lead or skip the rink. This form of tournament creates a great deal of friendship and gives the men a chance to argue with the women as to which shot shall be played but the women generally win. It is expected there will be a full entry of 16 rinks and it is possible the tournament may have to be played with two draws.

Threat of War Really Exists Says Mr. K

MOSCOW — Soviet Premier Khrushchev warned today of the danger of a new world war unless "determined measures" are taken to prevent it.

Unless a disarmament plan is agreed on, "the storm will start spreading by themselves," he said.

"Never before have war preparations been carried out on such a gigantic scale," he said.

The Soviet leader told the 2,000 delegates from about 80 countries that "the threat of a new world war really exists."

"Mankind may be drawn into it if determined measures are not taken."

Khrushchev hinted that the Soviet Union has developed an anti-missile rocket.

"With due account of the fact that the Soviet Union is forced to develop in the last few years nuclear weapons of 50, 100 and more megatons, intercontinental rockets, the global rocket which is practically impervious to defence and an anti-missile rocket," he said "it will be seen that the ruling groups of the United States . . . have no reason at all to say that the balance of strength has changed in their favor."

United Appeal Objective Set At $93,000

The goal for the 1962 Belleville United Appeal was set at $93,000 with the new affiliated agencies taking part in the campaign, it was announced this morning in a release by the campaign secretary-manager, A. D. Gnaedinger.

The two new agencies, whose applications were approved at the past meeting of the board, are the Parkinson Patient Aftercare Association and the local chapter of the Multiple Sclerosis Society of Eastern Ontario. Both bring the number of participating agencies to 15.

The Multiple Sclerosis Society efforts are directed chiefly towards research to find the cause and a cure for this crippling and disease which strikes the nervous system of young adults between the ages of 20 and 40. Glen Gehrig, former Yankee star baseball star, died of this disease.

The Belleville Minor Sports Association, besides its efforts towards developing the character of the youth of the community, has organized sports as baseball, softball, soccer and hockey. Each sport approximately 2,500 people between the ages of eight and 18 years of age have participated in the 150 teams organized and supervised by volunteer enthusiasts.

The budget committee submitted its report, which was approved, outlining the agencies allowed each area: Victorian Order of Nurses, $7,000; Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society — $6,800; Canadian Foundation for Multiple Blind — $8,800; Multiple Sclerosis Society of Canada — $295; Children's Aid Society — $7,000; Canadian Red Cross Society — $30,000; John Adam, balance — $4,300; YMCA — $24,000; Girl Guide Association — $3,000; Navy League of Canada — Sea Cadets) — $2,400; Belleville Minor Sports Association — $3,000; IODE (Argyll Chapter) — $1,000; IODE (Sir Julien Chapter) — $400. Administrative costs estimated at $6,100 make the total up to $93,000 goal.

Campaign chairman Dr. J. Russell Scott stated that organizational work by the various divisions was proceeding very well.

Council Accepts Recommendations

Ameliasburg township council last night passed a by-law accepting the recommendations of their planning consultants, Marshall, Macklin Monaghan of Toronto, regarding the standards to be met by private roads before the township will assume them.

The recommendations, set out in a booklet of about 30 pages, cover the width of the roads, (66 feet), and the type and quality of construction.

Dr. M. McLean Assumes Post At Kemptville

Doctor M. McLean, manager of the Quinte District Cattle Breeders' Association at Belleville prior to its amalgamation last spring with the Eastern Ontario Cattle Breeding Association, has been appointed as general manager of the new Eastern Breeders Incorporated with headquarters at Kemptville.

Dr. McLean with his wife, Doris, and their daughter plan to move to Kemptville.

The new Eastern Breeders Incorporated will conduct an artificial breeding program in the area extending from Cobourg to Montreal, offering service to over 13,000 farmers in this area.

Dr. McLean was born at Middlesex County in Middlesex county and is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College at Guelph. Since 1956 he has been manager of the Quinte District Breeders.

He is a past president of the Ontario Association of Artificial Breeders, and is presently a director of that organization. He is a member of the Rotary Club of Belleville and a member of the Advisory Council of the Eastern Quinte District High School Board.

He is also a member of St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Belleville, and a member of the Sunday School staff there for the past nine years.

Remand Youth On Charge of Escaping Jail

Larry Edward Carrol, 17 years old, of Belleville, was remanded until Friday on a charge of escaping custody, by Magistrate Col. T. Y. Wills, in city court this morning.

Carrol, absent without leave since May from a farm placement job near Port Hope, arranged by the Ontario Training School for Boys, in Bowmanville, was convicted July 6 on charges of breaking and entering at White's Hardware Ltd., and the Belle Shirt Co., Ltd. He was ordered returned to the training school.

Yesterday, he escaped custody of probation officer D. J. MacKinnon. Mr. MacKinnon gave Carrol permission to visit his mother in the Front Street apartment en route to the training school. When, the youth did not return within the time limit set, Mr. MacKinnon went up to the apartment, and found Carrol had left through the back door.

He was picked up by officers of the Ontario Provincial Police, while riding a bicycle along the Madoc Road yesterday afternoon.

Committed for Trial

Archibald Wilfred Murray, 23, was committed for trial yesterday on a charge of breaking, entering and theft, in connection with the Booth Radio and TV robbery on May 26. Magistrate T. Y. Wills made the commitment after a preliminary hearing.

Attempt to Invoke Section Of Labor Relations' Act Defeated 6-2 by Board

TRENTON — An attempt to invoke section 89 of the Labor Relations Act, which would have the end result of making the Trenton Board of Education "all powerful" in its dealings with its non-teaching staff, was defeated, six to two at last night's meeting of the board.

The proposal to invoke the section came from the Rev. Ronald Reid, chairman of management. The motion was seconded by Gerald Farrar, who, in the final analysis, voted against his own motion. "Never can he vote against it" queried Mr. Reid, "he seconded the motion.")

Violently opposite to the motion were Stanley Ketcheson, chairman of grounds and buildings and Mrs. Gertrude Griffiths. Both claimed that to take away the men's right to arbitrate was, in effect, to take away their basic freedoms.

By invoking the section of the act in question, the board would have the "last say" by any dispute with its employees, as arbitration would be at the discretion of the board.

Mr. Reid claimed that invoking the act would do the board "a good deal" as it gives the men no harm. He said that it would put a stop to "outside influence" interfering with labor-board relations.

"Why are you so quick to stir up trouble?" queried Mr. Ketcheson, "I thought you wanted you to bring this motion before the board?"

"We've not discussed this outside the board," Mr. Reid assured him. "I'm not for anyone should have an advantage, it should be the board."

"In six years, we'd be saying to our employees, 'if you don't like it, quit'," rapped Mr. Ketcheson.

TAKE AWAY FREEDOM

"You take away our employees' freedom to speak as you invoke that act," stated Mrs. Griffiths, "I thought this was a free country. We are beginning to doubt it."

"We've had more trouble with our employees in the past two years you've been on the board than in the past seven ten years," said Mr. Ketcheson. "We found a way out of your tyranny. We don't want any more of it in this country. A person has a right to go on strike."

"The board can have my resignation if it invokes this act," declared Mrs. Griffiths.

"And other resignations," echoed Mr. Ketcheson. "I want no part of it. I'll keep to myself and let the act invoked."

"Oh they wouldn't want it," Mr. Reid agreed, "but must we give them the power they want? First thing you know, we'll have a union to cope with."

"I'd like to see the men have a union to bargain for an organization," said Mr. Ketcheson.

"Didn't you suggest at the last meeting that the next contract signed between the board and the employees contain a clause that the board could not invoke the act?" asked Mr. Knack (of Mr. Ketcheson), "That way, you're committing future boards to our policy."

Harassed chairman, Lew Phinney, called a subsequent board members for their ideas.

Finally, by a vote to allow to invoke the act," opined Del Topping. "Things are going smooth now. You'd stir up a hornet's nest if you invoked the act."

MOTION DEFEATED

"Everything is going all right, now, why ask for trouble by invoking the act?" stated Dr. T. A. McNally, separate school board appointee to the board.

Put to a vote, the motion was defeated. Voting for were Mr. Reid and Gerald Farrar. Against were Mr. Ketcheson, Mrs. Griffiths, Dr. McNally, Del Topping, Gerald Farrar, and Lou Knack, who qualified his vote by adding, "for the present time."

Board members agreed that an inventory of board owned equipment, from buildings to chalk, should be taken and that this inventory should be taken every six months hereafter.

Starting in September, 1964, Catholic residents who "switch" taxes in order to send their children to the public school kindergarten, will be required to pay public school taxes for a two-year period. In other words, such persons will pay 1964 and 1965 public school taxes for the privilege of sending their children to public school kindergarten for one year. This resolution was quashed by a communication from the Ontario Department of Education, advising the board that this procedure was entirely legal.

This year, the town's kindergartens will be bursting at the seams, and the board, acting on the advice of supervising principal V. P. Carswell, will not accept students from outside the Roman Catholic town residents are given the preference, because their taxes help finance the board.

The board will ask the Minister of Education to delegate authority to the local board to enforce attendance of students between the ages of Recreation Park area. At the present time the board does not have this authority.

RCAF authorities will again be contacted and asked to name an appointee to board membership. For some time, no appointee has been present at board deliberations.

Regarding the number of RCAF students we have at the high school, it should think they'd want representation" said George Greer.

"Perhaps they have the utmost confidence in us", suggested Mr. Farrar.

Mr. Knack asked that all principals be contacted and asked to take an inventory of school gym equipment before September. This will no doubt come in under the above inventory of equipment, agreed upon.

Next Tuesday, at 1.30 p.m. the board will meet to discuss the rates (and hiring) of the auditorium, gym, etc.) by outside groups.

Car Hits Train, Two Men Unhurt

TRENTON — Lloyd Cook of Front Street, and Walter Pearce, of Belleville, escaped with a shaking up when a car, owned by Cook and driven by Belnap, ran into the side of a box car on a CNR siding in the Trenton industrial area, near the footbridge. The accident occurred around 5:40 p.m.

Belnap told the police that he had been driving the car when he saw the train across the road, after he turned the corner. The brakes failed, and in order to avoid striking the car ahead, Belnap drove his car over to the side and proceeded to strike the box car directly behind the engine. The car was dragged sideways, before it came to a stop at the entrance. Damage to the car was estimated at $75, the approximate value of the car itself.

FND BOGUS COINS

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Three young boys are being held in juvenile cells on investigation of charges they manufactured bogus coins by melting down toy lead soldiers. Robert Taylor, a secret service agent, said he felt the youths, two brothers aged 17 and 14 and another boy 14, were experimenting with the money to learn how it could be done. He said $10 worth of coins was passed. Police found a sack of the coins Saturday night while investigating burglaries in which the boys were charged.

Shown aboard the "Radel II", a National Research Council floating laboratory visiting Trenton are: front row: Harry O'Merra, chief engineer; Art Trembley, assistant engineer. Back row: Frank Vachon and Ransom Nixon, technicians; Paul Watler, mate, and Capt. J. A. Hehir.

Charge Youths Set Fires, Put Steel on CPR Tracks

TRENTON — Yesterday afternoon, Inspector R. J. Rutherford of the Trenton police department, said that three Trenton juveniles had been charged with "placing an obstruction on railway tracks," and with arson.

On July 1, a Canadian Pacific Railway freight train struck a 200-pound piece of steel, which someone had placed at a point approximately one mile south of Trenton, near the CPR gravel pit. The engine suffered minor damage.

On July 4, two youths were caught in the act of placing a similar obstruction on the rail-train tracks, in approximately the same spot, by CPR special police.

The youths, after being questioned by police, were charged with setting fire to the Roncesvalles Club house on Guelph Street on July 1st and to the PUC pump house, back of the Cotton Mill on Pelham St. on July 4.

Inspector Rutherford said he would confer with Crown Attorney John A. Pringle about the laying of further charges (in connection with petty theft) today. A third youth may be charged in connection with some or all of the existing charges.

Sizzling Four-Way Battle Shaping up in Stormont

By JACK REST

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP)— Election excitement is taking hold of this industrial city on the St. Lawrence Seaway, hub of the federal constituency of Stormont.

A sizzling four - way battle shapes up for next Monday's election in the riding where voting was carried from June 18 to due to the death of Liberal candidate Albert Lavigne June 6.

Now the Liberals have a new candidate, Cornwall lawyer Lorne Greenaway, former executive assistant to Lionel Chevrier, Mr. Chevrier, transport minister for some time under the old Liberal government, represented Stormont from 1935 to 1954 in the House of Commons.

In next Monday's balloting Mr. Lamoureux, 41, faces Progressive Conservative Grant Campbell, 36-year-old lawyer who took the seat away from the Liberals in 1958. Mrs. Marjorie Ball of the New Democratic Party, wife of a United Church minister, and Melvin Rowat of Social Credit, the party's deputy leader in Ontario. His occupation is given as economist.

Political observers say the election is generating more interest than any campaign they can remember.

"We've never seen interest like this in Stormont before," said a prominent citizen and close follower, of the political scene. "One would have thought it would be just another election, perhaps a light turnout, but this situation on the 18th changed everything."

He was referring to the inconclusive result of the June 18 federal general election in which the Conservatives won their lop-heavy majority in the House of Commons.

Party standings now are: Conservatives 118, Liberals 90, Social Credit 30, New Democrats 19. The election here will fill the vacant seat in the 265-member H. of C.

With every seat counting because of the extremely precarious situation in the government, the Stormont campaign will be watched with special interest by political observers.

Besides, it is being widely discussed as a political barometer of the political weather prevailing in the period of assessment following the federal election.

Reflecting the wide significance attached to the election is the fact that three of the four parties are bringing in their national leaders to the campaign. The Conservatives campaign is largely built around the record of Mr. Campbell whom the party credits with helping to win more industries, public works and subsidies for this vocational training facilities to Cornwall.

The other parties are hammering at the unemployment issue.

Research Ship Radel II Pays Trenton Visit

TRENTON—The "Radel II", a floating laboratory, attached to the National Research Council of the federal government, was tied up at the government dock in Trenton yesterday, aboard were Capt. J. A. Hehir, and a crew of six, Paul Watler, mate, Harry O'Merra, chief engineer, Art Trembley, second engineer, and technicians, Frank Vachon and Ransom Nixon.

For eight months of the year, the Radel II plies between the Atlantic Ocean and the head of the Great Lakes, while the crew tests every kind of underwater communications equipment, manufactured in the National Research Council labs. Right now, the technicians are testing a ship-to-shore radio transmitter. Underwater TV is another item being tested. The newest type of radar comes in for standard testing aboard the ship.

Radel II is 110 feet long and weighs 105 tons. She came into the research council service in 1949, after a career as a 0-51 sub-chaser.

"Radel" is a contraction of radio-electronics.

A Criticism of Newspapers

Few Canadian newspapers are in touch with the true vitality of their communities. In the field of national news, no other country dotes on political pomposity to an equal degree with the possible exception of Russia. There is a serious lack of initiative, imagination and discrimination in capturing the Canadian news scene. There is a trend to surrendering news judgment to the news agencies. There is a prevailing belief in many newsrooms that if it comes over the wire it is all right.

These criticisms of Canadian newspapers are not those of a reader, but of a newspaperman, Eric Wells, editor of the Winnipeg Tribune. They are taken from the text of an address which he gave at the Western Ontario Newspaper Awards dinner this spring, a text which we have just read in the June copy of "Press Journal."

Is this a true picture of Canadian newspapers? No it is not, and Mr. Wells would be the first to admit it, for we have merely lifted a few sentences out of context. It is true that he said, and meant, all these things, but he said and meant a number of other things besides. He said, for example: "Each newspaper must be judged on its individual performance. The growing trend to be against the press' is like book-burning. It is an inquisition against printing, the substance of communications, knowledge and civilization."

Why, then, call attention to his criticisms? For the sole reason that it may be news to some newspaper readers that newspapermen are not always happy with the performances of their papers.

Of all Mr. Wells' criticisms, the one which gives us most misgiving is concerned with international news, because in this field a small newspaper can do almost nothing to remedy wire service deficiencies. As an example of what he considered slanted reporting, Mr. Wells dealt with the Berlin crisis of last fall. He made his exhibit; he referred to Oct. 17, the day on which Nikita Khrushchev, addressing the 22nd Soviet Congress, withdrew his year-end deadline for a settlement of the Berlin question and at the same time announced that the Soviet Union would test a 50-ton megaton bomb. The text of Khrushchev's speech, Mr. Wells said, revealed that it was "exceedingly conciliatory." Yet "an examination of the press on that day revealed that very few, perhaps less than 10 per cent of all North Americs, played the withdrawal of the deadline at the top—the rest went for The Bomb."

Though we decided to write this editorial in recognition of the fact that open confession is good for the soul, at this point we had an urge to check the files. We could recall the big headline about "The Bomb" but surely there must have been some reference to the withdrawal of the deadline on a Berlin settlement. A trip to the morgue provided a surprise. The big headline on "The Bomb" was on a second-day story on Oct. 18. On Oct. 17 The Ontario Intelligencer's headlines read: "Mr. K. Drops Threat to Sign Treaty, Will Delay Pact Pending West Hit Negotiate. 50-Megaton Bomb Will Be Exploded Oct. 31."

We thus come in the less than 10 per cent of North American newspapers which Mr. Wells feels handled the story properly. We claim no special credit for this. The opening sentence of the story mentioned the withdrawal of the deadline first and the plan to explode "The Bomb" second. So that, in this case, the news service was not to blame for any distortions. (This story, though, was by Reuters; headline writers for U.S. newspapers using other services might not have had this built-up reminder of the relative importance of the two announcements.)

People of different colors cannot be converted into a homogeneous whole by acts of Parliament nor by the exhortations of dictators. The hard fact is that all men are not equal.—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, as the British House of Lords defeated a bill to outlaw discrimination in hotels.

There is nothing wrong with the present Soviet constitution with its guarantees of nationality rights and freedom of worship—except that the Kremlin conveniently ignores it. —Label A. Katz, president of the B'nai B'rith.

By economy and good management—by a sparing use of ready money and by paying scarcely anybody—people can manage for a time at least, to make a great show with very little means.—William Makepiece Thackeray.

As long as war is regarded as wicked, it will always have its fascination. When it is looked upon as vulgar, it will cease to be popular.—Oscar Wilde.

Mike Pearson Both Loser Winner in Same Election

By RICHARD JACKSON

From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — If there has been one decisive thing to come out of the Ontario election, it has been the final confirmation of Lester Pearson's leadership of the Liberal Party.

In the long pre-election manoeuvring both in and out of the Commons, and even after the actual on-the-stump electioneering had begun, there was talk — so common as to be almost the official party "line" — that this was "it" for Mike Pearson.

If he didn't make it, so they said — and much of the talk came from the Liberals themselves — then he was through.

The Liberals just couldn't go with a checkered record.

He had missed disasterously on the 1958 election, when, goodness knows, he hadn't even a prayer of coming close . . . and if he didn't do it again this time . . . well, as they put it, he would simply have to be goaded.

Well, he didn't make it.

But he came within 11 seats, far too close for Conservative comfort.

WHOSE SEATS?

And who can say, if cracker-barrel Quebec hadn't thrown its backbencher Liberals overboard in Conservative constituencies to Real Caouette, the Ralliement Creditiste, that it might not now be "Prime Minister Pearson?"

Whose seats, really, were those key 26 which could have made such a world of difference either way?

Liberal? Conservatives?

And just how many other Quebec seats did Social Credit Up North Conservatives to Liberal, or Liberal to Conservative?

What now, with another election only six months away, with a minority-split Commons away, will happen next time out on the stump?

These are the questions, now that the dust is beginning to come out of their stunning post-election shock, that are worrying the "Back Room Boys" in both national headquarters.

And this is why the Liberals are going to have to "string along with Mike" — and keep at it as it turns out, to be doing so.

He didn't make it, but he came too close now to be dumped. "And anyway, with the new Parliament living only on borrowed time, there is no way of calling a party leadership convention with any degree of safety.

The situation being what it is, a party calling a convention now is only six months six months to get one of these big political spectaculars on stage — might be asking Pearson's leaders by a snap election.

BREEZE ON LEADERSHIP
